Has Not Bought Driving Licence For 44 Years

BANCROFT (Special) — There are other ways to save money than putting it in a bank.

A police magistrate discovered Norman Ralph's method after the district farmer was charged with failing to share the highway and driving without a licence following a minor accident.

Magistrate R. C. Jackson asked Ralph if he owned a licence last year. Ralph replied that he had not had a licence since he began driving in 1918 when he was 13 years old.

That amounted to driving 44 years without benefit of licence.

The magistrate fined Ralph $20 and costs of $3.50 on each of the charges.

Said the bench, "Mr. Ralph has probably saved that much money from driving without a licence all these year."

Legion Branch 99 Initiates New Members

The regular monthly meeting of Branch 99 Royal Canadian Legion was held on Tuesday evening with the president, Les Digby in the chair.

Eight new members were initiated into the Royal Canadian Legion by the president, assisted by 1st vice-president, Mickey Trimm and 2nd vice-president, Len Taylor.

In addition to the new members, four members were transferred from other branches and one member was reinstated.

Membership chairman Dick Kirby, reported that membership renewals were coming along satisfactorily and that a reminder would be sent out to those members who had not yet paid their 1962 dues.

BRANCH STEWARD WELCOMED

The new branch steward, Ross Jamieson was welcomed to the branch.

Entertainment committee chairman Fred Davis, reported that the regular Saturday night dances were proving successful but he would like to see more members out.

So far the "Pot-of-Gold" has not been won. Each week the name of one member is drawn. If he is at the dance he wins the pot. If he is not present, then the size of the pot is increased for the following week.

Special projects chairman, Henry Horsten, reported that the weekly bingo on Thursday evenings was proving popular with the players and was at last starting to show a profit. He appealed for more members to offer their services in order to share the load.

TOURNAMENTS ANNOUNCED

It was announced by sports chairman M. Trimm, that a cribbage tournament will be held this week to which all members are invited. This will take place in the afternoon, A shuffleboard tournament to possibly take the form of a ladder competition will take place during the next week or so.

Prizes for this competition have already been offered. The district eliminations for the Molson Provincial Dart Trophy will take place in the Legion Hall.

The president announced that application forms for Canadian Legion group life insurance were available from the secretary, Laurie Smith. This group policy has recently been made available to Legion members across the country, whereby for an annual premium of $12, the life of a member is insured for a sum the amount of which is dependent on the member's age.

ZONE MEETING

Following the meeting word was received from the Zone secretary, that the next Zone meeting will be held at Coe Hill on March 11th. Coe Hill is the second youngest branch in Zone F3 and have just completed the basement of their new hall for opening on the 17. A good turnout from members of Branch 99 will no doubt be on hand to support them in their first Zone meeting.

Discover Bodies

LEYSIN (Reuters) — Rescue volunteers and police with dogs early today discovered the bodies of six skiers buried by an avalanche near this Swiss mountain village Wednesday.

Police said a seventh skier escaped by sheltering beneath rocks as the 200-yard-wide mass of snow swept down the side of La Berneuse Mountain

Health Board Will Request $3,600 Council Subsidy To Run Ambulance Service

TRENTON — The Trenton Board of Health voted yesterday to request council to allow for a $3,600 subsidy for 1962 in the year's budget estimates; this sum to be paid to the Rushnell Ambulance Service.

At last week's meeting of town council, Councillor Ed. Todd was appointed to investigate the need for this subsidy. Councillor Todd recommended that the subsidy be paid, and as the sum is taken from Board of Health funds, his recommendation had to be approved by the body.

From May 15, when Douglas Rushnell took over ambulance service for the town, until Dec. 31, 259 calls were answered.

Councillor Todd pointed out in his report that the operator must supply gas, oil, maintenance, oxygen equipment and operators for his two ambulances, which are operated on a 24-hour basis.

Present at yesterday's meeting were board chairman, H. S. Pane, Miss Marjorie Gothard, Dr. E. W. Dow, E. D. Topping, board secretary O. W. Larry and town engineer Eric Aldersey.

In November the board suggested that the town acquire a Front Street property and that the lot be designated "green belt," in accordance with the official town plan.

Yesterday, Mr. Larry told the board that there seemed to be some difficulty about getting a clear legal title to the land in question (lot 30, on the east side of the street).

Mr. Topping moved that the town look into the possibility of expropriating the land and this was voted on and passed.

At the instigation of Dr. Dow the board voted to request council to explore the possibility of conducting a town survey, aimed at establishing the need for a re-developing program.

GOVTS. WOULD HELP

By such a program, outmoded, inadequate housing would be torn down and modern, low-rental units constructed. The federal and provincial governments will loan municipalities 75 per cent of the cost for such a program.

This resolution was made following a discussion of housing conditions in certain areas of the town.

The chairman outlined the contents of a letter he had received from a Bay Street resident, complaining that her children were being bitten by rats or by fleas from the rats.

The house, which lies adjacent to the sanitary land fill area, was condemned some time ago by the health board and the occupants had been asked to find more suitable accommodation. However, they were unable to find suitable accommodation before the winter set in. The board resolved to start proceedings to force the people to move in the spring.

"People like this get in a rut," observed Mr. Topping. "They live in a shack and spend money that could be used to pay a higher rent, in other ways."

"I think it's time we did something about this," said Dr. Dow. "It doesn't help the people themselves to live in these conditions."

"Yes, but if they were provided with clean, modern homes, who's going to see that the housewives keep them clean?" asked Miss Gothard. "I saw 'council' houses in the Old Country built. The next year, they were slums again."

CARDS NOT SENT

Mr. Pane said that he was experiencing some trouble about school health report cards. He said that when a child is moved to another school (out of town), his health report is not sent with him and will not be sent at all unless the principal at the new school specifically requests it. Even then, said the chairman, there is a considerable delay in forwarding the card.

Mr. Pane said that he had contacted the board of education and had been told that because there was "confidential" information on the card, it could not be sent home to the parents.

"Perhaps the results of I.Q. tests are listed on the cards," suggested Mr. Larry. "I can understand why these wouldn't be shown to the parents. Some might be offended at the result.

"Well, I think the cards should be forwarded to the new school to keep immunization records straight," said Mr. Topping.

"I'll volunteer to get in touch with the Board of Education and find out what information is 'confidential' on the report," offered Dr. Dow.

Meantime, the secretary will write to the Board of Education, pointing out the advisability of making the health records readily available to the parents of children who are moving to a new school or to the principal of the new school, in order that the child's immunization program will not be disrupted.

Half Trenton Deaths Due to Heart Trouble

TRENTON — In his annual report to the Trenton Board of Health, Dr. E. W. Dow, M.O.H. for Trenton, said that during 1961, 409 babies had been born, as compared with 492 in 1960 and 510 in 1959.

In 1961, 70 deaths occurred in Trenton. Cardiovascular disease accounted for 48.6 per cent of these; respiratory diseases, 12.9 per cent; accidents, 10 per cent; cancer, 1.4 per cent; nephritis and nephrosis, 1.4 per cent; diabetes mellitus, 1.4 per cent; other causes, 22.9 per cent.

There were no cases of polio in town during the year, but five new cases of tuberculosis (three in one family) were discovered. Dr. Dow warned that a constant vigilance should be kept up against this disease.

A total of 947 school and pre-school children were immunized during the year, and 96 school children were vaccinated against small pox. Immunization against such diseases as polio, diphtheria, tetanus, and whooping cough was carried out and the school nurses and Victorian Order nurses assisted in these clinics.

Chest X-ray clinics were held at Trenton Memorial Hospital twice monthly. The attending physician made appointments for these.

DEMOLISH THREE HOUSES

Dr. Dow said that three houses had been demolished after they had been deemed unfit for human habitation by the health board and that there had been some progress made in the board's effort to substitute indoor plumbing for outside toilets.

Chlorination of the town's water supply was carried out by the public utilities department and samples of water sent to the Ontario Water Resources Commission had been given satisfactory reports.

Dr. Dow said that since the voters had turned down fluoridation of the town's water in the December election, there was obviously a need for public education on the benefits of this treatment.

Dr. Dow outlined the work accomplished by the board chairman, H. S. Pane.

The town's milk supplies are examined at regular intervals and periodic checks are made of the 30 eating places in the corporation.

In the report, the mayor, council, the municipal office staff, Mr. Pane and members of the health board, school nurses, VON nurses and public health nurses were all commended for their co-operation during the year by the MOH.

RCAF Search Methods Shown Private Flyers

TRENTON — Members of 102 Composite Unit (Search and Rescue) of RCAF Station Trenton, put on an air search display at Toronto Island Airport on Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Walter Johnson, president of the Toronto Flying Club, requested this display on behalf of the members of his club and also for Central Airways at the Toronto Island Airport.

Members of all flying clubs in Ontario were invited to attend.

The display consisted of the latest Search and Rescue aircraft of the RCAF: the Albatross triphibian and the Boeing Vertol H21B helicopter: SARAH (Search and Rescue and Homing), which is used by downed fliers to attract searching aircraft; marine rescue equipment; latest pararescue equipment; a live demonstration on how to build survival shelters in the wilds, and other survival hints.

Rabbi Deutsch Special Speaker At Church Meet

TRENTON — Rabbi Morton Deutsch of Belleville, was the guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Hi-C club at King Street United Church in Trenton.

Rabbi Deutsch explained aspects of Judiasm to the group of young people and their guests, members of the AYPA from St. George's Anglican Church.

The speaker said that in ancient times when the idea of One God was introduced, it was regarded as a challenge to the established custom of worshipping many gods and contrary to the way of life of the ancient world. "In those days," said the speaker, "war was a way of life and as the opposing factions were each under the protection of a different god, the wars took on the quality of a holy crusade, with the real opponents being the gods themselves."

Rabbie Deutsch said that Judiasm had evolved certain set ways of behavior about everyday living but that these observances were not important in considering the abstract ideals of the faith.

He said that the Bible covers aspects of civil and religious life; that there is an overlapping of the two concepts.

In a question and answer period following his formal address, Rabbi Deutsch brought out such points as the fact that Zionism is a political movement within Judiasm; that Yiddish is a Germanic language spoken by European Jews for the most part, and that Hebrew is a Semetic language and is the language of the synagogue.

"Jews speak the language of the country in which they live," he said.

Rabbi Deutsch told the group that a certain "stubborness" or an aspiration to bring about the fulfillment of the Scriptures, or what could be termed an "inborn desire," had made 2,000,000 Jewish people decide to return to Israel. He said that the persecution of the Jews in many parts of the world had also contributed towards this exodus.

The Rabbi said that the Old Testament of the Jews is exactly like the Old Testament used in Protestant denominations.

"A person who lives by ethical standards, be he Jew or Gentile, is a child of God," said the Rabbi.

Rabbi Deutsch was introduced to the group by Peter Bonter and thanked by Margot Greer. Hi-C president Paul Hensen, added his thanks to the speaker.

Russians Again Seek to Reserve Berlin Corridor

BERLIN (Reuters)—Western civilian flights to Berlin continued normally today despite the fifth Russian request in a week for the exclusive use of part of one of the three air corridors from West Germany to West Berlin.

Western sources said Russia Wednesday night demanded that the southern air lane linking Berlin with Frankfurt be re-reserved for Soviet military transport planes up to an altitude of 8,000 feet for about three hours today. Like previous requests, it was rejected.

Western military, as well as civilian, aircraft were due to continue flying normally at all altitudes in the southern air corridor today. Civilian flights usually fly at between 8,000 and 10,000 feet.

In addition to refusing other Russian "reservation" applications—on the grounds no power can have exclusive use of a corridor—the Western powers sent flights of their own into the air at the time and altitude requested by the Russians.

Wednesday night's request came after Soviet jet fighters "flew close to" an airplane carrying British Ambassador Sir Christopher Steel which was flying at 7,500 feet, an altitude which a British spokesman said the Russians "tried illegally to reserve for themselves."

The spokesman said "buzzing" would not be an accurate description of the incident since the Russian MiG jets stayed "too far away to call it buzzing."

Storm Fizzles As It Moves East Across Quebec

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A snowstorm that belted Ontario Wednesday fizzled during the night as it moved eastward across Quebec.

The Maritime provinces, first expected to receive a dose of snow from the storm, have missed both it and another storm which had been forecast to move into Nova Scotia today from the New England states.

A few snowflurries persisted in southern Ontario today, but little accumulation of snow was expected from a storm centre pushing eastward from the United States midwest. A few intervals of light snow were forecast for late tonight and Friday.

Wednesday's storm was the worst of the winter for many Ontario centres. Twelve inches fell at Blind River, 11.7 on the Lakehead, 10 at Barchawana and seven at Sault Ste. Marie.

In British Columbia, cold weather blanketed the northern interior but the rest of the province was expecting rain or wet snow for today.

Fire Destroys Home of County Judge

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Fire early today destroyed the home of Victoria County Judge C. N. Currelly, causing damage estimated by the judge at more than $42,000.

The fire broke out about midnight as guests were leaving from a bridge party. The blaze apparently started in a recreation room in the 1½ - storey frame bungalow, but cause was undetermined.

Judge Currelly's son Tony, 7, who was asleep at the time, was carried out of the house in his pyjamas. A second son attends a Port Hope boarding school.

Film Council To Hold Film Festival

The Belleville and District Film Council met on February 8th, to finalize arrangements for the annual Film Festival to be held the week of February 19-24.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. Bernard Wright and the treasurer's report also submitted.

Letters had been received by Miss Delaney to the effect that at an inaugural meeting of the Belleville City Council Alderman Robb had been appointed to the film council and Mr. J. D. Bacon had been named as the representative from the Belleville Public School Board.

A special meeting of the committee for the "Film Festival" had met previously and tentative arrangements had been made. At this time preparations were discussed and a program drawn up. This promises to be most educational and enjoyable week for all those interested in films and in the work undertaken by your local Film Council.

See you at the Film Festival, February 19-24, in the auditorium of the Corby Public Library.

Major E. Scott Named Sheriff Victoria County

Known in Belleville, Major Everett Scott, of Lindsay, Ont., has been named sheriff of Victoria county.

Major Scott is married to Lillian Parks, well known former resident of this city. They have two children, both married. They are Everett George Scott, Toronto, and Mrs. Ross (Vivian) Smith of R.R. 2, Lindsay.

The new sheriff was born in Lindsay on March 29th, 1905, and graduated from Lindsay High School. After graduation he joined the postal service.

He joined the 45th Medium Battery in 1939 and served in the army for six years. He was discharged August 11th, 1945. He was among those who stormed the Normandy beaches on D-Day.

Upon his return to Canada, Major Scott resumed his postal duties as supervisor of letter carriers.

He remained a member of the militia and became officer commanding the Lindsay armouries in 1948, resigning from active duty in 1957.

Canadian Wheat Sold to China Is Diverted

WINNIPEG (CP) — Between 5,000,000 and 7,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat sold to Red China has been diverted to Eastern Europe, a Canadian Wheat Board source said Wednesday.

The estimate is based on trade reports and involves wheat sold by Canada to Red China under a long-term agreement signed last spring.

The source said in an interview the wheat has been diverted to East Germany and Albania, but the Canadian Wheat Board is not concerned about it since these countries do not lie in Canada's traditional commercial wheat market.

Once the grain leaves Canada, it no longer is the wheat board's responsibility unless it shows up in the United Kingdom or another traditional Canadian market. If this occurred, Canada would be put in the position of competing against its own wheat.

Men Did Not Get Fair Trial Says Counsel

TORONTO (CP)—Three men sentenced for the March 21 beating of gambler Max Bluestein in the Town Tavern did not get a fair trial, lawyer Joseph Sedgwick said Wednesday.

Mr. Sedgwick was arguing before the Ontario Court of Appeal on behalf of Frank Marchildon, 40, who was sentenced to nine months for his part in the beating.

Fred Gabourie, 35, also is appealing his four - month sentence, but John Papalia, 37, Wednesday abandoned an appeal against his 18 - month sentence.

Mr. Sedgwick said the crown subpoenaed witnesses and took evidence from them before a justice of the peace. Much of this evidence has been withheld from the defence.

At the trial Magistrate Joseph Addison ruled the Crown need not disclose its witnesses, after being told one witness had been threatened.

The appeal is continuing.

Rail Engineers Vote to Strike If Necessary

MONTREAL (CP) — Engineers of Canada's two major railways have voted by more than 90 per cent for a strike if necessary to back contract demands, it was announced today.

No strike date was set and union spokesman O. J. Travers said the union's negotiating committee "sincerely hopes" that no strike will be necessary.

He said the committee is to meet with representatives of the CNR Monday and with the CPR Tuesday to continue contract negotiations.

It is believed to be the first time the engineers have ever conducted a strike vote by themselves against the CNR and CPR.

Mr. Travers, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (Ind.), disclosed the result of the strike vote at a press conference.

He said about 95 per cent of the 4,500 engineers across Canada returned ballots.

Dr. Jack Scott To Speak at Church Service

Dr. Jack Scott of Forward Baptist Church, Toronto, former Air Force padre for a time stationed at No. 5 I.T.S. Belleville, before proceeding overseas, will be the guest speaker at Parkdale Baptist Church anniversary services on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 16, 17, 18.

Dr. Scott has a weekly television program on a Hamilton station and broadcasts over radio station H.C.J.B., Quito, Ecuador.

Lorraine Morrison of Toronto, will be the featured soloist on Saturday evening and at both services on Sunday. An unusually deep intriguing contralto combined with a sensitive understanding of sacred music make the Lorraine Morrison voice one in a class of its own. Mrs. Morrison has two radio programs in the Toronto area, "Twilight Echoes", and "Moments of Melody".

The Rev. Robert Snyder will be in charge of the services during the anniversary weekend.

Hastings, Pr. Edward Regiment Holds Survival Exercise

Yesterday the officers and senior NCOs of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment put in a full day's study of the problems of nuclear warfare. The regiment is responsible for providing two mobile survival columns of 500 personnel to be available for rescue duties in the city of Toronto—this number will include a good percentage of SMTP personnel presently undergoing winter training and also many civilian volunteers.

The training was titled: "Exercise Target City" and was introduced by the acting Commanding Officer, Major J. B. Black, who stressed the importance of all personnel in coming to grips with the problems of survival and finding solutions ahead of time.

EXERCISE CONDUCTED

The exercise was conducted by the Training Officer, Major K. D. H. Willcocks with the assistance of Major Campbell, Major Riordan, Major Cochrance, Major Gray and Captains Hobson, Rose and Bristol. Training was conducted in the syndicate method and problems regarding duties of personnel selection of routes to Toronto, consideration of radioactive fallout, and specialized rescue equipment were discussed by the groups both in syndicates and as a whole.

Five minute lecturettes were given by Lt. Refausse (Madoc), Lt. Gibb (Picton) and Sgt. Burley (Picton) and the various Federal Plans for attach warning, nuclear reporting and civilian Emergency Measures Organization.

GOOD PREPARATIONS MADE

By the end of the day participants expressed the opinion that the Army had certainly made good preparations for survival operations and that with this background they would be able to conduct even better training in their local units. Officers are now available at all Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Armouries, who have more than sufficient knowledge of survival planning to talk to civilian groups. Groups are requested to contact their local Armoury for speakers.

RANK TRAINING

In addition to senior personnel training, other rank training for drivers was conducted both in the Armoury and also locally around the City. L-Sgt. McMechan and the regular transport section gave helpful advice to the trainees who came from Madoc, Norwood. When trained these militiamen will be responsible for driving Regimental vehicles both on normal unit training and also during survival operations.

Veterans Enjoy Stag 'Night' At ANAF Hall

Upwards of one hundred and twenty-five ANAF veterans were treated to a members only stag night Saturday evening embarking the newly-elected executive on another hopefully expected banner year.

The members assembled in Memorial Hall to enjoy the telecast of the Toronto Maple Leafs vs Montreal Canadiens hockey game and immediately the atmosphere took on an air of excitement as the enthusiasts cheered their respective favorites just as though they were in attendance at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Following the game, entertainment chairman "Hank" Foard and his committee served a delicious hot beef plate prepared by the El Rancho Restaurant which proved to be a delectable surprise for those attending.

HAD SING SONG

After the lunch period the record player took command and everybody "Sang Along With Mitch" then breaking into smaller groups where the trials and tribulations of past experience in the service were again the order of the day.

President "Cec" Brown, in his closing address stated that this stag was but a small token of what could be expected for the ensuing year and announced that a special night for the ladies was in the planning stages and would be held on Friday evening, February 23rd in the form of a dance and social evening thus including our lady counterparts which shall be the trend throughout the year.

Pigment Grinder in Paint Plant Learns He Is Missing Professor

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—A pigment grinder in a paint factory, Verne Hansen, refused to talk today about his life as Dr. Carl Vernon Holmberg, a Syracuse University professor who disappeared in 1955.

Hansen, 45, who works as a $1.90 - an - hour laborer, was identified as the missing chemistry professor through a routine FBI fingerprint check.

Dr. Holmberg, a native of Sandpoint, Idaho, was married and the father of three boys when he was reported missing in Syracuse May 11, 1955. University officials at the time expressed fear he was an amnesia victim.

The gaunt bespectacled Hansen was informed at the Rockford Paint Manufacturing Company Wednesday of the identification linking him to the professor.

"It seems rather incredible," he said. "I don't see how a man can break off one life and start another. I don't know what I'm going to do now."

Hansen said his earliest recollection is that a motorist gave him a lift from Elgin, Ill., to Rockford sometime in 1955. He was wearing a business suit. He had a few dollars, but no personal identification except an empty briefcase with the initials VH on it.

He said he decided to call himself Verne Hansen.

The professor's wife, Dorothy, moved to California with her three sons—Carl, 18; Lee, 11, and Richard, 9—and diforced Holmberg two years ago. Last year she married Gordon Babcock, a consulting electronics engineer, and the family lives in Menlo Park.

Nixon on Cuba

Richard M. Nixon, former vice-president of the United States, has criticized President John Kennedy for failure to give the Cuban invasion last spring air support.

The only possible conclusion is that if Nixon, instead of Kennedy, had won the presidential election, U.S. planes would have been committed to support a motely group of anti-Castroists, some of whom were unquestionably lovers of liberty but others of whom, equally unquestionably, only wished to recover that right to live like leeches off the people which they had enjoyed during Batista's rule.

Nixon, appearing on a TV show, also stated that he had been unable to discuss the Cuban situation as freely as he wanted during the 1960 presidential campaign, because he knew the U.S. was training rebels to invade Cuba.

Some may argue that this operation was kept secret in order to enhance the rebels' chances of success. This contention, though, will not stand up to the record, which shows that Castro repeatedly charged an invasion army was being prepared. Castro knew what was going on. He told the Cuban people and they believed him. The only people kept in the dark were the citizens of the U.S., and others in the western world, who accepted U.S. ridicule of Castro's claims at its face value.

There are a few isolated instances where it is necessary to conceal the truth from the citizens of a democracy—but they are few. Probably if the U.S. public had known what was going on, the abortive invasion would never have taken place. This would have saved the U.S. much embarrassment.

It's a Wise Father---

Many middle-aged men got a shock Monday, when they read of the death of Rev. Samuel Charles Spalding. Never heard of Rev. Samuel Charles Spalding? Well, neither had the men who received the shock. It was not the news of his death that provided the surprise, but the information in his obituary that he had writtten some of the Nick Carter stories.

If that does not ring a bell, Nick Carter was the only real rival of the Merriwell brothers. Oh, to be sure, sometimes others poached on their grounds. Fu Manchu was a contestant, and sometimes even a Chums or a Boys' Own Annual, despite their bulk, would provide competition.

It used to be a fairly safe bet, though, that the book which was sneaked into Senior Fourth, and read surreptitiously while the principal was busy trying to impart some instruction or parsing or—or—(what else was taught in Senior Fourth, anyway; something about sentence structure and not getting wound up in messes like this?) Anyway, the favorite books for classroom reading used to deal either with Dick and Frank Merriwell's exploits in sports or Nick Carter's duels with the underworld. Mr. Carter did not seem to have the same attraction as contemporary private eyes for dolls with tight dresses and loose morals, but otherwise his life was eventful, a continuous round of mayhem and gore. It is, therefore, somewhat of a shock to discover that Nick was the product of the pen of an Unitarian clergyman who wrote poetry.

Ring Around a Paint Box

The Ontario Farmers Union, in a brief to the provincial government, has stated that there is no justification in presuming that, because margarine is a butter substitute, it should need to resemble butter in coloring.

This is old stuff. But the Farmers Union has a commendable tendency to be constructive, rather than merely obstructive, and it added a new twist to an old tale.

"There are other products in the edible oil field, such as peanut butter, that are used as a spread and we suggest that margarine could use a similar color to peanut butter," says the Union's brief.

This may make everybody happy except the peanut butter people. But they need not despair. Why should not peanut butter look like strawberry jam? And strawberry jam could look like whatever today's strawberry jam would look like if it did not have that added color. Or, in the alternative, it could be colored white, which is the color a lot of butter would be if yellow coloring were not added to it.

That seems to complete the circle. Everybody happy?

To live and let live, without clamor for distinction or recognition; to wait on divine Love; to write truth first on the tablet of one's own heart,—this is the sanity and perfection of living, and my human ideal.—Mary Baker Eddy.

'Brain Trust' Problem Big Worry to Liberals

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

It was the high-powered "Brain Trust" which former Trade Minister C. D. "Trader" Howe put together that helped to "think" the Liberals into the difficulties that finally so disastrously derailed the party in 1957 and '58.

And it is a few of these self-same members of the "Brain Trust" that again are causing complications.

Back in 1956 when "Trader" Howe led the Liberals into the political massacre of the "Battle of the Pipeline," Mitchell Sharp was his Deputy Minister, inter-departmental trouble-shooter, adviser and confidante extraordinaire.

So is C. M. "Bud" Drury, who was Deputy Defence Minister, when the Army was caught pasturing those horses on the departmental payroll at Petawawa and public funds were being used to build private trout ponds for generals and rocking horses for their children.

TROUBLE TWO WAYS

These two and other members of the Liberal "Brain Trust," already have been used by Prime Minister Diefenbaker as a sort of political hobgoblin . . . examples of how, as he has dubbed them, "The Big Bureaucrats" of the C. D. Howe regime are being remobilized.

The Prime Minister really didn't have to bother to stir up trouble for the Liberals on this issue, for they already were having more than enough.

For the creation and continued inner-circle existence of this "Brain Trust" has been causing discontent, even dissension in the Liberal rank-and-file, particularly among the party's small band of MPs in the House of Commons.

There is a very real feeling among the parliamentary veterans and long-time party workers too, that the "insiders" in this "Brain Trust" are going to take over.

The Quebec MPs, especially, claim a priority on Cabinet appointments should the Liberals win the next election, and worry now that powerful competitors are ranged against them who are working in high places behind the scenes.

For example, Maurice Lamontagne who is Liberal Leader Pearson's Quebec strongman, is a certainty for a Cabinet post, and even if the party loses the next election, still will have an inside on favors.

But also in line from Quebec are Maurice Sauve who master-minded Premier Lesage's overthrow of the Union Nationale. And of course, in the "sure" running is Bud Drury.

NO ROOM

There are others, too, with priority, among them Former Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier and Commons Public Accounts Committee Chairman Alan Macnaughton.

Put these men, members of the "Brain Trust", in the Cabinet, or divide party favors for Quebec among them, and what's left for the Liberal rank-and-file?

This has become the burning question among both the Quebec MPs and certain prominent party workers.

Chevrier, because he is a long-time Liberal MP in the Commons and a former Cabinet Minister, is not begrudged a party priority by the rank-and-file, but they do resent the "intrusion" in the inner circle of the "outsiders" from the "Brain Trust".

Although the problem for the Liberals is most acute in Quebec, because of the dominating position of French-Canadian MPs in the party's Parliamentary caucus, it is reflected elsewhere as well.

Walter Gordon, the Toronto business consultant and former Royal Commissioner, is an obvious Cabinet choice, and he lately has emerged as Mr. Pearson's top confidante on financial matters.

And then, of course, there is Mitchell Sharp, "Trader" Howe's former Deputy.

Put all these men in the Cabinet and where do the Parliamentary veterans and party warhorses come in?

The question is only academic . . . for the Liberals are still 208 seats away from winning the election . . . but it has caused hard feeling in the Liberal party's upper echelons and worry and woe for Mike Pearson . . : precisely at a time when he needs neither.

Males Glad Curves Back

Montreal Star

Without understanding a word of the technical gush on the women's pages, males apparently have cause for some gentle rejoicing. A report from Paris says that the great couturiers, who this week are going through the elaborate ritual of their "openings," have decided to return to the natural line, with curves in their proper places.

This happens every few years. By some mysterious process — perhaps extra-sensory perception — the leaders of the fashion world, whose plans have been wrapped in a security supposedly as tight as Cape Canaveral's simultaneously decide that women should look like women for a change.

Of course it doesn't last. At the next showings, a new line will creep in — the stovepipe look, says, or the teepee, or the tea-cosy. Over a couple of years this line will become more extreme, to the point where the women themselves begin to see the joke. Then, swish back to the natural look. And so on, in an endless cycle.

There are those who claim that all this is a matter of profound artiistry. It is, of course, nothing of the sort. It is a matter of planned obsolescence. Each year Paris's — and increasingly, Rome's — latest decrees about the feminine silhouette are rushed across the Atlantic and soon appear (in slightly modified form, to fit the ordinary housewife rather than the emaciated Paris mannequin) in the stores of North America. Whereupon every wardrobe is outdated and must be replaced.

And all this enormous expenditure this year just to demonstrate that women are the shape of women.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON THE MOVE

We who live on the North American continent are continually on the move. We do not stay put. The policy of modern industry is to move administrative officials from one part of the country to another. People are constantly packing up and taking off to distant parts sure that they will find what they are looking for at the end of the rainbow.

This is not all bad. It is a necessary part of the type of industrial and commercial civilization we have created. But it easily becomes bad. Without our knowing it the tendency of these times begins to make us restless. Just yesterday I encountered a person who has made five changes of jobs and residences within the past five years.

Our grandparents, for the most part, died in homes which they had founded fifty or more years before. Sometimes a man much against his will is moved about by his company from one place to another until his family life is damaged and disjointed. But most of the time people get into the habit of wandering because they are restless, unsettled, sometimes lazy, or a bit fuzzy in their thinking.

Get your roots down. Your 'acres of diamonds' are in your own backyard. We can easily enough wander into the desert or over the precipice. Wandering is only good if it is the working out of a definite purpose.

Padlocks were placed on the pumps of a service station on Dundas Street East this morning and the company will not be allowed to sell either gasoline or oil for a month. The instructions to do so came from the office of the Oil Controller in Ottawa, following alleged violation of the gasoline regulations. It is alleged that an attendent disposed of gasoline and oil to a customer and placed the sale on a charge account, contrary to the Federal Restrictions.

The Canadian Doughnut Co., Ltd., on Dufferin Avenue in Trenton has been requisitioned by the Government for the purpose of drying eggs for shipment to Great Britain. This is a new plant secured by Trenton some four years ago, and is the only plant in Canada making the ingredients for the manufacture of doughnuts, as well as the machines for the same purpose. In the past the company has been drying only the yolks of the eggs and shipping the whites in forty pound tins, frozen, to various bakeries all over the country for the purpose of cake making. The powdered yolks have been used in the manufacture of the doughnut mixture.

Strictly Personal

CommonSense Versus Knowledge

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Both the ignorant man and the educated man are satisfied with themselves; the ignorant man calls his ignorance "common sense," and the educated man calls his information "knowledge"; it is only the wise man who knows how little knowledge he has and how useless is his comon sense for solving uncommon problems.

There is no surer way of losing friends than the persistent habit of telling them things "for their own good."

That poverty is only a minor cause of crime was succinctly remarked by Thomas Jefferson, when he said, "I have not observed men's honesty to increase with their riches."

It's singular that the men who want to revert to their grandfathers' economics would not dream of reverting to their demand change in all the material aspects of life while resisting change in its economic aspects.

It is easier to love children than adults because we control them and thus do not fear them; it is the element of independence in adult love that makes it frightening to so many personalities.

Speaking of children, one argument in favor of late marriages is that those who marry late are generally more pleased with their children than those who marry early.

The best kind of doctor to have is one who knows what he does not know; the doctor who feels he must appear omniscient and capable in all circumstances can injure the patient more than the disease can.

One can tell more about the character of a person from the pleasures he chooses than from the vocation he is engaged in; our vocations often choose us, by accident or inevitability, but our pleasures are voluntary selections made from the deepest parts of our nature.

Those who are always demanding "positive suggestions" should reflect on the fact that most of the Ten Commandments are cast in negative form — because it is easier to tell people what not to do than what to do.

Nations, like individuals, rarely know what is good for them in the long run; the loss of the battle of Waterloo was viewed as a calamity by all Frenchmen, but it was actually the making of modern France as a free republic.

The brotherhood of man is not a sentimental theory but a psychological fact — and it is proved in that the most subjective expression is also the most universal; when we most deeply express our innermost selves, it is then that we win a sympathetic response from everybody else.

Chiang's Invasion

Chiang has about as much chance of successfully invading Communist China as Fidel Castro has of carrying the United States by storm.

International relations are uneasy enough as it is. Let the United States, Chiang's only friend, now put him firmly in his place.

To Your Good Health

Emotional Reactions Can Trigger Nightmares

Dear Dr. Molner: Since reading about the woman who wanted advice to stop her husband's nightmares, I've intended to write to you.

I ended my own nightmares with a single act after being plagued with them for 17 years — I would get so violent from terror that I would smash windows to "escape" from the "sinking house."

One morning my mother told me that I sprang from bed with a yell when the midnight train whistled by, three blocks from our house.

Soon after when I was about to cross the tracks as a train approached, I got a hunch that it might be a good idea to wait while the train approached — and wait and watch it go, too.

From then on, no more nightmares. — G.F.C.

A most interesting experience, and also an example of what we sometimes can do just by using our own powers of observation.

In this case past experiences (I didn't have space for this entire letter) led to some curious emotional reactions which, in turn, touched off the nightmares.

With Mr. G.F.C., the train noise had these subconscious connections in his mind. But other types of tensions or worries or fears can be set off by other sounds or circumstances, and lead to nightmares or other emotional reactions.

In this instance, simply noticing that the nightmares occurred when the train went by and whistled was the important key. And G.F.C. was alert enough to take that key and use it.

Noting the connection between some oft-repeated trouble, and some equally oft-repeated incident, can be useful in many physical or emotional complaints. One notable example is allergy. Connecting an allergy (with asthma, itching, rash, swelling, stomach disturbance or other allergic response) with the correct cause is a big part of finding a way to avoid the trouble.

To get back to the nightmares it's the same principle: Observing, and finding a connection between the trouble and the unknown cause.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband recently was hospitalized for a liver disease. He was told to stay on a soft diet and no drinking, but now he drinks six to eight bottles of beer a day and says it will not harm him. — Mrs. J.E.

Anyone who has had liver disease should not use alcoholic drinks of any kind. It puts that much more strain on the liver, and while he may say he notices no trouble, he is steadily weakening an already damaged organ. He should be smart enough to give up all alcohol, and stay on his diet, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother, 85, has been advised by our doctor to use a uterus support. She doesn't want to try it. For months she has had periodic attacks of not being able to urinate. — O.G.

Some oldsters are quite stubborn about such things. However, if certain of the pelvic tissues have become so relaxed as to interfere with proper flow, such a uterus support (a pessary) frequently corrects the trouble. She should be urged to try it, at least. If only comfort is involved, it's worth it. But her health should benefit, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is your opinion of cola drinks? I've heard so many people say they are harmful, but I've never been given any conclusive proof. My daughter and I drink probably from 6 to 12 ounces of them every day. — F.D.B.

At least some of the cola drinks contain caffein. So does coffee. So does tea. In moderation, I see nothing harmful in any of them.

Do you have a problem with old people? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., requesting a copy of my pamphlet, "What To Do About Elderly Folk," enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling and postage.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE CHEAP AND SHODDY

It's like being a thoroughbred and having everybody notice the minute it comes within sight.

The person with class keeps his temper. He doesn't lower himself by fighting when somebody steps up to challenge his strength.

It's the cheap and shoddy in human beings that keeps them from climbing and aspiring to heights higher today than the one reached yesterday.

The human being who takes pride in his personal appearance does so because he has feeling for class, for a refinement and elegance of manner and form that he knows will carry him forward instead of backward.

And when one feels that he is going forward, he cannot go backward.

To the lover of fine literature, or art, or music, a standard of excellence is at once set. And as this standard gets filled out, it enlarges itself.

If "paper backs" predominate in your library, be sure that you have at least one, or more, good books beautifully bound. Somehow great thoughts grow greater as they look up at you from a beautifully printed page or from a binding that has felt the love of the true workman.

Have nothing to do with the cheap or shoddy lest you too become an associate in such wares.

The stars are very wonderful because you have to look up to see them!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In an antique store window yesterday, I was shocked to see along with early Victorian bronze urns, pioneer rocking chairs, Civil War sabres, blue china, butter tubs and other treasures — imagine! — a Lee Enfield rifle!

Yes, sir, there it was leaning in the corner with all the other relics of by-gone days. I haven't had anything make me feel my age like the sight of this weapon in such company.

I studied it acutely. It was the good old Mark III, sure enough. Maybe because it was a little battered from noble use, it rated this public humiliation, in the opinion of the dealer, probably a woman!

But this was the weapon of the Old Contemptibles who, with rifle fire alone, halted the massive legions of the Kaiser at Mons. This was the sole arm, with its bayonet, which, by the millions, became in two years, the inseparable companion of the sons and friends of Britain who came from the four corners of the world to serve in that last of the wars of chivalry, 1914-18.

And it is an antique!

They should have waited until we Mark III type are all gathered to our fathers.

Timber Cut Last Winter Showed Increase

TWEED — Figures recently released, based on the survey of private land forest production in the Tweed Forest District, indicate that the volume of timber cut during the 1960-61 season was slightly higher than production during the 1959-60 season. This, in all likelihood, resulted from the favorable weather conditions during last winter which permitted the logging of many areas not normally accessible.

The estimate of production of the major forest products is as follows: Sawlogs (including tie logs and bolts) — 24,400,000 board feet; pulpwood 27,990 cords; fuelwood 71,840 cords; fence posts 344,623 posts.

By comparison, forest production from Crown lands during the same period was as follows — sawlogs — 19,280,000 board feet; pulpwood — 17,554 cords.

Figures for productive forest land in the Tweed District show that of a total of 2,304,560 acres, 1,320,622 acres or 57.3 per cent is privately owned and 983,938 acres or 42.7 per cent is Crown land.

The survey of private land forest production is a co-operative survey carried out by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, the Federal Department of Forestry and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Based on a preselected statistical sample of private lands, landowners are interviewed annually to determine the volume of forest products cut from their lands.

Private forest lands are an important source of timber for local manufacturing plants and provide a considerable source of revenue for the land-owner. Prior to this survey, very little reliable information was available on the volume of forest products cut from these lands. With this survey data, the Department of Lands and Forests can determine the drain on private forest lands in the Tweed District and can assess the future status of the forest-based industry in the district.

Valentine Day Spirit Shown In Legislatures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All was hearts and flowers in two provincial legislatures Wednesday, but the spirit of St. Valentine didn't hold sway in a third.

In Victoria, Premier W. A. C. Bennett sent floral bouquets to the desks of the legislature's three women members. Mrs. Camille Mather (NDP-CCF—Delta) responded with a poetic valentine to the Social Credit premier:

Before I'll be your valentine
You must become a friend of mine.
To win the heart of this NDP
You must come over and sit with me.

In St. John's, Premier Joseph Smallwood took the opportunity to announce something of a truce in his feud with the federal government.

The premier told the Newfoundland legislature his Liberal administration has decided to drop two legal suits against the federal government.

In the first suit the province said there was a breach of contract in the federal government's refusal to send RCMP reinforcements to Newfoundland during a bitter 1959 strike of loggers. In the second, the province alleged Ottawa had broken an agreement concerning federal-provincial housing projects.

The political winds in the Quebec legislature bore neither the air of compromise nor the scent of flowers. There were opposition charges that the Liberal government is "bringing back the Gestapo."

Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson mentioned Gestapo in assailing a government proposal to give the agriculture and colonization minister power to check into department employees' behavior.

Mr. Johnson said a bill joining the agriculture and colonization departments allows the minister to investigate "the behavior of any employee under his direction and any business relating to the administration or management of his department."

Despite the objection, the offending clause was approved by a vote of 32 to 18.

The Quebec legislative council approved a bill extending rent controls for another year and a second providing supplementary estimates of $36,822,225.

Not all Premier Smallwood's announcements were pleasant. One was bad news to iron miners on Bell Island, near St. John's.

Mr. Smallwood said that despite several offers and concessions by the miners and the provincial government Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation has decided on a 700-man reduction in its 1,600-man work force at the mines.

GOVT. DECLINES

Canada's first sale to Red China was arranged in January of last year for wheat and barley worth more than $60,000,000 delivered on a cash basis.

Two big deals also have been negotiated, each for about $60,000,000 worth of grain, plus some smaller sales. Terms have been 25 per cent down and the rest on nine-month credit.

These first credit payments begin falling due at the end of February and will be paid on a cargo-by-cargo basis in convertible sterling.

Mr. Allard said he doesn't believe Communist China can pay for the wheat.

TEXTILES INVOLVED?

He said he has information that China will try to pay for the wheat by giving Canada textiles "with which China is ready to flood the international market."

Mr. Allard, who comes from the textile district of south-eastern Quebec, made the statements in explaining why he voted against his own party.

He said he recently toured several Asiatic countries and obtained information leading him to believe that Red China will not be able to pay for its wheat.

Voting with the opposition was a matter of sonscience, he said.

Winter Carnival Descends Upon Old Quebec

Throw Christmas, Mardi-Gras and Midsummer's Night into a pot, add a drop of Hallowe'en and a dash of Easter, and you have the carnival, which lasts until March6, the eve of Lent.

Bonhomme Carnaval, the grinning snowman who plays a Santa - like role in the festivities, will be vigilant for frowns.

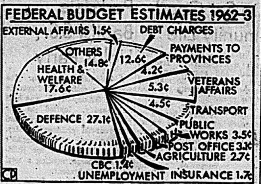
The carnival was revived in 1954 to perk up winter business. Last year it attracted 100,000 tourists.

Among the most popular activities are the crowning of the carnival queen, the Regency Ball, the canoe races across the frozen St. Lawrence, and the International Dogsled Derby.



SPENDING INCREASED — The federal government asked Parliament Monday (Feb. 12) for a record $6,276,211,594 to cover its basic budgetary program in the fiscal year starting April 1. This compares with a spending program of $6,123,758,182 last year. Old age pensions, not counted in budgetary expenditures, would boost over-all spending to $7,012,911,594 in the coming year. Spending would be much larger except for the ending of the Federal-Provincial tax rental agreements this year which will save an estimated $279,300,000. Graph shows how each dollar to be spent will be divided among major items.—(CP Newsmap.)

Resigning Pres. Does Not Want School System

OTTAWA (CP) — Roger St. Denis resigned Wednesday night as president of the Ottawa St. Jean Baptiste Society saying it is time to get rid of Ontario's bilingual schools.

"We need French schools," he said. "French high schools as well as primary schools."

Mr. St. Denis, in his letter of the resignation to the Society—a French - Canadian cultural organization — said Ontario's so-called bilingual schools are nothing but English schools.

"Any school in which French is a second language is an English school," he said, "even if it is called bilingual."

Within two generations there will be no more French-speaking Canadians in Ontario unless the situation changes, said Mr. St. Denis.

"It is necessary to be bilingual, but let's teach English as the second langague. Let us not expect that our co - citizens of the English language will ever teach French except as a second language."

A bi - cultural race is impossible, said Mr. St. Denis. Such a race will produce only "intellectual degenerates who will never bring glory to the French culture or the English."

Mr. St. Denis said his reasons for resigning were independent of his opinions on schools.

WILL BUY BOUNTY

HALIFAX (CP)—A company will be formed to buy the movie version of the 18th century British warship Bounty and operate her to promote the Nova Scotia tourist industry, it was announced Wednesday. Rear Admiral H. F. Pullen (retired) said purchase of the Nova Scotia-built vessel from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will be financed by a Halifax brewery.

Coroner's Jury Finds Parents Were Careless

EGANVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury Wednesday night found that Mr. and Mrs. Ellard Felhaber were careless in connection with a Jan. 5 fire in which four of their children and their great grandfather perished.

The verdict said the parents were partly to blame for the tragedy because they had left a can of oil near a stove and had left their young children in the care of the semi - invalid great grandfather, William Felhaber, 83.

Investigators from the Ontario fire marshal's office told the inquest that the fire at the Felhabers' farm home in Clontarf, 20 miles south of here, likely was caused by the explosion of the oil can.

90th Birthday Marked by Step Dance

DESERONTO — At Read on Friday night of last week a goodly number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Michael Joseph Hunt to wish him well on the occasion of his 90th birthday. Those attending were mostly from the Read district but there were also friends and relatives from Belleville and Deseronto.

Mr. Hunt is a widower and has eight children all of whom are living — four sons and four daughters.

During the evening he recounted some most interesting stories of by-gone days and to cap off the evening obliged with with a step dance.

Higher Average Necessary to Enter Queen's

KINGSTON (CP)—Applicants seeking entry to degree courses in the arts and science faculty at Queen's University next fall must have attained an average of 65 per cent in their final Grade XIII examinations, the university announced today.

In an interview with the Whig-Standard, Dr. J. A. Corry, principal, said "until this year, students who had an average of 60 per cent were assured of admission but now, students with averages between 60 and 64 per cent will be considered on their individual merits."

"In the face of the sharply-rising number of applicants, universities will find it necessary to become more selective in order to ensure that the best-qualified students get the available places."

The new standards of admission at Queen's will apply equally to the school of physical and health education and school of business. They are similar to those in effect in the medicine and applied science faculties in recent years.

STUDIED SINCE FALL

The decision to raise entrance requirements had been studied at Queen's since last autumn following two successive increases in arts and science enrolment which have resulted in a jump of 50 per cent in the faculty during the last three years.

Dr. Corry said indications point to a still larger first-year registration for the 1962-63 term if admission standards were not raised.

On the basis of experience during the last few years, Dr. Corry said, it is likely that about 25 per cent of the applicants this year will be in the 60 to 64 per cent range. These will be the only applicants the new regulations will apply to.

WILL CONSIDER RECORD

An admission committee of five persons, working with school principals and teachers, will consider the complete school record and estimates of the student's quality and promise.

"There will no doubt be an even greater rush of applications in the fall of 1962 than occurred in the autumn of 1961," Dr. Corry said.

"Then, we will almost certainly begin to feel the mounting pressure of the higher birth rate at the end of the Second World War."

Students inquiring about registration during the last two months were advised that entrance requirements would likely be higher. This was done in the hope they would apply themselves to final-year studies to ensure eligibility.

District Guide Commissioner Stresses Needs

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Betty Hay, the District Commissioner of Guiding for the northeast section of Belleville, conducted a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the leaders in that area, at the Engineers' Hall, on Pine Street

From a report of badges earned, sent in by Mrs. L. Matthews, Mrs. Hay told the group that 82 badges had been distributed; the most popular of these swimmers, postal and house orderly. Also, one girl qualified for an 'all' around cord.

In appreciation for the great service the Brown Owls and Tawny Owl give the community the Auxiliary shares the cost of their hats. As both a new Brownie Pack and Guide Company have been formed and with two leaders still wearing the old style head gear, six berets are required. Mrs. Hay stressed the Guiders need for more help from the mothers than they are now receiving; quite often a leader will purchase material to be used by the girls with her own money.

The District Auxiliary donated an initial sum to cover the price of the new emblems and title tapes; however this will not cover the cost of all the supplies needed.

To raise money for these essentials plus camping and training expenses annually each District combines with the Belleville Division to sponsor a tea and bake sale at Christ-Church. The profits from the tea, tickets which have already been distributed, remain with the Division to cover city-wide expenses, while the money from the bake sale stays in the district.

Mrs. Ruth Pringle, convener for the north east area stated she has already contacted the heads of the Parks and Company auxiliary telephoning committees. She emphasized the importance of clearly marking each item for the bake table as such, and the name of the district; with each group responsible for the collection and transporting the donations to the parish hall.

HONG KONG (Reuters) — A Chinese Communist opera troupe numbering 52 persons was reported in local newspapers today to have escaped to Hong Kong in a motorized junk.

Bridge Euchre Held By Christ Church P.G.

A most enjoyable afternoon was spent on Tuesday when a large number of ladies and gentlemen met at Christ Church parish hall for a game of bridge or euchre.

A cordial welcome by the Parish Guild president, Mrs. I. R. Slavin, opened the proceedings. Joint conveners for the party were Mrs. A. Jordan, who kept things running smoothly in the euchre room; Mrs. Fred Lazier who took charge of the bridge, and Mrs. M. Vanner, who was in charge of the prizes.

Happy recipients of prizes in bridge room were: Mrs. McGlashon, Mrs. Kellar, and Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Hackett, Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. G. Mills and Mrs. Cousins were draw prize winners. In the euchre room first prize went to Mrs. Green who also won the prize for lone hands; 2nd, Mrs. Chapman; low, Mrs. Morden. Men's prize, A. Cooper, and draw prizes, Mrs. Heath, Mrs. Sloane, Mrs. Noakes and Mrs. Ostrom.

In charge of the refreshments was Mrs. H. Thompson with her helpers, Mrs. H. Wright, Mrs. F. Burt, Mrs. R. Beeby, Mrs. T. Schofield and Mrs. F. Beeby. Members of the Guild assisted in serving at tea-time.

CWL Plans Bake Sale, Pot-Luck

DESERONTO — The monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held on Monday afternoon with a splendid attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Miss Nora Fox.

Mrs. Merven Sherman presented the treasurer's report, showing a substantial balance. Mrs. J. Graham, secretary, gave her report.

Plans were made for a bake sale to be held in March. It was decided to have a potluck supper for the March meeting.

'Indoor Fur' New Fashion Fad in Paris

By PEGGY MASSIN

Fur has emerged as the latest novelty for fireside, cocktail and hostess clothes. Smooth, flat-haired furs such as pony skin, broadtail, unborn calf, and baby lamb have moved indoors, fashioned into beguiling separates including skirts, sweaters, slacks and ponchos.

The Jeanne Lanvin boutique launched matching slacks and tunic ensembles made of black and white spotted calf. Or there are full, circular-cut hearthside-skirts made of imitation broadtail lamb.

Higher-priced brackets offer a slim, sheath dress and matching fitted jacket made of genuine broadtail fur for cocktail wear. The all-black costumes are contrasted with collars of white mink or ermine.

In the same mood, Marc Bohan of Dior designed a strapless dinner dress and matching flared bolero jacket in paper-thin black broadtail. At first glance, this costly fur appears to be a silk moire fabric.

FUR FOR JACKETS

Other interpretations of "indoors furs" are Revillion's little evening jackets made of panther or baby ocelot. They are styled like cardigan sweaters, with collarless necklines bound in satin.

The epitome of luxury in the Grand Balenciaga manner, where price is no object, is a floor-length hostess coat made of white mink cut on princess lines.

Opulent fur collars, cuffs, and hem bandings no longer are confined to winter coats and the great outdoors. They trim the most delicate evening dresses as an integral part of the dress.

Paris designers are proving that a little bit of fur can go a long way. Single skins, using such "democratic" furs as fox, are effective as neck warmers or choker scarves, and nothing is more fashionable today than a fur boa, measuring anything from three to six feet in length.

Teachers Urged to Set Good Example in Community Life

Last Tuesday evening the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario met at Tabernacle United Church, with Miss Dorothy Martin as guest speaker, who was introduced by Mrs. Dorothy Blakely, a member of the board of directors.

Miss Martin, formerly of Saskatchewan, pursued her teaching career, graduating from Peterborough Teachers' College, progressed from the position of rural school teacher to vice-principal of McMurrich Public School in Toronto, has worked untiringly in the academic field as in Federation work.

After extending greetings to the Belleville public school teachers from the FWTAO, executive and staff, Miss Martin assured her audience that she had not come to scold those who had not participated actively in summer course training or university training but that she had come instead to remind them of the purpose and aims of the Ontario Teachers' Federation, and of teachers.

Miss Martin said that teachers extend a great influence in the community and must be certain that the examples which they set are good, for a misdemeanor by one teacher soon makes headlines and then all teachers are lumped together and blamed in the eyes of the community.

Indeed, teachers have an opportunity to provide such an education as to win warms if armaments fail.

Miss Martin challenged the teachers to accept responsibility so that they might grow and thus help their pupils to grow. "Be daring. Take responsibility. Inspire the pupils in such a way that their education lives! Don't wait until next year or tomorrow! Do something tomorrow that you have never done before".

"The degree of responsibility", continued Miss Martin, "differentiates professions from trades. We are not instructors but educators. Most of us prefer the even tenor of our lives and it is for this reason that such movements as fascism, nazism and segregation have met with success. So many of us just go along with the push of the crowd".

Teachers, however, need not accept all the blame for the inadequacy of the school as often the home environment produces either a child who 'learns in spite of us' or one who is unable to learn at all.

The ineptness of the adult world terrifies children. How can he concentrate on preparing himself to earn a living when he is surrounded by threats of impending doom. It is, therefore, the teacher's job to see that school has a counteracting effect on news violence by being a place of serenity.

On behalf of the teachers Mrs. Grace Anderson thanked Miss Martin for making the evening so worthwhile, and presented her and Miss Cora Bailey, provincial president, with the unusual gifts of rosebushes, since both women are fond of gardening.

Mr. Frank Murray, manager of radio station CJBQ, thanked the Ontario Teachers' Federation for having presented to CJBQ their annual award for outstanding contributions in radio broadcasting. Since this is indeed an honor, the residents of this city may feel justly proud of the assistance which the radio station gives to the teachers in this area in their daily task of shedding light on new information.

Previous to Miss Martin's address the association enjoyed a delicious dinner after which a short program, consisting of two most pleasing numbers, "Brigadoon," and "Oklahoma" by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reid, accompanied by S. Alec Gordon, after a brief business meeting took place.

Among those attending were: the past president, the president, the executive secretary of the association; Mr. L. A. Kells, city superintendent of public schools; Mr. J. M. Cousins, inspector of public schools in the city, and their wives, and men teachers from the various city schools.

Parkdale Baptist S.S. Holds Party

A Valentine party for the younger members of Parkdale Baptist Sunday School was held on Tuesday. Invited to the party were the two, three and four-year-old children in Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. Hannah's classes. Mothers of the children also came, making a total of about 50 present.

The theme of the party was "The Heart." Action songs and choruses were sung, followed by a flannel graph story, taken by Mrs. Hannah, who showed how the Bible is God's message of love to the world (John 3:16). The response to God's love should be to love Him, Math. 22-37. The Old Testament story of Hannah illustrated the kind of love God wants from parents and children. Hannah was given a son by God and she gave him back to God, although he was her most treasured possession.

Like Hannah, parents should lovingly bring their little ones into God's House to learn from God's word — The Bible.

Like Samuel, children should willingly obey, and give their lives to God, for Him to use, having first been cleansed of sin through the death of His Son.

The little talk concluded with the words: "Not just a part but all my heart I will give all to Thee".

At the end of the party, parents and children enjoyed heart-shaped cookies and tarts, together with cups of tea and freshie.

So-Ed Club Plans Session

On Tuesday evening plans got underway for a new session at the Y.M.C.A. from March 7 and each consecutive Wednesday night until April 25.

Each Wednesday night there will be a different speaker including such personalities as members of the Y.M.C.A. Scuba Club, Kenneth Ross, Rev. Arthur Page, Angus Duffy and Johnny Meyers.

Variations Of Fried Chicken

by Mary Moore

Chicken continues to be one of the best of meat buys. I stood still at the chicken counter to see how many shoppers put chicken in their shopping carts. There were plenty so I decided I should give you some different ideas for serving it.

We will assume that a three-pound frying chicken will serve four.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Breaded Calves' or Baby Beef Liver and Bacon; Corn Relish; Tomato Casserole; Baked Potatoes; Tossed Vegetable Salad; Apple Dumplings with Cream; Tea.

SUNDAY

Sesame Fried Chicken (see Thursday); Apple Jelly; Milk Gravy; Mashed Potatoes; Baby Limas; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers with Garlic French Dressing; Applesauce Roll Cake (see Tuesday); Coffee.

SESAME FRIED CHICKEN:

1 3-lb. frying chicken, 2 tablespoons sesame seeds, ¾ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon oregano or poultry seasoning, 1-3 cup evaporated milk, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup cooking oil, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons hot water.

Cut the chicken up into serving pieces. Combine sesame seeds, flour, oregano or poultry seasoning, paprika, salt and pepper. Dip chicken pieces in evaporated milk (using your left hand). Drain a bit then coat with the flour mixture with your right hand. Try to keep your right hand dry so the flour mixture does not cling to your fingertips. Melt the butter and oil in large frying pan and when hot fry chicken pieces until golden brown on both sides. When all are done add the 2 tablespoons hot water, cover, reduce heat and cook about 40 minutes or until all chicken pieces are tender. We served this with apple jelly. If desired to the butter remaining in pan you may add 3 tablespoons of the remaining flour mixture. (Or if none is leftover, 3 tablespoons flour) and stir to blend. Then stir in 1½ cups milk until thick. It may need some additional salt. This makes delicious milk gravy.

OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN:

1 3 to 3½-lb. frying chicken, 4 to 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup flour, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon celery seeds (or ½ teaspoon celery salt), 1 teaspoon paprika, 1½ teapoons salt.

Mix together in a paper bag the flour, pepper, mustard, celery seeds or celery salt, paprika and salt. Cut chicken into serving pieces and shake in bag to coat with flour-mixture. In a shallow baking dish, large enough to hold the chicken in one layer, melt half of the butter or margarine. Arrange chicken pieces in dish, turn them over once in the butter. Dot with remaining butter. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. uncovered for 35 to 45 minutes, turning once. During last 10 minutes turn on top burner to brown chicken more, turning it over once during this browning period.

White Cane Club Enjoys Recreation

The February recreation meeting of the White Cane club was held at the Kiwanis Centre Monday evening with 30 in attendance.

After an official welcome by president Pat Baverstock, Arlie Scott expressed his thankfulness for the basket of fruit and cards he received from the club while ill. Two birthdays were reported and the birthday song was sung for Pat Baverstock and Mary Kuchma.

A box of chocolates provided by Mrs. Esther Clarke was passed around during the evening. Mrs. Clarke is 96 years of age and has been blind for over 50 years. She resides at the County Home.

Bagatelle and bean bags were played and the winners were Helen Wardhaugh and Mary Rivers, Johnnie Johnson and Alice Smith. The assistants for the games were Walt Waite, Theresa Choinard, Bill Dix, Laurie Towner and Maude Rollins.

Eentertainment was provided by George Gulliver on the accordion who played many old and lively tunes. Johnnie Johnson did two step dance numbers and the members also joined in singing old time songs.

George was thanked by Violet Waite on behalf of the club and with an invitation to return at some future date.

Refreshments were provided by a group of ladies from Holloway Street Church under the direction of Rita Coleman.

Ken Chantler expressed sincere thanks to the ladies.

HAZARDS INCREASED

Between 1948 and 1958, fires in Canada increased from 53,048 to 86,919.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. G.W. — Who ever heard of a boss giving a girl a mink coat for no special reason?

Alice W. — It's his wife's. She's getting a new one. They just appreciate me.

• • •

Mr. G.W. — The other night Alice came home with a story that's so full of holes, a blind man could see through it. But she can't.

"Good news!" she yelled, and then she told us her boss had offered her a $3,000 mink coat as a token of his appreciation. I immediately advised her to refuse it. Certainly no one hands out that kind of a token without strings attached.

She's a beautiful young lady, 24 years old. Her reputation is perfect, and it's worth more than a dozen mink coats. Even though I can't afford to buy her one, she doesn't need the coat badly enough to jeopardize her good name. The boss must have plans. Alice must look behind his offer, and say no thanks.

• • •

Alice W. — Dad is so suspicious! My boss is a plumbing contractor, a sweet, fatherly man, very hard-working and extremely busy. I'm the bookkeeper and stenographer. His wife handles the switchboard and takes the orders. The other employees are male.

Before I came, three years ago, they kept changing help constantly. In fact they needed two girls to do the work I'm doing, and it was never done right or on time. Naturally they're grateful.

The coat that Dad's so worried about is not a new one. The boss's wife ordered a blonde mink and they offered me her dark one. It's in good condition, fits me and looks nice. She has no use for two coats because they spend part of the winter in Florida.

The Council: Despite Mr. W.'s skepticism, the offer to Alice appears bona fide and may be added proof that life can be wonderful.

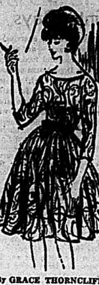
Heaven needn't work so hard to protect the poor working girl these days. The law of supply and demand keeps her well treated. And when an employer comes upon a jewel like Alice, there are almost no lengths to which he will not go to keep her happy, loyal, and present!

There's a practical angle, too, for Mr. W. to understand. A used $3,000 coat isn't worth $3,000. It might only yield a few hundred dollars in a second-hand shop. But by having it refurbished, relined and embroidered with Alice's initials, the boss brings it back to its $3,000 value, in the good will and enthusiasm it inspires in a faithful employee. This luxurious gift is not only in appreciation of past favors (strictly secretarial), but also in anticipation of more of same.

Nothing extracurricular suggests itself, either in the boss's or in Alice's mind. It seems to spring entirely from Mr. W.'s imagination as fed by the stereotype of the office 'tootsie.' Miracles can happen, though. Valuable tokens are exchanged for open and aboveboard reasons every day. Fannie Hurst tells of receiving an emerald, "the size of a golf ball." from a gentlemen she sat next to at a dinner party. It had been in his family for generations, and he had merely enjoyed talking to her. After getting her husband's consent, she accepted it and now wears part of the gem in the conspicuous ring on her left hand.

Enjoy your new coat, Alice. Wear it to...Wonderland! As for your dad, remind him that the boss is a busy man, and he and his wife are "like this" — a happy pair — whether in the office or in Florida. A likely story? Most likely!

Pretty Paisley Print



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Rayon chiffon in a muted paisley motif does well in a dress for late-day-into-evening wear. This type of frock is one that can be worn with assurance the year around almost anywhere.

It can be worn with the narrow front belt in a blending tone with velvet bow or a narrow covered self belt.

May Is Marrying Month In Small Egyptian Hamlet

CAIRO (Reuters) — In the nearby hamlet of Hazlet el Samman, May is the marrying month.

Normally a sleepy place, Hazlet al Samman comes alive on the stroke of midnight April 30 and stays that way for 31 days. For May, by tradition, is the only time when residents can marry.

Young couples marry in droves, and residents enjoy days of feasting and celebration. Merchants descend to sell silks, necklaces, bracelts and amulets for women and candy, pastry, firecrackers and whistles to children.

The grooms spend the last hours of their bachelorhood with their friends, who call on barbers to shave them, prepare their baths and help them dress in new clothes.

In the afternoons the grooms ride in a procession of carts or on horseback through the narrow streets to their parents' homes, where the wedding ceremonies are performed by a ma'zun, a kind of justice of the peace.

BRIDE DYES HANDS

On the eve of her wedding a bride traditionally dyes the palms of her hands and soles of her feet with ginger-colored henna.

The most eye-catching event for tourists in May is the dancing Arab horses.

The horses gracefully sway and shake to the rhythm of rural Egyptian pipe music.

The newlyweds are taken around the village and led to their new homes, where sheep or cattle, the traditional offering to bring happiness and prosperity to the couple, are sacrificed on the threshold.

The village was founded some 200 years ago by Sheik Hammad el Samman. In addition to its iron-bound tradition of holding weddings only in May, it is the main recruiting spot for "dragomen," or pyramid tourist guides.

Most of the village men speak at least three languages fluently and some as many as six.

"Dragomen," it is said, have a way with lonely women tourists.

Villagers tell the story of a young Moslem "dragoman" and a rich Canadian tourist who became his second wife. It happened, of course, in May.

U.C.W. Meetings

MELROSE UNITED CHURCH

MELROSE — Melrose United Church Women held the first regular meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Jack McFarlane. The fine attendance was most encouraging to the new executive, which is attempting to create much interest in the new organization.

The president, Mrs. Grant McLaren opened the meeting and gave some helpful thoughts and inspirations brought from the leaders' and executive meeting held recently at the Tabernacle Church. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Charles Bates from 1st Corinthians 12:27; 13:8.

During the business period Mrs. Jack McFarlane read the minutes of the previous meeting. It was decided to use envelopes for the systematic giving. An invitation from the Shannonville members to meet with them on March 9 for the World's Day of Prayer service was accepted. Owing to the loss of the church by fire, there was some discussion on ways and means of earning money. It was decided to cater for a wedding and any banquets which were offered. A tea and a bazaar will be held later in the spring. On February 15, Mrs. Leslie McLaren and Mrs. Roy McLaren will be hostesses for a pot-luck dinner and a quilting.

FINE PROGRAM

Mrs. Roy Badgley, the convener presented a most interesting and educational program. "New Year's Resolutions," was an appropriate reading given by Mrs. Kenneth McMechan. To unite all women of the congregation with the idea of "All May Be One" leads members on to great endeavors. From the study book, "Signals for the Sixties" the conveners brought much help from the chapter on "Church and Community" which explained that during the pioneer days the church was the religious and social centre of the community. Some old churches are bound in the centre of the largest cities but industry has built such large structures that many of the sacred edifices seem to be almost dwarfed. After a reading by Mrs. W. Embury stressing the need of a community church.

Mrs. Badgley continued by saying that the church is not meant simply as a building but the people who are its congregation. Active church membership stimulates other organizations. The indisputable fact that the church is essential to a happy, healthy community life needs to be proven again. The many modern inventions cannot replaced the permanent force of the church in any community. The thinning of the rural population imposes a difficult problem on the church. Modern conveyances enable people to go greater distances. However, consolidating of churches can prove harmful to the community since the feeling of intimacy can so easily be lost. The spiritual warmth, inspiration and encouragement of the church can be most important to the community.

After a reading by Mrs. Malcolm Lazier, Mrs. Badgley closed the program by speaking of the many services which the laymen can perform. The Couples' Clubs the adult clubs are also helping so much to create unity and neighborliness in the church life.

Mrs. Leslie McLaren read, "The Seven Blessings."

After a short question period the president thanked the hostess and the ladies who had helped on the program.

The meeting closed and the hostess and her assistants served a social cup of tea with fruit bread and cookies.

The members departed, feeling the meeting was a good indication of a successful future for the United Church Women.

EXOTIC DISHES

MONTREAL (CP) — Such items as tiropita, dolmades and soutsoukakia were featured at an 11-course dinner organized by the junior associates of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts in connection with an exhibition of Byzantine art. Food was prepared by immigrants from the Middle East and served by costumed members of the associates.

Cherry Pie Can Brighten Winter Days

Sour cherries (pie cherries)—canned and frozen — are among this year's plentiful foods, says the Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. That, for us, means cherry desserts for extra color and flavor in these grey and white winter days. We will be making cherry pies, cherry tarts, cherry cobbler, cherry crisp, cherry bread pudding, cherry roll and cherry upside-down cake. We will also serve cherry sauces, a tart one for pork and poultry; a sweet one for sundaes and puddings.

For the making of cherry desserts we will likely buy Canada choice cherries, packed in 45 or 50 percent sugar syrup. We will buy 10 15 or 20-ounce cans, depending on the size of our family. Or we may buy frozen cherries in a 15 per cent dry sugar pack with net weights of 11 ounces or two pounds. Like all frozen foods, we will store them in the freezer as soon as we take them home.

The Consumer Section has had many requests for this Cherry Tart recipe which you, too may wish to add to your file.

CHERRY TARTS

1 (15-ounce) can pitted solid pack pie cherries, ¾ cup sugar, water. 1½ tablespoons cornstarch, few grains salt, 2 tablespoons cold water, 3 to 5 dros red food coloring, 6 to 8 drops almond flavoring, 6 large baked tart shells.

Turn cherries into saucepan, add sugar, bring to a boil and boil for 1 minute. Let drain in a sieve for 5 minutes. Measure drained syrup and, if necessary, add enough water to bring up to 1 1-3 cups. In the sauce an combine cornstarch, salt and the 2 tablespoons water. Gradually stir in the liquid. Cook over high heat, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken, then reduce heat and cook until transparent, about 2 minutes Add red coloring until sauce is desired color. Stir in almond flavoring. Gently stir in cherries, then spoon into baked tart shells. Makes 6 large tarts.

Successful Living

What Is 'Common How'?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—What is "common law?" My three teen-age daughters and every other teen-ager who reads your column, will think that it is just another kind of law.

Since my eldest daughter turned 18 last summer, she wanted to live "common law" with a married man, who has two children; one living here, and one in England, where his wife has filed a divorce, (says he.)

We tried everything to keep our daughter from moving in with this man. The welfare department told us that since she is already 18, they could not do anything.

We even got a lawyer, but he could not help us either, nor could he get any information on whether a divorce is filed in the courts in England, since this is kept in strict confidence. Now our daughter is pregnant and thinks it is perfectly all right to live with this man "common law." —

We would call it "bigamy" in Europe. What can I do? —HEARTBROKEN MOTHER.

DEAR HEARTBROKEN:—"Common law" is a term used in the law books. But not for anyone in your daughter's situation.

Both partners to common law are unmarried. The wife may carry the man's name, and in case of court action, this union is recognized like a marriage. Although it is not accepted by society.

In a Christian country like Canada (as in Europe), your daughter flouts something more devastating than law: public opinion. The custom that requires marriage before children is not to be taken lightly. Her children will suffer and so will she.

Since she won't listen to you, all you can do right now is to stand by and hope for the best. She is of age.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I am a girl of 19 and have a baby boy 5 months old. His father didn't marry me. Now he sees the baby and he wants to marry me.

What shall I do? Shall I say yes or no? I still love him.—WANTING THE BEST FOR MY CHILD.

DEAR WANTING:—What are you waiting for? Say yes!"

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO WONDERING SUE:—There is great variation in body structures and weights, but according to my weight chart you should weigh between 125 and 130 pounds.

• • •

(There's an answer to your difficulty. Write to Doris about it, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My father died last year, and I'm in a quandary about whom I should ask to give me away at my wedding, which will take place in two months. I have a brother who is twenty-one — two years younger than I. My sister thinks he's too young for the job. The only alternative is an uncle who is fifty and with whom I've never been close. Do you think I should ask him, instead? — M.T., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: No, I don't. Members of a wedding party should be chosen on a basis of their close relationship with the bride and groom. Age needn't be the prime deciding factor. Besides being old enough, your brother is your closest male relation, so he's very well qualified to give you away. I'd certainly give him the privilege.

Question: I turn to your articles every time. I read the paper and enjoy them very much. Now I have a question which I think you can clarify. My husband and I were invited as guests to a party at a private country club. I sent our hosts a lovely Baccarat bowl, and, to my disappointment, our hostess returned it for credit to my account. I was very hurt, and felt it was ill-mannered and ungracious on her part. Am I wrong in feeling this way? I've always felt one should be as gracious in receiving as in giving. Her answer was the gift was too expensive. May I have your opinion on this? — Mrs. E.D., Passaic, N.J.

Answer: You answered your own question very well. A present should be received as graciously as it is given. The bowl was rather elaborate for a thank-you gift, and flowers would have been sufficient. But whether a gift is expensive or not, it's the thought that counts, and your hostess, though probably well-intentioned, completely lost sight of that fact when she returned the bowl in such a discourteous manner.

Mr., Mrs. W. J. Tanner Observe 59th Wedding Anniversary

MENTO — After attending the church service at St. Thomas' Church on Sunday last Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tanner were pleasantly surprised when approximately 50 of their relatives and neighbors gathered at their home to celebrate with them on their 59th wedding anniversary.

The Rev. R. G. Fleming extended congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Tanner and expressed on behalf of the members of the church and all present the pleasure and happiness of everyone in having the privilege of visiting the honored couple on this most auspicious occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Tanner appropriately replied and stated that their home was always open to everyone and they would always be welcome. They also expressed appreciative thanks to all for celebrating with them and for the lovely gifts which they received.

MANY GREETINGS

Mr. Ken Mumby, reeve of Rawdon, spoke briefly extending best wishes and brought greetings from Rawdon Township. Others who brought greetings were Mr. Graham Mouck, reeve of Stirling, who brought greetings from Stirling; Mr. Morley Tanner, deputy reeve of Campbellford with best wishes on behalf of the family and also from Campbellford. Mr. George Wison of Valley Park Saskatchewan brought greetings from the west and said how happy they were to be present at this celebration and also to meet so many of their friends and relatives. Warden H. Varty also called and offered congratulations from the county.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Size!

That's the name of the god of our century whose image is worshipped on all sides. Our age believes in the true worth of extremists, for we live by a new mythology: "Bigness equals greatness."

That there is a wide difference between quantity and quality, appearance and essence, apparently has not yet penetrated the deepest parts of our mentality:

The big lie is the believable lie.

The big noise is the sound that is heard.

The big talk is the fashionable talk.

In terms of international life, the worship of bigness has led to a new and even fearful condition: the big, powerful nations calling the tune for the little "underdeveloped" countries. There was a time when England, France or Italy might be listened to, in the councils of the world chambers—but they are not big enough, any longer. Only the giants can really speak and be heard.

Yet, there are signs that the big nations may trip over themselves—their over-awing strength may indeed be their undoing. Like some modern dinosaur, their sheer size often seems to lead to self-defeat. For there are yet little peoples, small nations, so-called underdeveloped countries, now beginning to pop up, as if from under the earth's surface, little flowers straining for their place in the sun. Their day will yet come.

When an American visits some of these countries, he is something of a curiosity—like an eight-foot basketball player walking down Main Street. Even if no one pays much attention to him at home, overseas he is something of a spectacle.

While seeming "eight-foot tall" in the eyes of other people may make him something of a conversation piece, even a "celebrity" — attracting attention does not necessarily earn him affection. It's not too cosy holding hands with a giant. Always, there is the unspoken fright of being crushed to death, even in the middle of a warm embrace.

To bigness, then, there must be added benevolence, and to benelovence, understanding. If the giant is to survive, he needs more than brute strength or sheer size.

Nor will cheap talk, no matter how loudly proclaimed, how largely bruited, ever contribute to real happiness. Big talk, if motivated by vulgar ambition, remains small talk, nevertheless.

There is no effective escape, anywhere in the world, from the power of the still, small voice—of conscience and of character. Bigness may impress—but it is a first impression which does not last. It's the lasting impression that counts. And for such an achievement, size must be matched by content, quantity by quality, appearance by essence.

Can Cure Africa's Lepers In Six Months But Not Without Medical Aid

MONTREAL (CP) — A nurse from the Cameroons now studying in Montreal says Africa's lepers can be cured in six months, but not without more medical help and better living conditions.

Mrs. Martha Boiche, mother of three, is secretary-general of the Red Cross in the Cameroons, on the African west coast between Nigeria and the French Congo. There are 37,000 known cases of leprosy there.

She believes the fight against leprosy, with 15,000,000 lepers in the world, is the most important being fought today by medical science.

"Much has been done, but the problem is still vast."

More dispensaries, better detection methods and mobile units had helped to stem the spread of the disease. "But we need more medical help and better living conditions for the people if we are to suppress it entirely."

KEEN SPECIALIST

Mrs. Boicht, born in the Cameroons and educated in France, is a specialist in tropical diseases. She was among the first to enter Brazzaville in the French Congo in 1950 when the movement against leprosy began in earnest.

"Lepers are anti-social because they suffer tremendously and they feel ostracized. Society rejects them and this makes them bitter.

"We try to teach them they are people like any others. We have set up agricultural villages where they can work while receiving treatment. When they are no longer contagious, they live with their families and go to clinics for treatment."

Among them, there is growing consciousness of the need to get treatment as soon as the first warning spots appear on the skin, she said.

"People are coming early now, because they know the faster they receive treatment, the faster they will be cured.

"Even children of eight will go to the clinics themselves without being told.

"The disease can be cured after six months if people really take care of themselves. After that they must submit to regular checks, and they have to live in hygienic conditions and eat well."

Mrs. Boiche, studying public health nursing at the University of Montreal since last August, returns to the Cameroons at the end of June.

SHARBOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) Mrs. W. A. Weatherhead has become the first president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church Women.

The conference embraces the area from Oshawa to Brockville and north to Pembroke and Renfrew.

Mrs. Weatherhead, the former Wilna Thomson, was born at North Augusta near Brockville. After graduating from the Brockville General Hospital's School of Nursing, she went to New York to work. She came to Sharbot Lake, 40 miles north of Kingston, when her father became ill, and has made it her home. since

She is married to a dentist and has two sons, Harry, a student at the Toronto Bible College and Donald, a dentist at Bancroft.

Before the Second World War she took a glove-making and leathercraft course from the Women's Institute at Perth and says that during the next five years she taught "just about everybody in Sharbot Lake and district" how to make gloves.

U.C.W. Meetings

EGGLETON U.C.W.

MADOC JCT. — The February meeting of the Eggleton United Church Women was held recently at the home of Mrs. Bruce Stapley.

The president, Mrs. Warren Harlow opened the meeting by reading a thoughtful meditation.

Mrs. Clarence Fitchett offered her home for the next meeting which is to be held on March 15th, with the program to be prepared by Mrs. Keith Johnson and Mrs. Forde Stapley.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley reported on calls made and also on number of cards sent out in the past month.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy spoke briefly, giving some of the highlights from the meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial United Church women's executive held on February 5th, at Tabernacle United Church in Belleville.

It was suggested that the recording secretary send a list of the 1962 officers to Mrs. W. G. Smith of Napanee.

A decision was made not to order "The United Church Observer" at the present time. Mrs. McMullen will be paid for the packages of offering envelopes she had ordered.

Mrs. Fitchett read the minutes of the January meeting; also a thank-you letter received from Mrs. Dyson.

Mrs. McMullen presided over the program which opened with the worship service. The Scripture lesson, St. Luke 9: 51-56 and commentary was read by Mrs. Forde, Stapley.

The offering was gathered and dedicated with a prayer by Mrs. McMullen. Penny bags were distributed with the proceeds of these to be a special offering this year.

All enjoyed the lovely piano solo by Mrs. Bruce Stapley, and also an interesting chapter "Out of the Storm," from the new study book, which was given by Mrs. William McMullen.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Christ Church EBWA Plans Coffee Party

The regular monthly business meeting of the Evening Branch of the W.A. of Christ Church was held on February 12th with a good attendance. The vice-president, Mrs. J. Spencer, opened the meeting.

Business was discussed and all reports were satisfactory.

Plans were made for the pie and coffee party, which is to be held early in March.

The Rev. M. Caswell, Curate of Christ Church, was special speaker of the evening, taking as his subject the service of "Holy Communion." He emphasized Christ's command, "Love Thy Neighbor."

The speaker was thanked by Miss Frances Reid, on behalf of the members.

Mr. Caswell closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. M. MacInnis and Mrs. J. Spencer.

Negro Forces in Fight For School Integration Are Turning Attention to North

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP) — Negro forces in the fight for United States school integration are turning their attention to the North, and this coming dispute may well overshadow efforts in the South.

Their work is being continued in the South, but more and more emphasis is being placed on what is called de facto school segregation in northern communities.

Negro leaders are hopeful changes in many northern schools will be peaceful. But they already have made successful use of the courts, and they say they intend to continue using them when necessary.

Northern schools are not segregated by law, but they generally have a policy of requiring students to attend schools in their own neighborhoods, which often are mainly white or Negro.

Pro - integration groups also assert that in some cases boundary lines for school districts have been altered in order to continue segregation.

Paul Zuber, an outspoken Negro lawyer who has pioneered in northern school integration, says he believes the centre of the entire U.S. segregation battle is shifting to the North.

The 35 - year - old lawyer won a school case in New Rochelle, N.Y., last year and he also has won cases against the New York City school system.

He filed his latest court case last week against Englewood, N.J., and he has cases pending in Newark, N.J., and Chicago.

"The South has now arrived at the stage where integration is recognized by law," he said. "Unless we fight in the North, the South is merely going to adopt the methods used by the North to perpetuate segregation."

Zuber said he isn't afraid of alienating sympathy that Negro causes have received from northern whites.

"Basically, the Negro is not looking for sympathy," he declared. "He is looking for equality, not a patron."

Mayor Allowed to Draw Additional $2,600 for Needy People But No Motion Made

OTTAWA (CP) — Carleton county court was told Wednesday that the Progressive Conservative MLA for Russell, Gordon Lavergne, distributed food and cash to "needy persons" when he was mayor of suburban Eastview.

A former Eastview town councillor, Edward T. Wilson, testified that Mr. Lavergne's official indemnity as mayor was $2,400, but that he could draw an additional $2,600 "to help people."

Mr. Wilson, testifying under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, said the council had authorized the town treasurer, Mrs. Adrienne Laroche, to pay the mayor up to $5,000 a year if he "needed" that amount. No motion had been passed to this effect.

The former councillor was the first witness called by the defence at the trial of Mrs. Laroche, accused of stealing $10,790 in town funds by conversion of cheques.

WILL TESTIFY LATER

Defence counsel Royden Hughes said he would call Mr. Lavergne to testify later.

Mr. Lavergne and all eight Eastview councillors were defeated in the 1960 elections, which followed by a few months a provincial judicial inquiry into the town's financial affairs.

Eastview grocer Roger Durocher said Mr. Lavergne used to pay him $50 to $60 a week during each winter to provide food to needy families.

Crown Attorney Percy Milligan asked whether Mr. Lavergne was acting as mayor, MLA or "merely as a man who wants to get re-elected".

"I don't know," replied Mr. Durocher.

The grocer said he also handled food orders from the town welfare department and was paid by cheque by the town.

Mr. Wilson testified that council in 1955 or 1956 had discussed a raise in the mayor's indemnity from $2,400 to $5,000. He said Mr. Lavergne had opposed this move but had told council he would draw up to $5,000 a year if he needed extra money for welfare.

Mr. Wilson said he "presumed" Mr. Lavergne had received extra income since he had often seen him take cash out of his pocket and hand it to Eastview residents without means.

Mr. Hughes introduced a council motion dated Dec. 30, 1959, awarding $3,200 to the mayor and councillors out of the "distinguished guests" fund. Mr. Wilson testified he received a town cheque for $200 in December, 1959.

Tried to Pass Stolen Bonds In Switzerland

CHICAGO (AP) — A lawyer for a Swiss bank testified Wednesday two men accused of trafficking in stolen securities used negotiable Canadian bonds to establish credit with his bank.

Joseph Frei, legal adviser to Leu and Company of Zurich, appeared as a United States government witness in the trial of four men charged with interstate dealings in securities that were part of the $3,500,000 loot of a Brockville, Ont., bank burglary.

Frei testified that in October, 1958, five months after the burglary at the Brockville Trust and Savings Company, William Rabin, 53, of Chicago and George E. Rosden, 54, of Washington, D.C., and Sumner, Md., called at Leu and Company.

They brought in $15,000 in Canadian bonds, he said, and urged the bank to negtiate them in Canada immediately as a check of their authenticity. The bonds were found marketable, Frei stated.

Later, he continued, Rabin and Rosden brought in $120,000 worth of bonds similar to the first batch and asked for a loan against them as collateral.

CALL OFF DEAL

The bank declined to hand over the cash immediately and said these bonds, too, would have to be put through securities channels for an ownership check. Frei said Rosden objected, explaining this could not be done for tax reasons, and that Rosden and Rabin called off the whole deal.

The government contends the first bond transaction with valid securities merely was window-dressing for the follow-up deal through which the men hoped to obtain cash for stolen bonds.

A prosecutor credited a director of Leu and Company, Eugen Roesle, with upsetting the plan. Roesle is a member of an international commission dealing with the problem of stolen securities and became suspicious of the transaction.

The other two defendants are Sam Mannarino, 64, of New Kensington, Pa., and Norman Rothman, 45, of Miami Beach.

The trial is continuing.

Paris Demonstration May Be Triumph for Communists

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The question many will ask after the big funeral procession in Paris is just where the Communist party fits into the picture.

An impressive demonstration, some say, but does it signify a movement of opinion within France against terror and violence, or is it merely a triumph for the French Communist party?

In London, The Daily Express has no reservations.

"It was a considerable triumph for the Communists—no doubt about that at all," says correspondent Rene MacColl.

Other commentators are less clear-cut. The Times, for instance, believes that the French government will find it harder in future to "rattle the skeleton" of communism as a justification for savage repression of demonstrations aimed primarily at the keep-Algeria-French diehards.

Nobody can say for sure exactly how many of those who marched in Tuesday's silent procession to the Pere Lachaise cemetery were Communists. Perhaps they were in the majority—the tight discipline suggests that—but there were certainly plenty of ordinary people who never read a Marxist manifesto in their lives.

For some observers, the most significant inference to be drawn from the demonstration is that France is moving toward a "popular front"—the union of Communist and other left-wing elements that came to power briefly in 1936.

The socialists have been fighting shy of the Communist embrace, but their leader Guy Mollet has said in effect that in an emergency he won't ask anybody who is on his side to show a visiting card—in other words he will accept help even from Communists in the event of a coup by the extreme right.

Some sections of British opinion were baffled and perturbed about the events of last Thursday, when police repression of anti - Fascist demonstrations caused eight deaths and provoked questions about the government seeming more tender with the killers of the Secret Army Organization than with unarmed citizens who opposed it.

The answer most frequently advanced again involves the Communist party.

With a peaceful settlement looming in Algeria, President de Gaulle is thought to be scrupulously avoiding any action that would seen to sign him with the Communists, however good the cause.

In any settlement, the attitude of the French Army Officer Corps may be decisive. Brooding over past defeats and convinced that presence in North Africa is a bulwark against international communism, they might come out openly against de Gaulle if they see any justification for the reproach that the president is "soft" on communism.

ON PARADE — Members of the second survival course at Belleville Armouries are seen being inspected by Brigadier A. J. B. Bailey, C.D., at this morning's inspection. Close to 160 members of the original 200 quota of trainees took part in the passing-out parade which was followed by survival technique demonstrations.

601,200 Claim Benefits on December 29

This compared to 368,000 at Nov. 30 and 754,100 at Dec. 30, 1960.

The bureau said that the Dec. 29 figure included 106,500 seasonal workers. There were 15,000 Nov. 30 and 134,100 Dec. 30, 1960.

Number of weekly beneficiaries numbered 320,200 in December against 209,800 in November and 402,600 in December, 1960.

December payments totalled $29,400,000 compared with $20,900,000 the previous month and $39,800,000 in the same month of 1960.

Snow, Sleet, Thunder Storm Hit New York

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New Yorkers battled up to two feet of new-fallen snow and towering drifts today as a massive storm tapered off after an attack that also included destructive lightning and sleet.

Numerous schools were closed because of treacherous highways.

The weather bureau said there was a chance of more snow Friday in the state's eastern half, which took the brunt of the Valentine Day snow

Two feet of snow buried Tannersville in the Catskills and Kingston, Glens Falls wallowed in 18 inches, Albany in 16 Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Watertown in 11 and more.

Second Survival Course Concluded by Inspection

The second survival course conducted at the Belleville Armories by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was concluded today as the 160 members of the course paraded before Brigadier A. J. B. Bailey, C.D., Commander, Eastern Ontario Area.

The survival course members were inspected by the visiting brigadier following which demonstrations of survival technique were given by the men. The survival course which is ending today commenced six weeks ago.

The inspection by Brigadier Bailey got underway at 10.15 with the parade and demonstrations being all completed by 11 o'clock.

COL. DUFFY ON HAND

Following the inspection and march past the four trainee platoons went through their training demonstrations. No. 2 Platoon did a drill routine, No. 3 Platoon, demonstration traffic control in the event of emergency, No. 4 Platoon did a first aid demonstration while No. 1 Platoon demonstrated rescue technique.

Best all-round Trainee of the second trainee course was Pte. K. N. Blackburn of Belleville while top men in the various platoons were Pte. J P. Anglin, Pte. J. W. Twa, Pte. W. C. Gill and Pte. R. Green.

Alderman Ross Bailey, representing Mayor A. M. Haig, presented first aid certificates to 83 of the trainees, who successfully passed their examinations.

Wednesday evening the course members went through a dress rehearsal for today's passing out ceremonies as they paraded before Major J. B. Black, E.D. acting commanding officer of the regiment.

Three Men Take Finance Co. For Nearly $700

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Three men held up the manager and cashier of a finance company in east London at 4 p.m. Wednesday and escaped with between $500 and $700 in cash.

Kim Keeping, manager of the Beneficial Finance office, said two of the men brandished a sawed-off shotgun and a revolver. They forced their way behind the counter while their companion kept watch at the door.

The robber with the shotgun pushed it against Mr. Keeping's head, making him open several record drawers. The other man emptied the cash drawer.

Before leaving, the men shoved the manager and woman cashier into a rear room and shouted: "Don't come out or you will get it."

"They were so nervous I was afraid the guns might go off," Mr. Keeping said. "I said 'Take the money, take the money, but point that thing at the ceiling.'"

20-Year-Term Given 'Douk' For Bombing

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Fred Davidoff, 38-year-old convicted terrorist, was called a "Judas" by a special assize court judge, Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan, Wednesday and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

In all, Davidoff, Sons of Freedom Doukhobor and father of five, will serve 28 years. The 20-year term, invoked on Davidoff's conviction in the blowing up of government machinery at Winlaw, will be served consecutively with an eight-year term imposed earlier for bombing a railway track at Thrums in the west Kootenays.

Mr. Justice Sullivan told Davidoff he was a Judas who had betrayed others; that he was a dangerous man and should be isolated in prison and denied all visiting privileges.

A man of tremendous bulk, Davidoff refused to stand while the judge passed sentence. He continually slammed his fists on the prisoner's box and shook his fists at the judge and the court.

The judge sentenced Mike Chernenkoff and Paul Chernoff, jointly charged with Davidoff in the bombing, each to eight-year prison terms on the bombing charge and four years concurrent on a charge of illegal possession of explosives.

Davidoff still faces trial on a third terrorist charge.

CONSISTORY THIS WEEK?

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John may call a consistory to create new cardinals this week, usually well-informed Vatican sources said Wednesday night. No official confirmation was available.

Metric System on Upswing Warning in Special Paper To Be Given at Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—The days of the gill, the perch, the peck and the rood may be numbered.

So too, may be the future of the foot, the yard, the pound and the pint.

That's the warning in a special paper about the metric system prepared for next month's Canadian Conference on Education in Montreal.

As the world becomes more and more metric in character, the paper says, Canada may find herself "an uncomfortable small island clinging to an old system of weights and measures that is scarcely adequate for present-day commerce."

The paper, written by Dr. J. T. Henderson of the National Research Council's division of applied physics in Ottawa, is based on conclusions drawn from a special survey of 70 "important, representative" Canadians.

MOST FAVOR STUDY

Dr. Henderson said most people surveyed were in favor of Canada embarking on a study of the advisability of adopting metric units without waiting for Britain or the United States.

The report says 41 per cent of the world's population used the metric system in 1960 compared with 25 per cent in 1920. Fifty-two per cent of world export trade was conducted in metric units in 1960 against 38 per cent in 1920.

In addition, countries with 37 per cent of the world's population now were changing to the metric system.

If the metric system were adopted in Canada the centimetre would be a basic linear measure. It is 0.3937 inches long. The gram would be a basic measure of weight. It is 0.03527 ounces.

And out the window would go the gill, which is one-quarter of a pint; the perch, which is a rod, which is 5½ yards; the peck, which is eight quarts, and the rod, which is one-quarter of an acre.

Woman Says Victim Tried To Rape Her

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — A tiny, 30 - year - old mother of five children, in a hospital-bed statement read Wednesday in Ontario Supreme Court, said she killed a man in her apartment because he threatened to rape her.

Mrs. Maria Gutta has pleaded not guilty to a charge of non-capital murder in connection with the Nov. 3 rifle - slaying of Cordi Cosimo, 36.

The shooting occurred in Mrs. Gutta's Fort William apartment on the eve of Cosimo's scheduled trip to Italy to bring his wife and three children to Canada.

The statement said Cosimo threatened to kill her if she refused an affair with him. She said Cosimo tried to seduce her every time her husband was not present. She didn't tell her husband to avoid family trouble.

Police Constable Nestor Bodnarchuk said that when detectives arrived at her home her dress was ripped to her waist, there were blotched red bruises on her neck, congealed blood on her face and a bullet wound to her arm.

Mrs. Gutta's statement says she was wounded in a struggle for the rifle.

Her trial continues.

WILL USE LIVE VIRUS

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. G. W. O. Moss, Toronto's deputy medical officer of health, said Wednesday that polio vaccine, made from live virus will be introduced on a massive scale in Canada, probably before summer.

Prime Minister Favors Meet Of Heads of Government If Any Progress Can Be Made

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday night the West should agree to a heads-of-government meeting in Geneva if there is any indication from the Soviet bloc that such a meeting would make progress on disarmament.

The "summit" style meeting on disarming was proposed Sunday in a note from Soviet Premier Khrushchev to the 18 countries involved in Geneva disarmament negotiations. Canada is one of them. The West has suggested foreign ministers meet first.

"Should it appear at any stage that a meeting at the heads-of-government level would facilitate further progress on disarmament, such a meeting should be held," Mr. Diefenbaker told a meeting of the Temple Emanu-el.

The prime minister prefaced the remarks by noting that "in recent weeks cracks have begun to appear in the cold war ice which has chilled East-West relations since May, 1960."

DEMONSTRATE FOR FLAG

Outside the temple 12 students, including two girls, demonstrated in favor of a distinctive Canadian flag. They marched up and down for about half an hour, carrying placards in support of their cause and a red and white flag with a green maple leaf in the centre.

The group included Paul Lapointe, president of the Canadian National Rally for a Distinctive Flag, who was ejected from the public galleries in the House of Commons Friday for singing O Canada while the house was in session.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the 18-country talks opening in Geneva March 14 "will start from a base of agreement on broad principles."

"The occasion should be seized to convert these principles into practical measures of disarmament."

But if the foreign ministers detected any sincerity behind Mr. Khrushchev's proposal, the West should be quick to respond.

The prime minister, who received a plaque from the temple congregation for supporting the cause of fellowship among people of different races and beliefs, said "there is a global demand for recognition of brotherhood and an end of discrimination."

For this reason, anxious questions were being raised in every quarter about the usefulness of the United Nations but "the elements of success" still existed in the world organization.

"What we need today is more faith in the United Nations, but there must be a conscious return to its basic purposes and methods—to the ways of mediation, negotiation and conciliation.

TORONTO (CP) — Shapely Joan Clark, a tavern hat-check girl, judo expert and former wrestler, has gone in for art, though not for art's sake.

To 27 - year - old Joan, stripteasing is an art that pays good money and that's why she's one of seven amateurs taking it off this week at a burlesque theatre in hopes of winning a 16-week contract on the United States professional strip circuit.

"Stripping is an art, though I used to think it was a lot of baloney," Joan said. "I like the money and the prospect of travel, and most important of all I want to do it so I can raise my kid."

For the current week's performances, the scale is $165 a week. Afterwards prospects depend on the reaction in the bald-headed rows.

Joan roped in four friends who now are contestants:

Kelly Sinclair (new stage name Kelly Capone); Wendy Barnett (Cherry Brandy), Diana Denomme (Dina Mite), and Elaine Manley, stage-named (apparently in a burst of linguistic description) Fancie Derriere.

Western Football

Aired Over Private Network

VANCOUVER (CP) — A two-month investigation of British Columbia Lions and new television plans for Western Conference football games were the chief topics Wednesday in preliminary talks of the Canadian Football League's annual meeting.

General managers of Canada's nine professional teams met in closed session with finance officers to arrange today's separate meetings of Western and Eastern Football Conferences and the CFL annual meeting Friday and Saturday.

Results of a study of the Lions conducted by an independent committee of three men will be announced Friday night. The study could mean changes in the club's administrative setup.

The television move, expected to be confirmed at meetings today, means that a private network will televise WFC games for at least the next two seasons.

Canadian Television (CTV) a network of eight private stations from Montreal to Vancouver, submitted a bid for WFC rights in the next two seasons.

Hastings (Red) McMahon of Edmonton, chairman of the WFC's television committee, said the CTV offer was "substantially higher" than the amount paid by the CBC for 1961 rights. The CBC said earlier this week it was dropping out of western football for 1962. It paid $160,000 for WFC rights last year.

Two Tied In Ladies Curling

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Fern Irwin of Toronto made two spectacular shots on the eighth end to defeat Mrs. Peggy Wellings of Terrace Bay, Ont., 11-9 in the fifth round of the Dominion Silver D Ontario ladies curling championships Wednesday night.

Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. Wellings are tied with three wins and two losses. The winner of the provincial honor will represent Ontario in the Feb. 26-March 2 Dominion Diamond D national final at Regina.

In Wednesday night's other fifth-round match, Mrs. Edna Johnston's Sudbury Granite Club rink completed a perfect day with an 8-7 win over Mrs Doreen Warren's Eganville crew. Winless in the first three rounds, Mrs. Johnston, Ontario champion in 1958, had earlier in the day beaten Mrs. Irwin's Toronto rink 8-5.

In the fourth round, Mrs. Warren gave the Terface Bay rink its first defeat in the tournament. Mrs. Warren was trailing Ms. Wellings 5-2 after four ends, but went on to win 11-7 when the northwestern girls began missing shots.

PLAN JOINT RULE

TORONTO (CP) — Harness racing in Ontario this year will be supervised jointly by the Ontario Racing Commission and the Canadian Trotting Association. Directors of each organization met here Wednesday and unanimously agreed racing would be under CTA rules and supplemented by ORC directives.

'Bluenose' Puck Star

Scores 76 In 45 Games

By FRANK SULLIVAN

The 23-year-old rightwinger from Dolbeau, Que., cut up for 76 goals in 45 games to lead Amherst Ramblers to their third straight league crown.

It was easily the most spectacular season for a player in Maritime senior circuits. Billy Ford of the old Halifax Atlantics scored 76 goals in 1953-54 but it took him 78 games.

An unusual aspect for Caron's career is that he is a former goalkeeper, which means he perhaps understands netminders' reactions better than most forwards. He played goal six years as a teen-ager after his doctor ruled the after-effects of an illness prevented him from playing forward.

IMPORT FROM EPHL

Although it turned out to be a lucky break for Ramblers who imported him this season from Sault Ste. Marie of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, his scoring was no flash-in-the-pan achievement.

The stocky 185-pounder, who learned to skate on rinks around his home in the Lake St. John area north of Quebec City and has been playing hockey since he was seven, appeared in 24 pro games last season.

He scored 12 goals and had 15 assists in 15 games with Quebec Aces before the American Hockey League club farmed him out to the Sault where he got seven goals in nine games.

There had been some question here whether he had, in fact, equalled Ford's Maritime scoring record. The National Hockey League guide book lists Ford with 77 goals but fficial Maritime statistics make it 76.

Sheppard Leads Pro Golf

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Jaunty Jimmy Demaret and husky John Barnum laid siege to leader Charles Sheppard with five-under par 67s in the first round of the 23rd annual Professional Golfers Association Seniors golf championship Wednesday.

Sheppard, Pittsfield, Mass., veteran, fired a 66 Tuesday when those aged 55 and older played their first round. He leads the field of 392 contestants.

Sheppard's age group plays its second round today and Demaret's and Barnum's section, for player aged 50-54, holds its second round Friday.

The 72-hole competition ends Sunday.

Renfrew May Quit Ottawa Body

PEMBROKE (CP) — Renfrew County recreation directors are considering withdrawing from the Ottawa District Hockey Association and forming a county association.

The main complaint against the district association is that every year minor hockey schedules are interrupted on short notice as teams are ordered to prepare for district finals.

"We ae sick and tired of being told to hurry up and go to Brockville, Smiths Falls or Cornwall," H. G. Wilson, Pembroke recreation director, said Wednesday.

"Renfrew County is one of the largest counties in Ontario and I am sure that we can find plenty of teams to face right here on a more or less local level."

In Deep River, recreation director Jack Cropley agreed with Mr. Wilson.

The Tracks

MIAMI (AP)—Smashing Gail, four-year-old daughter of 1952 Kentucky Derby winner Hill Gail, ran a powerful race and scored a three-length triumph over favored Cicada in Wednesday's $33,900 Columbiana Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Smashing Gail ran the seven furlongs in 1:23 and paid $9.10, $3.10 and $2.70.

Pixie Erin earned $17,150. She paid $8, $5.20 and $4.20. Lincoln Center paid $15 and $7.40 and Dors $5.20.

TAKES B.C. TITLE

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—The Ina Hansen rink of Kimberley won the British Columbia women's curling championship Wednesday with a 7-3 victory over Joyce Smart of Kelowna.

Skate Star Given $500 Grant

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Enock, Toronto speedskater who set a world record in the 3,000-metre event in Norway last week, has been given a $500 grant towards his travelling expenses as recommended by the National Fitness Council, the Commons was told Wednesday.

L. Elston Cardiff, parliamentary secretary to Health Minister Monteith, made the announcement in reply to George Chatterson (PC — Esquimalt-Saanich). It was loudly applauded.

The Fitness Council recommended last week—two days before Enock's record race—that the government provide the emergency grant to enable Enock to travel from Oslo to Moscow for the world speedskating championships later this month.

Enock's record may not be recognized. The governing body for world speedskating has said it was not advised in advance about the race, as required for record recognition.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

For the third time in four years, a "Cinderellla" team has emerged from the hearth of Canadian amateur hockey to go a-questing for world hockey honors. In 1958 the Whitby Dunlops, given little chance to win an Ontario title, shook off the ashes of criticism and came home with the Big Two, the Allan Cup and Bunny Ahearne's world goblet.

In 1959 the Belleville McFarlands weathering the storm of the gibes of "amateur" purists, won the Allan Cup, and bolstered by "worn-out pros" parked the World Trophy on a Quinte mantel.

Last year the Galt Terriers, said by the Ugly Sisters of criticism to be the weakest team ever to seek the national silverware, girded their hockey loins, flung defiance into the teeth of their "belittlers" and won the Allan Cup in their tyro attempt.

The record of the Terriers, if they come home with the world silverware after the tourney at Colorado Springs, scheduled for March 8-18th, will be much more impressive than those of the Dunlops, McFarlands and the title-holding Trail Smoke Eaters.

Manager Len Gaudette, formerly of Trenton, gathered some player ingredients back in 1960 after the Kitchener Dutchmen were forced to the wall by the pros, tossed them together and emerged with a kennel of not too talented, but spirited Terriers.

The Terriers were grouped with an ill-fated Eastern Ontario senior organization that died still-born, and were allowed, on sufferance, to play with the haughty but not hot Western Ontario senior league.

Some of them "laughed when the Terriers sat down to play" but the rest is history. Gaudette's Gay Gauchoes galloped to league victory, and still in the toddling stage as far as experience is concerned, went on to win the Allan bauble.

After their national victory they were named the Canada's representatives to the 1962 world hockey tournament which will be played in the near-stratospheric atmosphere at Colorado Springs and Denver in the shadow of Pike's Peak.

Overseas propaganda, and reports brought back by observers who watched Canadian teams play in Europe, gave Manager Gaudette a touch of an inferiority complex. He dolefully stated that his Terriers could finish fourth or fifth. He feared the Russian, Czech and Swedish clubs, calling them in that order. Galt fans were up in the air.

But that is now water under the bridge. Gaudette and Coach Lloyd Roubell, with the aid of the CAHA, and its blessing, secured reinforcements for the American invasion and things became much brighter in the Terriers' backyard. As a matter of fact CAHA president Jack Roxburgh, who accompanied Trail to Europe last winter, thinks the Terriers are at least 25 per cent stronger than the Smoke Eaters.

But the Terriers still have a problem or two to be ironed out before they hit the Great Adventure. One is a backstop for the veteran goalie Boat Hurley. They are trying to get the sensational twenty-year-old Al Cullen of Woodstock, who starred recently with the Cleveland Barons. Cullen will be available if Woodstock is ousted in the first round of the OHA senior playoffs. Otherwise a Quebec goalie will be called up.

Ghosts of the former Kitchener Dutchmen will be on the misty sidelines cheering the Terriers to victory. For wearing the uniform of Canada will be such former Dutchie greats are Hurley, Ted Maki, Harry Neale, Bill Wylie, Joe Hogan, Bob Mader, Don Rope, "Butch" Martin and Bob McKnight.

They have added Bill Mitchell of Windsor, Jack Douglas of Chatham, Harry Smith of Trail, Jackie McLeod who starred with Trail, Joe Malo, of Chatham, Bobby Brown of Windsor, with the biggest addition of Tod "The Slinker" Sloan, 34-year-old former NHL star who played with the cup-winning Black Hawks last season, then retired.

So a toast to the galloping two-year-olds from Galt which carry the red-white-and-blue colors of Canada in the World Stakes in Colorado Springs. They may not be the best team, talent-wise to represent the Maple Leaf but if they can match the never-say-die spirit of the Dunlops, McFarlands and the Smokies, I'm sure they'll come rolling home with the world bauble, the honor and glory that is the world winner's.

So C'mon Terriers! Keep your chins high and your sticks low. Fire when ready and don't wait to see the whites of their eyes before you shoot. All the puck pooches back home will be rooting for you to bring home the biggest "bone" of all. Don't let us down.

Hawks Squeeze 4-3 Win Over Blues

Close In On Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks haven't lost sight of the chance of improving their current third-place standing before the National Hockey League schedule ends next month.

After the jolt of a double defeat during the weekend, they hung on for a 4-3 victory over New York Rangers Wednesday night and pulled within five points of the second - place Toronto Maple Leafs. Montreal Canadiens remain 14 points ahead and not entirely out of reach.

The Chicago game, the only NHL fixture of the night, dropped the fourth - place Rangers 10 points behind the Hawks and a perilous two points ahead of Detroit Red Wings in the battle for the last playoff spot.

The Hawks started with a bang, striking for four goals in the first 28 minutes. However, they had to snuff out a late New York rally to come out on top.

Ab McDonald's 17th goal of the season put the Hawks into the lead late in the first period. Then Bill Hay, Bobby Hull and Ron Murphy ran the count to 4-0 by the 8:40 mark of the second.

HULL GETS 34TH

Hull's goal was his 34th of the season — tops in the league—and his 19th in 16 games.

Guy Gendron put the Rangers on the scoresheet about a minute after Murphy's marker. It was Gendron's first goal since Dec. 12.

Ken Schinkel and Earl Ingarfield counted midway through the final period to reduce Chicago's lead to 4-3.

The Rangers kept up the pressure, but a minor penalty to defenceman Irv Spencer — only the fourth infraction of the game — at 18:18 just about killed their chances.

Andy Bathgate of the Rangers, the league's leading pointgetter, drew an assist — his 48th of the season — on Ingarfield's goal. That leaves him just one assist shy of the league record for right wingers set by Gordie Howe of Detroit last season.

Bathgate also is within reach of the league's over - all mark for assists in one season, 58 set by centre Jean Beliveau of Montreal last season.

Marcel Paille, playing his fifth consecutive game in the New York nets as Lorne (Gump) Worsley's stand-in, appeared jittery in the first half. Then he settled down and wound up with 32 saves, 19 in the last period.

Glenn Hall had 35 saves in the Chicago nets.

There are two games scheduled tonight. One of them features the Rangers and Red Wings at Detroit. The last-place Boston Bruins will be at Montreal in the other.

Tiger-Cat's Trimble

Urges Seasonal Sectional Sked

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Jim Trimble, the candid coach of Hamilton Tiger - Cats, Wednesday night suggested a revised Grey Cup playoff system for the Canadian Football League calling for a schedule that would cover summer and spring.

He made the remarks in a 40-minute anecdote - crammed speech at the annual awards dinner of the Montreal Sportsmen's Association, a $7-a-plate affair that drew 475 persons.

Trimble said the CFL schedule should be split into two sections on a seasonal rather than geographical basis, lumping together teams in the Eastern and Western conferences in interlocking play.

Under his proposal the first section would extend from April to July and the second from August to November with the Grey Cup pitting the two champions against each other.

"There would be no conflict with hockey and although it would mean cutting into the baseball season I don't think in any event that the people of Canada are supporting minor league baseball."

EXPECTS TROUBLE

Trimble said he was springing the plan almost spontaneously and perhaps with tongue-in-cheek he added it would probably get him into hot water with Hamilton president Jake Gaudaur and CFL commissioner Syd Halter of Winnipeg.

"But I've been through all that before."

Last year, marked by the innovation of East-West interlocking play, the CFL schedule opened Aug. 11 and wound up Nov. 4. Trimble's proposal in effect is to tack four additional months onto the start.

It might mean virtually doubling the total number of games. The Eastern schedule contained 14 for each club last season and the Western one 16.

Trimble promised that the Ticats will give a hot reception to Sandy Stephens, the all-America quarterback from Minnesota bagged by Montreal Alouettes last month.

"We'll find out if he can pass. We're going to undress him and see how he takes it. I know it's not the sporting thing to say, of course, but let's not kid ourselves that's the way professional sport is."

More than 150 Montreal athletes, representing 11 sports, were honored by the association for national championship performances in individual or team sports.

In Vancouver, neither Halter nor Gaudaur, attending the Canadian Football League's annual meeting, was available for comment on Trimble's remarks.

Score Was 3-0

Bearcats Lick Terriers

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Port Arthur Bearcats of the Thunder Bay Senior Hockey League defeated Galt Terriers 3-0 Wednesday night in the first western game of the Terriers' exhibition series on their way to the world hockey championships.

The 2,400 fans saw Bearcats goalie Bob Kilgour turn in a standout performance, blocking 34 Terriers shots. Fort William Beavers goalie Ken Bruley stopped 17 for Galt.

Regular Terriers goalie Boat Hurley did not arrive in time but is expected to be in action tonight when the Terriers play at Fort Frances, Ont., in the second game of their 14-game western tour.

After a slow first period, Watson opened the scoring at 1:41 of the second.

Terriers' Tod Sloan figured prominently in the next two Bearcats goals. He was sitting out a penalty when Olney scored on a power play. Later he allowed Cliff Berini to steal the puck from him while the Bearcats were a man short. Berini set Maxwell up on a breakaway for the third goal.

Thirteen penalties were called, seven on the Terriers, as the teams played under international rules.

Taller, Heavier, Younger Team

Red Puckists Put Accent On Youth

OTTAWA (CP) — Prospects are for a taller, heavier and younger Soviet entry in the world hockey championships at Colorado Springs, Colo., next month, says the latest report here.

Let's hope it will also be better than the last five entries and it probably will have a generous injection of youth.

Russia, which entered world competition with a bang in 1954 by dumping Canada decisively, won again in 1956. But the last two years it finished third behind Czechoslovakia and a re-shaped squad is being trained now, says an article in the February edition of Soviet Union Wednesday, published by the embassy here.

Sixteen youngsters or "students" are among the 29 candidates for the 17-man team Russia will send to the world tournament March 7-18 at Colorado Springs, international complications permitting.

Inability of the East German entry to gain American travel permits has prompted Russia to request twice that the tournament be transferred to Moscow. There have been hints that Red-bloc countries might boycott the Colorado tournament if East Germany is barred.

HAVE 20-TEAM LEAGUE

Russia has a 20-club organization playing in 14 cities from Riga on the Baltic coast to Novosibirsk in the heart of Siberia. Action in a double round-robin started Oct. 21 and finishes in April.

That's how the U.S.S.R national team candidates are getting in shape before the series of international matches to decide the final 17 players. The 29 range from 20 to 32 years old with experience from four to 15 years.

Some familiar names will probably make this year's team. Solly Sologubov, defence veteran rated good enough to make the NHL, is missing but Ivan Tregubov, 32, is listed on a combination with student Alexander Ragulin, 22. Tregubov won best-player awards in world competition in 1958 and 1961.

Nikolai Puchkov, the agile goaltendtr is still flying at 32. He's a veteran of the 1956 Soviet victory.

Nine forward positions are open for 18 candidates, some with previous championship experience. A trio from the Moscow Spartak club is regarded as the first line and includes twin brothers Yevgeni and Boris Mayorov as wingers. Vyacheslav Starshinov is at centre. Boris Mayorov is labelled as the "hope of Soviet hockey," with some resemblance to Vsevold Bobrov, a former star who was the kingpin on the early Soviet teams.

Chess Results

STOCKHOLM (CP - AP)— Bobby Fischer of the United States and Abe Yanofsky of Canada resume play today in a 12th-round match that could move Fischer into the lead of the interzonal chess tournament here.

Fischer had a plus-pawn over Yanofsky when play was interrupted Wednesday but the Winnipeg grandmaster still hoped to salvage a draw with the 18-year-old former U.S. champion from Brooklyn, N.Y.

A victory for Fischer woud put him ahead of the current leader, Wolfgang Uhlmann of East Germany, who has completed two more games than Fischer but leads him by only one-half point.

Uhlmann, who defeated Miroslav Filip of Yugoslavia in his 12th complete game Wednesday, has 8½ points. Fischer, although playing in the 12th round, has had one bye and thus has completed only 10 games. He has eight points.

NOTE:—Belleville finishes in first place, ahead of Kingston, by virtue of a better goals average, .672 for Belleville and .668 for Kingston.

Pete Weston, sorrel-top centre on the Belleville McFarlands' first line, has captured the team scoring championship for the 1961-62 season, according to statistics compiled here today.

PETE WESTON

Playing his second year of Junior "B" hockey, Weston took part in all 22 of the Macs' 22 scheduled games and compiled a record of 23 goals and 37 assists, for 60 points. Weston's high scoring helped the Macs to their first league pennant.

Linemates Dave Smith and Moe Hunter took second and third spots, Smith with 42 points, including 21 goals, and Hunter with 41 points. Team captain Larry Mavety proved his value to the club by picking up 37 scoring points from his defence spot, including 14 goals, to grab fourth spot.

"Pug" Kellar paced the club in goals scored, with 26, while Weston's 37 assists gave him top honors in that department. Mavety was the team badman, edging Hunter with 117 minutes served to Moe's 102.

Pepsi's Play Round Robin In Playdowns

The Belleville Pepsi's will play a round-robin series with Lindsay and Kingston to decide a representative in the OHA Intermediate "A" playdowns.

The series will be home-and-home affairs.

No dates were set at the league meeting held last night. These will be arranged, it is stated, after the Junior "B" meeting slated for tonight at the Recreation Centre.

The Kingston entry, which was not represented at the meeting, stated previously it could not get home dates this month.

However Pepsi's coach Jean-Paul Lamirande wants to get his team in action and will likely play here next Wednesday or Friday against Lindsay or Kingston.

One entry will be the Toronto Macedonians whose request to enter Allan Cup play was turned down by the OHA.

Coach Lamirande is confident the big red team will emerge the winners in the east. The team is healthy with no injuries and ready and rarin' to go.

GAIN SEMI-FINAL

GLASGOW (AP) — Standard Liege, Belgian soccer champions, gained the semi-final of the European Cup Wednesday night by defeating Glasgow Rangers 4-3 on the aggregate of two matches. Liege won the first leg 4-1 last week and lost the second 2-0 Wednesday night.

Dark Blues Import Boat

OXFORD, England (AP)— Oxford University has called in the cops to guard its special made-in-Italy "torpedo" boat.

Group Capt. Jumbo Edwards, the Oxford coach, decided to ask for police protection to keep the craft unharmed for the April 7 boat race against Cambridge. An Oxford training boat was damaged recently by persons unknown.

"With all this disgraceful sabotage going on, we must be very careful," Edwards said.

Whether this would mean a special swoop by Scotland Yard or just occasional visits by the man on the beat was not made clear. A police spokesman in nearby Wallingford said any measures that were taken would naturally be kept secret.

The torpedo boat, rounder and more tube-like than the conventional British craft, is in the London docks awaiting clearance. It was built at Donoratico, south of Livorno. Italy used a similar boat in the 1960 Olympics at Rome.

"It will sink," said Cambridge President Roger Nicholson. "It will go down with all hands."

Last year, Oxford tried revolutionary shovel-type oars —and finished floundering in Cambridge's wake. Oxford won in 1960 and 1950.

Woodstock Whips Maroons

CHATHAM (CP)—Woodstock Athletics fired four goals within a minute and 36 seconds in the third period Wednesday night to defeat Chatham Maroons 6-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior game.

The Athletics broke a 2-2 tie at 9:01 of the third period on a goal by Tom Wilson, his second of the game. Rio Caron scored 22 seconds later and Eddie Harrison tallied at 10:02. Ed Davis completed the uprising at 10:36 with his second goal of the game.

Bob Pole fired a first-period goal for the Maroons and playing coach Ted Power tallied in the second.

WATERLOO TOPS OAVC

GUELPH (CP)—University of Waterloo Warriors had a 51-point second half Wednesday night and defeated Ontario Agricultural and Veterinary College Redmen 90-44 in a Senior Intercollegiate Basketball game. Guard Ray Palmer led the Warriors with 28 points — his season's high—and teammate Mike Bosch scored 14.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

All of a sudden Canada seems to be spouting athletes of world championship calibre. And with the federal government's $5,000,000 - a - year program to aid amateur sport and promote physical fitness now off the ground, the picture is somewhat rosy.

This country hasn't had it so good since the 1920s and 1930s when Canadian athletes went to Olympic and British Empire Games and proved they were equal to the world's best. There was a flock of famous names in those days.

Now, Canada has three active world champions in three different sports and a few others who could be right up there in the immediate future. And they are generally in sports of tremendous public appeal.

There is 18 - year - old swimmer Mary Stewart of Vancouver, world record - holder in the women's 100 - yard butterfly. This youngster has gradually been improving since 1959 and could be a gold medal winner in the British Empire Games at Perth, Australia, next November.

SPRING RECORD

There is track star Harry Jerome, also Vancouver, co-holder of the world mark in the 100-metre sprint with Armin Hary of Germany. He could be another gold medallist at Perth

The latest is 27 - year - old Australian - born Paul Enock of Toronto, fastest speedskater in the world at 3,000 metres. Enock, who started cycling in 1958 as training for speed skating, competed for Canada in cycling in the 1958 B.E Games at Cardiff, Wales, and conceivably could represent the country in speedskating at the 1964 Olympics in Austria.

Coming up fast and tabbed as potential world class in track are 18 - year - old Bruce Kidd and Bill Crothers, University of Toronto students who have been meeting international competition the last year. They have taken their beatings, but they've shown enough potential to compete with the best.

Just three months ago Crothers was rated fifth best in the world in the 400 - metre dash and Kidd was placed seventh among three - milers and 10th among 5,000 - metre men. In 1960, Kidd was unranked and Crothers was 11th on the 400-metre list.

Others with potential to be world champions include the pairs figure - skating team of Maria and Otto Jelinek of Oakville, Ont., and Don Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., in the men's singles. Jackson is considered probably the best free skater in the world.

Another pair — Virginia Thompson of St. Catharines, Ont., and Bill McLachlan of Toronto—were runners-up in the world skating dancing championship in 1960. They could reach the top this year.

Here are a few of the men and women who won gold medals in Olympic and British Empire Games in the 1920s and 1930s:

Percy Williams of Vancouver, Olympic double sprint champion in 1928 and winner of the B.E. Games 100-yard dash in 1930; Ethel (The Saskatoon Lily) Catherwood, women's high jump winner in the 1928 Olympics; Duncan McNaughton of Vancouver, Olympic high jump champion in 1932; Horace (Lefty) Gwynne of Hamilton Olympic bantamweight boxing champion in 1932; canoeing's Frank Amyot of Ottawa, 1936 Olympic winner in the 1,000-metre Canadian single.

Wrestlers Don Stockton of Montreal and Dan McDonald of Toronto, Olympic winners in 1928 and 1932, respectively; Alex Wilson of Montreal, 440-yard winner in the 1934 B.E. Games; Phil Edwards of Montreal, who ran for British Guiana, 880-yard gold medal winner in the 1934 B.E. Games; marathoner Harold Webster and Syl Apps—both from Hamilton —in the pole vault in the 1934 B.E. Games.

There were others—Bob Pirie and Alfie Phillips, both of Toronto, in swimming and diving —Mickey Bergin of Montreal in boxing.

Canada can't expect to match this prodigious list in the next few years, but it definitely appears to be making a recovery after a slow start following the Second World War.

Austrian Star Wins Second Title

CHAMONIX, France (AP) — Austria's Marianne Jahn came from behind Wednesday to capture the special slalom and her second title o fthe week at the World Ski Games.

Miss Jahn, 19, won the giant slalom Sunday and seems well on the way to a third gold medal in the combined.

In Wednesday's competition she had a combined time of 94.84 seconds for the two, 51-gate heats. Marielle Goitschell, 16, of France, the only girl among the 46 entries who seriously challenged Miss Jahn, placed second in 96.3.

The best Canadian skier was Linda Crutchfield of Shawinigan, Que., who finished 21st with 123.41. Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., was 30th with 146.76.

Vicky Rutledge of Ottawa was among those disqualified for missing gates in the first heat and Nancy Holland of Montreal was disqualified for missing gates in the second heat.

Miss Jahn is not considered likely to win Saturday's downhill but if she places among the top 10 she should have no difficulty taking first place in the combined points standings.

'Unsinkable Molly Brown' Staged With Lavish Hand

The Theatre Guild and Dore Schary will present Tammy Grimes in the musical comedy "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" at the O'Keefe Centre beginning Monday evening and running through Saturday, March 3.

"The Unsinkable Molly Brown," with music written by Meredith Willson, composer of "The Music Man," and book by Richard Morris, comes to Toronto directly following over a year's run at the Winter Garden Theatre in New York City.

Playing the title role, Tammy Grimes has probably the most arduous part ever given a feminine lead. She attacks it with fervor and great good humor. As an eccentric hoyden, she plays the first one-third of the show in her bare feet, all the time yearning for wealth which she has translated into terms of a brass bed and cups and saurcers which match.

The show's main clear register belongs to Harve Presnell, opera tenor, who plays and sings the stalwart Johnny—and does both in the necessary stalwart manner. "Colorado, My Home," is a robust number with interesting echo effects; he makes "I'll Never Say No To You," and "Chick-a-Pen" winning numbers, more in the ballad style.

Miss Grimes has a wistful song called "My Own Brass Bed," which is in Willson's best manner and in the stirring "I Ain't Down Yet," she exposes her philosophy in vivid terms.

From the standpoint of production, the show is beautiful and elaborate, with designer Oliver Smith contributing Rocky mountains, Leadville saloons, Paris salons and miners' cabins with a lavish hand.

HORSE RETIRED

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Intentionally, who won the Seminole Handicap Saturday by eight lengths and became a favorite for the $100,000-added Widener, has been retired to stud.

Trainer Johnny Nerud said Wednesday the six-year - old horse will be sent to W. L. McKnight's Tartan Farm near Ocala, Fla. Intentionally, co-holder with Swaps of the world mile record of 1:33¼, will stand as a syndicated Florida stallion.

Intentionally retires with total winnings of $652,258, bulk of which was earned for Harry Isaacs of Baltimore. McKnight, a Minneapolis and Miami Beach industrialist, purchased controlling interest in the horse from Isaacs last October. The syndication price was $750,000 with 30 shares of $25,000 each.

Started Bronzing Shoes as Hobby, Now Does Canada-Wide Business

MONTREAL (CP) — David Shuster is a bronzer who started his trade as a hobby and now takes orders from Halifax to Vancouver and even the Northwest Territories.

It was a desire to Preserve his daughter Sandra's baby shoes—she's now a pretty teenage brunette—that led Mr. Shuster to develop the art into a trade.

When relatives and friends showed enthusiasm, he expanded his workshop until today he spends the best part of his day at the trade. He can turn out 125 pairs of bronzed baby shoes in a week besides other work.

But it isn't only baby shoes that have passed through Shuster process. He has converted a pheasant wish bone into a toothpick holder, pairs of father and son shoes into a lamp stand and a sea horse into a brooch

The craftsman has bronzed hockey pucks, the boxing gloves that Montreal's Bob Cleroux used to win the Canadian heavyweight championship and wedding slippers.

Working alone in his neat shop, Mr. Shuster says his craft has taught him that sentimentality is not a lost emotion in today's troubled world.

RARE HOBBY A PROFIT — A desire to preserve his daughter's baby shoes by bronzing them has turned into a profit-making venture for David Shuster of Montreal. With orders coming in from as far as Halifax and Vancouver, Mr. Shuster has bronzed many items including hockey pucks, boxing gloves and wedding slippers. He shows his grown daughter Sandra her bronzed baby slippers. —(CP Photo).

AT THE BELLE — Vera Miles portrays an alcoholic wife, in a new adaptation of Fanny Hurst's love epic. Memorable love scenes with Susan Hayward and John Gavin highlight the tense action of "Back Street", in Color, playing Today, Friday and Saturday, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

AT THE PARK — Jayne Mansfield and Ray Danton, who plays the title role, are pictured in a scene from Allied Artists' "The George Raft Story", now at the Park Theatre for its first showings. Miss Mansfield and Danton head a star-studded cast. On the same program Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys in "Dig That Uranium".

Wife of President Made Excellent Guide in Tour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Wednesday night's Tour of the White House produced by CBS and shared by NBC, provided an opportunity to stroll through the home of U.S. presidents in the most informed company possible, its current mistress.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, obviously reveres the old place and has accumulated a vast store of information about its history. She thus was a marvellous guide.

It was informative, entertaining television at its best and credit is due largely to the easy, authoritative commentary by Mrs. Kennedy as the cameras travelled through the public rooms of the president's house.

The program used many old engravings and drawings to show changes in the White House over the years.

There was one effective sequence of Lincoln portraits made each year between 1861 and 1865, during which his face changed from that of a vital man in middle life to an old, haggard and tired one.

Recommended tonight:

CBS Reports 10-11 EST — Eisenhower on the presidency, last of a three-part series of conversations with the former president.

AT THE PARK — Dancer Barrie Chase, who became an overnight sensation as Fred Astaire's dancing partner on TV, has a starring role in Allied Artists' "The George Raft Story", now at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville showing. On the same program Leo Gorcey and the Bowery Boys in "Dig That Uranium".

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cricket, otherwise known as Connie Stevens, was back at work this week after a two - month absence, but she was chirping an unhappy tune.

Connie and Warner Brothers have been feuding, but she returned to the "Hawaiian Eye" TV series for an amazingly sensible reason:

"I signed the contract with my eyes open, and I intend to honor it."

The blonde from Brooklyn has been in the news lately with her sudden flight to Paris with Glenn Ford and her off-again, on-again relations with the studio.

Concerning the former, she lapsed into Hollywoodese: "Mr. Ford and I are good friends, and that is all. I go out with other men and I don't know if he goes out with other women; I've never asked him.

"I just got over one big romance. I'm not going to start another one right now." She was engaged last year to actor Gary Clark.

On her studio relations, she was more explicit.

"Things don't always turn out the way you hope they do when you sign a movie contract. You thing you are going to be given a chance to grow and develop, but instead you find you're used as a commodity.

"I want to do features. (sound reminiscent?) But it has been over a year since I made Susan Slade, and the studio hasn't had a thing for me.

"It has been established that I am a recording star. Yet I don't know what I am doing. I would like the chance to have some expert coaching and development so I can mature as a singer. I would also like to learn dancing, but the studio has no one to teach it.

"That is the main thing: I want to grow. I'm 23 years old and I want to learn everything I can. I'm not interested in the present. I don't even care about money. I just want to last in this business."

Dejordy's 8th Shutout

Nears Gordie Bell Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

But the Barons are still in second place in the Western Division. They can't seem to make up much ground on the leading Buffalo Bisons, who have won 11 of their last 13 games.

The Bisons continued their streak Wednesday night, with goaltender Denis Dejordy registering his eighth shutout of the season in a 4-0 conquest of Providence Reds. Cleveland stayed three points back with a 3-2 victory over Springfield Indians, leaders of the Eastern Division. Hershey Bears beat Pittsburgh Hornets 3-1.

Dejordy's shutout moved him to within one of the league record for a single season, nine, set by Gordie Bell of the Bisons in the 1942-43 season.

Billy Dea scored twice for Buffalo, while Brian Cullen and Brian Smith got singles.

NORWAY VIEWERS

Number of television receiving licences in Norway reached 107,000 at the start of 1962, compared with 68,680 six months earlier.

May Sell Vancouver Franchise

VANCOUVER (CP) — President Tom Fyfe of the Pacific National Exhibition indicated Wednesday the city - operated agency will sell its Western Hockey League franchise to operate the Vancouver Canucks within a matter of months.

He told a board of directors meeting the PNE has received serious approaches by responsible business groups for the franchise but added no announcement would be made until firm agreement is reached.

The PNE bought the franchise in 1957 for $150,000 and there has since been heavy pressure, led by Ald. Frank Fredrickson, a former National League star, for the sale of the franchise.

Fyfe said there had been only one written application for the franchise, a $45,000 offer by businessman Harry Ornest of Vancouver last August, which was rejected.

Long Beach, Calif., paint manufacturer Art Edwards is reported to have made an offer "exceeding $80,000." Former Canucks coach Art Chapman, who works for Edwards, said earlier in a telephone interview the offer has been mailed to Canucks' general manager Dave Dauphinee.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

For February 16

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Day to stress beauty, optimism. Planet Venus moves into section of your chart which highlights the "unseen." Thus, be prepared to evaluate the psychic . . . as well as actual. See true beauty.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Resolve to spend at least part of weekend getting ideas, goals on paper. You could become depressed if you feel time is being wasted . . . use Taurus determination to accomplish. Socialize tonight.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Not so much a matter of who is right in regard to possible minor dispute . . . but how matter is finally settled. Be diplomatic, maintain dignity, avoid harsh words . . . you ultimately gain.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Excellent for judging which road you want to take in the future. Trust intuitive intellect . . . do not permit others to discourage you . . . you are on the right track. Stress confidence.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): If others are sincere in desire to help, you should accept aid graciously . . . pride should not be permitted to stand in way of cementing friendship, love. Open arms, heart. Tonight . . . exciting.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): If you seek magical formulas for achieving results . . . disappointment will loom in your path. Use Virgo ability to analyze, size up situation. Then act on knowledge . . . not wishful thinking.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Extraordinary results can be obtained if you take time to be quiet within—to allow personal feelings, judgment to make themselves known. Be true to yourself . . . use common sense.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Moon in favorable aspect to your sign. This means creative activity, romance, rediscovery of loved one in spotlight. Be willing to give of yourself. Accept new ideas, persons.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Do not permit determination to be transformed into obstinacy. Make your point . . . afterwards be willing to co-operate with majority opinion. Take care of details. Tonight, relax!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) The easiest way is not always the best. Today . . . best to check yourself on temptation to follow get-rich-quick schemes. Your cycle soon moves up . . . meantime, gather facts, ammunition.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Slightest provocation could cause others to "fly off handle." Misunderstandings abound unless you make intentions crystal-clear. Watch words, writings, actions . . . be willing to double check.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20): Strive for objectivity. You may not agree with all associates, friends say. But be willing to fight for their right to express opinions. Trust inner feelings . . . accept love.

• • •

If your birthday is today . . . you are eternally young as far as ideas are concerned. You are the humanist . . the individual who is more interested in the welfare of man than in new refrigerators or automobiles. In other words . . the true idealist! Year to prepare, to get house in order.

• • •

General Tendencies: Many persons take action based on misunderstanding. All could benefit from study of today Aquarius interpretation. Wonderful for those who work with imagination . . . who call on creative resources for self-expression. People tend to seek escape from realism.

Spending on New Equipment, Arms Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence department spending on new weapons and equipment will fall in 1962-63 to its lowest point since the period between the Second World War and Korean War.

Estimates of federal spending in the year beginning April 1, 1962, presented to Parliament Monday, show that expenditures for this purpose will be $282,000,000 out of a total defence outlay of $1,675,792,175.

Officials said today they have been studying this problem seriously for years and that there appear to be only two alternatives: A big manpower cut in the 135,000 - man armed forces or a substantial increase in the defence budget.

The government—the present one and its Liberal predecessor — has not accepted either of these alternatives. A 15,000-man increase in the armed forces was authorized last September and a fairly tight lid has been kept on the defence budget, which has not varied greatly for five years.

PROBLEM WORSENS

Defence authorities said the problem is becoming more difficult all the time. Not only does it cost more to maintain and operate the forces — pay, food, fuel and the like — but the cost of weapons and equipment goes up about five per cent every year.

As a percentage of the total defence budget, expenditures on weapons and equipment have fallen from 38 per cent in 1952-53 to 17 per cent in 1962-63.

A fairly common saying in the defence department is that at the present rate Canada eventually may have the best clothed, and paid servicemen in the world — but without any weapons.

Need Will Be Twice As Great In 1972

TORONTO (CP)—By 1972 Ontario will likely need twice as many teachers and schools as there are today Agriculture Minister W. A. Stewart told the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities here Tuesday.

He said that agriculture now is a subject in 21 collegiate institutions and 84 high schools in Ontario. About 10,000 boys are enrolled in agricultural classes in secondary schools.

"I have been advised that in the revised secondary school program agriculture may be offered in the five-year course of the arts and science branch," he said. "It will also be offered in the four-year course of the arts and science branch and in the four-year course of the engineering, technology and trades branch."

Mr. Stewart said that in the last year grants of $458,000 were made to 241 agricultural societies, $45,000 to horticultural societies and $9,500 to plowing associations.

Nepal Plagued By Guerrilla Attacks

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Himalayan kingdom of Nepal, plagued by guerrilla attacks, seems to be drifting toward a situation similar in some ways to that in South Viet Nam.

In Nepal the guerrilla warfare is on much smaller scale and the rebel forces are much weaker than in South Viet Nam but the legal government is weaker also.

Nepal's King Mahendra appears to lack the resources or communications to check the sporadic attacks. His enemies are former members of the parliamentary government which the king abolished Dec. 15, 1960, when he assumed personal control of Nepal. Communists have tried to join the group but the others are shunning them.

Some Nepalis fear an increase of guerrilla attacks and a progressive breakdown of law and order in Nepal.

The rebels hope their demand for land reform will swing the people to them; but there is no sign that the people are in revolt against the king, whom they revere as the incarnation of the Hindu god Vishnu.

Even without a revolt the rebels will be able to continue their guerrilla raids for three reasons.

One is the general apathy of a pastoral people living in isolated communities. Another is inadequate communications in a virtually roadless state. The third is the existence of a wide-open border with India.

The Nepali government charges India with allowing rebels to operate from Indian soil. The Indian government replies it is not supporting the rebels.

Members Get Valentine Cards From Margey

TORONTO (CP) — Valentine cards with a difference have been sent to the 98 members of the Ontario legislature.

The cards are the latest and most original step in the battle to legalize the sale of colored margarine in Ontario.

"We thought it might be rather amusing," said Mrs. Walter Cole, chairman of the Toronto Margarine Committee, which sent the cards.

The verse printed on the heart reads:

"Roses are red,
Violets are blue,
Margarine's not yellow,
But neither are you.
So please sir member,
We will give you our heart,
If changing this law,
You promise to start.
Around your finger
Please tie this string,
Till in the House
This law you'll bring."

The card is signed "Love, Margey".

My Fair Lady Record Run Is Closed

Violation of a theatre order to halt the sale of "twofers"—two admissions for the price of one—and advertising not approved by the theatre brought about the order to halt the longest run a musical has ever had on Broadway, almost six years.

The theatre owners are reported to want My Fair Lady out to make way for Richard Rodgers's musical, No Strings.

My Fair Lady opened March 15, 1956. Tuesday night's performance was its 2,457th, the record for a musical and third among all productions ever staged on the great white way. Only Life With Father, 3,213 performances, and Tobacco Road, 3,182, rank ahead of My Fair Lady.

New Zealand Was Pioneer In State Health Services, Made Universal in 1938

Representatives of the medical profession appearing before Canada's royal commission on health services have indicated opposition to state control. This story describes New Zealand's 24-year-old government-run medical scheme.

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND (CP)—Canadian doctors who visited New Zealand last year for the British Medical Association conference studied the state health service in force here.

Whether any of its features will be recommended by the current Canadian royal commission on health services is not known, but it has been widely examined abroad as a system of comprehensive health benefits for all.

The New Zealand service has, indeed, become an essential feature of national life. But it still does not give universal satisfaction and amendments are under urgent consideration.

New Zealand was a pioneer in introducing comprehensive state health services. The system was made universal under a 1938 act and extensions have been made at intervals for more than 20 years.

There is no complicating division of responsibility between central and provincial governments, such as exists in Canada. The entire service is operated by the national government.

NO MEDICAL BILLS

The system ensures that the average family never has any problem about medical bills—the state services look after them. The cost of health does not enter into the budget calculations of most New Zealand families.

On the other hand the cost is ultimately paid for through taxes. The growing cost of social services, including health, is a major government headache. Social service costs are estimated at nearly 20 per cent of national income, imposing a brake on economic expansion.

That is a point of interest to any country considering such a system. It has been found in New Zealand that once a benefit is introduced, it takes such a firm hold on public demand that no government ever has courage to curtail it.

The government pays about $1 toward the cost of every consultation at a doctor's office and higher rates for home visits. In poorer districts this is often the full cost. Elsewhere doctors are permitted to charge additional amounts paid by the patient.

FREE IN HOSPITAL

In Auckland the average extra charge has just been increased to $1 from about 60 cents. The surcharge is higher for consultations with specialists but all specialist services are entirely free in public hospitals. The system is flexible since patients may choose their own doctor and switch from one to another without any formalities.

All attention in public hospitals is free, including surgery, nursing and board and meals. There are, however, usually waiting lists for admission. Those who do not want to wait may go to private hospitals where part of the fees are paid by the state.

Maternity, medical, hospital and other charges are free in public nursing homes. In private institutions the state pays part of the cost.

All children, even before school age, are eligible for free dental treatment. At schools this is handled by a chain of clinics staffed by dental nurses under the supervision of dentists. Older children up to 16 are treated by private dentists.

DRUGS ARE FREE

On production of a doctor's prescription, any pharmacy will supply drugs and other medicines free, recovering the cost from the government. This has become the most costly and controversial aspect of the scheme. Critics say patients demand medicines from their doctors whether needed or not and that New Zealand has become a nation of hypochondriacs with bathroom cupboards crammed with scarcely-used bottles of medicine for every conceivable complaint. Expensive new "wonder drugs" have further added to the cost.

From 1951-52 to 1960-61 the cost of services jumped from $26,845,000 to $61,270,000. A breakdown of 1960-61 costs (with 1951-52 bracketed): medical $12,390,000 ($7,965,000); hospital $16,520,000 ($6,195,000); maternity $4,720,000 ($2,360,000); pharmaceutical $19,675,000 ($7,080,000); other, including dental, $7,965,000 ($3,245,000).

The cost of the drug benefit continues to soar fastest. Forecasts have been made that this year it may go as high as $26,500,000. One suggestion is that a token charge be imposed, as in Britain, for every prescription. But even so mild a curtailment would bring strong opposition and the government is likely to hesitate before imposing such a check.

Seems As If This Adds Up To Good Reason

UPTON, England (AP)—Upton's fire station is closing for lack of business.

In the 52 years since the station was built no one could remember the brigade being called out;

The old fire cart can't be brought out anyway because the doorway has been bricked up;

And the only fireman left is George Stimpson who is 80 and lives five miles away.

Dr. Brock Chisholm Thinks Mankind's Greatest Error Copying Ancestral Patterns

By TOM WATT

VICTORIA (CP)—Dr. Brock Chisholm is a soft-spoken philosopher who says things that whip up the blood pressure and pierce public apathy.

He has fought complacency with controversy for 17 years and while there are people willing to listen to his philosophies the battle will continue.

"People ask me what I think about something," he said in an interview. "I can't tell them half-truths to protect the feelings of others who might disagree. If I did this, then I would be shirking my responsibility."

Dr. Chisholm burst into the headlines in 1945 when he was deputy minister of national health.

SANTA CLAUS SPEECH

He was invited by the William Allen White Psychiatric Foundation to make speeches in Washington and New York, and this was regarded as tantamount to recognition by American medical science of Dr. Chisholm as one of the continent's leading psychiatrists.

He pulled no punches in these speeches.

Dr. Chisholm said children should not be told about Santa Claus and that he doubted the value of church and Sunday school teachings for a humanity fated to fight world wars every 20 years or so.

While members of Parliament demanded that he be removed, Dr. Chisholm's office was inundated with requests for him to make speeches.

Most of the requests came from religious organizations.

Dr. Chisholm held his position and continued making speeches until he was named director-general of the United Nations World Health Organization.

CAN'T SAY NO

He held this post for five years until he retired to Vancouver Island and built a ranch-style wooden house 25 miles from here.

His retirement has not been a quiet one.

He still makes many trips throughout Canada and the United States and travels to Europe at least twice a year to lecture or act as a chairman of meetings.

"I find it hard to refuse requests. Sometimes I would just like to sit back and enjoy these beautiful surroundings, but I just can't say no to people"

In his pictures, Dr. Chisholm has the appearance of a tough, uncompromising business executive. His neatly trimmed moustache and receding grey hair give him a distinguished look.

This, and the many controversial statements he has made, puts someone who meets him in person for the first time somewhat off guard.

HAS COURAGE

He proved to be a quiet-spoken and rather frail-framed man. He did not fit the preconceived pattern of the unrelenting crusader.

But, when he begins to discuss his theories, it becomes abundantly clear that he has not the slightest doubt that they are right and that he has the courage to express them in public without fear of the attacks of irate critics.

Dr. Chisholm has made only one try at election in politics. He stood for election as a Progressive Conservative candidate in the suburban Victoria district of Esquimalt in the 1956 British Columbia elections.

He failed to win but had he done so, he could have fulfilled his election promises merely by implementing his own philosophies.

FINDS PROGRESS

"I have no political experience at all," he told an election rally. "I will do my best for the good of the people of this community, as part of this province, as part of Canada, as part of the world."

Dr. Chisholm believes that many of the things he said to stir up controversies 17 years ago are gradually becoming accepted by many people.

"If we can make the same progress in the next 17 years as we did in the last, we will be well on our way.

"But do we have enough time? I wonder sometimes if we can last 17 years before world powers begin blasting each other with nuclear bombs."

Dr. Chisholm is convinced that world government and world law are the only things which will save mankind.

"First we will have to have a world police force. People will not disarm unless there is a policeman. I think the United Nations can do the job; if it gets the time."

FIGHTS COMPLACENCY

Dr. Brock Chisholm, recognized as one of North America's leading psychiatrists, has been saying things for 17 years which often sting the public conscience. He fights complacency with controversy and says he can't tell "half-truths." Now living in Victoria, Dr. Chisholm still takes time to travel widely on speaking tours. (CP Photo).

Thailand Army Posted Along Laotian Border

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—Thai troops today dug in at strategic points along the Thai-Laotian border in what the government called a precautionary measure against increased leftist military activity in neighboring Laos.

A government statement said the troops were moved into border positions Tuesday "to preserve the peace and security" of this southeast Asian country. It said the pro-Communist activity posed a "possible danger" to pro-Western Thailand.

The statement singled out the reported assault by pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops on the northwestern Laotian provincial capital of Nam Tha, located 50 miles from Thailand.

The fall of Nam Tha would open the door to "further infiltration and subversive activity," the statement said.

Premier Sarit Thanarat said recently that if Nam Tha was lost by troops of the pro-Western Laotian government, then leftist forces could "walk in Thailand."

The Thai forces were believed to be light, mobile units capable of moving easily about the jungle country.

The statement did not mention the number of specific points occupied by Thai troops.

Storms Again Postpone Flight Of Astronaut

Now off Until Next Tuesday at Earliest

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The oft-postponed flight of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., in orbit three times around the world, now is off until next Tuesday — at the earliest — because of continuing rough seas in the Atlantic recovery areas.

This was the 10th postponement since the 81,000-mile flight was originally scheduled Dec. 20.

The further delay was announced at 1:05 a.m. EST at a special weather briefing by the national aeronautics and space administration.

In addition, a space agency spokesman said the entire countdown for both the 360,000-pound thrust Atlas booster and the 4,200-pound space capsule would be started again from the beginning.

This means that all systems in both the missile and the capsule will be checked all over again from top to bottom despite the previous exhaustive checks.

GLENN AWAKENED

Glenn was once more awakened by his physician, Dr. William Douglas, and advised of the prolonged "scrub." That was at 12:50 a.m.

Douglas quoted Glenn as commenting: "I guess it was to be expected. We all knew the weather was marginal."

The postponement was ordered by Walter Williams, operations director, after another midnight briefing by his weather specialists who had compiled reports from weather planes and ships stationed in the "splashdown" areas.

The announcement said simply: "Weather conditions preclude a launch attempt this morning."

Trade minister Hees accused the Liberals of using the Cuban trade issue to put Canada into a bad light with the Americans.

Mr. Hees said Canadian blasting powder exported to Cuba was for civilian use and is not considered a war material.

Finance Minister Fleming said no country has asked for discussion of the Canadian dollar at today's meeting of the International Monetary Fund.

Coyne Decries Emigration Of Best Brains

TORONTO (CP) — James Coyne, in his first public appearance since he resigned as Governor of the Bank of Canada, Thursday night decried the exodus of Canada's best brains to the United States and Britain.

Canadians should find a place at home for their talents, he told a graduation banquet at University College, University of Toronto.

He said the suggestion by some experts that Canada carry on only those industries in which she can compete with other countries "is hostile to a diversified national life."

If this policy had been carried on in the past, Canada would have had no universities, no CBC, no railway system and little book publishing, he said. All these services might have been obtained more cheaply from the U.S.

Accused Gives Own Sentence At Que. Court

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvon Savard pronounced sentence against himself in criminal court Thursday.

Last summer he was convicted of possession of a stolen driving permit. Judge Henri Masson Loranger suspended sentence.

But the judge warned the 27 - year - old Montrealer it would cost him two years in penitentiary for any further misbehaviour.

Savard was arraigned Thursday before Judge Loranger and convicted of armed robbery.

"What is the sentence in your case?" asked the judge. "I'm going to let you pronounce it."

Replied Savard: "Two years."

Said the judge: "Exactly."

LIBERALS GIVEN CHANCE TO GET BACK AT PCs

Trade With Cuba Opens Hot Debate

For more than six years, the Liberals waited nor a chance to get back at the Conservatives for the roasting the Liberals got in January, 1956, for shipping 15 Harvard training planes to England.

They saw an opening Thursday when debate began on a government measure to increase the lending authority of the Export Credits Insurance Corporation to $300,000,000 from $200,000,000.

Paul Martin (L—Essex East) said Trade Minister Hees owed an explanation to the Commons and the country for permitting export to Cuba of such items as planes, helicopters, aero engines, aircraft parts, dynamite, synthetic rubber, electric transformers, steel pipes and tubes and industrial chemicals.

NOT ON NATO LIST

Mr. Hees said all these items were classed for civilian use and that the government has not permitted export to Cuba of any item on the NATO stragetic materials list.

The minister said any material could be construed as a war material—even underwear.

Mr. Martin said there is a great difference between aircraft and underwear.

Mr. Hees said: "There are a great many articles in everyday use—table knives, for example—which could be used as war materials."

This was reminiscent of a statement by Opposition Leader Pearson, then external affairs minister, on Jan. 24, 1956: "You can put a Bren gun on a bicycle but that doesn't make it into a tank."

QUESTIONS DYNAMITE

Mr. Pearson said Thursday that to allow export of dynamite — the trade department said $365,000 worth of blasting powder had been shipped to Cuba — was a "very strange way" to control strategic materials.

Angrily, Mr. Hees said the Liberals are trying to put the government in the worst possible light with the United States. They were attempting to

Adenauer, de Gaulle Agree To Speed up European Unity

PARIS (Reuters) — The way was cleared today for a speedup in plans for European political unity in the wake of a one-day meeting Wednesday between French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The two leaders met in the West German resort town of Baden-Baden near the French border.

A communique issued after the meeting said they had agreed European political unity should be speeded up in light of "the dangers that threaten the free world."

The two leaders reaffirmed the decision made in Bonn in July, 1961, along with their European Common Market partners—Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—to organize the political unity of Europe.

The communique also said de Gaulle and Adenauer discussed East-West relations, the Berlin and German questions and disarmament.

A statement by the French foreign ministry today said both sides in the talks were agreed on the conception and spirit which should prevail in a constitution for European political union.

The French spokesman said a political union should be based only on the existing power of the governments concerned.

A West German spokesman said de Gaulle's views expressed at the conference permitted "the fair conclusion that the two men found a basis for going ahead."

Observers said the practical extent of Adenauer's success with de Gaulle would show itself when the committee mapping unity among the six meets Monday to continue its negotiations.

Monetary Fund Puts Canada 'On Trial' on Exchange Rate

WASHINGTON (CP) — Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, today faced the task of convincing the world's central banking organization that Canada is not seeking any unfair advantage with her floating dollar exchange rate.

Rasminsky, member of the International Monetary Fund's 18-man executive, represented Canada as the executive opened an extensive discussion of Canadian financial policies and their bearing on Canada's foreign trade and financial relations with other countries.

Discussions were cloaked in secrecy but informants said a growing number of the fund's executive directors believe Canada should abide by fund rules and return her dollar to a pegged rate, approved by the fund executive. Rasminsky declined to make any public comment. He conferred with a number of the directors privately Thursday.

There were reports he would seek to repeat the government view that changes in the Canadian dollar exchange rate are moderate and within a range acceptable to the fund.

In a pre-conference interview, one of them representing a West European area described the Canadian exchange value as "managed." He said he sided with the statement of Robert Roosa, U.S. undersecretary of

Fleming Says Not Aware Of Request About Dollar

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming said Thursday he is not aware that any particular country has asked for a discussion of the Canadian dollar at today's meeting of the International Monetary Fund executive board in Washington.

He was replying in the Commons to William M. Benidickson, Liberal financial critic, who asked what matters Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, has been asked to explain at the meeting.

Mr. Rasminsky is Canada's representative on the board.

"What countries belonging to the International Monetary Fund have asked specifically for an explanation by Canada?" asked Mr. Benidickson, member for Kenora-Rainy River.

Mr. Fleming replied that Mr. Benidickson and others were trying to build a "most misleading" picture of the meeting. The minister said the agenda of the meeting could not be made public.

He referred to a Canadian Press report from Washington that the meeting would discuss Canadian policies dealing with the declining exchange rate of the Canadian dollar—now at a discount of nearly five cents below the U.S. dollar.

Mr. Fleming said this dispatch evidently was based on a speech by Robert V. Roosa, U.S. treasury undersecretary.

He said the U.S. treasury department had subsequently informed the Canadian government that Mr. Roosa's speech made no reference to Canada or Canadian currency.

(In his speech Mr. Roosa said all leading countries should maintain a fixed exchange rate on their currencies, and not seek "escape hatches" by "juggling" their own exchange rates.)

Mr. Fleming said the Canadian Press dispatch was "quite wrong in relation to what purported to be the inspiration of that article."

(The CP Washington story Feb. 12 said informants reported Mr. Rasminsky was called in to answer questions at the meeting about the Canadian policy on the dollar's exchange rate.)

Under Commons questioning in recent days, Mr. Fleming has denied there is a "manipulated" exchange rate on the Canadian dollar. Last Friday he said the government's exchange fund, in its sales or purchases of U.S. dollars, has not operated aggressively to drive the exchange rate in one direction or the other.

Bad Weather Foils New Soviet Bid To Harass West in Berlin Corridor

BERLIN (Reuters) — Russia, accused by the Western powers of harassing tactics in the vital air corridors to Berlin, made another attempt today to reserve one of the lanes for its exclusive use but appeared to be foiled by bad weather.

The bid—sixth since Feb. 8—came as the Western allies were reported ready to put special measures into operation if Russian jets continue buzzing Western aircraft in the air corridors.

British planes were understood to have arranged special transport flights through the corridor—as they have done on previous occasions when the Russians tried to reserve airspace — to demonstrate the West's right to use it.

The pilot of one of three commercial flights on the northern corridor that the Russians requested to use for three hours today said on reaching Berlin that no Soviet planes had been sighted.

He added that visibility at times was practically nil and that "any Russians monkeying about in this weather must have been as sick as we were."

A Soviet embassy spokesman in East Berlin today served notice Russia will continue to make use of the air corridors as it likes.

Claiming that Russia controlled the corridors, he said it was up to the West whether it flew in them or not. "We will take no action to stop them if they want, for they will be responsible for accidents."

He added Russia would continue to refuse to file individual flight plans for trips through the corridors although the West requires the Soviets to do so.

Britain Sends Troops To British Guiana

Will Assist Government In Maintaining Order

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain decided to dispatch two companies of troops to British Guiana today to assist the government to maintain order in the south American colony in the wake of widespread strikes.

A statement by the defence ministry here said the troops would be flown out today in answer to a call by the leftist government, made through Governor Sir Ralph Grey.

Radio reports picked up in The Hague from the British self-governing colony in northern South America said a state of siege had been declared there.

The reports, quoted by The Netherlands News Agency, also said Grey had banned public meetings and demonstrations throughout the colony.

The colonial office said the troops were being sent "for the sole purpose of maintaining law and order" and meant no reflection on the policies of the Jagan administration.

THOUSANDS DEMONSTRATE

In the colony's capital of Georgetown Thursday, thousands of Guianans demonstrated against the government outside the parliament building in definance of a ban by Grey.

The demonstrations and strikes were called by the Trades Union Council to protest increased taxation and a compulsory savings plan in Jagan's new budget.

Among the strikers were the staff of Georgetown Hospital, who walked out leaving only a skeleton crew to tend the ill.

All sewage and water workers in Georgetown also joined the strike along with other municipal employees.

The mass demonstration by the strikers Thursday was headed by Forbes Burnham and Peter Dagular leaders of the political opposition to the Jagan regime.

According to radio reports pickd up in The Hague, the police were the only public servants still obeying the orders of the Jagan administration but even they were pushing for a salary increase.

Grey's ban on meetings and demonstrations in central Georgetown was imposed, the governor said, because further public meetings would encourage intimidation of ministers and public servants.

He also said he was calling the British Guiana volunteer force to guard public buildings and strategic points.

Tht situation outside the capital was not clear, since nearly all communications have been cut by the strike.

But the largest bauxite producers in the colony—the Demerara Bauxite Company at McKenzie, 65 miles from Georgetown—has stopped mining operations.

British Guiana politics have been marked by controversy since 1953, when Britain suspended the country's constitution soon after the election o the first Jagan government.

Opponents of Chicago - educated Jagan — whose People's Progress party was returned to power in an election last March —claim he has Communist sympathies but his supporters deny this.

His new budget slapped a five - per - cent compulsory savings bite on the wages of everyone earning over £20 a month.

PUBLIC OBJECTS

The public outcry forced Jagan to withdraw other parts of his budget that called for stiff import levies against certain goods. Labor union leaders said these would increase the cost of living.

Despite these concessions it was understood the Trades Union Council was pressing for complete withdrawal of the budget.

The TUC has joined forces with the two leading opposition political groups to Jagan to force home its point.

Burnham's People's National Congress draws most of its support from the colony's 170,000 Negroes. Another recent entrant into the colony's political arena is Daguiar's United Force, whose main policy is opposition to Jagan.

The People's Progressive party which has the dominant support of the colony's 270,000 East Indians—the largest racial group—has 19 seats in the 35-seat legislature and polled 4 per cent of the vote in the last election.

ARMY RESUMES TROOP ROTATION FROM EUROPE

Deferred Last Fall By Berlin Crisis

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has indicated a belief that the Berlin crisis has eased or is at least dormant for the time being.

Authorities said Thursday the government has ordered the defence department to resume rotation of troops between Canada and Europe. Rotation was deferred last August because of the Berlin situation.

The 1st Battalion of the Black Watch, serving with the motorized Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in West Germany, will change places with the regiment's 2nd Battalion at Camp Gagetown, N.B. The rotation, to be conducted by air and sea, will be completed by the end of March. It involves some 1,500 troops.

Associate Defence Minister Sevigny said Thursday in the Commons that dependents of reinforcing troops sent to Europe last fall now will be allowed to proceed overseas.

Some 1,100 reinforcements for the brigade and 250 for the RCAF Air Division went to Europe last fall but were not permitted to take their dependents, again because of the Berlin crisis.

ARE MOSTLY SINGLE

However, 80 per cent of the reinforcing troops were single men so that the number of dependents involved is not large.

The dependents will proceed overseas by sea as soon as accommodation there becomes available.

Defence Minister Harkness said last August when rotations were deferred that it was desirable that there be a "minimum of disruption in the overall efficiency of the brigade at this time."

The government now apparently believes that the Berlin situation is quiet enough to permit time for the new battalion in Europe to shake down.

Manitoba Plans to Regulate Way In Which Credit Costs Are Shown

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A promise of legal protection for Manitoba's instalment buyers was one of the few unexpected measures found in the throne speeches at Thursday's openings of the Alberta and Manitoba lgislatures.

The Manitoba throne speech said legislation to be introduced by Duff Roblin's Progressive Conservative government will "regulate the manner in which charges made in connection with credit purchase transactions are set forth for the information of parties to such arrangements."

The measure would apparently follow on lines recommended on several occasion by Liberal Senator David Croll of Ontario. Senator Croll has suggested loan agreements be required to specify in bold type the precise interest and carrying charges involved.

Highlight of the Alberta throne address, was a promise of legislation aimed at stimulating the province's oil industry. It would be designed to encourage exploration development and marketing.

Only rumpus raised in a provincial house Thursday was in Quebec, where a group of Laval University students tossed leaflets onto the floor of the House and shouted demands for quick payment of government loans to students.

Outside the legislature, the students said they had not yet received loans promised them for the current college term.

"We are nearly starving," said one of the demonstrators, who identified himself as J. M. Lefebvre of the Laval commerce faculty.

WITNESSES WILL ATTEND ASSEMBLY IN PETERBOROUGH

One hundred members of the Belleville congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are travelling to Peterborough this weekend to attend a three-day assembly according to Mr. Ralph Wickerson, spokesman for the local group.

"The assembly theme is 'Assist One Another to Do God's Will' and the program is designed to demonstrate practical ways for each believer to share in spreading the faith," Mr. Wickerson explained.

Nearly eight hundred Jehovah's Witnesses from eighteen congregations will attend. A mass distribution of Bible literature from door to door is planned.

HOUSE SAVED BY QUICK ACTION OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Quick action by the fire department saved the frame home of H. Plutz, situated on No. 2 Highway, just east of the Canada Cement road shortly before noon today. It is understood the fire was caused by faulty wiring in an upstairs room and the department was able to confine the blaze to that area of the house although there was some water damage to the downstairs portion of the house. The flooring in the room was damaged and the walls scorched. No estimate of the damage has been made.

Kampus Kapers Looms as Great Show

Belleville Collegiate Institute's 16th edition of its famous "Kampus Kapers", promises to exceed any of its well-staged predecessors.

Now in the last stages of rehearsal the school's footlights variety show gives ample promise of fine entertainment.

"Kampus Kapers" opens in the school auditorium Thursday, February 22 and plays through Saturday, February 24th. The curtain rises at 8.15 all three nights.

Gymnastics, the Glee Club, instrumentalists band, and orchestral music, vocal and ensemble offerings, comedy highlighted by "Fifi the clown and Mimi" and other attractions round out a highly entertaining program.

Alan Barkley is the master of ceremonies. Mr. C. E. Templer and Roger Ling take care of organ and piano effects with instrumental artistry. John Francis adds his piano accomplishments.

The Rock 'N' Rolling Red Carpet Music Makers ask you to "Sit Back and Relax", Wayne Soble is heard in solo and John Tooth is a trombone virtuoso as is Dave Murphy with his cornet.

All-cast ensembles in tuneful effects open and close a show that for high-class variety entertainment ranks with the best.

Tickets are on sale at the Quinte Book Shop and the school.

Toastmasters Hold Banquet, Name Officers

The Belleville Toastmasters held their semi-monthly dinner meeting in the banquet room of the Belmont restaurant. The meeting was from 6 to 8 on February 13. Members present were: Stan Watkins, Pat Callery, Bruce Lynch, Ray McCoy, Ed Gilroy Chris James, Don Southcott, Bill Downing, Peter Atkinson, Pat Lawn, Bob Gilham, Bill Lewis, Fred Fisher, Doug Spillane.

All members participated in table topics presented by Ray McCoy. Each toastmaster was given the name of a famous person. He then had to talk for one minute as if he were that person. When he was finished another member was to guess his "identity."

NEW EXECUTIVE

The executive of the club has been changed, and is as follows: president, Bruce Lynch; treasurer, Pat Callery; v.p., Stan Watkins; educational v.-p., Bill Lewis; secretary, Pat Lawn, Sgt.-at-Arms, Don Southcott.

The toastmaster for the evening was Pat Callery, who introduced speakers Bob Gilham, Chris James, Pat Lawn, Don Southcott. The first three gave their initial ice-breaker talk which consists of a brief autobiography. Don Southcott talked on the pros and cons of selling techniques in Canada. The speech evaluators were Peter Atkinson, Stan Watkins, Bill Lewis Bill Downing with general evaluator, Doug Spillane. An executive meeting was held after the general meeting.

A radio interview was broadcast Tuesday morning at 10.30. Tom Hookings of CJBQ interviewed Toastmasters, Bruce Lynch and Doug Spillane. The highlight of the next meeting on February 27 will be a talk by Frank Murray of CJBQ.

Radio [illegible] Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Radio Electronic Technicians' Association of Ontario — better known as RETA—was held in Paris, Ontario, on February 14. In spite of the province-wide blizzard conditions, 35 delegates, representing all RETA districts, including the Quinte district, Number 3, were in attendance.

Provincial president R. Lorch proposed a more dynamic program for 1962, including preparation for an annual convention to begin in 1963 and increased co-operation with government agencies currently preparing legislation for the radio, television and electronic technicians.

It was pointed out that RETA represents about 400 electronic technicians in Ontario and that RETA is the only organization devoted to the electronic servicemen of the province.

The provincial board of directors for 1962 was elected as follows:

R. Lorch, B. Hofstetter, G. Lecky, R. Peckham, Ron Assef, D. Hewitt and M. Ames.

Local delegates to this meeting were: W. Slavin, assistant provincial secretary; M. Ames, District 3 representative, and D. Vanderwater, president of Quinte District No. 3, RETA.

PUC Will Become Member Of Chamber of Commerce

TRENTON—The Trenton Public Utilities Commission has established what may be a precedent for municipal bodies in Trenton by deciding to take out a membership in the Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

Since the local chamber was re-formed early in 1960, the commission has followed the lead of town council and, while wishing the chamber well, has declined with thanks when the subject of membership came up.

Yesterday, commission chairman Charles Hilton, commissioner Clifford A. Baker and Mayor James MacDonald instructed commision secretary, James Page to contact the chamber secretary, Nostrand Sprague, and discuss the cost of membership. Annual membership fees for the chamber are reckoned on a sliding scale; with businesees and industries paying so much and single memberships being lower. One snag, in the case of the commission, is that the members can't decide whether they should be considered as a "business" or not. A tentative decision was that since it "sells" electricity perhaps the commission is a "business."

DEMAND HYDRANT RENT

One thing about which commission members feel no uncertainty is that rental on hydrants in the Westmount Park sub-division must be paid.

Commission members have directed the secretary to write to the Murray Township council and inform the councillors that unless the $60 annual rental fee is forthcoming, water service to the four hydrants in the out-of-town development will be cut off. The township will also be told that the onus [illegible] should the service be cut off, is on Murray.

The township could recover the rent through taxes. The home owners adjacent to the hydrants will benefit through lower insurance rates. It is expected that eventually, ten or more hydrants will be installed in the sub-division. Should annexation of the area take place, the town of Trenton would be responsible for the rental charges.

Commissioners were told that the Canadian Pacific Railway had agreed to permit overhead wire installations to be placed over railway tracks on West Street.

John Alyea will be permitted to continue to use a road across commission property, west of town, if he presents proof that his insurance protection has been renewed.

The commission voted to take out advertisements in the F. & N. business directory at a cost of $230.

AWAIT TRAFFIC SURVEY

Mr. Page told the commission members that he was waiting to examine the traffic survey before suggesting a street lighting program. Mr. Page said that the placing of heavy, medium or light lighting facilities would depend upon expected vehicular traffic. Mr. Baker said that he thought pedestrian traffic was more important than motor traffic when decisions about lighting were to be made and Mr. Page replied that the two were related.

The commission will pay one half the cost of an electric water tank to be used as a prize at Hydro Showtime, which will be presented in Trenton on March 14. Ontario Hydro will pay the other half.

It was decided that Chairman Hilton and Manager James Page would attend an American Water Works Association convention in Philadelphia in June and that Mayor MacDonald and Mr. Baker would go to the Canadian section convention in Toronto at a later date.

The commission will call tenders for the supply of a half ton truck, to be used to carry hot water tanks and meters. Mr. Page suggested that specially outfitted truck be purchased for this purpose, but commission members decided to buy a standard truck and have it outfitted. In the past, utilities employees have been using their own cars to carry meters, but have indicated that they do not like this system. Furthermore, the commission feels it will be more economical to buy its own truck than to pay the employees' gas allowance.

This year the commission will not publish a special report on last year's operations. The report will be prepared and interested persons may examine it at the utilities office.

Dealers and contractors who sell electric hot water tanks and secure a signed contract from the purchaser will receive $10 per tank and $30 allowance if they install it themselves, providing they also supply the commission with a Hydro inspection certificate.

Court Reporter Explains Job To Kiwanians

TRENTON — "It must be a terrible thing to be accused of murder and have to sit in court listening to the prosecution trying to prove that you have to be killed," said Miss Ruth Nightingale, court reporter, speaking to members of the Trenton Kiwanis Club last night. "It would be enough to drive one mad," she added, as she commented on present-day court proceedings to do with murder cases.

Miss Nightingale, who comes from England, said that she became a court reporter by accident. An opportunity opened up in Welland where she was working as a secretary after she first came to Canada and she has been working as a free-lance court reporter ever since.

Miss Nightingale, who can take 200 words of shorthand a minute, says the court reporting is exacting, but interesting work, and pays well. She said that words carried no emotion to a reporter in a court room. The reporter must write down every single work that the witnesses say and the degree of concentration necessary is "tremendous."

A court reporter's knowledge of language must be wide, as quite often very specialized subjects are covered. She said that in her long career she had covered cases of a man being chewed up by a lion and the fixing of horse races. Sometimes, said the speaker, language is used in court that one doesn't hear "in polite society," but one learns not to be shocked.

Miss Nightingale also said that she was not at all afraid that a new reporting system, the "steno-mask-dictaphone," would ever take the place of good shorthand reporting.

Miss Nightingale is court reporter at Belleville and also runs a business school in the city. She is the secretary of the Chartered Short Hand Reporters' Association of Ontario.

"There's lots of opportunities for good shorthand reporters", said Miss Nightingale, "but the trouble is to find them now-a-days. They don't teach them spelling at school these days."

New member John Foley was introduced to the club members by his brother-in-law, Nick Fraser and inducted by past lieutenant-governor Ted Parker.

Two Square Dance Clubs Entertained

TRENTON—Teenagers don't have all the fun.

This was illustrated last night when members of the RCAF Pairs and Squares and of the Trent Valley Squares were entertained by the owner of the Redwood Motel on Front Street North in Trenton.

Four sets of dancers from the two clubs stomped their way through patter calls and contras to the calling of Ernie Dempster and Leslie Jackson.

Les and Elaine Evans also gave a twist demonstration.

Hamburgers, hot chips and coffee were eaten with gusto and dancers and spectators agreed that it was the best evening ever!

No One Knows Managing Editor Says President

"In our cities, everybody knows the names of the sports editor or the city editor . . . but nobody knows the managing editor.

"Our work is not easy," he continued. "We try to teach spelling to aspiring reporters who thank heaven that Massachusetts can be written Mass., for they would never know how to spell it.

"We try to tread the narrow path between the publisher, the advertising manager, who tell us how many pages we'll put out, the circulation manager, who tells us why the paper doesn't sell, and the temperamental editors.

"Out of this chaos, we put together a proper newspaper

"No two of them are alike, but all of them must be proper for the locality in which they are published."

Frank Gardner, Former OPP Inspector, Dies

Stricken with a heart seizure in a service station at the corner of Church Street and Dundas Street east, shortly before noon, Frank Gardner, Dufferin Avenue, former Inspector of the Ontario Provincial Police headquarters in this city and until a year ago an inspector with the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department died suddenly before medical aid could be summoned.

Mr. Gardner is well known throughout the city and district having been a resident of this community for many years.

Squadronettes Meet at Home Of Commander

A dinner meeting of the Bay of Quinte Squadronettes was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McCulloch on Massassaga Road. Commander Dorothy McCulloch presided and officially welcomed guests from Wellington, Carrying Place and Belleville.

The dinner table decorations were carried out in a St. Valentine Day theme, with a red and white floral centrepiece arranged by Dorothy Weese one of the students. The serving table was centred by a special red and white dessert, the creation of Mrs. John Locke.

After the dinner Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, conducted a question and answer period, based on this year's piloting course material. This period proved to be of invaluable aid to new students and graduates alike. The new students gaining information and confidence for the coming examinations and the graduates of previous years finding out just how necessary it is to have a review of this kind — to refresh their memory and to bring their thinking in line with the latest boating information.

The Squadronette group are once more indebted to Commander McCulloch who made her home available for this meeting and to their social convener Mrs. H. C. Reid for her untiring efforts towards making the dinner a success.

Police Cadet Gets Wild Ride

TORONTO (CP) — A young police cadet clung to the open door of a speeding car today while the driver punched and kicked him.

Cadet Gordon Crawford, 19, stopped a car for investigation in midtown Toronto. He was standing holding the open door when it sped away.

The wild ride lasted for a few hundred yards. It ended when the car ran into the back of another and veered across the road into a telephone pole.

Cadet Crawford fell to the pavement cut and bruised. Another policeman took up the chase on foot and captured one of two suspects running from the scene.

Obituaries

NANCY CONRADI

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Per Conradi, 58 Bertram Boulevard, Nancy Conradi, age two years and eleven months, died suddenly in the Belleville General Hospital early this Friday morning.

The child was born at Bayshore, Long Island, New York and had been a resident with her parents in this city for the past year.

She is survived by two brothers, John and Erik.

Henry Drury Dies Suddenly In Hospital

Stricken with a heart attack on Thursday afternoon, Henry Drury, 76 Pine Street, retired C.N.R. engineer, veteran and active in the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association and the C.N.R. Recreation program, died suddenly at the Belleville General Hospital shortly after admittance. He had not been in the best of health, but his sudden death was unexpected.

Mr. Drury was born in Constantinople, Turkey, 73 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Drury. He went with his parents to England at an early age and then came to this country. He joined the C.N.R. in Toronto as a fireman, and was soon classed as an engineer and served for 39 years with the railway, retiring in December of 1953.

When the First World War broke out, Mr. Drury enlisted with the Toronto Heavy Battery in 1914, and proceeded overseas to serve with distinction in France and Germany, and was discharged in 1919. Immediately upon discharge, Mr. Drury began taking an active interest in the veteran and had continued that interest for many years. He was a pioneer and active member of the Army, Navy and Air Force, Unit 201, in this city, and served in every office of the organization and was honored with the presidency. At the time of his death he was secretary of the Association and one of its hardest workers. He was a veteran in every sense of the word and his work with the Poppy Fund, which is used for veterans, who are in depressed circumstances, has been outstanding. Mr. Drury had been a member of the executive of the Poppy Fund since its inception.

HELPED BUILD PARK

Not only was he interested in the veteran, he was also a great help in the forming of the Recreation Association of the CNR. He was an original member of a group that proposed and worked for the completion of the beautiful CNRA park in the city and the fine CNRA hall that is adjoining. There was never a task allotted to him that was not successfully carried out and the fine park and hall will always be a memorial to his efforts. At the time of his death he was first vice-president of the association and one of its most active workers.

He was a member of the Anglican Church and fraternally was a member of Moira Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 11.

The funeral will be hld on Saturday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home, with interment in Belleville cemetery. The members of the ANAF unit and the Ladies' Auxiliary will attend in a body.

IN MEMORIAM

GREEN. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Margaret Eleanor Green, who passed away February 16th. 1954.

We who loved you sadly miss you
As dawns another year;
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are always near.

—Always remembered by son Murney, daughter-in-law Clara and grandchildren Gloria and Douglas.

GREEN. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Margaret Eleanor, who passed away on February 16th, 1954.

It's been lonely since you left us,
Home has never been the same;
Mom, the world would be like heaven,
Just to see your face again.
We miss you, Mom, more than anyone knows,
As each day passes the emptiness grows;
The tears in our eyes will wipe away,
But the ache in our heart will always stay.

—Sadly missed by daughter Audrey, Gord and granddaughter Carolyn.

GREEN. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Margaret Eleanor Green, who passed away on February 16th, 1954.

Heartaches in this world are many,
But losing you was worse than any;
Close to my heart you will always stay,
Loved and remembered every day.
Beautiful memories are woven in gold,
This is the picture I tenderly hold.
Deep in my heart your memory is kept,
To love and to cherish and never forget.

—Lovingly remembered by husband Murney.

GREEN. — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Margaret Eleanor Green, who was called away February 16th, 1954.

Nothing can ever take away,
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps her near.

—Ever remembered by son John, daughter-in-law Marjorie granddaughters Bonnie, Debra and Margaret.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank all of my friends, neighbors and relatives for the many visits, cards and gifts which I received while a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Dr Horne, and nurses on 3rd South.

TORONTO STOCKS

In the industrial list, Algoma Steel, Bell Telephone, Distillers Seagrams and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all took ¼-point drops.

Canadian Breweries, Industrial Acceptance, Shawinigan and CPR all fell in a ⅛ to ½ range.

Among issues showing gains were Consumers' Gas, up ¾, Consolidated Paper, ahead ½, Bank of Nova Scotia, up ¼ and Trans-Canada Pipe Line, up ⅛. Canada Wire and Cable B climbed two points to 12½—a 1962 high.

On the exchange index, industrials slipped .94 at 618.77 and base metals .39 at 207.90. Golds rose .03 at 89.36 and western oils .90 at 129.50—their highest point since May, 1959. The 11 a.m. volume was 860,000 shares compared with 681,000 at the same time Thursday.

Base metals saw Consolidated Mining and Smelting drop ¼. while International Nickel rose ⅛. Among speculatives, Lake Dufault gained 60 cents to $6.25 and Northgate 35 cents to $5.00.

Western oils were led higher by gains of ¼ to Calgary and Edmonton and Pacific Petroleum. Home B slipped ⅛.

The market closed almost unchanged Thursday.

Industrials were mixed. Abitibi was ahead ⅛. Chrysler Corporation added 1½ in light turnover despite the fact that the stock was trading ex-dividend 25 cents. Oshawa Wholesale A also added 1½. Best gain of the day went to Empire Life, up 10 points to 185.

On index, industrials slipped 14 to 619.71 and base metals 1.15 to 208.29. Golds climbed .44 to 89.33 and western oils .73 to 128.60. Volume was 3,114,000 shares compared with Wednesday's 2,937,000.

Base metals were weakened by a 1½-point loss to Ventures. Noranda fell ¾ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ⅜. Among speculatives, Northgate dropped 35 cents to $4.65 and Lake Dufault five cents to $5.65.

Allan B. McComb of Belleville is here being presented with a Master Breeder Shield at the annual meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada at Toronto. This is the highest honor that a Holstein breeder can win. Making the presentation on behalf of the Association is W. H. Hicks, Chilliwack, B.C., M.P.

New Y.M.C.A. president, Bruce G. MacKenzie (centre), is congratulated by 1961 president John C. McDonald at last night's annual meeting of the 'Y'. Looking on is "Y" secretary "Di" Diamantides.

Bruce MacKenzie Heads Y; Work in Inter-Faith Area And Better Leaders Urged

Better qualified leaders and more effective programming through moving into the inter-faith area were urged at the annual meeting and election of officers of the Belleville Y.M.C.A here last night.

Guest speaker for the "Y" annual meeting and banquet was Dr. Edbrooke S. Wybourn, Secretary for program service for Metropolitan Y.M.C.A.'s. Close to 100 persons attended the dinner meeting which saw Mr. Bruce J. MacKenzie named as the 1962 Y.M.C.A president. Mr. MacKenzie succeeds J. C. McDonald.

Dr. Wybourn, who came to Belleville suffering a relapse of an attack from the 'flu, told his listeners the right type of programming in the "Y" was vitally important, claiming that if the principles of the "Y" were to be carried out in the rapidly changing world of today programming must move quickly into the inter-faith field.

PROGRAM IS TOOL

The speaker outlined the more important dimension of "Y" programming, noting that members had to think of program as being the tool by which the "Y" achieves its objective in working with people.

He said programming must be disassociated from building. "If we think of building in terms of program we miss the main objective."

Dr. Wybourn stressed the importance of the proper type of "Y" leaders, noting that later this week he would speak at the University of Montreal with the view of attracting graduates into "Y" work.

"We are more interested in the kind of people they are than the type of skills they possess", he said. "We are looking for a kind of person—not skills".

Last year's "Y" president, Mr. J. C. McDonald, was in the chair at the annual dinner meeting and outlined the prospects of having a new YMCA in Belleville before the end of this year.

He said last year's building fund campaign had been a success with close to $300,000 being donated or pledged. Tenders for the new "Y" in East Belleville would be called shortly, with ground to be broken for construction early in the spring.

Lack of funds had forced the omission of a full scale gymnasium in the proposed new "Y" but Mr. McDonald said, nevertheless, the major objective of providing a new building had been achieved. The building planned could be added to as finances or other circumstances permitted.

He said the new building had been planned to complement the new family-type of program now adopted by the "Y". For instance a roll back curtain was planned to separate the swimming pool from the activities area, to allow parents to watch their children while they swim.

Mr. McDonald paid tribute to members of last year's building fund committee, making special mention of Bill Wills as the campaign chairman.

AWARDS PRESENTED

Fellowship awards for outstanding work during the past year were presented to Judge J. C. Anderson, Bruce G. MacKenzie, John C. McDonald and Bill Wills. The awards were presented by Mr. J. B. Leslie.

A cheque for $1,000 from the Y's Men's Club was presented to the "Y" building fund by Y's Men's president Jack Hayman. Y's Men's Club has now contributed $4,000 of its $10,000 pledge to the "Y" building fund.

Y.M.C.A. secretary "Di" Diamantides paid tribute to the foresight of Belleville residents who 50 years ago were responsible for the formation of the local "Y".

He outlined the progress which the local "Y" had enjoyed during the past half century, noting that in the past ten years the "Y" budget had increased by 55 per cent while last year participation in "Y" activities had arisen to 85,000.

Now a new Belleville family-type "Y" planned in keeping with the new concept of "Y" activities, was to be constructed.

He said it was expected that last night's annual meeting was the last which would be held in the old building on Campbell Street.

Head table guests at last night's meeting included Mr. J. J. Trudeau, chairman of the Belleville United Appeal and Mrs. Trudeau. The Belleville "Y" is a member of the United Appeal.

Officers proposed by the nominating committee and approved at last night's meeting were president B. G. MacKenzie; past president J. C. McDonald; vice-presidents Mrs. W. L. Finkle and W. S. Wills; recording secretary Mrs. Vern Weir and treasurer H. Murray.

Around The Tee

Another beautiful trophy, the Victoria and Grey Trust Cup of Kingston will grace the trophy case of the Quinte Curling Club for a year as the result of a victory by a rink of Mrs. Lenore Bateman, Mrs. Jean Murray, Mrs. Miriam Graham with Mrs. Anne Acton as skip in the open bonspiel conducted by the Women's Section of the Kingston Curling Club. The local rink won five straight games in their romp to the top and two of them were squeakers. In the third game of the knockout draw the girls had to go an extra end, while in the fourth they were victorious by one shot, 5-4. There were rinks from the Quinte district and the United States on hand and the committee were forced to refuse some entries due to the list being filled early. This is one of the best women's spiel in the district and the Belleville rink are to be congratulated in winning the premier trophy against such a strong field. The rink reports that the hospitality could not be surpassed and the ice was in excellent condition.

Not to be outdone, the men's section of the club were away winning trophies this week. Four rinks, all members of the Kiwanis Club, journeyed to Oshawa on Wednesday to play in the Kiwanis spiel, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Oshawa. A rink of Dave Deacon, Fred Rawson, Ken McDonald with Ralph Graham as skip won the General Motors taking all three games with the highest score. Another rink skipped by Charlie Cox won the two-game high score.

This spiel is an annual event and the boys had a real good time with hospitality at a high point. The dinner at the end of the games was a colorful affair and at that time, the beautiful prizes were distributed.

A full entry of 24 rinks has been received for the open bonspiel of the women's section of the club to be held on Monday and Tuesday, February 26 and 27 at the Quinte Curling Club. The girls will play for the Ontario Intelligencer trophy and replicas with accompanying prizes. Mrs. Mary Mott is the general chairman of the spiel and all details have been arranged.

To Address Rotary

Dr. J. Norrie Swanson an authority on rheumatic diseases will address the Rotary Club here on Monday. A graduate of Edinburgh University Scotland, he came to America on appointment as Teaching and Research Fellow at Harvard Medical School and Research Fellow at Massachusetts General Hospital. Coming to Canada in 1951 he has served as Research Fellow of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, attached to the Toronto General Hospital and Sunnybrook Veterans Hospital. He was appointed Medical Director of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society on January 1st, 1961.

Dr. Swanson is author of 45 papers on the subject of chronic rheumatic diseases and 24 publications on the same subject. During World War II he served in the Royal Air Force attaining the rank of Squadron Leader.

Annie Scores Another Hit In Quinte Secondary Show

By EUGENE LANG

The boisterous, bawdy, brassy era of Buffalo Bill, Annie Oakley, Pawnee Bill and Sitting Bill, all characters in the turn of the century Wild West Show business, came to vivid life on the stage of Quinte Secondary School last evening before a near capacity crowd, as the pupils of that school presented their production of Irving Berlin's "Annie Get Your Gun". This musical comedy, that has been seen by thousands in the original Broadway show and millions in the motion picture version, was very artfully produced and directed by Mr. Garth Allen of the Quinte Secondary Staff, assisted by Mr. K. Thomas. Approximately seventy students took part in this arduous undertaking and the results of their hundreds of hours of sincere practice was shown to advantage in the stellar production that drew waves of applause from the appreciative audience in attendance.

Colorful costuming, set against the well designed stage settings devised by Miss C. Ferrier and assistants, was enhanced by the carefully arranged lighting effects used at all times. When called for, sensitive choral backgrounds were utilized to offset certain numbers and give collective balancing to the solo voices. The accompanying instrumental forces consisted of Mr. B. Turcotte (conductor and string bass), Mrs. P. Turcotte and Mr. Garth Allen (two pianos) and Mr. Ron Lessels (drums). These four musicians are to be commended for their very able accompaniments, especially the two pianists for their strenuous efforts in handling the whole score in such fine co-ordination.

Space precludes the possibility of evaluating every individual performer, but mention must be made of the two dance numbers by Cheryl Deline and Francis Callaghan. Fine performances were turned in by Stanley McMullen (Charlie Davenport), William Buddle (Foster Wilson and Pawnee Bill), Larry Aquino (Buffalo Bill), Rita Demcyzna (Dolly Tate) and Larry Doxsee (Chief Sitting Bull). Peter Horcica as the dashing Frank Butler gave a remarkable account of that role and is to be complimented for his acting of this male lead.

The well envisage choreography was under the direction of Miss Grace Sinclair and was carefuly moulded by all dancers concerned.

STELLAR PERFORMANCE

Without the stellar performance turned in by Miss Lynne Brown as Annie Oakely this production would have turned out entirely different than it did. This is not to say that everyone did not do their best, because they did, but Lynne's acting and singing turned this from an evening's entertainment into a smash hit. Her voice just naturally led itself to the drawn out nasal tones associated with the Ohio backwoods girl who toured all Europe and America six decades ago as "Miss Sure Shot". In every number that she sang, from opening "Doin' What Comes Naturally" to final duet with Peter Horcica in "Anything You Can Do" she covered herself with laurels and praise. Her voice carried clearly to the very back of the gymnasium and even in the speaking parts clarity predominated. Her mannerisms were true to form for the character that she portrayed and she delighted her audience to no end, as could be felt by the applause that greeted her every offering. Orchids to you Miss Brown for your splendid characterization of this taxing role - you made the show! !

For those wishing a fine evening of carefree entertainment we do not hesitate to recommend "Annie Get Your Gun" which shows again tonight and tomorrow night, with curtain at 8.00 p.m. Quinte Secondary School can be justly proud of the entire production.

Canadian Press Explains Error Not Its Work

Inquiry, the CBC TV show that wondered aloud "Can you trust the press," has received a reply from the Canadian Press.

CP takes exception to the comment made by R. A. J. Phillips of the Department of Northern Affairs who had stated "I don't know about on the whole but certainly not entirely," then amplified his remark by citing a news story as an example.

"It appeared in 30 or 40 Canadian newspapers within the past month," he said. "The second line of this article reads like this: To protect their health, the Government spends more than $23,000,000 a year for Eskimos.

"That statement is blatantly absurd. Anyone who knows that there are only 10,000 or 11,000 Eskimos, must realize that a figure of $23,000,000 is obviously a slip. The actual figure is between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000."

Mr. Phillips then remarked that none of the editors who used the story checked the figures "and that error has been perpetuated in every newspaper in Canada."

Canadian Press replies as follows: "The reference to 'every newspaper' might appear to indicate that the story was carried by the Canadian Press, which serves 102 Canadian dailies. This was not the case.

"The error appeared in a number of weekly newspapers in the caption of a photo of a plane landing to take an injured Eskimo to hospital.

"The photo and error first appeared in World Health, the magazine of the World Health Organization of Geneva which sent a photographer to Canada last year to collect material.

"The error may have resulted from a misinterpretation of figures. Total Canadian Government spending on Indian and Eskimo Health services amounts to about $23,000,000 a year.

"Official Government publications such as estimates and public accounts don't break this down between Indians and Eskimos but Federal officials say spending for Eskimos accounts for slightly over $3,000,000."

A Commendable Project

Dr. Norman Z. Alcock, a Canadian physicist, has established the Canadian Peace Research Institute, which he hopes will be the first of many such institutes, in various nations throughout the world. The objective is to determine, by scientific study, the best ways to avoid war.

Of Dr. Alcock's sincerity there can be no doubt. He gave up a $15,000-a-year job as a physicist and used his savings to get the project underway. He now has the backing of several famous Canadians and the financial support of the public is being sought.

Almost nobody will wish for Dr. Alcock less than success beyond his wildest hopes, but many may doubt the efficacy of the approach which he plans to the problem.

These doubts may be weakened, if not entirely removed, by the reading of a little booklet, "The Bridge of Reason," which he has written. In it he makes out a strong case for his contention that the scientific study of the causes of war, and of the methods of removing or lessening these causes, may provide us with a hope of progress. Dr. Alcock's views are far from being Utopian. We quote a paragraph from "The Bridge of Reason" to support this contention: "It has been further suggested that total disarmament could lead to peace, without creating a supra-national authority. Quite apart from the problem of reaching this condition it leaves unanswered one question. If there is no power to enforce this state, who is to guarantee that no nation will rearm?"

Dr. Alcock does not pretend to have the answers for the questions he poses. What he does have is a faith in the scientific method and a conviction that, if solutions to existing problems can be found, they are most likely to be found more quickly by applying the scientific method to their consideration than by any other approach.

This seems an hypothesis worthy of investigation and support, particularly as we have nothing whatever to lose.

An Arrogant Directive

On what does this Caesar feed?

Members of the Sudbury public school board may have asked themselves this question when they decided to oppose a new directive from the Ontario Department of Education. The Department has ruled that all approvals of school construction will be announced by the local member of the legislature.

Many announcements of government projects, federal and provincial, are now made by the members, of the Commons or the Legislature, of the riding affected. There is nothing wrong with this system. The announcements have to be made by somebody, and if the Cabinet ministers concerned prefer to delegate this task to the members, it is their right and privilege. Indeed, in cases where the member happens to belong to the Opposition, it would demonstrate an almost miraculous generosity. In some cases, announcements in ridings with Opposition members have been made by the defeated government candidate at the last election—or the man nominated to represent the government party at the next election. This may be open to greater objection than to have the sitting member make the announcement. But even this is not so objectionable as what the Department of Education now undertakes to establish as future policy.

In the case of school projects, the provincial government is not the only body concerned. The school board also has a real, a primary, interest. E. G. Higgins, the Sudbury school superintendent, told the board it would presumably be informed through normal channels, that is ahead of the public announcement, (we should certainly hope so); but that the public announcement would come from the member of the legislature.

What a blatant effort to curry favor with the voters by spending their own money! Because any government has a majority, it would automatically reap the largest benefits from this system. There is just one catch. Newspapers can spike the whole scheme by refusing to use the member's name in this connection. As a standard "lead" we offer: Chairman John Doe of the Blankville School Board today confirmed a report that a new school - - - -.

Female Driver Strikes Back at Male Drivers

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Men are peculiar about cars," said the woman sitting across the breakfast table. "Especially when they see a woman trying to start one on a cold day."

"What do you mean?" I asked, sipping my coffee innocently.

"Well," she said, "my battery was low the other morning, and I had a little trouble starting up. About five men stopped, one after the other, to give me tips on starting a car in cold weather — and no two of them said the same thing.

"The milkman was the first. 'Pump the gas pedal before you turn on the ignition,' he advised, 'and then pull out your choke a little.' The next man said, 'Don't touch your gas pedal — pull out your choke all the way, and then turn on the ignition.'

"A third man passing — watching my unsuccessful efforts with both these procedures —said 'Put your foot down on the gas pedal all the way, and turn on your ignition, but leave the choke in.'

"This didn't work either, and another man came by. 'Pull out your choke half way,' he advised, 'and put the car in low gear as soon as you turn on the ignition.'

"Finally, I had to call the garage — and the garage man who came over to give my battery a booster advised a totally different way of starting it in cold weather. Now I'm completely confused about it."

"All that proves," I said, being the male on the defensive, "is that different cars start with different techniques. Some of those ways might work for one car and not for another. They were just trying to help."

"It's the same with getting out of snow or mud," she went on. "A man can't resist telling a woman driver how to do it. And all they ever say is 'Turn your wheels, lady!' They don't even tell you which way to turn them — they just love to shout 'Turn you wheels, lady!'"

"Well," I countercharged, "it's a fact that women seem to have more trouble getting cars moving than men drivers do."

"Of course," she said icily, "because we're self-conscious about it. Women are a minority group as drivers, and we feel that men are critical of us. So this makes us nervous, and we look even worse than we are. And men don't try to help — they just want to show their superiority."

"I'll tell you how to get your car started on a cold morning," I said helpfully. "Keep it in a heated garage overnight, my dear."

Somehow, for reasons that elude me, I never did get a second cup of coffee that morning. Women are peculiar creatures, aren't they?

Guinea Buys Snowplows

Financial Post

The man who sold refrigerators to the Eskimos has been outclassed by the Russians. They have sold two snowplows to the government of Guinea, one-time French colony in equatorial Africa.

The now independent rulers of Guinea have made other equally odd purchases from their Communist friends, including 1,000,000 screwdrivers and 35,000 bathroom fixtures.

These imports undoubtedly give the people of Guinea, who are fewer than 3,000,000, the highest per capita ownership of screwdrivers in the world. But, alas, their houses are mostly held together with mud and almost never have running water.

During the month of January, Hastings County produced 52,791 pounds of cheese as compared to 9,340 pounds during the same period in 1941. The greater part of the January production was produced in Trenton and Wallbridge factories. Butter production was down with 98,556 pounds produced in January as compared with 129,609 pounds produced in January 1941. A number of cheese factories in the county are planning to open at the earliest possible date.

Although it was recovered some blocks from where it was taken, mystery surrounds the disappearance of a mantel model radio removed from a room on Everett Street occupied by Grant Grass. Strangely enough the radio was later found half buried in a snowbank on Isabel Street. While returning home today, Mr. C. Kennedy of Isabel Street saw an object protruding from a snowbank and upon examination found it to be the mantel radio, the property of Mr. Grass.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SOMETHING BETTER THAN PILLS

Modern medical science has brought forth all kinds of remedies and pills for making people happy. There are tranquillizers and stimulants of different kinds — some intoxicating and some not — of which people avail themselves in an attempt to make life more bearable. Some of these remedies are not without value. They may increase in popularity until such things as continual mental depression, anxiety, and the tendency to "go to pieces" may at least have the edge taken off them.

But, of course, the greatest source of peace is right within our own hearts. There are things every one of us can do when depression or anger overcome us which very decidedly will make the situation better. God has given us built-in powers by which to handle our own unleashed emotional furies.

Greatest of all, of course, is religious faith. Regardless of what a person's religion may be, if he can lay hold on its basic beliefs, take them to his heart, cherish them, and act upon them no matter how he feels, he will soon discover that he feels a lot better. The peace which passeth all understanding gradually creeps over his heart and mind.

This is better than pills. A few moments of quiet reflection each day and the surrender of the heart to God will light up anyone's sky and fill the mind with joy and courage.

Should Know Credit Cost

Toronto Star

One of the curses of our buy-now-pay-later economy is that all too often, the buyer has no clear idea of how much his credit costs him — and may discover too late that the cost is exorbitant.

In this newspaper in recent weeks, Pierre Berton has documented instances where buyers of TV sets, refrigerators and washing machines in Toronto stores were told they were paying .9 per cent to 12 per cent interest — when, in fact, they were paying two and three times that much. Whatever interest a consumer pays on his purchases, we believe he is entitled to know precisely how much they will cost him.

This is why a private bill submitted to the House of Commons by a Conservative backbencher — Edward Nasserden, M.P. for Rosthern—deserves the support of all political parties. Under it, the seller must tell the purchaser, in writing and before the sale, the precise rate of interest and the total price he pays. Failure to do so would be a criminal offence. Nor would Mr. Nasserden's bill ignore the wondrous variety of devices that form part of the real price paid by a buyer — brokerage charge, bonus, service charge, subscription, dues, discount, commision or premium. The exact cost of any or all of these would have to be given to the buyer.

Private bills usually fare badly, and Mr Nasserden may not have his adopted by Parliament. But such a law is essential to protect the unwary buyer from what has become a pernicious feature of modern-day merchandising.

Few measures could benefit the consumer more than a law entitling him to full disclosure of interest and other charges on loans and credit purchases. Let all parties in the House of Commons safeguard the public interest by ensuring the passage of such legislation.

Exercise In Polemics

Vancouver Sun

When the good, clear baritone of Highways Minister Gaglardi rang out in the Legislature this week it brought a welcome restatement of basic Social Credit attitudes.

The party now in power at Victoria sometimes seems to stray from its fundamental principles. It needs such men as Mr. Gaglardi to remind it, and the public, that Social Credit is basically different from any major political party preceding it in this province.

In the case in point, the minister was attacking Socialist Alex Macdonald. It was an attack which rose above mere personalities to deal with a matter of principle.

Mr. Macdonald declared Mr. Gaglardi is a man who profiteered on taxpayers' money. In this case it was not by peddling influence or taking bribes. Mr. Macdonald's method of profiteering, as seen by Mr. Gaglardi, was that he studied for his law degree at a public university.

The minister expresses his view clearly:

"Probably it cost $30,000 to put you through your legal course. Of this the government would have paid about $25,000 and you paid about $5,000". Then, as the premier and other Socred MLAs thumped their desks in approval, Mr. Gaglardi shouted, "There's a man profiteering on the taxpayers' money".

The status of Attorney General Bonner and Education Minister Peterson, also UBC law school graduates, was not brought into the discussion. Nor were the names of tens of thousands of other UBC graduates who apparently have, in Mr. Gaglardi's view, profiteered in the same way at our publicly owned university. But no matter. When striking at a principle, we are sure Mr. Gaglardi is willing to let the chips fall where they may.

This is the sort of vigorous exposition of Social Credit philosophy which has been in decline of recent years.

For a time, Socred MLAs talked like conservatives. Now many talk like socialists. We need more who talk like Socreds so that the fundamental attitudes of the party are clear to the public.

It is worth recalling some of the voices we used to hear.

There was Mr. Reid of Salmon Arm, who revealed that children were learning about sex in our schools.

There was Mrs. Lydia Arsens of Victoria, whose main interests revolved about theories of diet. She, too, spoke without thought of consequences or fear of informed rebuttal.

True, such spokesmen did not always win widespread support. Members of the medical profession were dismayed when Mrs. Arsens extolled strange cures for cancer. Many UBC students and graduates will now complain about being labelled profiteers. No doubt they will assail Mr. Gaglardi for his contempt of our police and our courts of justice — both matters of public record, just like graduation papers.

But the correctness of such Social Credit claims is not the only issue. There is much to be said for honesty of expression.

We suggest Mr. Gaglardi, in his profiteers speech, is honestly representative of the Social Credit philosophy.

Eyes Open On Ninth Day

Christian Science Monitor

"Gives you $1,000.00 automatically," is the display line in a mail order advertisement. The copy goes on to describe a "perpetual calendar bank" in which a 25-cent piece must be inserted each day to make the mechanism change the date.

The advertiser has not figured out for the reader just how many days (months? years?) it will take to accumulate the thousand dollars. But he does say that at the price of $1.99 "it pays for itself in eight days." He could say, for that matter, "with a cent left over."

In the interest of clarity one little addition or reminder might be pertinent. This is, that to get these "automatic" results you have to put in the quarter a day. At least, nothing is said about where the quarters are to come from.

Just one further thought. The buyer is supposed to add 25 cents for postage. That would make it seem to take nine days to get your money "back." Maybe humans, like kittens, get their eyes open on the ninth day.

To Your Good Health

Women Seek Advice More Frequently Than Men Do

Dear Dr. Molner: Please answer some "men queries" unless you are truly a women's doctor, like I think you are. — J.J.K.

That's Mr. J.J.K.'s whole letter. No question for me to answer — just an accusation that I don't answer, as he calls it, "men queries."

Well, three questions out of four in this column are from women, so that's the ratio of the answers.

I know that for every question along the line of, "How can I get my wife to go to the doctor?" I receive 99 asking, "How can I get my husband to go to the doctor?" And there follows a choice of symptoms: He has a chronic cough, his stomach bothers him, he gets too tired, he's overweight, or underweight, or drinks too much, or whatever.

If it's about children, their itches, their appetites, their nerves, their weight, the time at which they start to talk or walk or sit up, the amount they should sleep, or do they get enough milk or protein or Vitamin D, the questions are from the mothers, not the fathers.

It isn't because fathers don't love their children as much as do mothers; it's because in our society dad brings home the bacon, repairs the back steps, shovels the coal. Mother cooks the meals, brings up the babies, sews on the buttons and darns the socks.

It's mother who worries about baby's diet and father's health. It's father who tries to pay the bills and see that the car will run.

Up to around the age of 50 or more, it's father who may develop heart trouble. Later it's father who has prostate trouble. And it's also father who says, "Quit fussing. I'm perfectly healthy. Just don't worry about it."

It's mother, in those years, who worries and frets. It's more likely that father has the ulcers. It's mother who may have breast cancer. Or cancer of the cervic, of course.

Wives and mothers ask questions about health, for the most part.

It's the woman who reels off too many symptoms when she sees the doctor, and it's the man who, too often, walks in with the attitude of, "Here I am! I won't tell you anything —it's your job to find out what ails me."

In fact, in case you hadn't noticed it already, men and women aren't alike.

All I can say is that it would be a sorry world if we didn't have about as many men as women — and if there are any other men like J.J.K. who want me to write about "men queries," they'll just have to send the questions they want answered. I'll take them as they come! But many problems applying to women also apply to men.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DO IDEALS PAY?

There is nothing so mysterious as life itself. From the cradle to the grave it is shrouded in doubts and questionings.

Sometimes when we think we have done the right thing we learn that it was all wrong. And so we are compelled to grope our way — much of it in silence and sadness.

We are thrilled with nature's wonders and with all that the great God has arranged for us, but we are filled with wonderings.

We build a castle of ideals. We invite our choicest friends to see what we have built. Then a storm wipes away our toil and years of work and planning. Like bubbles our ideals are burst. And we say: "Does it pay to blow them?"

Yes, it pays! The pay comes in the very blowing of them, the forming of them — the beauty of them — even though others may break them or make us feel that they aren't real.

Service rendered is paid for in the rendering. When you do something for someone who doesn't appreciate it, apparently that should not discourage you. It should encourage you to feel that you have impulses big enough to let out, to expand, to give.

Even though you do not always live up to your ideals (none of us do) it pays to have them. They will hold you firm when all else is gone.

You only have a very little time in which you may give of yourself and express, through your personality, the gifts that are individual to you alone. Then don't bother whether your efforts are going to bring anything back or not.

Your life is your business. Make it splendid just so far as you can and don't worry about the rest.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Two or three weeks ago, The Packsack referring to the prevalence of jingles in radio and TV advertising, warned that the day may not be far distant when our politicians will sing their speeches.

Mrs. Julia A. Morin, of St. Albert, Alberta, writes to say she thinks this might be a good idea. It would, she points out, probably bring out larger attendances at political meetings than we see nowadays. And she reminds The Packsack of something we had forgotten. Political jingles were a popular part of every important election campaign fifty and seventy-five years ago, when politics was much closer to the popular heart than it seems to be today.

"My late husband," she writes, "at sixty still sang the election jingles of his youth, and often mentioned how tame and uninteresting elections have become since political jingles went out."

Well, now, let's see what the advertising boys high in the campaign councils of the political parties can jingle up for us in the coming federal election. They should be right at home in this medium.

Library Circulation Is Up 65,835 Books Since New Extension Opened in 1959

Since the opening of the new extension to the Corby Public Library in the fall of 1959, circulation of books at the main library has increased by 65,835 books, members of the public library board were told at their annual meeting Wednesday evening.

The annual report of the library board shows that the over-all increase in books circulation since the opening of the new extension has been 150,000 books. This includes book borrowing at the various branch libraries.

Total circulation of library books in the city last year amounted to 355,447 which compared with 1960 is an increase of 88,636 books. About one quarter of the over-all increase was at the main library and the remainder at the schools branch libraries.

But the increased circulation is resulting in much wear and tear on the books with repairs required being unbelievably high. During the year 3,975 books were repaired at the library and another 1,300 books were sent back to the bindery to be machine sewn and to be re-covered.

1,200 WITHDRAWN

Also 1,200 books were withdrawn from the records, these including outworn and outdated books and books either lost or not returned by borrowers.

Expenditure for books at the library last year was the highest on record with $16,435 of the library budget being spent for new books, in addition to about $1,000 being spent for this purpose from the "Corby Trust" and $231 from the "Jim Johnson Fund".

During the past year 6,722 books were added to the library of which 3,739 were for the boys and girls department.

Total book collection at the library is over 50,000 but is stated to still be below the standard set by the Canadian Library Association.

The reading of adult non-fiction books last year showed an increase of 8,126 over the year previous, while adult fiction book circulation increased by 6,820. Usually the reading of fiction shows the greatest annual increase.

ON RESERVE LIST

Last year William Shirer's "Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" was the most-sought-after book and was on the reserve list all last year.

The library contact with boys and girls has grown tremendously, according to the library board report.

Total adult non fiction books ciruclated last year was 53,912 and total fiction 94,596.

Last year book circulation in the junior department increased to 206,939 from 133-249 in 1960.

The library added 1,256 new adult members last year and at the same time 1,718 new juvenile readers were added.

The library report noted that the film library had become a very important part of the library service with 73 film council members, non member organizations and small groups making use of films and projectors

Library expenditures for the year totalled $71,623.23 of which $28,764 went for the salaries of the librarian and her assistants.

On the receipts side the municipal levy returned the library $37,791 while $23,644 was received through the legislative grant.

J. M. Cousins New Chairman Library Board

Mr. J. M. Cousins was named chairman of the Corby Public Library Board at their annual meeting and election of officers held Wednesday evening at the Library.

Mr. Cousins succeeds M. M. Hackett as head of the library board after having acted in the role of vice president for the past two years.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting were R. A. Dunsmore, vice-president, C. L. Hyde who was re-elected as chairman of finance, Linton D. Read, chairman of property, and Miss Olive Delaney, secretary treasurer.

City appointments to the board are J. E. Bateman, C. L. Hyde and L. D. Read. Public School Board appointments were J. M. Cousins, M. M. Hackett and R. A. Dunsmore, while Separate School Board appointments are Mrs. Leo Buckley and T. J. Lally, Mayor A. M. Haig is Ex-Officio member of the board.

Staff members of the library are Miss Olive Delaney, librarian; Marion Fisher, Mary Howie, Wilma Durie, Betty Leger, Dorothy Brignell and Charlotte Lockyer, both of the latter being appointed last May and Lorraine MacKinnon.

In addition to the regular and part time employees the library also has part time student employees. They are Betty Pools, Linda Cook, Eudora Denike, Marilyn Huntley, Carolyn James, Brenda Smith, Lynda Overy, Marita Snefjella, Karen Walsh and Victoria Wheeler.

create friction between Canada and the U.S.

The minister said there is "extreme sensitivity" in the U.S. about Canadian trade with Cuba. There was a tendency in the U.S. to exaggerate and misunderstand press reports from Canada on the subject.

The government Monday gave figures showing that in the first 10 months of 1961 $24,750,137 worth of goods were exported to Cuba compared with $13,037,868 in the same period of 1960.

Mr. Hees said initially Thursday that the government has not insured sales to Cuba.

He said later he had been in error. The government had not financed sales to Cuba or any Communist country but it had insured some export sales to Cuba.

The explosives were for quarrying, road construction and the like and no licence was required to cover their export.

SAYS BYPASSED

George McIlraith (L—Ottawa West) said the government bypassed the normal export credits legislation in its grain sales to Communist China.

He said he could only conclude that the government didn't want to disclose the amount of credit it advanced to Red China, which it would have had to do under the Export Credits Insurance Act. Also, under the act, there was a limit on the amount of credit which could be given.

Earlier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said it has never been considered proper to make public any transaction by the Canadian wheat board because this would benefit competitors.

He added that there has been "no default" under terms of the 2½-year grain agreement with China. Canadian exports to China in the first 10 months of 1961 amounted to more than $114,000,000.

The resolution to increase credit to foreign buyers on capital goods purchases was approved by the Commons and a bill was introduced and given first reading.

Mr. Hees said $41,000,000 in loans have been approved for sale of locomotives to Argentina and Brazil, steel rails to Mexico and a paper mill to Chile. Another $114,000,000 in loans had been approved in principle on export deals still to be concluded.

Woman Guilty Of Manslaughter

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Mrs. Maria Gutta, 30, of Fort William Thursday was found guilty of a reduced charge of manslaughter in the shooting death Nov. 3 of Cosimo Cordi, 30.

The all-male petit jury took four-hours and 38 minutes to reach its decision in the case and entered a recommendation for leniency in announcing their decision. Sentence is to be passed Monday.

Mrs. Gutta the mother of five children, had been charged with non-capital murder in the case.

Earlier, Mrs. Gutta testified in her own behalf that she shot and killed Cordi in her Fort William apartment when he threatened to rape her.

Library Books Purposely Mutilated and 3,975 Were Repaired in Year Report

With book circulation at an all time high, it is only natural that more wear and tear should take place, but as dedicated book lovers what really burns staff members up is the number of purposely mutilated books, which turn up in the course of a year.

In her annual report Librarian Miss Olive Delaney notes that no less than 3,975 books were repaired last year while another 1,300 were sent away to the bindery to be machine sewn and recovered.

"The wear and tear on books is unbelievably high" noted Miss Delaney.

Another 1,200 books were withdrawn from the records. Many of these were outworn or outdated, but a surprising number were simply not returned by library borrowers.

MANY EXCUSES GIVEN

In several instances borrowers have returned books hopelessly mutilated. The excuse given in one case was that the family dog got hold of the book and used it as a playtoy.

And the excuses are myriad!

One local library reader, a "do-it-yourself" radio biulder and electronics enthusiast, borrowed several technical books on radio.

The books were not returned and then library officials learned their reader had moved to another city — without leaving his forwarding address.

But the new address was learned and a polite letter suggesting the return of the books brought results.

The books were returned — but not intact. The reader had carried his borrowing just a bit further. Pertinent sections of the books had been slashed out and retained.

Canada, which at one time held her dollar at a fixed discount of about 10 per cent in relation to U.S. currency, set her dollar free in 1950 as a "temporary" move to offset a heavy inflow of foreign capital. The dollar started to climb to par and then to a premium of as much as six per cent in terms of U.S. currency.

Last year the government announced action to use official reserves of gold and U.S. dollars to depress the exchange rate to a discount. But the dollar seemed to drop more rapidly than apparently the government anticipated. There were reports it had to use its reserves last month to study and support the rate to prevent a sudden large deterioration. The current discount is a little less than five per cent.

TAKE NOTE

Some of the fund directors took note of the fact that W. Earle McLaughlin, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, has accused the government of adopting a manipulated floating rate. Finance Minister Donald Fleming denied this, saying this description is "quite unfair."

When the government established its new monetary policy last June, Rasminsky made an appearance before the fund executive to explain Canadian policy. Last July fund executive members suggested it was time Canada returned to a pegged rate but Rasminsky gave no indication the advice would be accepted.

Informants said that while opinion in the executive is growing in favor of pressing Canada to abide by fund rules, there would be no threats. Pressure would be in the form of "moral persuasion."

A European executive member said that while his country would like to see Canada return to the fixed rate: "There must be adequate time for careful preparation. But I would hope to hear that Canada is moving in this direction."

The topic for this meeting as "Hymns." Aided by rerdings, readings and songs, e ULCW learned how and hat inspired the composers of ur beloved hymns.

The cherished Lutheran ymn, "A Mighty Fortress is ur God" was reserved for deotions, which began with the nging of "Rock of Ages," folwed by the reading of Psalm .

Mrs. Swant, Mrs. Lange and rs. Lindeman read portions of cripture, explaining that Dr. artin Luther's hymn "A ighty Fortress is Our God," a paraphrase of Psalm 46.

Mrs. Lange gave a short ading, "Church Music in utheran Worship," telling that usic is God's gift to man and not man's gift alone.

The ULCW learned that Nearer My God to Thee", by dams, was based on Jacob's eam. (Genesis 28: 10-22.)

"God be With You Till We eet Again" by Dr. Rankin, as written as a theme to disiss his congregation followg a Christmas service.

Another favorite hymn, What a Friend We Have in esus" was written by Scrivn. When asked about this omposition, Scriven replied, The Lord and I did it between ."

Congregational Meeting

VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST

The annual congregational meeting of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church was held recently, with a good percentage of the membership in attendance. As in other years, the business meeting was preceded by a bountiful family-style supper which was a happy occasion for both young and old.

After supper the younger children retired to enjoy a program of activity prepared especially for them and the meeting was called to order by the pastor, the Rev. Gordon Woodcock, who read a passage from 1 Corinthians 13, followed by prayer thanking God for past blessings and asking guidance for the coming year.

Mr. Woodcock explained that the reports for the year 1961 would be presented in a somewhat different manner than was customary, being divided into three parts.

REPORTS

The first group of reports, those from church organizations, were presented in the form of 'Trial by Jury,' with court composed of judge, court clerk, counsel for defence and jury. The reports were presented in a humorous manner, based on facts contained in the mimeographed reports distributed to those seated at the tables. The capital charge of 'killing time' was read and defence presented by witnesses representing the different sections of this report. The defence was successful to the point that the jury returned a verdict of 'not guilty'.

The second group of reports, women's and religious education organizations were presented in the form of a quiz conducted by the pastor. Answers that were not spontaneously given could be found in the reports, and a lively competition ensued.

This novel and bright presentation of the reports of this section of the bulletin brought the congregation to the presentation of the financial statement, budget and election of officers for 1962 in a high state of interest. Mr. Woodcock urged a close reading of the reports in order that all might be thoroughly familiar with the activities of the church in all its various departments.

PRESENTATION MADE

At the conclusion of the reading and discussing of the financial statement, budget and election of officers for 1962, Mr. Bert Orr addressed the gathering and the pastor as follows: "Not one of us knows how many calls he (Mr. Woodcock) really makes, and how little time he has had at home for his own family, and to show the appreciation of the church in some small way we would like you to accept this small token of our esteem." Mr. Woodcock graciously accepted the gift of a leather brief case, and paid tribute to the help and support given him by his wife.

The presentation of the Boardman film, "Lift Up Your Eyes", followed which was most wisely chosen in view of the program of simultaneous evangelism to be undertaken early in 1962.

The meeting for 1962 concluded on a high plane of thought. Mr. Woodcock dismissed the congregation with a prayer.

Land Forms Explained By Word, Films

Members were pleased to have as their guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Max Woolley, whose topic was "Geomorphology (land forms) of the Bay of Quinte."

Mr. Woolley gave an extremely enlightening talk on the subject and members were interested to learn many fascinating facts regarding this district. Also to have explained to them the reasons for the differences in landscapes and varying depths of soil covering the bedrock in the area between Belleville and north to beyond Tweed.

Mrs. E. Brett thanked Mr. Woolley and on behalf of Alpha Lambda was pleased to make the presentation of a small token of appreciation.

President Mrs. J. Hayman conducted a short business meeting during which it was resolved that the chapter would rush new pledges in the spring.

Following the closing ritual refreshments were served by hostess Mrs. Walmsley, assisted by co-hostess Mrs. G. Mutter.

The February meeting of Queen Victoria Home and School Association took place with the classrooms being open for a half hour before the meeting, for the parents inspection.

Mrs. J. Smith, president, welcomed the members and introduced the Rev. R.D. MacLean, who led the devotional period. The Scripture was taken from the first chapter of the Epistle of James.

Mrs. Smith announced the school fair to be held in March. The conveners of the various booths were introduced and everyone was asked to contribute generously.

The room-count was taken by Mr. Frink. The winner for the junior division was Miss Dracup's class while Mrs. Ellis' class won the senior award.

Mr. J. Welch, program convener introduced the panel consisting of Mr. B. Kerr, director of the Children's Aid Society; Mr. D. Adamson, Miss Betty Ann Makar, Mr. K. Boardman and their moderator for the evening, Dr. S. C. Rose. Their topic for the evening was one of interest to all attending Home and School Associations, "Parent Child Relationship."

NORMAL DEVELOPMENT

Dr. Rose stated that it was the panel's aim to illustrate the normal development and behavior of children at various ages and the parent's relationship to them. They gave the audience a bird's-eye view from infancy to adolescence.

Mr. Kerr's category was 'the child from infancy to school age.' The normal development and changes in the pre-school age child is probably the greatest of any age group. The various stages in the pre-schooler were described step-by-step and are quite familiar to all parents.

Mr. Kerr said that the person an infant will develop into depends greatly on its environment. If you want your child to have a sunny disposition do not use too much pressure for toilet training. Mr. Kerr said the five-year-old takes criticism badly but loves praise.

FIVE TO EIGHT YEARS

Mr. Adamson dealt with the development and behavior of the five to eight year old. He explained that at this age the child is a changling and you must expect the unexpected. At this age the child does more thinking and his world is more expansive. Grown up approval is more important to him.

Miss Makar discussed the nine-to- 12 year old. She described this age group as "bean sprouting up" "or soaking" in preparation for adolescence. It is a most absorbing age. At this age the child becomes more critical of his parents and is much noisier in his manner, At the age of 12 girls are usually two or three years ahead of boys, both physically and emotionally.

TEEN-AGERS

Mr. Boardman dealt with the teen-ager. He said they sometimes like adult privileges with children's responsibilities.

In summing up, Mr. Boardman stated that teen-agers are not necessarily problems, but teen-agers with problems.

In conclusion, the panel discussed the parental influence on the child. The parents should not use too much pressure on the children but should relax some.

However, there should be consistency in discipline. The four rules for discipline were discussed and enlarged upon namely: immediate, invariable, inevitable and adequate.

In summarizing, Dr. Rose stated that the early years in life are most important as teen-agers are a product of their environment.

The moderator and panelists were thanked by Mr. Ralph.

Coffee was served and a social hour enjoyed.

'Yankee Sails Across Europe' Thrills Audience at Collegiate

One of the most fascinating Adventure Travelogues presented by the Kiwanis Club, was shown last evening at the Collegiate auditorium when Captain I. M. Johnson took the large assembly on a most delightful inland cruise in his unique ship, "The Yankee", through canals in Holland, France, Switzerland — over mountains and to the Greek Islands.

The Ketch "Yankee", was built in Holland, the home of expert shipbuilding craftsmen, and so fashioned of special steel that it could traverse the roughest water, stand buffeting against huge rocks, and so comfortable, even in the stiffest gales riding as gracefully as a swan upon a placid pond, that it was the home of its owner and his sea-faring wife and family. A beautiful boat, it was built for a crew of two, himself and his wife, and is a cross between an ancient galleon with sails, and a modern yacht with motor, and it can go almost anywhere, climb mountains, dodge under bridges and run up on beaches.

After launching on the Zuider Zee came visions of tree-lined Dutch canals; gliding past windmills, storybook medieval towers, by marine museums; through lovely flower gardens; and on to Germany and under water bridges at Minden; down the Rhine River and over the mountains by means of lift-locks to Paris. Here a close view of the original Statue of Liberty and Eiffel tower was seen; under the beautiful bridges with Notre Dame Cathedral in the distance and into Switzerland, through a long dark tunnel in the mountains, emerging into a lovely valley of mists; through huge forests; and then down to the Greek Islands which carried one back into past ages when Ulysses sailed the seas. Everything was the same as 3,000 years ago when Homer wrote his Iliad.

GREAT CLEANLINESS

The people of Greece are exceedingly clean; their towns sparkle with cleanliness, and its towering rocks lend an air of awesomeness. Because of the rocky formation, there is little or no manufacturing with sponge fishing being one of the main occupations, though where the soil permits, there is some agriculture.

In the formal gardens a "Judas" tree was shown and the olive trees which live to great age, even after the heart of the tree is dead, they still bear fruit, some of which attain to 500 years.

Other lovely pictures included the folk dances, in colorful costumes; monastries; a church parade with icons borne aloft; the port where Ulysses docked his ship; which was also the scene of ancient sea battles. The Oracle of Delphi, and the dance of the Shepherds, some of whom were 70 years old.

For special occasions lambs are roasted whole hundreds at a time. It appears that children have lambs for pets, which also are used, if necessary in times of need to provide food.

Crossing the Gulf of Corinth a huge fortress near the Peloponnesus was seen. In ancient times to get ships across the gulf, rolling stones were used. The canal passed between rocky cliffs from 3 to 400 feet high, like a three-mile ditch.

At Delphi Island there was a museum and many marble statues, huge lions and wonderful floors of intricate mosaics, making one thing how far behind our modern tiles are un beauty to those of antiquity. A curious thing in connection with this Island is no one can-be born here or die here. When either birth or death is imminent, people are transported to other places.

ISLAND OF PATMOS

Two of the most interesting pictures were the Island of Patmos, where the beloved disciple of the Lord, John, passed his later years through the edict of the then reigning Caesar. The old monastry was seen and the place where St. John wrote the book of the Revelations and the little harbor where St. Paul landed in his missionary journey. Two everlasting witnesses to the truth of the Holy Scripture.

Other scenes included the Island of Thera and its huge crater; the great outdoor theatre seating 14,000, and having amazing acoustic properties so that a coin dropped in any spot could be heard through the vast place.

Then across the Ionian Sea to Sicily to the Isle of Capri with its towering candy-stick lighthouse and the blue grotto, which completed the showing of a fabulous inland cruise.

Captain Johnson who was introduced by Kiwanian Ralph Graham, has a fantastic record of accomplishments. In 1929 he sailed the four-mast "Peking" around Cape Horn; in 1930 he was the mate of the "Shamrock V," America's cup challenger on its crossing back to England; in 1933 he piloted the "Yankee" around the world three times; during World War II he served on active duty in the U.S. Navy as Lt. Commander and is now on Reserve in the Navy with the rank of Captain. He has also co-authored with his wife many books, including "Around the Horn in a Square Rigger"; "Shamrock V's Wild Voyage Home"; "Westward Bound in the Schooner Yankee" and several others. Those who were privileged to hear him were indeed fortunate. Captain Johnson has also recorded his trips in the National Geographic Magazine.

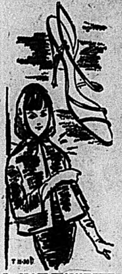
Evening Accessories



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Attractive accessories from top to toe add to the season's sartorial cheer.

Ready for resort evening wear is this sandal done in canary yellow or turquoise blue patent leather. Its asymmetrical curved stripping is designed to flatter the foot.

Good for north or south, a charming little evening jacket is fashioned of a blend that has a golden look. It is lined in either black or red velvet and the hood drops down to a cowl line in back.

King George H-S Hears Survival Talk

The regular monthly meeting of King George Home and School Association was held in the school auditorium on February 12, with some 40 members present.

Mr. Ron Lee, the president, conducted the business session which included giving notice of the setting up of the nominations committee for this year's election of officers which wil take place in May.

Mrs. Margaret Hutt explained to the members what will take place at the Fun Fair being held on March 2, which is to raise funds for the association and also introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Major Ken Willcocks of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Major Willcocks spoke on the 11 steps to survival as laid down by the Emergency Measures Organization, and this proved to be one of the most interesting and informative talks the association has heard to date.

Major Willcocks took each step in turn and explained fully what each person should know if a nuclear attack came.

The 11 steps covered were: know the effects of nuclear explosions; know the facts about radioactive fallout; know the warning signals and have a battery-powered radio; have a shelter to go to; have 14 days emergency supplies; know how to prevent and fight fires; know first aid and home nursing; know emergency cleanliness; know how to get rid of radioactive dust; know your municipal emergency plans and have a plan for your family, (and if you are alone, have your own plan).

Each member was given a copy of the booklet issued by E.M.O. as well as one on fallout shelters.

Major Willcocks conducted a question and answer period which proved most interesting.

The speaker was thanked by Mr. Harry Hutt.

Many Enjoy H.S. Annual 'At Home'

STIRLING — The Stirling-Rawdon District High School annual "At Home" was held last Friday evening in the school gymnasium. George Potters orchestra furnished the music and there was a large attendance of students, parents and friends.

The gymnasium was decorated on the theme, "Around the World in 80 Days," and a false ceiling of blue and pink streamers was attractively arranged and pictures of different scenes around the world were placed at strategic points along the wall.

Those in the receiving line were principal Mr. John L. Good and Mrs. Good; Mr. and Mrs. John Sheridan; Lyle Couch; Carol Beckett; Anne Reid and Burnard Beckitt.

Dainty refreshments were served and those in attendance report a most successful event.

Commercials Too Loud, Too Long on Radio and TV Findings After Survey

OTTAWA (CP)—The commercials are too loud and too frequent and there is too much crime and violence on Canadian television and radio.

These are two of the conclusions reached in a two-year, woman's - eye view of television and radio, conducted by Mrs. George Wilson of St. Marys, Ont.

Mrs. Wilson writes after completion of the 10-province survey that women complain also of too loud background music, of commercials that offer premiums to children and of a need for more educational programs.

LIKE IN MORNING

"The surveys show that television has become the more popular form of entertainment, but radio is appreciated by the busy homemaker in the morning," says Mrs. Wilson.

The federation issued a statement on her findings today. She made little distinction between television and radio and none between privately owned radio or TV and Canadian Broadcasting Corporation stations in either medium.

The federation release said its institutes are still concerned with the kind of programs broadcast into Canadian homes.

Mrs. Wilson reports that members would like westerns replaced with "true historical dramas based on Canadian explorers."

Members praised school broadcasts and Kindergarten of the Air and recommended a return of alent Caravan, a former CBC national talent hunt.

45 Student Nurses Receive Caps in Candlelight Ceremony

Proud parents, friends and teachers were present at the traditional ceremony. Greetings to the class were presented by Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, president of the Belleville General Hospital Womens'Hospital Auxiliary; by Mrs. Dorothy Taylor, president of the Nurses' Alumnae; and by Miss Thelma Barr, president of the Student Nurses' Association.

Miss Doris Smith, director of nursing, welcomed parents and friends. She urged the students to think of nursing with loyalty, speak of it with praise and always act as a custodian of its good name.

Miss Marion Gomme, Mrs. Doreen Fredericks and Mrs. Madeline Hookings presented the lamps and candles to each nurse.

Those who poured coffee were: Miss Hilda Collier and Mrs. Winnifred Donaldson.

The girls who received caps are as follows: Miss Elaine Baker, Port Hope; Miss Anne Blakely, Belleville; Miss Marjorie Brennan, Lonsdale; Miss Marilyn Brown, Peterborough; Miss Fay Bruce, Camden East; Miss Sharon Byford, Picton; Miss Ann Callahan, Corbyville; Miss Patricia Carter, Belleville; Miss Marlene Clapp, Foxboro; Miss Annamae Clarke, Halloway; Miss Carol Cockburn, Picton; Miss Shirley Davey, Cobourg; Miss Caroline Davy, Actinolite; Miss Mary Catherine Dillon, Toronto; Miss Bonita Eves, Kingston; Miss Susan Gay, Kingston; Miss Heather Gordon, Brockville; Miss Joan Gordon, Brockville; Miss Barbara Hannah, Kingston; Miss Eunice Hartford, Morganston; Miss Eleanor Harvey, Cobourg; Miss Jeanette Hopkins, Trenton; Miss Audrey Jones, Tweed; Miss Linda Kennedy, Trenton; Miss Marianna Kramer, Burlington; Miss Christine Lachman, Belleville; Miss Nancy Leland, Trenton; Miss Mary Lynch, Belleville; Miss Gail Margetson, Frankford; Miss Mary McGuire, Belleville; Miss Marilyn McKeown, Campbellford; Miss Arliss McLaughlin, Colborne; Miss Betty Remsik, Port Hope; Miss Elsie Rowinski, Kingston; Miss Vicki Shaw, Toronto; Miss Jean Sheridan, Port Hope; Miss Carleen Simpson, Cobourg; Miss Elaine Storey, Brighton; Miss Brenda Thomson, Matawatchan; Miss Dianne Thrower, Wooler; Miss Judith Watson, Belleville; Miss Joan Willmott, Gravenhurst; Miss Ruth Wilson, Thomasburg; Miss Penelope Wingate, Picton; Miss Sharon Wood, Trenton.

Women's Activities

BRIDGE ST. UNITED U.C.W.

On Wednesday evening the first meeting of the new organization, "The United Church Women of Bridge Street United Church" was held in the Sunday School rooms. There was a fair attendance despite the inclement weather, this was encouraging evidence of the enthusiasm and expectation with which the women are going forward into the new organization.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Clare, welcomed the ladies and opened the meeting with words of hope and encouragement. She gave three quotations from an address by the Rev. John Gazzard. The first, "You are inaugurated and this is an historic occasion". Second, "You will no doubt have a feeling of inadequacy for the task, but remember that you have the full power of God behind you in your work." Third, "You are indespensable" Mrs. Clare also read several passages from an address by Dr. Angus MacQueen, former moderator of the United Church.

Mrs. George Moore, program convener conducted an inspiring worship service with Mrs. K. Bird at the piano.

Mrs. Moore gave a synopsis of the booklet, "The Story of Our Syrian Guest," by William Allen Knight, this being the story of the 23rd Psalm.

Miss Loretta McDougall contributed a beautiful solo, "Spirit of God," she was accompanied by Mrs. J. G. Demeza at the piano.

The business of the meeting was conducted by the president. Reports and recommendations of the executive to the general meeting were dealt with as well as reports from the various officers and convenors of committees.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

Mrs. Ralph Morden introduced the short play based on the program pamphlet, "The Bible Speaks," written by the Rev. Anne Graham, of London, Ontario.

Those taking part were: Mrs. Wilbur Sherry, Miss Grace Tucker, Mrs. Neil O'Neil and Miss Helen Sulman.

The participants in this little play depicted a group of ladies meeting in a home to earnestly seek to make their method of Bible study in their units more meaningful to the members. They discussed ways and means of approaching Bible study, how to encourage participation by individual members and how each member should prepare herself at home for the meeting of the group.

Mrs. Freeman Burrows thanked all those taking part in the program and the worship service.

A social half hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by members of the executive at small tables daintily appointed in the St. Valentine's theme.

SPY GETS JAIL TERM

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (Reuters) — A West German photographer who admitted taking aerial photographs of British Rhine Army installations was sentenced to two years' imprisonment here today on charges of spying for Russia. Heinz Cassel, 37, told the court he needed a large sum of money quickly to pay for an operation for his wife.

St. Columba Group Marks 1st Birthday

The Iona group of St. Columba Church celebrated their first anniversary Tuesday night at their regular monthly meeting, with Mrs. John Hayman acting as chairman pro tem.

Mrs. J. Cathcart read the Scripture, followed by a prayer by Mrs. E. J. McLaughlin.

The highlight of the evening was the guest speaker, Miss Dorothy Connor, V.O.N. nurse, who gave an informative and interesting talk on the V.O.N., and its service to the public. Miss Connor outlined the numerous activities of the order, among which were maternity care, both pre-natal, and post-natal care of the new-born, care of the old, as well as care for diabetics, cardiac, stroke, and arthritic cases, and many others.

Miss Connor pointed out that the service is available to anyone, regardless of race, color or creed, at a moderate cost which is operated on a sliding scale.

In many needy cases the care is free.

After a brief question and answer period Miss Connor was thanked by Mrs. R. Brain, who is St. Columba's representative on the V.O.N. Board.

The devotional period, conducted by Mrs. Robert Brain, took the form of a quiz in which each member could assess her value to the church.

During the business meeting, the group made plans for a St. Patrick's Day Tea and home bake table, to be held in March.

The program of the evening was presented by Mrs. J. Ruddy and Mrs. R. Brain. The ladies present enjoyed a film "Ring The Jubilee", a timely showing on the church and its services; education, outreach and worship; also of the many duties of the church at home and abroad, and of the great sense of achievement the young people had when they unselfishly devoted their life to the church.

Mrs. J. Hayman thanked Mrs. Ruddy and Mrs. Brain for a most educational film.

Oratorical Winners Announced

STIRLING — Stirling Public School held their elimination public speaking contest at the school on Thursday evening. The judges chose Nancy Wilson as first, who spoke on "My Home Town"; second went to Sue Anne Bastedo, who spoke on "Television an Aid or Hindrance to Education" and third went to Bruce Woodbeck, who chose to speak on "My Home Town — Stirling".

Other contestants were: Anne Watson, Richard Crossman, Frank Camm and Robert Marbry. All contestants received silver dollars from the school board.

Club Activities

ST. ANDREW'S C.G.I.T.

The St. Andrew's Presbyterian C.G.I.T. group held its meeting in the form of a Valentine party on Monday evening. The hall was well decorated with Valentines. Each girl attended with a friend as a guest. Skating from 7 o'clock to 8 was enjoyed, after which they returned to the church for refreshments consisting of hot dogs, soft drinks and cookies. There were also a few games played.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. P.A. — He saves up to buy presents for my sister, not me.

Allan A. — My aunt really appreciates whatever I give her.

• • •

Mrs. P.A. — I have a 14-year-old son. His father and I have lavished expensive gifts upon him, as well as taken care of his ordinary needs. We give him a suitable allowance and, in addition, he makes a few dollars a week delivering prescriptions for a druggist.

In the past few weeks I was convinced that he was extremely selfish because he not only failed to give his father or me a Christmas gift, but also he glossed right over our anniversary and my birthday. Not even a 25-cent card! And now I discover quite the contrary, he's generosity itself — but to others. My sister revealed that Allan sent her a quilted breakfast-coat for Christmas and, last week, a corsage for her birthday! And she only gave him a necktie. How come?

• • •

Allan A. — I get a big kick out of giving little things to my aunt. No matter what it is — a pretty shell, a footstool I made myself or a funny cartoon — she really welcomes it. You never saw anyone make such a fuss over a present. Even a homemade calendar I gave her went right up on the wall and I enjoy knowing she's using it.

It's just the opposite with my folks. Once I bought my mother some perfume. She sniffed it and said it was ghastly. She asked me why I wasted my money on such junk. No matter what I buy my father, he tells me to save my money and just be a good boy. Once I gave them a snapshot of themselves. I framed it in a dollar frame. They just laughed and hid it somewhere. So why bother?

• • •

The Council: How many mothers, Mrs. A., really are dying for one of those lumpy woven pot holders or rickety coat hangers kids bring home from school or camp? Yet how many smart ones, when face to face with a youngster, act as though they are proud to accept the best he could do!

One of the greatest sources of self-confidence is approval from others. Thus, when Allen tendered you a gift you would have been wise to look intently at his face, rather than his hands and what was in them. And written on that face would be the plea, "Please like it. I'm so happy to be giving you something. Please be happy receiving it!" But Mrs. A., as do many of us, thoughtlessly rejected him.

Allan's anut, on the other hand, has learned the delicate art of receiving. Its principal rule is to make sure the giver derives some joy in giving. Emphasis is upon the hopes and mood of the giver. Actually few of us handle a gift, or even a compliment, graciously. "Oh, this old dress?" "Oh, you shouldn't have!" "You embarrass me" — these are some of the standard, awkward responses.

A prominent marriage counselor, Dr. Eleanor Hamilton, goes so far as to say that an infant is permanently affected by the way his mother accepts his early "gifts" to her, ranging from his coos and gurgles to his burps and diapers! If he senses approval, he feels good about himself and is encouraged to give more, to become an outgoing person. Dr. Hamilton believes this easy "givingness" makes him eventually a better husband.

There's the importance, Mrs. A., of making much out of little, when the little happens to be Allan's "all." Your sister senses that he gives her things for the fun of it, out of a sense of joy rather than of duty. There's no "tit for tat" in his presentation. You must copy your sister's response, with thanks, interest and the conspicuous using of Allan's tokens. (Aside to Allan: Try her again!)

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . This Fall we had an excess of tomatoes and I tried to make tomato soup using soda — but every time it curdled. My teacher was a 92-year-old lady who doesn't read or write — cooks with a pinch of this or that. Can the soup also be made from canned tomatoes? We had tomatoes canned and made into juice at the canners — Lillian C.

ANSWER:

Yes.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP:

3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 medium onion chopped, 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups canned tomatoes or juice, 4 cups water or chicken broth or 2 cups water and 2 cups whole milk, 1 small garlic clove (optional), 4 pepper berries, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup light cream (or an additional cup of whole milk).

Simmer together the tomatoes, water or broth, pepper berries, salt and sugar for 10 minutes. Saute onion and garlic in butter until transparent, but not brown. Stir in flour and blend. Strain tomato mixture and stir into flour paste until thick. (If milk is used add ¼ teaspoon baking soda at this stage and gradually add the tomato mixture to the milk stirring.) Add cream, heat through, but not to boiling and serve with croutons.

QUESTION:

Can you help a slightly bewildered mother? My daughter is getting married the end of February and, although the reception will be catered one (at noon) I still expect to provide for about 30-35 relatives and friends at an evening meal. As a starter I planned on cooking a large turkey the day before and perhaps also a ham. Since it will be winter I feel I need more warm dishes plus salads. What would you suggest as casseroles? Could some be made the day before and reheated ?— Mrs. H. C. F.

ANSWER:

Make three casseroles using the three different variations of vegetables (below). They may be made in advance and reheated at serving time.

VEGETABLE CASSEROLE:

2 lbs. cooked cut green beans or green peas or 5 cups green celery stalks, 3 cups diced cooked potatoes, 12 slices crisp bacon crumbled, 2 large onions, chopped, ¾ cup flour, 7½ cups milk, 1½ cups grated Cheddar cheese, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, crumbled corn flakes.

Cook bacon. Combine the beans or other vegetables, potatoes, bacon and onion. Into 12 tablespoons bacon drippings in the frying pan blend the flour. Gradually add the milk and cook until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Add the grated cheese and salt and pepper. Combine this sauce with the vegetables, pour into 2-quart baking dishes, sprinkle with corn flakes and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for half an hour.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Here's a group of questions designed to test whether or not you're a cooperative type. Answer Yes or No to each

1. If you and your cartful of groceries were next in line at the supermarket check-out counter and the woman behind you had only two items in her hand, would you let her through first if she asked you through first if she asked you politely?

2. If two people, obviously together, sat down on either side of you in a bus, would you trade seats with one so they could sit together?

3. Suppose you were in a phone booth, just chatting to use up your dime, and the person outside was obviously in a hurry to use the phone. Would you obligingly terminate your call?

4. If a stranger stopped you to ask directions, would you give them courteously, even if you were in a rush?

5. If a mother in your school car pool couldn't drive one day and she asked you to sub, would you cheerfully agree to drive out of turn?

6. At the end of a PTA meeting, extra hands were needed to lighten the cleaning-up work. Would you volunteer?

7. If a fourth were needed for bridge, and you were asked to sit in, would you agree, even if you were not keen on your partner?

8. If you had finished your work and a co-worker was up to her ears, would you stay ten minutes past quitting time and help her out?

9. If a neighbor's phone was out of order, would you, if asked, let her make calls from your house until it was repaired?

10. Suppose a friend's sitter was late and she asked you to sit in for an hour or so. Would you?

Scoring:

All Yes? — Your all-for-one attitude shows you're a true friend in need.

All No? — A born isolationist.

Half and Half? — You can cooperate, but only if you're not inconvenienced.

What Is 'Love'?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Our sociology class at school has been studying such topics as marriage and dating. One particular group has been given the topic "Love at First Sight." We would like your opinion on this topic.

Is there such a thing as love at first sight? How much does it really mean and what are its possibilities in the future?

We would also like to know what you think love is.—PAULINE.

DEAR PAULINE—I know of one case in which a young man still on the operating table opened his eyes long enough to look up at the completely strange nurse who was tending him, and say "Some day I'm going to marry you." Then he went back to sleep. And he did marry her.

Was it love? Twenty-five years later they are still enjoying life together, so it sounds like the real thing. I know of other cases.

On the other hand, there are those who on first glance fall for another; and when they take a second look, get up again, still in their right mind. But if there was no first attraction, how would dating get started?

How much it means depends on whether it ripens into a friendship based on common interests, physical compatability and background.

What is love? An extremely pleasant emotion, without which humans shrivel and decline. With love given and received, individuals are free to attain the highest self-realization of which they are capable.

Sunday School Lesson

Mastering Our Complexes

By ROY L. SMITH

In referring to a certain individual in our community who could not have been called successful, a friend of mine said; "The trouble with that man is he has a terrible inferiority complex". It was a little bit as if he had said, "He is color blind", or "He has a club foot, you know".

Color blindness and club feet are dreadful misfortunes, but at least this much must be said for them. They are not of our own making. They are the result of some strange deficiency in the genes.

Complexes, on the other hand are matters of our own making. The question of whether we surrender to them or assert our mastery over them, is a matter of our individual decision.

> The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for February 18: "Respect For Human Life", Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5:21-26, 38-48; 19: 13-15; Luke 12:4-7.

No man needs to suffer indefinitely from an inferiority complex, or from any other complex for that matter. The power to master any complex lies ready at hand for anyone who is willing to make the effort that victory requires.

THIS PROBLEM OF KILLING

Face to face with the tensions of today's world, millions of good people are face to face with the moral issue that appears in the ancient commandment — "Thou shalt not kill".

Let's be fair with the pacifists. I have known a good many of them during the last 30 years and I have never known one whom I did not believe to be honest, sincere and dedicated to his ideals. I may think those ideals are mistaken, but I cannot fail to respect the people who honestly and sacrificially hold to them.

There is all too little conscience on display in this world. Let us be very careful about persecuting the conscientious.

One of the complexes to which we are very liable to fall a victim in these uneasy days is that of suspicion. When, on every hand, we are being warned against communism, and being exhorted to fight it, we find it easy to suspect all those who do not think as we do. The superiority complex in an hour like this is an extremely dangerous inner urge.

IT'S AN INSIDE JOB

Every complex represents an inside job As we hate, we corrode our own souls. As we think in terms of killing, we make it easier to be a murderer. As we raise suspicions, our imaginations feed them. Very quickly—sooner than we think, actually—we are obsessed with the killing instinct and nothing can be more terrible.

Nothing and no one from the outside can compel us to hold other people under suspicion can any outside influence compel us to hate, become jealous, or overemphasize our own rights and privileges. All these attitudes, from which there flow the worst disasters, are chosen. without our consent. Neither

There comes a time in the life of every man when he has the chance to choose between the good and the bad attitudes, between the corrupt and the correct. And upon that choice depends the issues of life.

BEGINNING OF BALANCE

The beginning of the balanced mind is the respect we hold for other people.

No man can look upon his neighbors as being also made in the image of God without treating them just a little better. No one can think of humankind as being the objects of the concern and affection of the Creator, and then think of them as fit subjects for hatred.

A well - dressed individual, quite evidently a "Boss man" of some sort, came scrambling up out of a huge ditch they were digging for the railroad. "What do you have down there?" someone asked him as he came up to the street. Without looking back, he said, "About 300 dagoes, I guess." The next man who came scrambling out of the pit was also asked: "What have you got down there?" With that he turned back, stood looking for a minute, and then replied, "About 300 souls, I would say."

And that, if you please, is the stuff out of which peace is made.

Nicholson Homes

Imagine owning a home like the Glenora for less than you are now paying in rent! Nicholson Self-Help Homes have solved the workingman's housing problem with designs and plans usually found only in expensive homes. It has 3-bedrooms — a "step-saver" kitchen, and a 12' "pantry-wall" — plus loads of additional storage.

You can buy the Glenora — or any Nicholson home in the Basic stage, the Completed Package — or Livable Stage — so there's bound to be one to fit your family's budget!

3 TYPICAL STAGES OF COMPLETION—

The BASIC STAGE

This stage includes the home erected on your foundation, the exterior painted, the shingles applied, windows in place and exterior doors hung. Inside the home 2x4 partitions are in place.

Supplied, but not installed: 5/16" firply underlay, 2" wool insulation for exterior walls, 3" wool insulation for ceilings, ½" gypsum wallboard, all joint filling materials, corner beads, inside doors, closet doors, hardware, interior paint, trim and mouldings.

THE COMPLETED STAGE

Wiring is installed and we supply the heating package, plumbing package, kitchen cabinets, finish flooring in hardwood or tile, lighting fixtures, bath wall tile, medicine cabinet, and pre-fab chimney package.

READY TO LIVE IN STAGE

The heating and plumbing packages are installed. The insulation is installed and the wallboard is ready for taping.

Nicholson Homes can be bought in the Basic Stage or more. Delete items from succeeding stages as you choose. Extras such as foundations, storm doors and windows, and pumps can also be added under the Nicholson Home plan.

NO SALARY REQUIREMENTS

NO MONEY DOWN

Here at last are homes a workingman can afford! Build your Nicholson Home anywhere — the town or country. If you own your lot free and clear, no down payment may be necessary. But whether you own your lot or not, come in and talk to us — all you really need is a good credit rating.

SELF-HELP HOMES ARE FOR FAMILIES WHO ARE WILLING TO DO SOME OF THE WORK THEMSELVES!

Our skilled workmen build the home you choose on your lot—preferably on your foundation. All the heavy and complicated work is done for you. You buy in the stage of completion you can afford and do the finishing work yourself. All labor and materials are included in the one mortgage — red tape is cut to a minimum.

SELF-HELP HOMES ARE CUSTOM BUILT BY A DEALER YOU KNOW — TRADESMEN YOU TRUST!

Nicholson's believe that a workingman in a home of his own with monthly payments he can afford is a good credit risk. Come and talk over your housing needs with us. Chances are we'll be able to tailor a proposal to your budget.

Ask More Help For Emotionally Disturbed Child

By JACK BEST

EDMONTON (CP)—Two mental health organizations appeared before the royal commission on health services Wednesday and said more attention should be paid to the problem of emotionally disturbed children.

Both the Alberta division of the Canadian Mental Health Association and the association's Alberta southern region emphasized recognition and treatment of emotional disturbances at an early age makes possible the development of sound adults.

In briefs to the commission, they said treatment and rehabilitation of disturbed persons contribute to the health of the economy, since mental and emotional conditions result in a loss of millions of dollars in production each year.

The Alberta division recommended that departments of education and local school boards be urged to "formulate a policy" with respect to the detection, treatment and referral of emotionally disturbed children within the school system.

MAY SPOT EARLY

If all classroom teachers were trained to detect unhealthy behavior patterns, the majority of disturbed youngsters might be spotted in the elementary grades.

Frankford

U.C.W.

FRANKFORD .— Frankford United Church Women held a meeting on the evening of February 6.

President Mrs. Preston Chase opened the meeting with a "Call to Worship". The Scripture reading was read by Mrs. Frank Phillipps. The president gave a brief meditation and also read the "General Meeting" from the constitution. Mrs. George Montgomery presented cards to life members. Mrs. Leslie Frost was the pianist.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. Raymond Rowe. She spoke on the 8 D's: discovery, desire, discrimination, devotion, determination, developing, discipleship and dedication.

A skit entitled "New Ways for New Days" followed with Mrs. C. Bennett, Mrs. A. Stickle, Mrs. R. Rumney, Mrs. R. Rowe enacting the parts. The skit stressed a need for adult Christian education and of the women taking their place beside the men in the work of the church. A discussion followed.

Mrs. Claude Moran rendered a vocal solo. Mrs. M. Carscadden gave a reading, after which refreshments were served.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Reaching for the moon, a super-quick memory for scientists and science for young school children.

THINKING AHEAD

The United States is aiming at getting a man to the moon. But take a look at what it will take to do the job.

A mammoth rocket, still being designed, called the Saturn C-5, will land a man on the moon or carry a man around the moon, says Dr. Wernber von Braun of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The Saturn C-5, weighing as much as a naval destroyer, will stand 350 feet high and 33 feet in diameter. Its weight—about 3,000 tons — is about the same as 25 fully-loaded Boeing 707 jetliners.

This 35-storey, flying skyscraper will be able to put into orbit a capsule that weighs almost as much as one jetliner.

FAST MEMORY

Scientists have made themselves a memory machine which can sort out a stowed bit of information in less than 100 billionths of a second.

Our brains and nerves operate at speeds considerably slower — but the brain still amazes computer scientists with the amount of information it can store within the confines of the skull.

The new electronic memory is an experimental design of International Business Machines Corporation. It actually records bits of data on a magnetized film laid down on a highly-polished silver plate.

SCIENCE FOR KIDS

A new encyclopedia has been designed for young students interested in science.

Each definition has an explanation in big type, simply worded, followed by a detailed, more difficult explanation in smaller type for the more advanced reader. Included too: Simple experiments for the classroom.

Now being offered to schools and libraries, the Young People's Science Encyclopedia (Children's Press) may soon be offered to families. Sample definition:

"Amber. Millions of years ago, evergreen trees gave off a sticky sap called resin. In time these trees fell or were blown down by wind and storm. They were buried in the mud or under water where the resin hardened into amber."

43RD ANNIVERSARY

DESERONTO — —On the occasion of their 43rd wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fraser of Deseronto, were entertained by the members of their family at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Langton in Kingston.

Present at the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pringle of Deseronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Mrey of Kingston.

$500 DAMAGE

An early morning alarm took the fire department to the home of Maurice Legris on the Belleville road about 4.00 a.m. Tuesday. A fire had started in the kitchen and the family was awakened by the smoke. Firemen put out the fire with a fog nozzle and confined the damage to the kitchen. Some of the woodwork was badly burned and one door badly scorched. Some damage was done the refrigerator. Estimate of damage was $500.

Firemen Sponsor Benefit Dance

DESERONTO — The benefit dance sponsored by the members of the Deseronto Fire Department on Friday night for one of their members, who suffered the loss of his tool kit at the fire at Dawson's Motel was well attended

Dancing was enjoyed to the music of the Modernaires of Tweed, who played at a special price because of the nature of the event.

The Lions Club donated the use of the hall and because of the support of the people of the town a respectable amount of money was turned over to Mr. Hamilton.

People from all walks and all organizations were whole heartedly behind the effort and as Mr. Hamilton said, in thanking the people, "It is only in a town such as this that people are big enough to assist in time of adversity."

The firemen also turned over the proceeds of their bingo on Saturday night to assist Mr. Hamilton and between the two events, he is much more hopeful now of securing the tools necessary for his employment.

Winner: car of the year award

Selected as the "Car of the Year" by Canada Track and Traffic, the nation's leading automotive journal, the 1962 Studebaker Lark was proved to be the best automobile buy of all domestic cars.

Lark has more leg room than any domestic family car. Seats are comfortable, well shaped. Greatest headroom. Easy entry and exit.

Tests found the Lark to be rattle-free, weather-tight, quiet running and dependable.

Lark honoured as a most economical car to operate because of excellent gas mileage, low maintenance requirements, overall reliability, low cost of repairs, bolt on body components and nationwide service facilities. Lark judged to give most per dollar.

Winner: first Trans-Canada Rally

For the 4,100 tortuous miles of the first Trans-Canada Rally, the Studebaker Larks amazed spectators and other competitors with their thrilling acceleration and speed, top fuel economy and maximum passenger comfort. The fabulous Larks rocketed through torrential downpours with never a miss, many cars failed this grueling test of endurance and handling.

This reliable performance made Lark outright winner, taking not only first but also second place over 86 competitors in 41 makes and models of cars.

This is the kind of reliable performance you deserve and should demand from a car.

See your Studebaker Dealer today. Let the spirited '62 Lark put the thrill, fun and glamour back into your driving.

Winner: Little Le Mans

Lark outmaneuvered, outdistanced, outpaced, all foreign and domestic cars to win the 4th annual Little Le Mans. Lark finished first, over all competitors and in so doing, won the trophy for the Fastest Lap.

The tortuous, twisting track with its sharp turns, 20 degree incline and short straightaway runs, gave brakes, steering, suspension, gears and acceleration the most complete testing possible. Eight ceaseless hours of Little Le Mans reflects real championship performance and endurance.

The Lark's race winning performance is not just for competition. Lark's dependability on the race course means less maintenance costs, and years of trouble free operation.

Winner: Sales more than Doubled

Come in and test-drive the car that wins the competitions, and captures the public's eye. Lark is bigger where it counts. Big in feel . . . solid, safe, sure-footed. Big in Roominess . . . more leg and head room than other "standard" size cars. Big in Performance . . . 6 or V8, you get more miles-to-the-gallon and miles-to-the-hour.

Lark is compact where it's sensible. Compact for Driving Ease, finger-light steering, precise handling, first-time parking. Compact for Economy. You get more for your money and spend less because of the Lark's low, initial cost, operating expenses and maintenance.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Announcement that an unknown New York would-be promoter would guarantee world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson $300,000 to fight Bob Cleroux of Montreal, didn't bring any banner headlines from Canadian sports editors and writers.

The announcement made the sport pages all right, mostly tucked away in obscure corners. We would have slugged it "The Daily Chuckle," but the copy slated for the date was too good.

Another snicker-raising announcement was that of Cleroux's manager, Al Backman, who reportedly turned down an offer of $7,500 to meet Cassius Clay in Madison Square Garden March 31st. Clay is the cocky young sensation who has been blazing quite a trail across the fistic horizon.

Clay is unranked in the top ten, and not among the contenders for the heavyweight title. Cleroux is ranked seventh. Ahead of him are Sonny Liston, Eddie Machem, Alejandro Lavorante, Zora Folley, Ingemar Johansson and Cleveland Williams.

Reverse that order and you have the modus operandi of crafty Cus D'Amato, the Patterson manager. Match-making the champ with low raters for big guarantees is D'Amato's forte. He "goofed" but once when he had the champion take on the Goteburg Swede.

Cleroux, a lumbering, plodding heavyweight, who took the title from Toronto's George Chuvalo and neglected to play the return game, cannot fight in Montreal again until he has met Chuvalo in Toronto.

The National Boxing Association recognises the Cleroux contract to fight Chuvalo and will not allow the French-Canadian to fight in an affiliated state until he fulfils it. Thus, as a Montreal writer puts it: "the announcement of a possible fight with Patterson in Montreal was strictly for the birds."

The "public be damned" attitude on the part of some fistic bigshots can go so far. Patterson came to the end of his "set-up" rope when he took part in the McNeeley fiasco in Toronto last year. The long-suffering public won't stand for any more of such tripe and are demanding the champion to meet logical contenders, at the moment, one Sonny Liston.

The $300,000 offer for Patterson to fight Cleroux came from one Stan Weston of New York, who owns and publishes a sports magazine.

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll says: "Anybody can make an announcement—or an offer—but the effect it produces depends on who you are. Accordingly you infer that Mr. Weston had one object in mind: to get some publicity for his magazine."

Matches or reported matches began flitting through the air. Cleroux' manager Bachman said he would not sign to fight Clay because "we're interested in bettering ourselves." But a day or so later came an announcement that a San Francisco matchmaker had signed Cleroux to meet one George Logan there on March 5th. Bachman is not bettering himself with this one. There must be a bigger purse.

Then came an announcement from Los Angeles that Championship Sports Inc. is expected to announce a title bout between Patterson and Sonny Liston in Yankee Stadium next June. This report was denied.

Wise promoters know where the money is—and what the public wants. Dempsey has said that Liston should take a year to rehabilitate himself before he takes on Patterson. But Joe Public is a strange guy. I believe a Patterson-Liston fight right now would "pack the joint," so to speak.

And a wire story from Los Angeles late yesterday said that promoter George Parnussus will offer to guarantee Patterson a cool million dollars to defend his crown against Liston.

Patterson's lawyer, Julius November, arrived in L.A. recently to look into the possibility of a Patterson-Liston match in the late spring. He met Bill Nicholas, manager of the 100,000-plus-seat Memorial Coliseum.

Parnassus said Patterson can have his choice of a million or forty per cent of all receipts. Either would set a record. Largest recorded boxing purse is the $990,445 paid Gene Tunney for the second Jack Dempsey battle in 1927.

Runaway Habs Slaughter Bruins 9-1

Wings Edge Blues 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A bit of advice from an old pro was all rookie Bobby Rousseau needed to cash in Thursday night on that once - rare play, the penalty shot.

It wouldn't really have mattered much, as Rousseau's penalty shot goal was the ninth in a 9-1 slaughter by Montreal Canadiens of the lowly Boston Bruins. Canadiens are in first place in the National Hockey League, now 11 points ahead of second - place Toronto.

Lower down the ranks Detroit's Norm Ullman shot the winning goal in a 4-3 victory over New York Rangers, a victory that tied Detroit for fourth place — the league's last playoff spot — with the Rangers.

Detroit also has a game in hand over the Rangers.

In Montreal, Boston seemed to be in the game for only a little while — to be exact, until 10:46 of the first period when Claude Provost scored his 30th goal of the year. Then came the deluge.

Ralph Backstrom followed it up within 20 seconds, and Bill Hicke added another 10 seconds before the period ended.

Facing a 5-0 deficit when they came back for the second round, the Bruins were slapped down immediately. They had a one - man advantage over Montreal when Rousseau broke away alone and made it 6-0 only 43 seconds after the start of the period. At 3:42, Dickie Moore made it 7-0.

Westfall scored on a long blooper shot at 10:30 before Henri Richard increased the lead to 8-1 at 14:16.

Rousseau's penalty shot, the seventh this season, was awarded in the third period after Boston's Gerry Toppazzini and Doug Mohns hauled down Rousseau from behind as he went on another typical breakaway.

Rousseau had a short talk with his team captain Jean Beliveau, who advised him to take a long shot rather than try to take out goaler Bruce Gamble. Rousseau skated in slowly from the blueline, stopped dead, and blasted a booming slap shot from 25 feet out. It was in the net before Gamble moved.

Delvecchio and Howe were right on Thursday, however, as Delvecchio scored one goal and assisted on two, and Howe assisted on three in Detroit's important win.

Rangers brought back dependable regular goaler Lorne Worsley for the game, but lost on Ullman's power - play goal at 6:24 of the third period. Worsley, recovered from injuries, replaced substitute Marcel Paille. Ullman scored while Pete Goegan was sitting in the penalty box, which may shed some light on why Detroit recently traded Goegan to New York.

New York's Johnny Wilson and Delvecchio traded first period goals and power plays gave each side a goal in the second period. Rookie Larry Jeffrey scored his second goal in his second NHL game — he was brought up to Detroit from Edmonton because of injuries to MacGregor — at 16:10 while New York's Irv Spencer was penalized.

Detroit went ahead on a goal by defenceman Bill Gadsby, and then Dean Prentice connected for New York at 19:35, while Gadsby was penalized.

Guy Gendron scored his 11th goal of the season to tie the game - at 2:29 of the third period before Ullman broke it all up.

New York plays twice this weekend, at Toronto Saturday and against Toronto in New York Sunday. Chicago is at Montreal Saturday and at home to Boston Sunday. Montreal goes to Detroit Sunday.

Paul Dekker Hangs 'Em Up

HAMILTON (CP)—Paul Dekker, all-star end of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, has announced his retirement from professional football.

Dekker, 31, said Thursday an opportunity for business advancement in Hamilton forced him to make his decision.

The six-foot-five - inch graduate of Michigan State University was considered one of the Canadian League's top short-pass receivers. But he proved his versatility in the 1960 Grey Cup final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers, scoring on a spectacular pass play which covered 90 yards. He led all CFL ends in pass receiving last season.

'We'll Show The Terriers'--Trail

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP) Galt Terriers walloped Fort Frances Canadians of the Ontario-Minnesota Hockey League 8-2 in an exhibition hockey game before about 850 fans Thursday night.

The Terriers took a 1-0 lead in the first period and raised it to 5-2 in the second.

Jackie McLeod, Wiggie Wylie and Joe Malo each scored twice for the Terriers with singles going to Joe Hogan and Bobby Nader. The Canadians goals went to Ike Eisenzoph and Ron King.

The win was the first for the Terriers on their 14 - game western tour on their way to the world hockey championships in Colorado Springs and Denver, Colo., in March. They lost 3-0 to Port Arthur Bearcats in Fort William Wednesday.

BROWN CUT

One injury marred the game as Bobby Brown of the Terriers took three stitches in his right cheek after accidentally being clipped in a melee by the stick of Mike Andrusco of the Canadians.

After resting most of the second period, Brown returned to action for the third.

An outstanding player for Galt was pickup goalie Bob Kilgour of Port Arthur who shut out the Terriers Wednesday. He blocked 21 shots. Tommy Hollands, in goal for Fort Frances, stopped 28.

The Canadians used seven juniors from Fort Frances Royals when replacements expected from the United States section of their league were unable to make the game because of weather conditions.

SAYS TRAIL STRONGER

In Trail, B.C., meanwhile, playing coach Bobby Kromm of Trail Smoke Eaters disagreed Thursday that the Terriers are stronger than his club.

Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Wednesday that Galt is 25-per-cent stronger than the Smoke Eaters, present world champions and members of the Western International League.

"Jack Roxburgh has seen them play and I haven't, but when they get to Trail, we'll show them who has the strongest club," said Kromm.

Harry Smith, defenceman with Trail, still has not said definitely whether he will join the Terriers. He said recently if he could get away from his business and not leave the Smoke Eaters shorthanded if they enter the Allan Cup playoffs he would think about joining the Ontario club.

Sullivan Tops At Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Buddy Sullivan shot the best golf of his career—a nine-under-par-61—to take the first-round lead in the $20,000 Tucson open golf tournament Thursday. It equalled the record for the 6,484-yard El Rio layout.

PGA champ Jerry Barber, former Masters champ Art Wall Jr., and Australian Bruce Crampton were in a group of 10 tied for ninth place with 66s.

Who Is Next Opponent?

Only Champ, J.F.K Know

NEW YORK (AP)—The rest of the world will soon find out what President Kennedy already knows — heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's next opponent.

Patterson, who told the president his secret Jan. 12, said today he'd make an announcement "probably within three or four days, certainly within a week."

The champion said the title fight would be in June. The announcement will be made at a press conference in New York.

"One point should be stressed," Patterson said. "It has nothing to do with the NBA (National Boxing Association) as to whom I fight next. I'm not interested in their part of the championship."

Earlier Thursday, Patterson applied for a pistol permit, telling police department officials he needed it because he carried large sums of money in isolated neighborhoods. No action has been taken on the application.

Horses Run Minus Shoes

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Failing to resolve a price difference with blacksmiths, owners and trainers at Santa Anita have agreed to run their horses without shoes, beginning next Tuesday.

The platers boosted their price $1 and now are charging $18 to shoe a horse.

Relay, Two Miles

Crothers, Kidd Run in NY

NEW YORK (CP)—Toronto's Bill Crothers will have another crack at outpacing Ireland's Ron Delany tonight as the two runners anchor their respective teams in the two-mile relay at the New York Athletic Club meet.

Crothers's East York Track Club squad lost by a whisker to the touring Irish team in Boston Feb. 3 but the University of Toronto senior outran Delany in the final leg.

Running behind Crothers tonight will be George Shepherd, Stan Worsfold and Dave Biley.

East York teams anchored by Crothers also ran second to the Irish team in New York Feb. 3 and at Los Angeles last weekend.

Crothers is also entered in the 500-yard event and Bruce Kidd 19 - year - old Toronto distance ace, will meet Hungarian runners Laszlo Tabori and Sandor Iharos and Ireland's Tom O'Riordan in the two-mile run.

Dates Set

Eastern Junior Playoffs

Playoffs dates for the Eastern Junior hockey league playoffs, both "B" and "C" divisions, were pretty well settled at a meeting of team representatives here last night.

The three Junior "B" clubs, Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough as well as all five Junior "C" teams, Gananoque, Napanee, Picton, Trenton and Cobourg, were represented at the meeting, chaired by loop convener Jack Devine.

As was stated before, the "B" clubs will play a round-robin series, home and home against each of the other clubs, in the semi-finals. The two top finishers will then meet in a best-of-seven finals.

Two local referees will be used for all of these games. A list of officials from each of the three centres was approved last night.

The round-robin will open here tonight in Belleville tonight with the Peterborough Monsens playing at nine o'clock. Other dates are as follows: Mon. Feb. 19 — Belleville at Kingston; Mon. Feb. 26 — Belleville at Peterborough: Wed. Feb. 28 — Peterborough at Kingston; Fri. March 2 — Kingston at Belleville; Mon. March 5 — Kingston at Peterborough.

In the Junior "C" division, a special playoff will be held between Trenton and Cobourg to decide the fourth and final playoff spot. These two clubs finished in a tie for the loop's last place.

The winner of the Cobourg-Trenton set will meet Napanee Red Wings in one half of the semi-finals.

Gananoque Islanders, who topped the "C" division, had their choice of semi-final opponents and took Picton Merchants. The series will open in Gananoque Tue. Feb. 20 with the second game in Picton on Thursday Feb. 22.

Macs Open Playoffs Here Tonight

The Peterborough Monsens, who gave notice that they will be no "playoff push-overs" by taking the Macs into overtime before losing a 3-2 thriller the other night, will provide the opposition here tonight in the opening game of the OHA Eastern Junior "B" playoffs.

This will be the first game in the round-robin semi-finals amongst Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough. Each club will play the others once home and once away with the two top teams meeting in the league finals for the George "Red" Sullivan Trophy.

Peterborough has won the Sullivan trophy, as Eastern group champions, for the past six seasons and they will be going all out to try and retain the cup this spring. The winner will go on in the provincial title playdowns, so every game from here on in is a "must".

Peterborough had a rough time during schedule play this year, finishing the schedule with ten wins and 12 losses. This was well below the Belleville and Kingston team's marks of 17 wins and five defeats. However, of late the Monsens have improved greatly and will be a definite threat now the chips are down.

The Peterborough club, contrary to Kingston reports, is one of the cleanest in the loop. They are young and fast, with a fine goalie in young Jim Horton. While the Macs have won all their starts against the Monsens this campaign, all have been close and two have gone into overtime.

Mac coach Gordie Bell hopes to have defence star Larry Mavety back in action tonight. Mavety missed the other night's game because of a 14-stitch cut which closed his right eye. Belleville has also lost the services of centre Graydon Scott but otherwise the team will be at full strength. Scott had joined the RCAF.

Commy Bloc Has Until Saturday

Says Russ Out Of World Tourney

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert LeBel, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said Thursday countries that have decided not to participate in the world championships next month at Colorado Springs, Colo., have until Sunday to change their minds.

"After that," he said, "we have to presume they are not coming and re-arrange the schedule accordingly." The tournament opens March 7.

The Soviet Ice Hockey Federation said earlier Thursday, in a statement published by the official news agency Tass, that the Russian team will not participate because East Germany is unable to.

LeBel said that five of the 19 countries registered for the tournament have so far failed to confirm their entries. They are Russia, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Romania and Yugoslavia.

The East German team was refused travel permits by the Western Allied Travel Bureau in Berlin and was therefore unable to apply for United States visas.

CITES REASON

Vassily Nepsktnikov, president of the Russian hockey federation, said the decision to withdraw from the tournament "was taken in connection with the disgraceful act of political discrimination against the German Democratic Republic (East Germany), a full-fledged member of the International Ice Hockey Federation."

LeBel said the international federation sympathizes with the plight of the East Germans and has protested to the Allied Travel Bureau without getting any "satisfactory response."

However, other teams that might use this situation as an excuse for withdrawing from the tournament were "just mixing politics with hockey."

If the Russians believe in "the international co-operation of athletes," he said, "let them come and play hockey as they have been asked to."

When the federation meets in Colorado Springs during the tournament, he said, it will take up the matter of countries withdrawing for no satisfactory reason.

WILL GO ON

In New York, Tom Lockhart, president of the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, said "we're sorry the Russians have withdrawn. But the tournament will be held in Colorado Springs and it will be for the world and European championships."

Thayer Tutt of Colorado Springs, chairman of the hockey tournament's organizing committee, said in New York "we're going to try and get the Russians to reconsider. We're doing everything possible and I still think there's a chance they might come."

Eighteen countries originally had entered the tournament. Russia, Czechoslovakia and East Germany had been entered in the eight-country Group A competition for the world title along with the United States, Canada, Finland, Sweden and Norway or West Germany.

Nepsktnikov also attacked LeBel for refusing to move the championships to another site after the East Germans were prevented from travelling to the United States.

LeBel answered: "You can't move a world hockey tournament on short notice. It's not as simple as just getting up and moving to another chair in your living room. Anyway, there's no reason to move the tournament."

Minor Hockey

The Rangers ousted the Barons in bantam hockey playoffs Wednesday night by taking a 4-2 victory. Rangers won the round 8-4.

N. Crawford, B. Fullerton, D. Olsen and T. McDonald scored for the winners with B. Downing and M. Dainard drawing assists. J. Ling potted both Baron goals with P. Howe helping on one.

In an exhibition game, the Juveniles and Midgets fought to a 2-2 deadlock. Emerson and Boomhower scored for the Juveniles with Goodfellow getting an assist. Stewart and McGuire were the Midget marksmen. Ethier, Mott and Soules had assists.

WOMEN OPEN TOURNEY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., shot a 70 Thursday to grab the first-round lead in the $7,500 St. Petersburg women's open golf tournament. Tied for second place at 71 were Barbara Romack of Palm Beach, Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga., and Joann Prentice of Columbia, S.C.

CTV Gets Grid Contract

TORONTO (CP)—CTV Television Network Limited announced Thursday that the Canadian Football League has accepted its offer of $400,000 for television rights to all Western Conference football games for the next two seasons.

The CFL executive is currently meeting in Vancouver.

The deal gives CTV first option on the Grey Cup telecast in Western Canada.

The network, under an arrangement drawn up with the CFL last year, already has television rights to Eastern Canada games for the 1962 season. The network, through its Toronto station—CFTO-TV — bid $375,000 a year on a two-year contract for the Eastern games at that time.

The private network consists of stations in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Halifax Vancouver, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Calgary.

Spence Caldwell, president of CTV, said a number of interlocking games — such as when Eastern teams play in the West —will be available to audiences in the other zone. This should add 10 or 11 games to the football broadcast year.

He said CTV hopes to televast about 23 games and will broadcast all playoffs.

AT THE BELLE — Shameless loyalty of Susan Hayward to John Gavin, the man she can never marry, is dramatic time bomb of "Back Street", in which the two co-star with Vera Miles who portrays an alcoholic wife. The film is a new adaptation of Fanny Hurst's outspoken novel, filmed in color, playing tonight and Saturday at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE PARK — Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall with the Bowery Boys star with Mary Beth Hughes in the riotous comedy "Dig That Uranium", showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program "The George Raft Story" starring Jayne Mansfield, Julie London and Ray Danton as (George Raft). Continuous show Saturday from 12.40 p.m. Doors open at 12.20 p.m.

Carol Burnett Discusses Departure From Moore Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Burnett sounded excited, scared and regretful all at once, discussing her departure next season as a regular member of The Garry Moore Show.

"Garry said that it was time for me to leave the nest," she said. "He said there is always a right time to leave — that there came a time for him to leave Jimmy Durante and now the time has come for me to leave him, and I sure hope he's right . . ."

At the moment, the only solid items in Carol's future as a solo comedienne-singer are frequent guest shots from Moore, and an October engagement in New York's Persian Room at the Plaza Hotel, which in the current supper club circuit is what playing the Palace once meant to a vaudeville act Tops.

What Carol really wants is a Broadway show—and preferably one in which she can team up with singer Julie Andrews. The two worked together so brilliantly on the television show that they will co-star in a special to be telecast this spring.

"I dig Julie, as a person and as a performer," Carol explained. "There's an extra little zing in things when I work with her. So I'm hoping for a Broadway show with her."

Puccini's Final Opera Is Broadcast on Met

Turandot, the last opera composed by Giacomo Puccini, will be heard on the Metropolitan Opera Broadcast, Saturday at 2 p.m. on C.J.B.Q. and CBL.

Performing in the leading roles will be soprano Birgit Nilsson, tenor Franco Corelli and soprano Licia Albanese. Conductor is Kurt Adler.

Singing the role of Princess Turandot on that occasion was Rosa Raisa. Miss Raisa will be guest on the intermission feature Opera News on the Air.

CBS Pays Huge Sum For Football

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System agreed Thursday to pay a phenomenal $10,200,000 during the next two years for the rights to televise the football games of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, making it the highest single fee ever paid for a sports package.

The remarkable coup gave CBS the two biggest plums in sports television. The network signed a $9,300,000 contract last month for the exclusive rights to the regular season games of the National Football League.

Both contracts will expire after the 1963 season.

Black Hawks Cowbell Fan Dies at Game

For 25 years Bozzelli, 54, attended almost all Black Hawks games with a 14-pound cowbell he clanged to applaud the teams. Sometimes he followed the Hawks to Detroit and took his cowbell along.

Wednesday night he told his son, James Jr., 25, he did not feel well and left his cowbell in his car. He collapsed of a heart attack in his second-balcony seat as the Hawks were defeating New York 5-3.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe pulled up to within five points of the National Hockey League's goal-scoring leadership Thursday, assisting on three of Detroit's four goals in the Red Wings 4-3 win over New York Rangers Thursday night.

Andy Bathgate of New York, the league-leader, was on the losing end of the score and was held without a point. He has 21 goals and 48 assists for 69 points.

Howe now has 26 goals and 38 assists for 64 points.

Horst Bucholz Really Has Mother-in-Law Problems

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You think you've got mother-in-law problems? Listen to Horst Buchholz.

When he dashed home to announce the birth of his son Christopher, he told one of the baby's grandmothers "C'est un garcon!" and to the other grandmother "Es ist ein junge!"

The result: Utter confusion.

"It is really something to watch my wife—French beauty Miriam Bru—conversing with the two mothers," said the German actor.

"First she tells her mother something in French. Then my mother asks, 'What did you say?' So Miriam tells her what she had said in German. If she talks a minute longer than she talked to her mother, her mother wants to know what else she said. Then Miriam has to tell her mother in French what else she had said in German to my mother. And then it starts all over again."

PROMPTED BY ABSENCE

The invasion of the mothers-in-law was prompted by Horst's absence in the two months prior to the birth. He had to be in India and England to make "Nine Hours to Rama," and the two ladies came from the old country to keep Miriam company.

Each mother-in-law has a notable faculty: One likes to walk, one likes to talk.

"My mother is the walker," said Horst. "But she is frustrated, since we live in Beverly Hills." The police are noted for their intolerance to walkers; anyone out for a stroll is questioned by prowl cars, and since Mrs. Buchholz speaks no English—

"The other day I looked out the window and saw her walking around and around the swimming pool, her lips moving as she did," said the actor. "I went out and watched her. She was saying, 'Three thousand, five hundred and fifty-six. . .' I asked her what on earth she was doing and she said she was walking—4,000 times around the pool every day."

As for his mother-in-law: "She talks a mile-a-minute. Ask her a question and she is off. You can go away and come back in 15 minutes and she will still be talking."

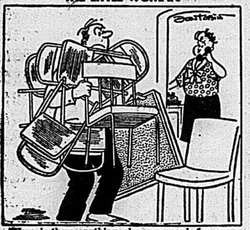
THE LITTLE WOMAN



"Now, is there anything else you need for your bridge party, Mabel?"

Astrological Forecast

For February 17th

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar 21 to Apr. 19): You create misunderstanding by forcing your way. Though common sense may be on your side . . . associates, friends may not be willing to listen to reason. Appeal, instead, to emotions.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be strictly practical in appraisal of new acquaintances . . . tendency to be romantic, idealistic, could lead you off right track. See persons, situations, as they actually exist . . . be realistic.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Good for making social contacts which, eventually, could become valuable in your professional life. This isn't to suggest insincerity . . . but to recommend that you keep eyes, ears wide open.

Cancer, (June 22 to July 21): Arguments over who was first . . . do little but create friction, waste energy. Confine creative energies to reading, collecting. Treat friends as valued persons . . . save battles for enemies.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Valuable day if you are willing to put forth best efforts. Cycle at peak . . . you could come across knowledge which serves great purpose in future. Be diplomatic . . . accept favors graciously. Good!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Your cycle is moving on upgrade. You have "fussed" about a number of things in recent days. Now, come down to earth . . . and realize assets. Tell loved one how much you really care. Live . . and love!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Tendency toward self-pity could come to abrupt end today. Friends reveal certain secrets, factors . . . which make you feel that you are, indeed, fortunate. Take surprises in stride. Stress maturity.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Moon aspect to your sign stresses challenge. If you are seeking easy path, or know-it-all sage . . . you have a lot of looking to do. Depend upon your own resources. Accept advice . . . but act cautiously.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Your tendency to want to know answers . . "no matter what" . . . could lead to a surprise. Be sure you are prepared for rather startling response. Otherwise ignorance may really be bliss.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Money matters . . . arguments, disputes about where resources are going . . could mar day. Best to be understanding . . . and to seek compromise. Otherwise, day is wasted in pouting, silly quarrels.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Permit others to share limelight. You could benefit by delaying important decisions . . . or asking those allied with you to name course of action. Go slow . . . be cautious. Aim for serenity.

Pisces (Feb 20 to Mar. 20): More strength on your side than you think. May appear as though odds are against you. Be ready to break tradition. You have some very basic assets in your favor . . . display confidence!

• • •

If today is your birthday . . . tendency to be fixed in your ways, manners, likes and dislikes. One thing to be determined . . . another to be downright obstinate! Year excellent for new starts . . . greater independence. Month of July highlighted.

• • •

General Tendencies: Showmanship is key word. Dress up anything you wish to present. People want to be impressed, entertained . . . at same time they are skeptical. Cycle up for Cancer, Leo, Virgo. Look for announcements concerning new ways of doing things. Strive for originality.

BEAVER LUMBER NEEDS YOUNG MEN TO TRAIN FOR FUTURE MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITIES

A merchandising career offers an interesting way of life, together with early advancement for the imaginative young man that is prepared to take suitable training and apply himself with initiative and enthusiasm.

Because applicants may be required to move during training, single men are preferred, consideration will be given young men with limited family responsibilities.

Applicant should have high school education and be between ages of 19 to 26.

Write to:
MR. WM. WAGNER,
Beaver Lumber Co., Limited
Box 1450,
Clarkson, Ontario

Interview will be arranged in your area at an early date.
F16-3:

Canada needs 100,000 additional men to help the Canadian Army Militia carry out national survival operations in the event of nuclear attack. Six-week training courses are being held in your own community — the next one starting February 26 and continuing until April 8.

If you are between 18 and 50, and meet enrolment standards, will you go to work for Canada as a citizen soldier? During the course you are given all day training five days a week. You live at home and receive the same pay as a regular soldier, plus a living allowance.

To be sure of a vacancy, you should act right away. Get full details NOW, without obligation, at the address below that is nearest to your home:

Nikita May Turn Conference Into Propaganda Scrimmage

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Western powers are watching carefully to see whether Soviet Premier Khrushchev intends to turn the forthcoming 18 - country disarmament conference at Geneva into another propaganda scrimmage.

There was a great deal of disappointment in the American camp when Khrushchev proposed that the March 14 opening of negotiations be atended by government leaders.

The immediate conclusion reached here was that Khrushchev merely wanted to turn the meeting into another verbal contest. The Soviet proposal was quickly rejected.

Now the Western powers are waiting to see whether Khrushchev will accept the Anglo-American counter - proposal that a summit meeting on disarmament await some progress by foreign ministers and disarmament technicians.

WOULD BE SIGN

U.S. authorities believe that if Khrushchev accepts the counter - proposal it would be a sign he is serious about making disarmament progress and that some success may actually be achieved.

But if he decides to attend the opening of the Geneva conference himself—as some Moscow reports suggest—if would be an indication of more cold war blasts, and perhaps nothing more.

Such a degeneration of the conference would have a dampening influence on the five-country Western disarmament panel which has been working for some two weeks to prepare the [illegible] approach to the meeting.

The working panel, which includes Canada's Gen. E. L. M. Burns, is reported to have completed the preliminary Western position, based on the view that the West should seek the broadest possible steps attainable in the disarmament field.

Generally these would be based on the U.S. disarmament proposals of last September with some specific priorities in mind.

WOULD CONTROL SPACE

One would seek agreement on avoidance of war by miscalculation or accident. Another deals with control over strategic weapons delivery systems, such as rockets and long-range bombers. A third would provide advance information over military manoeuvres and control over the use of space for military purposes.

These would involve a great deal of East-West discussion by skilful technicians before they could be considered by political leaders.

A preliminary cursory discussion at the summit would merely delay negotiations at the technical level where bargaining and compromise would again have to be referred back to the summit for consideration. This would mean more discussion and possibly more delay.

Student Leaders At Queen's Are Worried

KINGSTON (CP) — Student leaders at Queen's University are worried lest a high-minded gesture towards Canada's French-speaking citizens is submerged in the fuss surrounding a high-spirited campus prank.

Stewart Goodings, president of the Alma Mater Society, said Thursday he fears undergraduates might [illegible] properly serious about a coming referendum on whether French or Gaelic should be the second official language of Queen's.

Adoption of Gaelic over French to accompany English on university letterheads would constitute a slap in the face to Canada's French-speaking people, he said.

The Alma Mater Society, Queen's student governing body, decided last month to recommend the inclusion of French on university letterheads. "The basis of the recommendation was to attempt a better understanding between the two language groups in Caneda," Mr. Goodings said.

But Tuesday night a 100-name petition urging the use of Gaelic as the second language was presented to the society. Gaelic was proposed because Queen's was founded in 1841 as a Presbyterian school to be patterned after Edinburgh University.

"This petition, I believe. was meant as a jest," Mr. Goodings said. "I hope the students will realize the seriousness of the situation when they vote."

A student decision to use Gaelic instead of French would be "discourteous" to French-speaking Canadians, he added.

NO DIFFERENCES

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Smallwood said Thursday there are now "no remaining differences" between the Newfoundland and federal governments. Mr. Smallwood, speaking at a testimonial dinner for himself, said that the ownership of Fort Pepperrell, on the outskirts of St. John's has been settled in favor of Newfoundland and the province has dropped two court cases against the federal government which had been pending.

Holdup Man Met His Match In Victim

TORONTO (CP) — Richard Dance of Toronto avoided losing his wallet to a holdup man by employing the adage that a good offence is the best defence.

Mr. Dance punched the holdup man in the face Thursday.

The man had flagged down Mr. Dance's car and told him there had been a bank robbery and Mr. Dance was to drive to the police station for questioning.

After driving a few blocks, the man told Mr. Dance that he had "three .38 - calibre bullets for you if you don't go where you are told."

Mr. Dance was directed through side streets until he was told to stop in the driveway to the Forest Hill incinerator.

"Hand over your wallet," the man said, but at that point Mr. Dance stopped taking orders, hit the man in the face and sent him fleeing.

Mr. Dance chased the man across the street into the lobby of an apartment building, catching him and hitting him several more times before calling police.

Brewery Paid 50 Cents Case Says Witness

TORONTO (CP)—Dow Brewery (Ontario) Limited paid Carman Romano 50 cents a case when he bought beer at the brewery and then sold it at regular prices, a witness testified Thursday.

J. A. Barns, formerly Toronto district supervisor of Dow, gave evidence at the trial of Romano, 26, and Pasquale Fazzari, 26, each charged with illegal possession of liquor and with keeping liquor for sale.

"In a broad sense, Carman worked on Dow," Mr. Barns told the court. "Carman would buy beer and sell it at the regular retail price. We would pay him 50 cents a case."

Romano delivered the beer and was paid by Dow for doing so, he said. In answer to a question from Magistrate James Butler, Mr. Barns said there are often other people likewise employed by Dow.

The case has been adjourned to Feb. 22.

Teen-Age Canada

There's Magic in No. 9

By JACK HUTTON

Canadian teen-agers with a liking for mathematics might try figuring out in their spare time a mystery which has plagued the world's top mathematicians for years.

At least that's a suggestion from two of our teen readers.

The question: what is it about the number 9 which makes it different from every other numeral? One can become convinced that black magic is involved if you ponder this long enough.

Gerry Hardy, 17, of Edmonton, was the first to raise the moot point after our column which asked readers to make the numbers between one and 9 add up to 100.

"You've touched a sore point with me," wrote Gerry. "Several years ago in Grade 8 a teacher pointed out some of the things you can do with 9—and it's bugged me ever since."

"Did you ever look at the multiples of 9? Look at them —27, 45, 108 or 135—and they all add up to 9. The goldarn number just keeps popping back up. It's absolutely frightening.

"By now I find myself looking at every problem with suspicion. Where's the 9? Did you realize that it happened all over again with the answer to your problem—98 and 27 over 54 plus one and three over six?

"Throw all those numbers together and you wind up again with a group of 9's. Why does this keep happening? I know top mathematicians consider 9 the base of our number system rather than 10, but what's the secret?"

By sheer coincidence the mailman who brought Gerry's letter also delivered one from John Marsh, 14, of Halifax And suddenly I discovered two budding mathematicians miles apart worrying about the same question.

Said John: "Enjoyed very much your question about the numbers 1 to 9 which kept a few of us busy for one evening. But I wonder whether you'd care to go deeper into the number 9."

"Your other readers might be interested in a trick which is always bound to impress anyone who's never seen it before. First of all you ask someone to write down five numbers.

"Let's say they are 35627. Then you write below them 64372 and ask the person to write another five-number figure. Each time he puts down another group you simply make each number add up to 9.

"If you do this three times the answer is 299997. Three times nine is 27 so you put two on the front, seven at the back and stick nines in between. If you had four groups it would be 399996 and so on. Amazing how many girlfriends this impresses."

John L. McQuade of Winnipeg had another problem which I pass on without comment: "If it takes four men a day and a half to dig a hole and a half, how long will it take two men?"

And if you've a few hours to spare here's a final one submitted by an anonymous reader: draw nine squares as if you were going to play X's and O's. Then arrange 12, 9 and 7 so they add up to 28 whichever way you look at them.

Have to see whether I can work that one out before next week!

OLD COURTESIES

Do Canadian teen-agers still practise the traditional courtesies or have girls changed this by becoming far more independent?

Said John:—"I sincerely feel that if it were not for traditions the world would be a very dull place to live in, so we should retain as many of these traditional courtesies as possible.

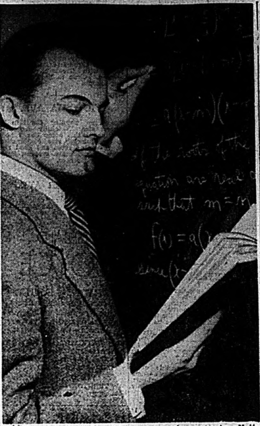
"There are times when a girl can help her own cause, and I feel that these are sometimes neglected. For instance, they should make an attempt to show their appreciation by a simple 'thank you' or even just a smile."

Jean Norman, 16, of Vancouver, B.C., had a different approach to the question. "I think the big problem is that fellows feel they're being sissies if the gang sees them helping a girl put her coat on," he wrote.

"I was out with a fellow for the first time last Saturday night, and everything was going fine until we dropped into the coffee shop where his gang hangs out. I gather the fellows lose face if they're seen with a girl.

"He'd been very sweet and considerate all evening while we saw a movie, but suddenly he changed. He left me alone for 15 minutes in the booth while he slouched at the counter, and when we left I had to open the door.

"Walking away from the restaurant we could still hear the other fellows hooting while my date cringed beside me. That's how much I think of the "oldworld courtesies', Jack!"



Does the number 9 have a magic property all its own in mathematics? Two Teen-Age Canada readers today suggest that it does.

Liberal Senator Proposes Plan of Senate Reform

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Donald Cameron, an Independent Liberal, proposed a program of Senate reform Thursday to Prime Minister Diefenbaker but warned that the upper house should not be made a "political football" in any changes.

Senator Cameron's proposals are that Senate committees be used to study specific federal problems in place of royal commissions and that steps be taken to make the upper house more representative of various walks of Canadian life.

Reform, he said, should not be carried out in a "political climate" or as a spur-of-the-moment attempt at expediency. The Senate was too important to be treater in a cavalier, haphazard or careless fashion.

Senate reform would recognize that there were many highly-trained and able men and women in the Senate.

Newspapers which sought to to be treated in a cavalier, hapcreate an innaccurate and bumbling image of the Senate must be guilty of ignorance or malicious mischief. If they took the trouble to make proper inquiries they would find many senators active in some of Canada's most imvortant enterprises and community affairs.

THOUSANDS OF GERMANS FLEE HOMES

British Troops Battle Riot-Set Fires

Emergency State Proclaimed In British Guiana

Six Killed in Riots, Heavy Property Damage

CP from AP-Reuters

GEORGETOWN—A state of emergency was proclaimed in British Guiana today after a bloody day of riots and looting in which at least six persons were killed and an estimated 20,000,000 West Indian dollars $11,200,000 in goods and property destroyed.

Fires still were smouldering in many parts of the city and the situation was tense but quiet.

British troops converged on the blazing capital by truck, frigate and plane to man power stations and other key installations as well as to guard the homes of leftist Prime Minister Cheddie Jagan and his ministers. Striking city workers are demanding they should resign.

The strike, which began five days ago to protest Jagan's austerity budget proposals, is continuing but the Trades Union Council has scheduled an emergency meeting to consider a plan to end it.

In a wave of arson and looting Friday, hundreds roamed the streets in an orgy of plunder. At least three persons were shot dead by troops who had orders to shoot on sight. At least 30 persons have been arrested.

(Radio reports received in neighboring Dutch Guiana said most of Georgetown's businss section was destroyed in the fires and rioting.)

About 150 British soldiers, normally stationed in Jamaica, poured ashore Friday night from two frigates. Efforts to quench fires blazing in the centre of the city were hampered because water supplies have been cut to a trickle by the strike.

Meanwhile, 170 British reinforcements were flying in from England.

The anti - Jagan demonstrations took on a racist character as looting and burning crowds, mostly composed of Negroes, Friday struck at stores owned by East Indian supporters of Jagan's People's Progressive Party.

Police attempting to check the looters said the crowds opened fire and wounded a police superintendent. Police returned the fire, wounding about 150 persons. Several other policemen, including the assistant commissioner, were hit. Official sources denied reports three persons were killed.

SPARKED BY STRIKE

The chaos was sparked by a strike called Tuesday by the Trades Union Congress against an austerity budget introduced by the Jagan government. The budget included compulsory savings deducted from salaries and heavy import levies.

The anti - government fever has been fanned by a series of giant public meetings and has not abated despite budget modifications offered by Jagan.

The troops from Jamaica steamed into Georgetown harbor Friday afternoon. They were sent to reinforce a regiment stationed at Atkinson Field, 25 miles from George-

MASS ARRESTS POSE PROBLEM IN PRISON SPACE

Terrorist Activity Will Be Curbed

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia's attorney-general has indicated more arrests are planned in B.C.'s crackdown on terrorist activity by the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

This despite the fact that mass confinement of the Sons of Freedom poses a major problem for provincial authorities and the federal justice department.

After the conference Mr. Bonner said current prosecutions of sect members for alleged terrorist activity are the first evidence of an intensive police campaign.

He noted that 14 persons have been convicted on terrorist charges related to bombings and burnings in the troubled Kootenays region of B.C. and 72 more now are under arrest.

WHERE TO CONFINE?

The major problem looming is how and where to confine convicted terrorists.

Mayor Tom Shorthouse of Nelson, the Kootenay centre hardest hit by Sons of Freedom outbursts, has suggested scattering the terrorists through the Canadian penal system.

But sources here indicated that this course is not likely to be followed. There was a danger that even a small number of Freedomites would continue arson activity in federal prisons, which already are overcrowded. This could lead to large - scale disturbances

One alternative, said the sources, would be confinement under extra ordinary security measures in one institution or the setting up of a special federal - provincial institution for that purpose alone.

Mr. Bonner said the troubles come from a hard core of about 1,600 within the 2,500 - member Sons of Freedom. He estimated the province's orthodox Doukhobor population at between 8,000 and 10,000.

WORKED QUICKLY

NEW YORK (AP) — Police said a young man in a hurry committed four successful robberies in less than 25 minutes in Greenwich Village, using a wooden gun he whittled himself. During his less than half-hour of crime Friday, police said Joseph Simmons, 19, robbed a leather goods store of $20, a restaurant owner of $20, a dry cleaning shop of $25 and a theatre ticket clerk of $20. Police picked up Simmons about a half hour after the final robbery.

MAJOR PUBLIC HOUSING LAWS ARE EXPECTED

Ontario Legislature Resumes on Tuesday

TORONTO (CP)—A full legislative program, topped by major public housing measures, confronts the Ontario legislature when it resumes sittings Tuesday.

The session, which began in November with a 3½-week sitting, comes after a two-month recess for the Christmas season and for mid-January byelections in five Ontario ridings.

The members are not expected to rise again until Easter, some eight weeks later.

The last days before the House resumes have seen brisk cabinet activity as Premier Robarts rounds out his program for the session. And much of the cabinet's time has been spent looking over plans by Economics and Development Minister Macaulay for new housing legislation.

Little but the broadest outline of the new plan has leaked out, but Mr. Macaulay and his chief aides have been working on it for months, culling public housing plans in Europe and the United States for ideas.

The result of their efforts should be announced within a few days of the session opening.

LOW-RENTAL HOUSING?

It is expected to include enlarged and novel measures aimed at expansion of low-rental housing, and assistance for people living in such units who are unable to meet the full cost of their homes.

The cost of the program, which may not be high as government projects go, would probably have to be shared by

France Begins Withdrawing 20,000 Troops From Algeria

PARIS (Reuters) — France today began withdrawing 20,000 troops from Algeria as an agreement for a cease-fire in the north African territory's seven-year-old nationalist insurrection appeared imminent.

Official sources said Friday night the troops would return to France aboard three ships which were requisitioned to ferry them across the Mediterranean.

France now has 441,000 servicemen in Algeria and the withdrawal of the 20,000 was expected to be completed this month. This will leave 366,000 troops in Algeria out of a national total of 700,000.

The cease - fire, details of which were reported agreed on in secret talks this week near the Franco-Swiss border, may be signed in the Paris area in a week to 10 days.

The agreement must first be approved by the Moslem insurgent "parliament"—the Algerian national revolutionary council—which is expected to meet in Tripoli, Libya, Monday. No objections are expected.

It was understood a provisional executive body for Algeria would draw three ministers each from France and the insurgent regime and a seventh minister, the chief, would be chosen by the Algerian and French sides.

This body would rule until an Algerian self-determination and the establishment of an Algerian government.

ALGIERS (AP) — Eight persons were slain in tense Algiers today, five of them apparently victims of executions by the Europtan Secret Army Organization.

Police said three Moslems were found shot to death, their hands tied behind their backs, in the western suburb of Guyotville. In the El Biar district police found one European and one Indo-Chinese, both killed in the same fashion.

Two Moslems were killed in the Fontaine Fraiche area and a European railway employee was shot to death.

But authorities said they noted increasing signs of weakness on the part of the European underground army as the day of the expected cease-fire and agreement with the nationalist Moslem rebels approached.

Canada Will Use Resources To Prevent Dollar Changes

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada has indicated to the International Monetary Fund she will use financial resources to prevent major swings in the Canadian dollar exchange rate.

The fund, welcoming this assurance, said, however, it still wants Canada to repeg her dollar. But the fund set no deadline.

"The fund cannot, of course, give up its objective of having an effective par value established in accordance with the articles of agreement," a spokesman said.

In a three-hour, closed - door consultation with the fund's 18-member executive, Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, Friday defended Canada's currency policy, emphasing that official reserves of gold and U.S. dollars are being used to moderate rate fluctuations instead of producing major new shifts.

However, eight countries, including Britain, the United States, France, West Germany and India, criticized Canadian policy and urged Canada to return in due course to a fixed rate as pledged under the fund agreement. The fund tries to stabilize exchange rates to prevent a rate-cutting war such as wrecked many economies in the 1930s.

The Canadian dollar, once pegged at 90.9 cents in terms of U.S. currency, was set free in 1950 to find its own value in the marketplace. Canada at that time said this was a "temporary" move and some fund directors have complained that 11 years is a long time for a temporary situation.

Concern over Canadian policy increased when the Canadian government last June announced a policy of keeping the dollar at a "substantial discount." The dollar, which had remained at a premium for several years, fell to about 97 cents after the government's decision and currently is at a discount of almost five per cent in terms of U.S. funds.

Rasminsky told the executive there would have been a further sharp drop in the exchange rate last month if Canada hadn't moved in to buy up surplus Canadian dollars with gold and U.S. dollars. In effect, the Bank of Canada had supported the rate and moderated the change.

As Finance Minister Donald Fleming told Parliament last week, Rasminsky argued before the fund that Canadian monetary reserves are not being used aggressively to force major changes in the dollar rate.

Bob Kennedy Tells Java Students U.S. Will Not Take Sides on Irian

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Robert Kennedy told Indonesians today they would be crazy to think the United States will toss aside its neutral attitude and oppose the Dutch in Indonesia's claim to West New Guinea.

"If you don't like our attitude there is no point in your getting upset or angry about it," the U.S. attorney-general told Bandung University students on a delayed visit to this West Java capital.

He made his remarks in reply to repeated questions from the students on why the United States would not support the Indonesian claim to the territory.

The United States, he said, is friendly to both Indonesia and the Dutch.

The students took Kennedy's remarks calmly and later mobbed him in good humor as he walked to his car.

EX-EASTVIEW OFFICIAL GIVEN NINE MONTHS

Convicted of Theft Of Town Funds

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Adrienne Laroche, former treasurer of Eastview, was sentenced Friday to nine months in reformatory for converting to her own use — and thereby stealing—$10,790 in town funds.

Judge Bruce Macdonald of Windsor sentenced the 52-year-old woman after an all - male jury deliberated 70 minutes to reach a verdict of guilty.

A highlight of the nine - day trial was the testimony Thursday by former Eastview Mayor Gordon Lavergne, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Russell, who told the court he had drawn about $10,000 from the town treasury between 1957 and 1960 to help needy families.

Defence counsel Roydon Hughes contended the treasurer had only followed orders from Mr. Lavergne and had no knowledge of doing anything wrong.

BREAKS DOWN

When she heard the verdict, Mrs. Laroche broke down and sobbed. She quickly regained her composure and leaned over to ask a policeman whether she had heard the verdict correctly.

When the sentence was passed he said he felt Mrs. Laroche was "not entirely to blame for this."

"It is possible that Mr. Lavergne, who enjoyed considerable prestige in the community and in the eyes of the accused . . . exerted considerable influence on municipal officials."

Judge Macdonald said the reformatory sentence, rather than a penitentiary term, was given in consideration of the woman's health. Mrs. Laroche suffered a heart attack in 1959.

CONSIDERS APPEAL

Mr. Hughes had contended that his client's only shortcoming was incompetency—"but incompetency is no crime." After the verdict, he said an appeal would be considered.

The Crown had centred its case on the submission of nine cheques which it contended had been deposited in the bank in lieu of parking meter money Mrs. Laroche had taken while she was treasurer from 1956 to 1960. The cheques were mainly from contractors in payment for land servicing.

Mrs. Laroche was relieved of her duties in 1960 after a provincial inquiry reported mismanagement of town funds.

In the 1960 municipal election Mr. Lavergne and the town's nine-man council were defeated after an organization called the Eastview Citizen's League launched a full slate of candidates campaigning on the basis of the inquiry's findings.

Country Is Hit By Worst Flood Storms In Years

17 Deaths Reported In Britain, Germany

CP from AP-Reuters

HAMBURG, Germany — A raging winter storm sent the icy North Sea pounding at the German coast today, smashing dikes like sand castles and routing thousands of Germans from their homes.

At least 11 deaths were reported in Britain and six in Germany. Authorities feared more deaths among Germans who were believed caught in their beds by one of the worst flood storms to batter northern Europe in the century.

Communications were badly hit. Telephone operators said lines were down. There were no civilian telephone connections with Bremerhaven.

Two bodies had been recovered in Hamburg but a Hamburg police spokesman said it was believed the floods claimed other lives.

SHIP IN DISTRESS

The Dirkzwager shipping agency in Rotterdam said the freighter radioed: "We are in a very dangerous position." The ship was reported then about 100 miles northwest of Esbjerg in Danish Judland.

Hurricane-force winds lashed most of northern Europe Friday.

Britain property damage was estimated up to $8,500,000. In Germany, preliminary estimates placed damage at more than one billion marks ($250,000,000).

Dikes gave way first in the port city of Bremerhaven. Hundreds of men, including Western soldiers, worked through the night to close the breaks with sandbags.

Ships in trouble on the high seas included British, Dutch, Greek, Norwegian, Danish and Icelandic vessels.

Powers Sticks to Story at Trial Russians Hit U-2 at 68,000 Feet

NEW YORK (AP)—Spy pilot Francis Gary Powers, in nearly a week of interrogation, has told government intelligence officials substantially the same story he gave at his trial in the Soviet Union, the New York Times said today.

In a Washington dispatch by Tom Wicker, The Times said U.S. intelligence officials have gained little additional knowledge on just how the U-2 pilot was brought down over Soviet territory on his spy flight.

Powers, exchanged a week ago for Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Abel, has been under intensive questioning at an undisclosed site virtually since his return.

What the government would most like to know is whether the Russians really shot down Powers' plane while it was flying at 68,000 feet over Russian territory, as he testified at his trial.

If so, the Russians have more effective anti-aircraft weapons than was believed.

But, according to The Times, officials say Powers had added very little to his Moscow account. They indicated he has been co-operative and apparently is in sound health and mental condition.

PRIME MINISTER CAPITALIZES ON ELECTION JITTERS

Day Passes to Call Pre-Easter Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — Election-date jitters reacted predictably when Prime Minister Diefenbaker entered the green-carpeted Commons chamber just before the sitting's end Friday.

But visions of an immediate election summons vanished when the prime minister, visibly conscious of the suspense, rose in a tense atmosphere to make a simple correction in a statement he'd given the Commons earlier. There were fewer than 40 MPs in the House at the time.

The comic—to parliamentarians — event capped a sometimes-rancorous day of debate that ranged from Cuban trade to abolition of the death penalty. Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Veterans Minister Churchill, House leader, grinned broadly as the prime minister said he had been misinformed earlier in the day when he said nine provinces—Quebec excluded—had agreed to a federal-provincial conference on a natinnal power grid, linking the power lines of all the provinces. In fact, he said, only eight have agreed. Newfoundland hadn't replied to his letter.

There has been speculation for months on just when the prime minister will call a general election and the sitting Friday was regarded as the deadline in the event that Mr. Diefenbaker wanted to name a pre-Easter date.

After breaking off the all-subjects debate on the speech from the throne to handle within certain legislation, the Commons will revert Monday to the eight-day throne speech debate in which back - bench members traditionally speak their piece.

Friday, the Commons cleared away and sent on for Senate consideration and amendment to the Children of War Dead

The majority of the appointments were approved earlier in the year but more recently an additional ten members were approved.

Added to the active staff are Dr. R. [illegible] Bateman, Dr. R. S. Gibson, Dr. S. D. Horne, Dr C. H. N. Macdonald and Dr. E. K. Peterkin.

Additional courtesy staff members are Dr. E. W. Dow Dr. L. E. Hall and Dr. J. P Paidra, and honorary consultive members, Dr. E. A. Dempsey, Dr. A. W. Gray and Dr W. J. S. Melvin.

Slippery Roads Responsible for Two Accidents

Slippery road conditions were responsible for two accidents on the Rossmore-Rednersville road yesterday, one of the mishaps sending a man to hospital when his car went out of control and struck a tree.

Clifford Smith, 56, of R.R. 1 Belleville, supervisor for the Bell Telephone Company was injured when the company truck he was driving skidded on the slippery roadway and slammed into a tree. The accident occurred shortly before 3 p.m.

In another mishap on the same road, cars driven by Frank Grandame, and Mrs. Sandra Weese, both of R.R. 1 Carrying Place, collided near the new Ameliasburg township school house. No one was injured but the Grandame car was considerably damaged when it was raked along the side by the bumper of the Weese auto. The grill was also damaged when the car rammed into the snowbank at the side of the road.

Cost of Madoc Technical School Has Been Pared

Cost of the proposed Madoc technical school which this winter sparked the withdrawal of Tweed and Hungerford from the Centre Hastings School area, has been pared considerably with the number of rooms now reduced from 18 to 12.

The revised plans for the proposed school were presented at this week's meeting of the high school board. Estimated cost of the structure as now planned is $800,000 instead of the $1,185,000 previously estimated.

The new plans include two classrooms instead of the original five; a library classroom; two laboratories; one typing room instead of two; business machine room; drafting room; boys' occupational training area; three shops instead of four; one large cafeteria instead of two, and a library.

A portion of the cost of the cafeteria and the library will have to be met by the High School Area as these areas do not qualify for the 100 per cent Federal-Provincial grant available for technical classroom area.

Children's Requests For Money Problem For Retired Parents

By THOMAS COLLINS

What follows here is designed to help retired people cope with the requests for money that come to them from their families.

The requests come in all flavors.

For instance: "I am a widow of 68 and have a little money beyond my needs. I have one son, also a niece and a nephew my husband and I reared in our home. All three are married. And all three have come to me asking for loans during the last year.

"I think none of them — even my son — would decide to help me were I in need. Of course, I could never know this for sure until the situation arose. Still, I'm skeptical.

"Do I owe these three children any money now that they are adults? If so, how much? If not, how do I refuse?..."

The answers to these three questions are: No, the parent doesn't owe anything. That takes care of the second question, too. The joker is No. 3 — how do you refuse?

From readers of this column who have had to cope with the question come some answers that may apply to you:

"Father and I merely play poor. Since we don't live extravagantly in our retirement, and since the children and relatives don't know how much we have, it works. If a situation gets difficult, we mention that we may soon have to call on the family for some money. And that's effective...Our children are going to get our money, but only after we're through with it."

"We Keep Books"

"We let our children have any money they request, if the request seems reasonable and we can afford it. But we keep books. Everything each gets is charged up against any inheritance he or she will get from us. This makes them hesitate ...or pay back when they borrow."

"We have four children. When I retired, with enough income for my wife and myself to live on, we put all our money and our house into a family trust arrangement which a lawyer drew up for us. Income from the trust goes equally to the four children — unless and until Mama and I need it. But if any child wants to make a touch it is made on the trust. And it can't be made without the written approval of all the rest of us...

"Two years ago a son borrowed $1,000. The other three children approved. And for the next 18 months nagged him to pay it back. Mama and I wouldn't have nagged. So, what we have actually done is to make our children borrow from our children. And, since the prudent children suffer if the imprudent ones default, they make rough creditors."

"When our children, all of them now past 25, ask for money I say No. That's all. Just No. I said it to them from the day they started talking to the day they left the nest. They got certain allowances as children, and pay for certain jobs around the house. But nothing was free, and there were no loans without guarantees of repayment. As a parent I still have a responsibility to insist on this. So I just say no. And without apologies."

A Business Basis

"If any members of our family, children or otherwise, ask us for money we send them to a bank to borrow it. We agree to endorse the note for them, provided the bank agrees to pursue collection of the note to the extent of a court suit before calling on us to pay. This puts on somebody else the unhappy chore of collecting, and puts the whole matter on a business basis. I've co-signed two family notes on this basis since retirement, and both have been repaid on time."

"We are both 68 years old and are three years into retirement. We have moved to an apartment in Florida and are living well on our pension. The only money we have is $18,225 we got from the sale of our house back home. We intend our children to have it without wills, lawyers, probate courts, inheritance taxes and all that.

"We have two children. We have started giving each of them $1,750 a year...every January 1. No loans. Just this annual gift. And our money will last for five years. If, after three years, I get the impression our children wouldn't do as much for us, we'll suddenly stop being Santas. But I have faith in our children.."

PLANS U.S. VISIT

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ahmadou Ahidjo of the Federal Republic of Cameroon will visit the United States for five days beginning March 13, the White House said today.

Summer Course For Teachers Will Be Held

The Department of Education has now confirmed that a Departmental Summer Course in Junior Education will be provided in Belleville from July 3—August 3, 1962, if a sufficient number of fully qualified teachers apply for admission.

Teachers will understand that, although the Federation was instrumental in securing this course, it will not be under sponsorship of the Federation but will be provided by the Department of Education and will have full credit for certificate purposes.

The course, which leads to the certificate in junior education, will include lectures and group discussions related to the pupils and program of the Junior Division (Grades 4, 5, 6) with special attention to English, Arithmetic, Social Studies, Natural Science and Health.

A teacher holding a certificate or a letter of standing qualifying him to teach in an elementary school in Ontario and who submits evidence of two years teaching experience, including at least one year in Ontario, may be admitted to the course.

It is expected the new Harry J. Clarke School in Belleville will be the location of the course. The six-room addition is now under construction and the whole building should be ready for use well in advance of the time for the summer course.

COUNTRY IS HIT

Shetland Islands—battered two holes in the dikes circling Schiermonikoog Island off northern Holland and the Dutch government sent out a general alarm for patrols of the sea walls.

But several hours after midnight, the 20 - foot - wide holes were plugged with sandbags and as the winds dropped the alarm was called off.

In Germany, air raid sirens were sounded in Cuxhaven on the Elbe River estuary when the high water swept over the dikes and flooded thousands of basements.

In the Emsland, near the Dutch border, a dike was reported to have breached on a length of almost 900 yards.

Soon, there were more reports of breaches multiplied and a special disaster alert was sounded for police, fire brigades and the army along the whole of the North Sea coast.

In a driving rain, thousands of people waited on roofs or in the top floors of their houses to be evacuated by rubber rafts. In some regions, rescuers reported a shortage of boats.

The refugees, some only in their night clothes, were taken to temporary shelters in town halls, schools or hospitals in high-lying areas.

CITY HIT HARD

Hamburg, a city of 2,000,000 population, appeared worst hit by the floods which in some parts brought the high tide level to 12 feet above normal.

Residential and industrial areas along the Elbe River section of the city were submerged. In downtown Hamburg, the waters reached the city hall. The floods also entered the Elbe River tunnel, a vital link for motor traffic.

Evacuated people, carrying their belongings in suitcases, were seen rushing through the streets as the waters advanced. The scenes recalled the nights following the devastating air raids on the city during the Second World War.

EDUCATION GAIN

Illiteracy among Canadian children of school age was reduced to 166,000 from 309,000 between 1931 and 1951.

town, which was called to the capital to maintain order.

The governor of British Guiana, Sir Ralph Grey, Friday night broadcast a call to the citizens of the colony to help British troops keep order.

WILL MEET LEADERS

(Radio reports reaching Paramaribo, capital of neighboring Dutch Guiana quoted Grey as saying he would meet with political leaders.

(In a midnight broadcast monitored in Paramaribo, Jagan said Friday was "a tragic day which we will remember with feelings of sorrow and shame."

(He appealed to the citizens to return to their homes "and resist the temptation of burglary and stealing" and warned that these crimes would be severely punished.)

The general strike has spread from the capital to New Amsterdam, about 60 miles away, where civil servants, municipal workers, clerks, transport and harbor staff and post office employees all stopped work.

White collar workers in British Guiana form much of the opposition to the austerity budget.

Union opposition to the budget also has been backed by political opponents of Jagan.

OPPOSE PREMIER

Chief anti-Japan group is the People's National Congress of Forbes Burnham. This is backed by 170,000 persons, mostly Negroes, out of a population of 500,000.

The political strength of the 43-year-old Jagan rests mainly on the colony's East Indians, who form roughly half the population. He is himself of East Indian descent.

Jagan's party got 42 per cent of the popular vote in elections last March and has 19 seats in the 35-seat legislature.

British Guiana was granted self - government last August when Jagan, a former dentist and a self-proclaimed Marxist, became its first premier.

Frank Gardner Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

Former Ontario Provincial Police Inspector and Fire Marshal in this district for some time, Frank Gardner, 155 Dufferin Avenue, died suddenly enroute to Belleville General Hospital, when he was stricken with a heart attack at a service station at the corner of Church Street and Dundas Street East a short time before.

Mr. Gardner was born in Bristol England, 70 years ago, and came to this country in 1910 and settled in Toronto. When the First World War broke out he enlisted with the Grenadier Guards in Toronto and proceeded overseas to serve with distinction in France. At the conclusion of the war he went to Russia and during the course of his service was wounded three times. He was finally discharged in 1920 and immediately joined the Ontario Provincial Police and was stationed in Northern Ontario centres. While serving at Cochrane he was transferred to this city in charge of headquarters in 1930 and served until 1942 when he was transferred to the Fire Marshal's department and continued in that office until his retirement in 1958.

He was an efficient and conscientious servant of the public for many years and he made a wide circle of friends in both offices. Mr. Gardner decided the many cases before him strictly on their merits and he could always see both sides of an argument or issue. After leaving the army he never lost his love and the veteran was his prime concern. He was one of the first members of the Royal Canadian Legion branch in this city and he was always willing to assist in any project that was for the benefit of the veteran. He was a regular attendant at the meetings and served in an executive capacity on many occasions.

PROMINENT MASON

Fraternally he was a member of the Masonic Order being a charter member of a lodge in Northern Ontario. He was also a member of the Royal Arch Masons, the Preceptory and Rameses Shrine in Toronto. He was also a member of the Scottish Rite and enjoyed attending the social functions to meet old friends from every section of the Province. He was an ardent angler and hunter and these hobbies afforded him plenty of recreation in their seasons. He was also a member of the Chess Club and thoroughly enjoyed a game with friends.

Mr. Gardner was a kind friend, a loving husband and father and he was well known and highly respected in the community. He was most cooperative as a civil servant and many junior reporters have been assisted by his kindliness in disclosing items of interest.

Surviving are his wife, the former Daisy Julia Cox; two daughters, Mrs. Graham (Doris) Kydd of Cochrane, Mrs. James (Frances) Seymour of Kingston, and three sons, Cyril, John and Peter Gardner, all of this city. Also surviving are 13 grandchildren.

The funeral service will be held in Christ Church on Monday afternoon with interment in Belleville cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

RAPINO. — In loving memory of Joseph Rapino, who passed away February 18th, 1961.

You're not forgotten, father dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.
You're gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year;
In our lonely hours of thinking.
Thoughts of you are always near.

—Sadly missed by son Jim, Shirley, Douglas and Robbie.

RAPINO. — In loving memory of our dear father, Joseph Rapino, who passed away one year ago, February 18th, 1961.

Please God, forgive a silent tear,
A silent wish, our Dad was here;
There are others, yes, I know,
But he was mine, I loved him so.
One year ago we had to part,
The one I loved with all my heart;
The wound is deep, it will not heal.
Only those who have lost, know how I feel.
If I could speak with Dad today,
Laugh with him in the same old way,
Hear his voice and see his smile,
Then life indeed would be worthwhile.

—Ever remembered and sadly missed by his daughter Phyllis, son-in-law Earl, grandchildren Bobby and Wendy.

RAPINO. — In loving memory of a dear father, Joseph Rapino, who passed away February 18th, 1961.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who though absent is just as dear.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter Doris, son-in-law Gordon, grandsons Ricky and Larry.

RAPINO. — In loving memory of a wonderful father and grandfather, Joseph Rapino, who passed away February 18th, 1961.

His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.

—Sadly missed by daughter Elsie, son-in-law Bert and grandchildren Vicki, Mike, Nancy and David.

RAPINO. — In loving memory of Joseph Rapino, who passed away February 18th, 1961.

My lips cannot tell how I miss him
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how I miss him,
In a home that is lonesome today.

—Sadly missed by his wife Elsie Rapino.

MURRAY. — In loving memory of a dear dad, John Patrick, who passed away February 18th, 1947.

February comes with deep regret,
Brings back a day we can't forget,
Time speeds on, fifteen years have passed,
Since death, its gloomy shadows cast.
Within our home when all seemed bright,
God tok from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever shall,
His vacant chair there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn but not in vain,
For up in heaven we'll meet again.

—Always remembered by daughter Marguerite and son-in-law Ernest.

VICKERY. — In loving memory of William M. Vickery, who suddenly passed away on February 18th, 1961.

Surrounded by friends I am lonesome,
In the midst of my joys I am blue;
With a smile on my face I've a heartache,
Longing, dear Bill, just for you.
Though you left me suddenly,
Your thoughts unknown;
You left me a memory,
I'm proud to own.

—Sadly missed by Helen and Billy Joe.

WANNAMAKER.—In loving memory of my husband, Roland Wannamaker, who passed away February 18th, 1961.

His weary hours and days of pain
His troubled nights are past;
And in our aching hearts we know,
He has found sweet rest at last.
He suffered patiently and long,
His hope was bright, his faith strong;
The peace of Jesus filled his breast,
And in His arms he sank to rest.

—Ever remembered by wife Ethel and son Larry.

BIRTHS

COURNEYEA. — Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Courneyea, (nee Joyce Furestell), are happy to announce the birth of their daughter, Christine Mary, (8 lbs., 5¼ ozs.), on Thursday, February 15th, 1962, at the Belleville General Hospital.

HIGH. — Bud and Helen High are happy to announce the arrival of their daughter, Catherine Helen, (7 lbs., 7½ ozs.), on Monday, February 12th, 1962, at the Belleville General Hospital. A sister for Rhonda and Robert.

PATRICK. — Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Patrick wish to announce the birth of their son, on Sunday, February 11th, 1962, at the Belleville General Hospital.

DEATHS

GARDNER, Frank. — Suddenly, en-route to Belleville General Hospital on Friday, February 16th, 1962, Frank Gardner, 155 Dufferin Ave., beloved husband of Daisy Julia Cox; in his 71st year.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Aveune at Church Street. Funeral on Monday, February 19th to Christ Church for service at 2:00 p.m., Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan officiating.

Interment Belleville Cemetery.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to thank all my friends and relatives for their cards, visits, flowers and gifts while I was in the Belleville General Hospital; also my thanks to the nurses on 2nd South and also to Dr. Dempsey and Dr. Morphy; to L.O.L. No. 442, L.O.L. No. 274 and R.B.P. No. 853 I also say thanks.

—Edward McInroy.

Canada Has More Honest Press Than Other Countries Says Head of Newspaper

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Canada, on the whole, has a more honest press than that of the United Kingdom, the United States or France, Grattan O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal, said Friday night in a discussion of The Press and the Public.

Speaking on a television program presented by the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs and the CBC, Mr. O'Leary added:

"Today the Ottawa Journal or the Ottawa Citizen will carry more world news than the evening papers of England or New York."

When Canadian speak of the excellence of British newspapers, he commented, they speak of a select few.

PAPERS FARE WELL

Most of the speakers were newspaper men and, in positive statements, newspapers fared rather well, even while coming under considerable criticism by the newspaper men themselves.

The questions asked, however, had the effect of calling their integrity into doubt.

The moderator, John T. Saywell, assistant professor of history, University of Toronto, presented the questions, and he appeared to indicate that he doubted some of the newspaper men's disclaimers. Particularly, he cited instances which he apparently felt indicated advertiser influence on newspapers.

On the question of advertising influence, Mr. O'Leary said:

"It does not exist in Canada. I have written editorials for more than 40 years and not once has an advertiser directly or indirectly or by any suggestion ever questioned what I wrote.

Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times, stated:

"For all of our sins, most of which arise from haste, I think we do a fair job . . . the press of North America is free, honest and independent."

IT'S OWN FAULT

Jean Louis Gagnon, vice-president and editor in chief of Le Jouveau Journal, Montreal, said that if newspapers are not playing the role they used to, it is their own fault.

"In the past," he commented, "editors had something to say and they said it."

Louis M. Lyons, curator of the Nieman Foundation for Journalism, Harvard University, said newspapers held by "absentee owners" tend to lack community responsibility, to cover the whole market as a merchandizer, to offend no one, and to have less inclination for crusades or "keeping any eye on city hall."

'WE QUESTION IT'

In discussions of wire services, Mr. O'Leary commented:

"As a member of The Canadian Press, if we see something that we question we question it. This goes on all the time."

Mr. Keate felt there was a "sinister implication" in questions concerning possible distortion of news by wire services.

"When The Canadian Press sends a man to Washington, or London or elsewhere," he stated, "they send him as a Canadian to write an honest report."

British Guiana Not Ready To Cut Ties With Britain

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan's decision to call for British Tommies to help maintain order in British Guiana raises the question of whether the self-governing colony is ready to cut all ties with London.

The movement of British soldiers to the colony on the northeast shoulder of South America inevitably recalls the last time troops were sent there in October of 1953.

On that occasion—six months after Jagan took office as chief minister—Britain suspended the constitution that allowed limited autonomy and deposed Jagan and his government for alleged pro-Communist sympathies.

Jagan was jailed for a time but the durable left - winger made a political comeback and led his party's delegation to the London conference in 1960 that worked out a constitution providing full internal self-government.

TO MAINTAIN ORDER

In the current troubles—coming six months after Jagan became the colony's first prime minister — Britain has made clear that the troops movements are being made "for the sole purpose of maintaining law and order, and are without prejudice to the views of Her Majesty's government on the policies giving rise to the present situation."

Nevertheless the sharp outbreak of civil disorder is sure to affect the thinking of the colonial office on demands for full independence.

The British government had agreed to hold a constitutional conference in May "to discuss the date and the arrangements to be made for the achievement of independence."

Jagan, 43-year-old American-educated dentist, sociologist and politican, has charged that a rightist conspiracy is working against his government.

But it is apparent that the opposition against him, particularly in the capital of Georgetown, is widespread. And the fact that the opposition is not so great in the sugar plantations and population centres outside the capital indicates a possible racial aspect to the troubles.

POPULATION DIVIDED

Jagan is a descendant of East Indian laborers brought to the colony to work the canefields when Negro slaves refused to do so following their emancipation. He thus holds the support of the East Indian community, which makes up about half of the 500,000 population and is predominant in the country areas.

At one time he also was backed by the Negro population of some 170,000. Most of this group now supports the People's National Congress led by Forges Burnham, a former ally of Jagan but now his bitterest opponent.

In last August's elections Burnham's party won 11 seats, while Jagan's People's Progressive Party gained a majority of 20 seats in the 35-member house.

Opposition to the government centres on tough tax measures and a compulsory savings plan proposed in Jagan's budget.

Under pressure of the strikes and demonstrations, Jagan on Thursday backed off from some of his proposals—including a planned increase in the duty on most imported goods. But Friday's heightened violence indicates his opponents are far from satisfied.

Brain Diseases Treated by New Technique

CHICAGO (AP)—A bloodless brain surgery technique substituting super cold for the usual scalpel has been used by a physician to relieve once hopeless cases of tremor and rigidity.

He is Dr. Irving S. Cooper, director of the department of neurologic surgery, St. Barnabas Hospital for Chronic Diseases in New York.

In a prepared abstract, released Thursday, he said his procedure carries such small risk that it is possible to apply the technique in early cases of brain disease as well as in far advance cases.

The procedure consists of inserting a small tube until it reaches the site to be treated and then filling the tube with liquid nitrogen cooled to around 200 degrees below zero centigrade.

Freezing for three to five minutes produces a permanent lesion in the brain that completely abolishes all tremor and rigidity.

He said the procedure has been used successfully in selected cases of Parkinson's disease, multiple sclerosis, cerebellar tumor and other brain conditions.

At present, Ontario's public housing program has seen 5,500 units completed by 36 separate housing authorities in the province, with hundreds more under construction.

Ottawa pays 75 per cent of low-rental accommodation under the present scheme, with the province paying 17½ and the municipality 7½ per cent. A local housing authority looks after upkeep, using revenue from rents.

Another early piece of business for the members will be the provincial budget, which Mr. Roberts hopes to have before the House in the first 10 days of sittings.

For the second consecutive year, it will exceed $1,000,000,000. Last year's budget introduced the three-per-cent sales tax but no drastic changes are expected in the tax structure this year.

Revisions have already been promised in the province's liquor legislation and in the demerit-point system for drivers. There is also a possibility of a revised Election Act, a bolstering of the province-wide marketing plan for tobacco growers and curbing of food processors' efforts at vertical integration.

Between sittings in the House, the members are likely to be thoroughly occupied with a host of legislative committees studying such items as auto insurance, municipal affairs, redistribution of some ridings and the sales tax.

Opposition party members, whose attacks on Attorney-General Roberts during the first half of the session resulted in a royal commission on organized crime, are likely to turn their attention now to the sales tax, agriculture, education, municipal laws, and dissent among guards at Toronto's Don Jail.

The Liberals, in particular, are likely to have found renewed vigor from the byelection results. Of the five ridings, Liberal candidates captured two, another seems certain despite a judicial recount scheduled for next week, and a fourth hinges on a recount now going on. A Conservative candidate took the fifth.

Sergeant Denies Police Abused St. Kitts Man

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A police sergeant Friday contradicted witnesses' testimony that city police in questioning a St. Catharines man twisted his arm, causing his head to strike the floor.

Sgt. Victor Dawson of the city police force was testifying at an Ontario Supreme Court suit launched by the man, Joseph Lament, Jr., who is claiming unstated damages for injuries suffered during his arrest July 29, 1960.

Arthur Maloney, counsel for the plaintiff, asked Sgt. Dawson whether he was saying that three other witnesses were telling falsehoods about the incidents.

"I do not think they are deliberately lying," he said, adding that in many investigations witnesses to an incident give markedly different versions of the same event.

Lament was arrested after Constables James Kirkpatrick and Douglas Fraser, two of those named in the suit, had been sent on a call to answer a complaint that a young woman was being bothered by a former boy friend.

The constables were instructed to bring Lament back to the police station. Sgt. Dawson said he heard a yell outside and saw Const. Kirkpatrick appear at the door of the station with a headlock on the man he was bringing inside.

He said it was a common practice to use such a hold on prisoners who might try a break for freedom. He had never known such a hold to have ill effects.

Sgt. Dawson testified that when Lament was released at the counter he started to straighten up. Then his eyes rolled back and he slid towards the floor, his head and upper body slumping partly against the counter and near the floor.

He said initial examination led him to believe the man might have suffered a heart attack.

Dog Careless, Tavern Owner Bans Smoking

DONCASTER, England (Reuters)—Butch, a tobacco-craving dog, has been banned from smoking in taverns here because he is careless about how he spits out his cigarette butts.

Tavern-keeper Ron Butchers said today: "Butch is wonderful but his cigarettes have caught the legs of one or two of our customers and it is not nice."

Butch's owner, 59-year-old timber dealer Ralph Spenser, added: "It's the customers who give him the cigarettes. But the ban can be a good thing for Butch.

"He has been smoking too much and has a bit of a cough."

One Doukhobor Killed, Car Ripped Apart

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—A Sons of Freedom Doukhobor was killed and at least three others were injured when their car was ripped apart in a bomb blast about 30 miles southwest of here Friday night.

RCMP said five Freedomites were in the car when the explosive device went off in the rear seat as they travelled along a sideroad near the village of Kinnaird.

A motorist who saw the explosion said the car roof was torn off. All four doors were blown clear and the vehicle skidded for 200 feet.

Names of the victims were not immediately available.

An RCMP tracking dog was put into action and roadblocks set up in the area after police were told a fifth man was seen running from the wrecked car. They believe he was injured.

Another man who left the scene returned and was taken to hospital with two other freedomites, one reported in critical condition.

The incident followed three attacks Thursday night and Friday by terrorists in the British Columbia Kootenay district.

Terrorists tunneled into a yard next to a former provincial jail annex at Nelson and planted three incendiary bombs which sent flames racing through the annex.

Police and firemen rushed to the scene and snatched two unexploded bombs from the building. The fire was controlled in about 40 minutes with damage estimated at $3,000.

A few hours later RCMP reported a power pole was cut off by a dynamite explosion at a point near Winlaw, 50 miles north of Trail. There was no interruption of power in the area.

Another blast damaged a section of CPR track in the same area.

RCMP put the bombings down to a continuing reign of dynamiting and arson that has broken out sporadically throughout the Kootenays since police rounded up 79 suspected Sons of Freedom Doukhobor terrorists.

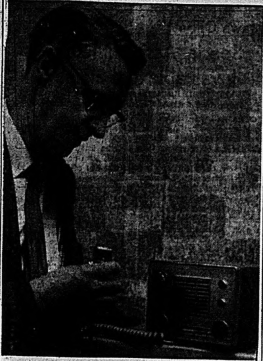
Police said the Nelson incendiarists dug a trench under a 15-foot high fence that surrounded the compound less than 40 yards from the old provincial jail, where more than 30 Freedomites are being held for trial on bombing and arson charges.

Lord Snowdon's Groomsman Given Divorce

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Roger Gilliatt, a neurologist who was groomsman at Princess Margaret's wedding, was granted a divorce Friday on the ground of adultery by his wife with playwright John Osborne.

When Princess Margaret married Antony Armstrong - Jones, now the Earl of Snowdon, the neurologist, a close friend of the groom, acted as groomsman.

Dr. Gilliatt's late father was surgeon - gynecologist to Queen Elizabeth.



CITIZENS BAND RADIO — Local ham radio operator and serviceman, Gene Hitchon is seen with CB radio which the Department of Transport is expected to begin licensing in Canada about April 1st.

'Citizens Band' Radio Will Allow Average Family to Operate Two-Way System

"Citizens Band" radio which in the past few years has become extremely popular in the United States, is soon expected to be legal in Canada with the Department of Transport scheduled to commence licensnig on April 1st.

Licensing of such sets in Canada, will allow for the first time the average citizen to own and operate his own private two-way radio system for personal use without going to the trouble of learning Morse code and becoming a full licensed ham radio operator. The licence fee is expected to be about one dollar.

One of the major drawbacks, however, is that CB Radio is anything but private and might very well be likened to a glorified party line telephone.

Local ham radio operator, Mr. Gene Hitchon notes that up to 20 channels from 26.965 megacycles, to 27.226 megacycles — are expected to be allotted for CB radio.

USE ANY CHANNEL

And persons buying the sets will have the right to use up to any number of channels which his set may be built to utilize.

Mr. Hitchon says there will be any number of uses for the CB radio sets when they are permitted in Canada.

A motorist may have one installed in his car for the purpose of contacting his wife at home, or an operator of a small fleet of delivery trucks might install the system to allow ready contact with all vehicles.

Or cottagers in isolated areas might use the system for ready contact with the nearest telephone.

Just what might be expected in Canada is the fact that in the United States over 250,000 of the sets were in use last year with each year bringing an additional 10,000 owners. Cost of the sets is considerably less — up to $500 for two unit installation together with antennas — than the commercial systems such as used by taxi cabs or police forces.

LACK OF PRIVACY

Lack of privacy is one of the biggest drawbacks for the system and the limited range is another. Wattage of the sets is limited to five watts which have a limited range about five miles for the car-home systems or up to 20 miles with ideal reception.

Over-crowding of the available channels has been experienced in the metropolitan areas of the United States, but this would not be expected to be bothersome in the Belleville area.

Several Canadian manufacturers are already geared for production of the CB radio sets which will go on the market as soon as licensing and other details have been worked out.

Pope Names 10 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John today named 10 new cardinals and announced the consistory for creation of the new Princes of the Roman Catholic Church will be March 19.

The new cardinals will bring membership of the sacred college to 87, the highest in church history.

Slippery Roads Cause of Many Minor Mishaps

TRENTON — Half a dozen minor accidents, in which slippery road conditions were named as a contributing factor, occurred in Trenton on Friday. Damage in most cases was kept below the $100 mark and street intersections seemed to be the favorite places for accidents to happen. There were no personal injuries.

Around 6:30 p.m., a car driven by William Charles Frauts, 93 Byron Street, received rear end damages estimated at $125 when it was struck by a car driven by Leslie Pope, 30 McCann St., as Mr. Frauts turned into his driveway. The second car, which was damaged to the extent of $150, was unable to stop because of road conditions.

SOLICITORS MEET OFFICIALS

Clerk-Comptroller O. W. Larry said yesterday that solicitors for the Tatham Company of Belleville were meeting with officials of the Ontario Water Resources Commission in Toronto in the afternoon, to discuss details of Tatham's tender for the installation of trunk sewers on Front and Sidney Streets. Tatham's was one of eight tenders for the work and was recommended to the commission by Gore & Storrie, consulting engineers engaged by the town.

New Oral Polio Vaccine Not Yet Available

TRENTON — Commenting on an announcement from Ottawa on Thursday to the effort that Connaught Laboratories in Toronto had been granted permission to manufacture oral polio vaccine and that this product should be available by late June or early July, Dr. E. W. Dow, MOH at Trenton said yesterday that he had received no official notification as yet, but that as soon as the product was available it would no doubt be used locally.

Dr. Dow pointed out that smaller children would still receivel noculations hypodermically against such diseases as whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus. He commented that adults who have no need of these serums would doubtless appreciate taking the polio serum by mouth rather than by injection.

Conservatives Meet to Elect Their Officers

In the wake of last week's activity on the part of area followers of the Liberal party, Trenton Progressive Conservatives will meet tonight in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Elgin Street to elect 1962 executive members and plan a course of action. The meeting will start at 7.30 p.m. sharp.

Public Speaking Contest Held By Lions Club

TRENTON — Parents and interested friends of the students who took part in the annual Lions Club public speaking contest in the high school auditorium last night were whisked by the youthful speakers, with the greatest of ease from gay Paree to the ancient seaport of Alexandria; from the Great Lakes of Canada to behind the Iron Curtain; from Vietnam to the Congo. As a bonus, they were instructed in the fine art of theatre make-up and told how they could learn to ride a horse in seven easy lessons.

Winners of the local contest were Joan Garrett and Hubert Campbell (seniors), and Ruth Anne Campbell and Paul Menzies (juniors).

The winners of the senior class will go on to the Lions' regional contest, and might go on to the sub-district contest in Noranda in early May.

In addition to the winners, Margot Greer and Joe Riccardi also competed for the senior award and Carol Fortier, Maureen Coker, Gail Prud'homme and Christopher Spencer tried out for the junior prizes.

Chairman for the evening was Lion Nostrand Sprague.

Judges were Lorne Johnson, RCAF, and educational chairman for the Quinte Toastmasters' Club, Miss Betty Smith and Clarence Christie of Brighton.

All contestants were given cheques from the local Lions Club and the winners received trophies and a crest to be placed in their room at school.

Whom Should We Criticize?

Amongst life's quieter joys, there is surely none which gives higher pleasure than the unexpected discovery of a companionable mind—the lyrical or hysterical use the term "soulmate."

This joy is evidently bringing delight to Dr. Brock Chisholm, Canada's best-known iconoclast, who has succeeded in drawing the ire of the John Birch Society by his efforts to promote world peace. He is reported to have experienced a growing feeling that "I am just saying out loud what a lot of people have been thinking to themselves."

This, though, is but one side of the coin. The joy of the speaker who discovers that his audience is in tune with his ideas is at least matched, if not exceeded, by that of the listener who discovers that his secret convictions are being publicly expressed.

There will be some, perhaps not a few, who will experience this thrill upon reading an article in "Atlantic" by J. K. Galbraith, the Canadian-born Harvard economist who is now the United States ambassador to India. The article is the text of a lecture given by him at Annamalai University in India. He had been asked: "Why are your (U.S.) papers and your political leaders so severe in their treatment of India?" His answer is that it is natural to criticize your friends more than your enemies; your friends may listen.

Some Canadians may here recognize their own unvoiced conviction; many more may find here balm for a nagging conscience, troubled by aspersions against the common Canadian tendency to criticize the U.S.—for Galbraith, in defending his adopted country's attitude towards India has defended, with equal effectiveness, his native land's treatment of the U.S.

Not everybody, though, will agree with Galbraith.

Perhaps one can divide the whole human race into two clear-cut classifications—those who habitually criticize their friends and those whose harsh words are reserved for their enemies.

Such a fundamental difference in outlook explains a host of disputes and misunderstandings—not only about the U.S. attitude towards India, and vice versa, and the attitude of many Canadians toward the U.S., but also much else. Some of those who demand a higher standard of friends than of enemies almost welcomed Chiang's defeat by the communists, because the well-attested corruption of Chiang's regime was an affront in a friend, made all the more embarrassing by the equally well-attested integrity of Mao; while those who see faults only in an enemy saw only the Reds' cruelty and insisted on viewing Chiang as a white knight in shining armor. Thus people with identical convictions about the desirability of democracy could and do hold diametrically opposed views of U.S. alliances with Franco and, until just before his fall, with Trujillo.

This sharp division between those who criticize their friends and those who criticize their enemies, however, is blunted in times of war. Then, most of us reserve hard words for our foes. Why this should be may not be immediately apparent. After all, if, as Galbraith says, "evil by one's antagonists is assumed," why do we suddenly become shocked and surprised with the enemy's iniquity in time of war? Two factors suggest themselves. Firstly, evil waxes mightily. Secondly, we hear only of the enemy's atrocities. Only in isolated cases do we allow ourselves to believe evil of ourselves or our friends and when we do there are generally special circumstances. For instance, the general credence given in the south of England, after the First Great War, to the story that the Australians' normal method of disposing of prisoners was to bind their hands, place a Mills bomb in the pocket of one of them, pull the pin and run can probably be traced back to the fact that the tall, bronzed men from Down Under had frightened the remaining wits out of the Wiltshire Moonrakers around Salisbury long before they faced the Germans.

We must also remember that in war what were formerly vices may become considered virtues. Stalin was unquestionably ruthless, cunning and stubborn—but these very traits served to produce one of the greatest displays of steely courage of the war, when he permitted the Germans to penetrate to within an hour's drive of Moscow while he patiently husbanded his reserves against the day when Winter should be prepared to take the field with them.

To most of us, though, it seems obvious that other, higher standards of judgment are advisable in times of peace.

A life spent worthily should be measured by deeds, not years.—Richard Sheridan.

Ottawa Offbeat

Special Assistant Fisher Invaluable to the P.M.

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

If for no other reason than that he knows somebody—usually a civic, service club, professional, farm or labor leader in just about every community from one end of the nation to the other—Fisher will be invaluable.

From his years of rhapsodizing Canada and things Canadian as a commentator, he got to meet them all, many of them such opinion-makers as the chamber of commerce executive, the newspaper editor, influential churchman, respected clubwoman.

And being a man with a remarkable memory for faces and names, he can still greet them with convincing familiarity of old acquaintances.

His astonishing roll-call of people-to-know w supplement the Prime Minister's own rather astoundingly large and ever-growing circle of intimates in virtually every city, town and village in the provinces.

That the PM knows so many people is hardly surprising, for he has been working at it — and it has been something of a hobby, perhaps even a labor of love — since he entered politics back in the late 20's.

NOTHING LIKE NAMES

As a jubilant senior member of the Cabinet beamed the other day: "Nothing pays such political dividends on election day as knowing people, and between them the PM and his 'Exec' ought to be able to first name almost everybody from Halifax to Vancouver."

But Fisher's political potential isn't confined to names.

He knows places and all the big and little interesting things about them that sound so well when dropped casually, if knowingly, into a campaign speech.

He'll have the priceless "local angle" for the Prime Minister in every Metro or Whistle-stop they hit.

This special knowledge of names and places, the "Who's Who" and "What's What" across Canada, is a formidable asset politically.

When, after nearly five years of searching, of trial and error, Conservative insiders, Senator William Brunt and old Diefenbaker intimate, Works Minister Walker, rounded up John Fisher as Prime Ministerial assistant, press secretary, troubleshooter and general Man-Friday-around-Parliament Hill, they scored an almost impossible personal bull's-eye.

Impossible, almost, because truth to tell, the Prime Minister is a terribly difficult man to satisfy, let alone please.

FORMALLY PRESENTED

John Fisher began his exacting tour of East Block duty back last Fall and not only has obviously thrived under unrelenting prime ministerial pressure, but has emerged perhaps as the man on Parliament Hill best able to handle the hard-driving, impulsive, emotional and dedicated work addict that John Diefenbaker has become.

The Conservative organization has been so pleased with Fisher's performance that Senator Brunt and a pair of his colleagues formally presented him as press secretary — among a bewildering variety of other duties — at a cocktail party attended by the Capital's corps of some 150 newsmen based on Parliament Hill.

The Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker attended, both to sip straight orange juice, the PM to kid the press corps about election guessing and Mrs. D. to report on the life and times of "Happy," the much-publicized pup.

What makes John Fisher this good?

From the perspective of 22 years of watching prime ministerial press secretaries and special assistants, it can be said — and as a matter of hard fact rather than of opinion — that apart from his obvious and impressive talents, John Fisher's biggest asset is his unshakeable calm.

No matter how fierce the pressure, how bright and hot the sparks that fly in any Prime Minister's office — in Mackenzie King's, Louis St. Laurent's and John Diefenbaker's alike — Fisher remains Mr. Cool.

A NO MAN

He can move quickly into a scene of uncertainty and confusion and restore order. Others can be in a flap, calls can be waiting on five phone lines, six visitors can be queued up for interviews, he can be researching material for two speeches and looking up historical references for use in correspondence, dictate to his secertary and lunch off a soup and sandwich tray at his desk . . . . and still stay steady as a rock.

Perhaps best of all he can, and does, say "No".

And this to a man like the Prime Minister, surrounded as any head of government gets to be, by yes-men, is a priceless qualification.

John Fisher can say No — for he is an adviser in certain special matters — and make the Prime Minister like it.

Like it, because essentially No turns out to be the best advice, the right answer.

He probably never in all his 47 years has been so busy as in these months since he became the Prime Minister's Man Friday. He is at his elbow at almost all public appearances, he hovers above him in the galleries when the PM is on the floor of the Commons, he mounts a guard over the prime ministerial East Block door, travels with him on most out-of-the-Capital excursions, and works with him both on Parliament Hill and out at the official residence at 24 Sussex Drive.

The Prime Minister is very likely the only man in the country with two shadows . . . his own and John Fisher.

Strange Way Ice Behaves

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Man must be eternally grateful for the anomalous expansion of water. If it weren't for this peculiarity ice wouldn't float.

Ice floats because water expands when it freezes. Almost every other substance contracts as it solidifies. If water were not perverse, says Roberts Mann, U.S. conservationist, all sorts of things would happen.

Ice would then be denser than water, and sink. Instead of forming a layer on the top, ice would build up on the bottom of lakes, streams and oceans. Fish and plants would die. Northern waters, instead of opening up in summer would merely have a little slush on top of permanent ice. No fishing, no sailing, no swimming and very probably no industry and no life at all as we know it.

In fact if it were'nt for the nice way ice behaves, concludes Mr. Mann, we'd all be Eskimos.

Now isn't that a pleasant thought to ponder while slipping and falling on a patch of ice on the sidewalk?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THAT CITY

"God is not ashamed to be called their God, for he hath prepared for them a city" (Hebrews 11:16).

No one knows who wrote this marvelous Epistle to the Hebrews, but whoever it was he had true courage and power. Furthermore, he was a man of vision. His eyes were raised above the furthest horizon and he had visions of a great heavenly city which God Himself would build. His idea of heaven was that it was a glorious place in which the souls of the departed would find their habitation.

We of this day and age think all too little of heaven, yet from the beginning of Scripture to the end, heaven is spoken about, emphasized, and occasionally described. Heaven is not described in detail, probably because heavenly realities are far beyond the capacity of the human mind to comprehend. But the Bible declares that heaven is indeed more real than this earthly life which we are living all the time. God has prepared for us a city. Some day it will come down out of heaven prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. To it the blessed have gone. Its gates await us if we are worthy to enter.

The city — the glorious city! Let it never fade out of our mind or conscience. God who is love has built it for you and for me.

"Maybe we should buy him a dog."

Junior Red Cross members of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School who made such a splendid contribution (901 articles) in their war work program to the end of the June term, have again shown their keen interest this term in this essential wartime project. The collection of articles, from daintily made babies' wear for refugee children and clothing for older tots, and perfectly knit articles for men in service, shows expert skill on the part of the young knitters.

The Boy Scout Troop under the leadership of Scoutmaster Dorothy Osborne attended divine service in Centre Street Mission yesterday morning, marking the beginning of Scout Week. Mr. Harvey of Albert College was in charge of the service and delivered an inspiring sermon on the text, "Be prepared", which is the Boy Scout motto. The hymn composed especially to be sung at the memorial service for the late Lord Baden-Powell, revered scout leader, was sung.

This troop is the only one in Belleville at present and is faithfully carrying on many war activities with a small band of workers, and their zeal is in keeping with the highest scout ideals. They have been engaged in the special work of collecting used medicine bottles and sending them to military hospitals where they are greatly in demand. They are also collecting tinfoil, and have placed barrels in the lobbies of the Capitol Theatre and the McCarthy Theatre into which citizens can drop contributions.

Dog's Rights Decide Case

Vancouver Sun

A Toronto magistrate has handed down a decision which, if sustained, should surely become a landmark in Canadian law.

A man was charged with the theft of a dog, which he claimed he owned. The magistrate himself declared the claim a shadow. Yet he awarded the ownership of the dog to the accused man.

"The feelings of the dog must be of some consideration to me" he said.

This seems a bit hard on the feelings of the man who really did own the dog.

It also opens the question of just how able a magistrate is to communicate with a dog to determine its preferences.

Not only this, but the dog becomes a competent witness in a Canadian court of law.

Previously only protected from cruelty he now has personal rights, which override the rights of his owner. Like the human slaves of old, he has been emancipated.

Where do we go from here?

A legal principle, once established, can be stretched a long way. Being emancipated, will the dog also be enfranchised? Can he now vote?

Do other domestic animals profit by the decision?

Will a cow have property rights in her own milk, cream and butter, (after, of course, she has paid the farmer for board and lodging)?

It's no longer a question of whether a cat can laugh, but whether she can sue when you've carelessly stepped on her tail.

The longer we look at this decision the more we are convinced that a handy man with a fly-swatter may wake some morning to find himself charged with murder.

If and when the British turn to the decimal system of currency, the chances are that the sixpenny piece will continue to be called that, even when it has become a dime.

Tubal Pregnancy Impossible When Uterus Is Removed

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard of tubal pregnancy, but do not understand it. I had a hysterectomy. The doctor removed the uterus, and an ovary, leaving one good ovary and tube. Is it possible for me to become pregnant in this tube? — Mrs. C.M.

No, you can stop worrying about it.

First, let's explain a tubal (or ectopic) pregnancy.

The uterus must be present for pregnancy to occur. The male sperm must move up through cervix and uterus to meet the ovum (or egg) as it descends from the ovary through the Fallopian tube.

The egg, then fertilized, moves down into the uterus to grow.

In some instances, fortunately rather rare, the ovum halts, or is in some way stopped, in the Fallopian tube. When this happens, there is no room for the ovum to grow, but it tries to. Presently great pressure developes the tube may rupture, and surgery is urgent at once.

However, after a hysterectomy, the uterus has been removed. There is no way for the sperm to reach the Fallopian tube. It cannot come in contact with an ovum — and hence pregnancy, even a tubal pregnancy, is impossible.

I might add that leaving one ovary, if it is healthy, is often done, indeed, I would say is usually done if possible, when the patient is fairly young, because it will continue to provide hormones which are normal for the body to have at such an age.

Removing both ovaries does approximately the same thing that happens when, at menopause, the ovaries cease producing hormones in quantity. The result is like having a woman go through menopause earlier than she normally would. This situation is known technically as "surgical menopause."

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I know a person who had cancer. After six months he was found to be O.K. Our doctor told me that cancer isn't catching, but wouldn't it be wise for this patient to refrain from kissing? He has grandchildren.

He reads your column and I believe he would probably learn something about his condition. To tell the truth, even if you'd say it was permissible. I still wouldn't take the chance. — Mrs. F.H.

Maybe he will learn something from what I have to say; I'm afraid you won't. But here it is: I know of absolutely no reason why a person who had (or even still has) cancer should not kiss his grandchildren.

If I knew of even one case of anyone giving cancer to another person, I would of course advise differently. It isn't a disease that can be "given," any more than blindness, or a broken arm, or hiccups, or appendicitis can be contagious.

•

Dear Sir: I would like to know about a drug called Antabuse. What is its purpose? Is it harmful? — A.J.B.

It is a powerful drug, sometimes used in treating alcoholism, because when a patient is taking the drug, even a slight amount of alcohol makes him violently ill.

The patient stops drinking rather than be so ill. Or — and this is the weak part of the system — the patient may stop taking the Antabuse! As in most treatments for alcoholism, the patient has to do his part and co-operate.

Antabuse, incidentally, can have serious side effects and so must absolutely be given only under medical supervision.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ARE YOU MISUNDERSTOOD?

Most of us waste a great deal of time being "misunderstood." Why shouldn't we be misunderstood? I have never yet met a human being who understood himself or herself. Why should we expect others to understand us.

Worry as little as possible about being misunderstood by others. Give great thought to understanding yourself. The best driver of a car is that one who knows most about the car itself. If it doesn't respond to manipulations accurately, he knows what to do.

No man is powerful or influential who doesn't understand himself well enough to direct his energies aright during moments of distress or emergency.

Pope once said that the "proper study of mankind is man." Of course what he meant was that every single man was to study himself and try his best to solve himself into service and usefulness.

Are you misundirstood? Don't waste any time thinking about it. It won't help matters — and, of course, will do a great deal of damage.

We were not put into the world to be understood at all. The human being never lived who was understood — by himself or others. We were put here to do our work and to pass something on for the increased happiness of others.

Emerson went so far as to say at one time that "to be misunderstood is to be great."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Where the eight-lane super highway approaches the big city through the stark factories and plants far-flung and crouched across the wintry landscape, a rough legged hawk hovers. A hundred yards away, the grim towers of electric transmission lines stand stiff. Less than a mile distant, an international airport spouts up its jets or blinks them howling down. On the eight-lane highway the late afternoon traffic roars darkly, endlessly. And there, fifty feet up, its eye on a patch of wintry weed stubble abaft a factory, the rough leg beats its wings skilfully, holding itself poised for the stoop.

The rough leg — not the ferruginous relative that lives on the prairies but the common rough leg that breeds in the barren lands across the top of the continent .— never sees men up there in his native land. He feeds on the lemmings and other small rodents that abound on the tundra. And when he drifts south, in winter, he finds very good mouse and rat hunting in the immediate vicinity of a very curious creature that lives in a state of stupendous frenzy, noise, fume, and senseless activity. With beautiful fierce eyes he concentrates on mice, and is totally unaware of man.

Quebec One in Ten

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

As the second largest of the 10 provinces, Quebec naturally excercises a larger voice in the affairs of the country than the smaller provinces. It cannot claim, however, to have influence equal to the sum total of the others simply because in its own view it comprises one nation and the rest of Canada another nation.

A Lift For Living

World Divided by Many Walls

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

For months the eyes of the world have been watching a wall in Berlin. We have pity for the poor people who are imprisoned in a country of intolerable conditions. We condemn a Government which divides a great city like Berlin with a wall. In alarm we behold a barrier that can become a cause of war.

If we could take a bird's-eye view of our world today, we should see it checkered and crisscrossed with walls.

And if we were able to take a God's-eye view of our globe and look upon the hearts of men as well as their surroundings, we should see walls of suspicion cutting across our most intimate circles, walls of pride between classes and walls of hatred between nations.

Robert Frost has a poem in which he depicts a farmer rebuilding his stone fence. The frost and weather have dislodged some of the stones. As the farmer replaces the fallen parts and contemplates the continuous care required to keep up his fences, he says to himself, "Something there is that doesn't like a wall."

Paul's Experience

Ah, something that doesn't like a wall! And it is of this which we would think today. Listen to the experience of a man who began life as one of the most bigoted partisans on record and ended it as one of the most brotherly. He had confronted the walls of family pride, race prejudice and religious sectarianism. His name was Paul, and as he neared the end of his career he wrote to the church which he had founded at Ephesus. In that letter Paul gave the secret by which the dividing barriers had been burned away. He pointed to Jesus the Christ and said, "He is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us."

Wall of Pride

Jesus faced the wall of pride even in His own circle of disciples. Recall the occasion when the mother of Zebedee's sons came to Jesus and asked Him to give first place to her sons when He came into His kingdom. When the other ten disciples heard of this request, they were moved with indignation against the two.

And what did Jesus say? He said, "Ye know that the princes of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority over them. But it shall not be so among you; but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant." Thus Christ would remove pride which is the cornerstone in the foundation on which walls between individuals rise — pride of opinion, pride of possession, pride of prestige, pride of power.

When pride is lessened, the walls of misunderstanding are lowered. The light of faith streams in to dispel fear. We get the sympathy to judge others as we would that they should judge us. And if we really catch God's spirit, we swallow our pride and take the first step toward reconciliation.

et Age Comes to Miami Beach estoring Business to Normal

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Miami Beach, Fla. — The dwinter sun shone uncommon- hot and brilliant over the panse of cement known as e patio of the Deauville Hotel, hich is a kind of permanently ached S.S. United States.

A pretty girl blared her ges over the public address stem. Telephones in the abanas rang incessantly with essages from bookies and okers, and browned heads e raisins in the sun popped from lounges to see if it was r them. Jets zoomed overhead, elicopters buzzed the shore, e Goodyear blimp droned by d monoplanes trailing adver- sing signs plied their ways up d back.

Leisure is a matter of taste, d in Miami Beach it is more osely associated with stimu- tion than relaxation. Lest the onventional hubbub fail to eep anyone awake, all up and own the beach Lessons in eisure were being peddled on lounge-to-lounge basis.

essons and Lessons

By actual count, these ranged om Acrobabtic to Zen and in- luded skin diving, water skiing, wimming, diving, trampolining, ogaing, twisting, hully gullying nd mashed potatoing — the atter two of which we assume ere luncheon dishes. You ould also shop for clothes by oolside, arrange to sit for a ortrait or get a free lunch by ntering a spaghetti-eating con- est.

We asked the lady on the ext lounge if she had taken ny lessons. "I once went to oga class," she said, "but I uit when they told me yoga ould send me out of this lanet. Do you know how much paid to be here on this lanet? Then they told me it ould cure my insomnia. I told hem I wouldn't have insomnia they didn't come around othering me to take lessons hile I'm trying to sleep."

"Go away," the man on an- ther side told a deep-sea fish- ng lesson salesman. "I'm learn- ng to be stupid."

Despite the other temptations, Miami Beach's leading pool- ide diversion is gin rummy. Tournaments involving syn- icates of players start early n the morning and run until unset, whereupon they are re- essed to the hotels' card ooms.

ocial Status

A close second among pastimes is establishment of one's social status. Since most anyone can now afford merely to come to Miami Beach, the ideal winner of this game is one who stays from November to May, and has a three-room suite and a cabana at a plush hotel — on the European plan, of course. The American plan, a short stay, a mere bedroom or a lower-priced hotel are all declasse.

Since foreign travel is a well-accepted index of social stratification, this can now be arranged easily. More Caribbean cruises sail out of the Miami area than any port but New York, and range all the way from grand tours to the Calynso Liner's $13.50 compact cruise, a one-day scoot to Bimini in the Bahamas.

You step ashore just long enough to show your vaccination certificate, then do your free-port shopping on board and return breathlessly to your Miami Beach hotel the same night with tales of your Trip Abroad.

This capacity for cashing in on travel trends, even those opposed to its own interests, is symbolic of Miami Beach's ability to — in a manner of speaking — keep its head above water.

Five years ago it was at its peak as a resort, a somewhat overbuilt, overpriced, much-derided but highly successful flash-in-the-pocketbook for the new rich. Then all at once it was hit by a weather slump, a worse business slump and the jet age which carried its jaded clients off to faraway places with the greatest of ease.

Many past and potential guests lost sight of the area's very real appeals — its great natural beauty, luxurious accommodations, superb food and endless variety of activities, with or without lessons.

Changed its Pitch

Seeing the handwriting on the wall, Miami Beach changed its pitch. Family groups were catered to in season (kids were once anathema in season except at the motels). Convention groups were wooed as a stopgap, but they became a permanent part of the picture and also broadened the base of future individual business. The American plan was introduced in season to bring down costs to guests.

Even Miami Beach's level of taste matured. Continental food and service were introduced in both hotels and restaurants. Night club entertainment was delivered from its traditional clipjoint element and given to hotel guests free of charge. Even the congestion of the famed Lincoln Road shopping area was replaced by one of the loveliest malls in the country.

And little by little the guests, old and new, began to return, having had their fill of isands which, however, unique and charming, too, often featured hotel rooms furnished with cockroaches, water that didn't run and telephones that didn't work.

Last month Miami Beach celebrated its renascence with the wooing of several hundred travel agents in a huge party sponsored by the Lansburgh hotel group and Eastern Air Lines, one of Miami's aboriginal boosters.

The dream merchants returned home with their bathing suits still wet in their luggage. The jet age had, after all, come to Miami as well as to its competitors.

Bride-to-Be Honored By Community

STIRLING — Miss Jean Grills was honored at a shower at the home of Mrs. Andy Visser and her daughters, when approximately 30 ladies from the Carmel community and other friends were in attendance.

Wedding pictures were shown of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Koets and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vandermuelien. Mrs. Harry Brown entertained with several selections of music. Miss Nellie Visser read an appreciative addeess and the guest of honor was presented with a large array of miscellaneous gifts.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and all wished Jean every happiness on her matrimonial voyage.

Use of Approval, Disapproval Cards Demonstrated at CWL

The effectiveness of using the approval and disapproval cards concerning television programs is proven as reported at the recent C.W.L. meeting by the letter received by Mrs. H. Brown. Mrs. Brown on behalf of the league wrote a letter criticizing the program, "The Morning after Mr. Roberts."

Under disapproval was the seemingly flippant use of Christ's name, and slang swearing. CBC authorities were most apolegetic stating that the CWL was one of many complaints Quoting from Mr. Warner's letter of Audio Relations, "the intent of the production was not to convey any profane overtones. The fact that it did so in the opinion of some of our viewers represents a weakness in our production and inevitably reflects on the judgment of the producer. It has been made clear to him and all producers that the name of the Deity is not to be used even when artistically justified."

"It is gratifying to know that the public's opinion is not ignored, but encouraged so that programs can be produced to please rather than offend televisions' most necessary element - the viewer.".

The Valentine Ball will be the first social event to enjoy the beautiful new decor of St. Michael's auditorium. Mrs. B. Burley announced at Monday's meeting that the renovations of which she was in charge, would be completed for the dance. Turquoise walls and drapes is the well chosen color scheme which further enhances the beautiful crystal chandeliers and mahogany woodwork.

The league of the Sacred Heart once a flourishing segment of the church, but lately sadly declining, is now being revived with Mrs. Thomas Mascaro as lead promoter. All promoters and those who wish to be were asked to contact Mrs. Mascaro and earnestly work to bring the Sacred Heart back in proper focus.

GUIDES — BROWNIES

Mrs M. O'Connor gave an interesting account of Guide, and Brownie activities. Events enjoyed by them were, skating parties, Christmas parties, tours - all supervised fun for young girls for which Guides and Brownies are known.

A splendid response to Mrs. Farrell's request for used stamps enabled her to send 14 pounds to grateful missionaries.

After all committees reported and business completed the meeting adjourned. While refreshments were served tickets were sold for five cents on a lovely cup and saucer. Mrs. Murphy was the lucky winner.

Valentine Party Held By Chi Rho

Chi Rho members gathered Wednesday evening for a gay party planned and successfully carried out by the group "Red Hots" under the leadership of Kay Ingraham. The hall was cheerfully decorated in red and white streamers, with the added touch of traditional hearts.

Things got under way to an interesting start with Bob and Marjorie Butler in charge of pinning hearts on members' backs to which the names of movie stars, singers, comic characters, politicians, royalty were written, the idea being to guess who you were, by questioning others and in return receiving answers of 'yes' or 'no' only. The game continued throughout the entire party and made for a talkative evening.

Following this, members took part in a game of darts. Instead of aiming for the usual bull's eye, hearts marked the spot for winning points. The game was played in four groups competing against one another.

Dancing began with several "Paul Jones". The following members stepped in time to the "Virginia Reel." Next in turn for a new partner was to "Match Your Broken Heart," Leslie and Barney Bearns started off a "Snow Ball" dance and with everyone on the floor continued on to an "Elimination Dance".

For a change of pace, a game of "Sly Wink" was featured. Chairs were formed in a circle on which women were seated and men stood behind with their hands aback.

The game began with one chair minus a woman, the idea being for the man to slyly beckon another woman to his chair with a wink before her partner could stop her.

SPOT DANCE

A "Spot Dance" was announced to get things going on the floor once again. The newest members, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Teed, were the lucky winners. During dancing and games, a tasty and thirst-quenching punch was enjoyed by all.

A lovely lunch of various cakes and ice cream so suitable for the occasion was prepared and served by Joanne Cavalier, Marjorie Butler and Marilyn Crouter.

An added thanks to the tea and coffee maker, Margaret Eagle, a job willingly taken on by her for this year.

While eating lunch, members were given pencil and paper to see how many words they could derive from "Valentine." Bill Crouter proved finding those small hidden words was no problem for him.

President Allan Gardiner reminded members the next meeting was scheduled for March 7th.

Herb Cavalier closed with prayer.

TIME'S THEME SONG

"Yes," he said, "that seems how the change comes about." . . . .

"Thus then, the change will come about. But after the change, how will it go on?"—Plato's The Republic, Book VIII.

Enclosed in the mail this morning was a clipping from the bi-weekly Montrose, California newspaper, sent by a friend whom we had met in Los Angeles some months ago. For this reason:

Very near our friend's home, in Montrose, was a stately old 19th century mansion which sat far back from Foothill boulevard almost hidden from view by tall evergreens that outlined the premises, and was pointed out to us as we drove by.

"It's one of the oldest mansions in the Crescenta Valley," she said. "It reflects I feel, a bit of the grandeur and elegance of a time that is forever past. It's well over a hundred years old. An old lady of 93 recalls seeing the estate many times when she was a young girl visiting with her parents in this area, and remembers it as a show and gathering place for many of the nation's socially elite - though black bears roamed about. These often frightened carriage horses and caused runaways. So two outriders always accompanied them when they drove on about the foothill region.

"An English nobleman is said to have built it as a wedding gift for his bride, and the original, unique tile panel which depicts a royal court scene still decorates the corner fireplace in the sitting room.

"Since then it has changed hands a dozen times. Once it was owned and occupied by an order of French Catholics and a painted-over outline of a Crucifix on the wall of the old church quarters over the carriage house was still visible, when the present owner, Mr. Merritt P. Kimball purchased the 8 acre estate nearly forty years ago. He turned it into a sanitarium for convalescing elderly people, which will accommodate fifty though the average number of guests is about 35.

"Mr. Kimball has said that in the thirties, the average stay of guests was 110 days and the average rate of recovery 45 per cent. But nowadays, the average period of stay is down to 45 days and the rate of recovery increased to 85 per cent."

And the clipping ?

It's head-line reads: "100-year-old Kimball Mansion doom nears. Historic land mark victim of progress" with an account of how the noble edifice is marked for extinction, a victim of the commercial trend that is moving through the valley at an accelerated pace.

And what is to stand in it's place? A land developer, noting with amazement the remarkable population increase in recent census figures, made further investigation and "I was contacted," said Mr. Kimball, and thus has sold seven acres of the estate for a multi-million-dollar shopping centre.

Change it seems, isn't only a local affair; it makes the whole world akin, for it is time's theme song.

Bellevignette: So treasured and priceless is descriptive speech, that the New York Times Magazine, from time to time, publishes sayings and expressions of small children, garnered by their teachers; e.g. — as soft as: a whisper, a butterfly flying, a running mouse, a falling snow flake, etc.

Thus we are very indebted to Mrs. L. R. Finlyson, 118 Queen Street, for disclosing the following descriptive observant and logical comments of a very close and dear little friend, a six year old boy, who speaks of sawdust as being "wood crumbs" and dreams as "pictures in my eyes". Who asks his daddy, 'If I secret you, will you secret me?" and of his mother, 'If I can't take 217's for my headache, can I have 117's?" All of which reminds us that quality of expression gives immortality to a language, to a nation.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sponsors Valentine Tea

Despite the inclement weather of the day, the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church had quite a successful Valentine Tea this week. Although it was blustery and otherwise unpleasant outdoors the atmosphere inside the tea room was warm and gay and bright with red cupids and hearts, and candles all aglow.

Receiving the guests as they entered the tea room were: Mrs. R. D. MacLean, Mrs. W. H. V. Walker and Mrs. W. M. Barlow.

Lending itself further to the attractive atmosphere was the tea table, arranged with its lace cloth underlined with red with a beautiful floral centrepiece of red carnations, white 'mums and white snapdragons, enhanced with silver candelabra holding tall red tapers and an attractive silver tea service on either end.

POURING TEA

Pouring for the occasion were Mrs. W. H. V. Walker and Mrs. E. A. Craighead, Mrs. R. D. MacLean and Mrs. V. Weir.

A twinkle throughout the centre section of the room were tables for four neatly arranged with a white cloth and a lighted red candle on each one.

Serving the many guests were: Mesdames A. Armstrong, T. Anger, J. Blye, P. Bandy, G. Boyce, D. Elvidge, F. H. Kelly, A. W. Marner, R. C. Jones, O. J. Reid, Miss L. Burnside and with hostesses Mrs. E. Shier and Mrs. R. A. White.

Replenishing the tea table were: Mrs. R. M. Carmichael and Dr. Williamson; Mrs. E. N. Pigden and Mrs. W. Mills. arranged with a white cloth Mrs. A. Murray, Mrs. J. Webb and Mrs. N. G. Williamson.

Ladies in charge of the important duties in the kitchen were: Mesdames C. Adams, J. Browning, J. Craig, I. Douglas and V. Weir.

Guests with a sweet tooth were attracted to the home-made candy table laden with a fine array of melt-in-your-mouth morsels where convener, Mrs. C. Ryan and youthful members of the 'Explorers' group cheerfully served.

At the home-cooking table Mrs. H. Yorke, Mrs. J. Miller and Miss I. Harris conducted a brisk business all afternoon as guests approached and found themselves unable to resist the abundance of delectable items on display.

Visitors to the 'White Elephant' table where Mrs. W. Mantle and Mrs. W. Mills were in charge found a wide variety of useful or novel items on view and many people took advantage of the bargain prices offered.

This "Valentine Tea" is an annual event with the Women's Missionary Society and once again has proved to be a pleasant affair.

General conveners were: Mrs. W. M. Barlow, Mrs. E. Shier and Mrs. R. A. White.

Weddings

FRASER — GRILLS

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, February 10, at 2.00 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grills, Frankford, Ontario, when their daughter, Barbara Jean, became the bride of William Ralph Fraser, also of Frankford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fraser. The Reverend P. J. Hommerson, of Stirling, officiated beneath an archway of tulips, roses, carnations and evergreens. Lovely baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums adorned the rooms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her white lace bridal gown in ballerina-length trimmed with seed pearls having a fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. She wore a shoulder-length veil of illusion tulle, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Margaret McIntyre, of Consecon, as maid of honor wearing a blue nylon street-length dress, with matching headdress and shoes. She carried a bouquet of pink 'mums. Miss Sharon Grills of Frankford, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, attired in pink nylon in street-length, with matching bandeau, white shoes and gloves. She carried a bouquet of blue-tinted 'mums.

Mr. George Platford, of Frankford, was groomsman, while the bride's aunt, Mrs. Clayton Stapley, and the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Roy Keating, both of Frankford, R.R. 3 received the guests.

The reception was held at Club Canara, Belleville, where the bridal table was delightfully appointed with white damask, vases of mixed flowers and centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with white bells and a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of white flowers. Tall white candles and the bridal bouquets competed the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother chose a cocoa-brown wool gown with brown velvet hat, green accessories ,and corsage of gold 'mums, and the bridegroom's mother, a mauve brocaded taffeta and hat, beige accessories, with corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to the Thousand Islands and Clayton, N.Y. the bride wore a mink-brown wool dress; brown shoes and purse, with green accessories, grey borg jacket, and corsage of yellow 'mums.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Andy Visser with Mrs. Simeon Koots as co-hostess; also at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Marlene Bruce, of Stirling, as a surprise by the staff of the Elaine Shoe Factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser are residing at 25 Ford Street, Trenton, Ontario.

CONDUCTS AGAIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Nadia Boulanger, the only woman ever to have conducted the New York Philharmonic, led the orchestra for the second time Friday at Carnegie Hall. Miss Boulanger first conducted the Philharmonic in 1939. She will appear with the orchestra for a week in celebration of her approaching 75th birthday.

Branch Libraries, Evolution Of H.S. Courses Explained At Avondale H-S Association

The Avondale Home and School Association held its monthly meeting at the school. Mrs. Heslip, the president, welcomed everyone and conducted a short business meeting.

The treasurer reported a good balance and on the strength of the amount collected by the grade mothers it was recommended that the radios for each room and the record player be purchased immediately.

Miss Daniel's room won the attendance banner and plans were announced for the annual "Fun Fair" in April.

BRANCH LIBRARY

Mrs. M. Maclean introduced Mrs. Lockyer, the member of the Corby Public Library staff in charge of Branch Libraries and the School Libraries that are placed in the schools by the Corby Library. Mrs. Lockyer explained that a Branch Library contains a collection of adult books. There are two branch libraries; one at Queen Elizabeth School and one at Avondale School. The others are children's libraries.

The circulation in these libraries ranges from 500-650 books in the largest to 125-140 in the smallest. Some are only open half a day a week and Queen Elizabeth is open on two days a week with hours convenient to students and adults.

Mrs. Lockyer explained that children's books were arranged by grades and cover all the subjects of interest to the various children.

TRUST FUND

The library is financed by a $1.30 per capita grant from city council and a provincial grant, which cover maintenance and operation costs. Two trust funds supply money specifically for the purchase of books. Behind the scenes there is a lot of work and preparation before a book appears on the shelves for public use.

Mrs. Lockyer said that the Saturday morning story hour at the Library is to encourage all children to come to the main library where the selection is much wider. She told of several incidents with the children and in conclusion said, "it is an exciting experience to bring a good book and an eager child together."

Mr. Wright thanked Mrs. Lockyer for her informative talk, and introduced Mr. Orr, principal of B.C.I.V.S. who came to outline the new High School program which is being arranged for this coming September.

EVOLUTION OF H.S. COURSES

Mr. Orr gave the evolution of High School courses from the years of "General, Commercial, Technical and Home Economics," to the years of "Courses I, II, and III," to the newest plan which will start in September.

He outlined one year "Occupational Training Program" which would be offered to Grade 8 students who could use this experience in choosing a trade from the variety offered for both boys and girls.

There is to be a two-year course for those who wished only two years of high school.

Then there would be three spheres of interest giving both four year and five year courses. The four year courses are planned for students leaving high school to go into employment and the five year courses are planned for those who wish to enter university.

These spheres of interest are Arts and Science, Technology and Trades, Commerce and Finance.

The same basic subjects are taught in the three catagories and it is the options chosen which decide the category and the length of the student's course.

TWO LANGUAGES NECESSARY

Mr. Orr stressed that University entrance requires one language other than English, and advised that if University were even a remote possibility, a student should choose French as one option.

Mr. Orr emphasized the fact that there is a wide flexibility in the new program which required co-operation and consultation between parents and teachers to challenge each student, meet his needs, and equip him to become a responsible citizen in the community.

A question period followed and the grade 3 mothers served refreshments.

'Careers for Girls' Special Series for Teen-Agers

DORIS CLARK

Under the general title of "Careers for Girls," Doris Clark, Canadian journalist, is offering a series of twelve 700-word articles written for teen-agers. In informal, chatty style, each release presents a vocation, describing work involved, training, demand for workers and how to find out more about it.

The vocations selected are those now attracting large numbers of female workers, including:

Dietitian
Dressmaker
Hairdresser
Librarian
Nurse
Occupational and Physical Therapist
Saleswoman
Secretary
Social Workers
Teacher
Telephone Operator
Waitress

Miss Clark has done exhaustive research into each of these occupations. She has interviewed career women who have spent years at their chosen calling and know whereof they speak. Typical paragraphs are:

RE NURSING:

> "The nurse works hard; we know that. She is on her feet for long hours. But it is she who makes the doctor's magic work. It is her day-to-day service which helps sick bodies to heal and encourages patients to make the effort which can mean the difference between illness and health."

ABOUT SELLING, SHE SAYS:

> "It requires an interest in the other fellow and his needs. It takes a belief in the desirability of the product . . . .
>
> "Above all, it means service with a smile . . . . Who wants to buy anything from a crosspatch or a dull old blankface who doesn't even want to make friends?"

The author has had special training in vocational guidance and psychology, as well as being a professional social worker. Her daily column on human relations is now appearing in twelve Canadian newspapers, including The Ontario Intelligencer, which was the first newspaper to publish Miss Clark's column. The first of twelve articles starts Monday.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Joseph W. — I may have to sacrifice happiness for a chance to get ahead.

• • •

Lorna W. — I'm trying to talk some sense into my brother, Joe, before it's too late. He's 40 years old and still unmarried. Why? Because he's been looking for a girl with enough money to back one of his brainstorms — an electronic invention.

He's very bright, full of ideas and dreams but with no money to carry them out. He feels a rich marriage is his only hope. But in the last few weeks he's been wavering. He's strongly attracted to one of my friends, a schoolteacher of 27. Rita's wild about him and he keeps stringing her along with gifts and frequent dates. I know he'd like to marry her except that she's poor.

She happens to be a popular girl and I'm sure if Joe doesn't speak up soon, he'll lose her. This would be a pity. He should stop dreaming and settle down.

• • •

Joseph W. — What's a guy to do when his ship stays out there on the horizon and never quite comes in? When I was in my 20's and 30's I wasn't making enough money to get married. But during those years I devoted myself to a small invention and at last it's patented and ready for manufacture. I know I can go far if I can only get it off the ground.

This girl Rita is absolutely tops. The reason I'm forcing myself to hold out on her is that I've heard it's just as easy to love a rich girl as a poor one. If I'm to carry out my dream, I don't have much choice.

I admit it's easier to love Rita than anyone else. But marrying her would mean plowing under all my plans and being stymied professionally the rest of my life. Hard as it is, I feel I should hold out for someone else.

• • •

The Council: It may well be that Joe has a tabulator where his heart should be which renders him both inhuman and unmarriageable. But, on the other hand, he may be merely one of those childlike geniuses who needs a strong-minded woman in his life to bring him in out of the rain!

For a short-form answer here we say, grab Rita if you can still have her, Joe. There are so many ways to get money, but only one way to get a loving wife — the honest way, for herself alone!

Surely in the 40 years of your life, you've "been around." You've met and gone out with girls. You've circulated, been introduced, been "matched up" by friends who know what you're looking for. If, in all this time you haven't met or clicked with the "cash-register type" tootsie you seek, luck is with you. You're being spared for the sort of real happiness you hardly deserve.

While your eyes were peeled for the dollar sign framing the marriage possibilities you met, love crept up on you from behind. You love Rita but struggle to "hold out" for your original goal — an animated bank roll. So the best advice we can give you is, as Lorna suggests, to bring love and marriage together via Rita. Your plan, to keep love and marriage compartmented, with marriage for money first and love second, is the stuff of which tragedy is fashioned.

At present you're getting nowhere fast. More years can roll away with no progress in your personal or professional affairs. With Rita at your side, the invention fund can become a common goal. You can start saving towards it. She can continue teaching for a while. Through your employer, a Foundation or a bank, a financial arrangement to back ancial arrangement to back production of your gimmick may be worked out, if the idea is good.

Just remember, Joe, everything in its place. For money, look in banks. For love, look in your heart. Accept no substitutes.

ANNIVERSARY SYMBOLS

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION:

. . . As I am a fairly new bride, I still have a lot to learn about cooking. I have tried many times, when cooking a roast, to roast the vegetables in the same pan, but they never seem to turn out quite right. They are usually hard, and have a strange taste. Is there some special way of cooking them? (i.e. potatoes and carrots in the same pan as a roast of beef) . . . Mrs. S. P.

ANSWER:

With your request in mind we made an oven dinner. Using a short rib roast weighing about 3½ pounds (to serve 5) we pricked it all over and sprinkled it with meat tenderizer at noon. At 2.00 p.m. we put it in a roast pan uncovered at 250 deg. Fahr. At 4.45 p.m. we turned the heat up to 375 and added 5 medium onions' 5 medium large potatoes cut in halves and 10 small carrots. These we put around the roast, sprinkled them with salt and paprika, added 1 cup hot water. We put the lid on and let them cook for 1¼ hours turning once. They were tender and delicious.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Cream of Tomato Soup (see Friday); Baked Meat-and Rice - Stuffed Peppers; Creamed Cubed Parsnips; Relish Tray: Carrot Curls and Society Chip Pickles; Rhubarb Custard Pie; Tea.

QUESTION:

I have a problem. I'm expecting quite a few persons, about 15 or more, for supper and I don't really know what would be best to serve. I already have a turkey, but I would like something else a little different since there was so much of it during Christmas and New Years. I thought of a Sea Pie, but I'm not sure what to put in it. They always do this on picnics here and everybody loves it. What do you suggest? . . . . Mrs. L. P.

ANSWER:

I am puzzled. Sea Pie is a term used for any mixture of sliced cooked meat with vegetables, tied in a floured cloth and boiled about 1 hour. Cooked rice is usually spread over the top. There is no fixed proportion of ingredients, but some fat should always be added — sliced salt pork or bacon, for example.

Do you refer to the above or would it be something like the following:

OYSTER AND HAM PIE:

1 pint oysters, 2 cups diced cooked ham, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup milk, 2 cups peas, freshly ground black pepper, 12 unbaked baking powder biscuits.

Drain oysters and keep the liquor. Melt butter and stir in flour. Add ½ cup oyster liquid and milk. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add oysters, ham, peas and pepper. Pour into casserole, arrange biscuits on top. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. Serves 6.

MAIL CALL

Question: My fiance always hails a waitress by calling "Miss" when he wants something. I keep telling him he should call her "Waitress," but he says "Miss" is more formal and respectful. Will you please tell me which is correct? — Miss L.V.B., Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: A waitress should be called "Waitress," never "Miss" or "Madam." It's always better form, however, to try to catch her eye and signal her instead of calling out. If you still can't get her attention, then it's permissable to call "Waitress," but in a low, clear voice. No shouting, please.

Question: At a buffet recently, my wife and I filled our plates and were about to sit down when another woman stopped by and started a conversation with my wife. I sat down and started to eat while they stood talking. My wife gave me the dickens later, but I didn't think it was necessary to stand, plate in hand, while they chatted. Was I horribly impolite? — M.O., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: The other woman was inconsiderate to carry on a long conversation while standing at the table, but, correctly, you should have stood until she left and your wife was seated.

ELECTRIC HEAT

ECONOMICAL INSTALLATION

With flameless electric heating units, you don't have to extend or strain your present heating system. No duct work or expensive structural changes are required to provide maximum heating comfort in the added living space you're planning, because electric heating units operate entirely independently. Your qualified electric heating contractor can install them anywhere, at any time, quickly and inexpensively.

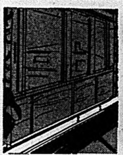
CAREFREE COMFORT

Flameless electric heating units provide the ultimate in heating comfort. With an individual thermostat in each electrically-heated room, you control both comfort and cost. Just set the exact heat you want, when you want it...turn it down when the room is not in use. Heat is provided almost instantly...no need to wait for heat to build up in a central system. Electric heat is as clean as light, produces no dust, no fumes, no products of combustion. The air is more healthful and drapes, rugs, walls stay clean longer.

LOOK AT THESE ADVANTAGES

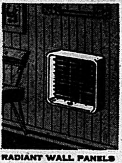
With flameless electric heat no heat is wasted up a chimney. With individual thermostats there's no need to overheat the whole house to make one room comfortable. Weather and wind direction won't affect your comfort. It's the ideal answer for hard-to-heat areas in your present home...that cold bedroom, a draughty bathroom. Electric heating units can be installed anywhere, anytime, quickly, easily and inexpensively in a size and capacity exactly suited to your particular need.

THERE ARE MANY KINDS OF ELECTRIC HEATING UNITS TO CHOOSE FROM



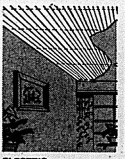
BASEBOARD CONVECTION UNITS

Slim metal baseboards, which contain electric heating elements, replace the wooden baseboards and fit inconspicuously into your room. When placed under windows cold draughts are eliminated.



RADIANT WALL PANELS

These radiant heating units may be mounted directly into the wall or ceiling to beam warmth like the sun throughout the room.



ELECTRIC HEATING CABLE

FAN-TYPE HEATERS

These units are most suitable where fast heat recovery is required. Easily installed, they are ideally suited to workshops, laundry rooms or any rooms having only occasional use.

DO IT NOW! JAN. 29 TO MAR. 10

Electrical Contractors and Hydro are working together in conjunction with the Government's Winter Works program. Their efforts are aimed at making it easy for you to enjoy the advantages of electric heat without delay. Your Qualified Electric Heating Contractor is trained to serve you.

Prime Minister Will Officially Open Show

TORONTO — The Right Hon John Diefenbaker, Prime Minister of Canada, will officially open the 1962 Canadian National Sportsmen's Show, to be held in the Coliseum, Toronto, from March 9 to 17, it has just been announced by Frank H. Kortright, president.

For some years now Mr. Diefenbaker has been a patron of this colorful sports and outdoors extravaganza which, since its' inception back in 1948, has been operated as a public service. Profits from the Show will again be used to carry on a varied program to conserve Canada's natural resources of forest, field and stream.

The 1962 sports and outdoors exhibition will have a number of novel and interesting features. These will include an extensive boat and marine show, an International Motor Show, a travel show, a cottage show, an immense camping display and camp chef contest and three dog shows. In addition, there will be bowling competitions, indoor retriever trials, a sports demonstration area where various sports will be demonstrated by experts and champions, a demonstration casting pool and a variety of other special attractions.

The boat and marine show will spotlight a display of beautiful cruisers, sleek sedans and runabouts, sail-boats, rowboats and canoes, inboard and outboard engines and the most modern boating equipment and accessories.

The International Motor Show, being arranged by the British Motor Industry in Canada, will be comprised of one of the largest exhibitions of domestic and foreign-made cars and automative accessories ever seen in this country.

Again this year the east and west annex of the Coliseum, as well as the Industry Wing, will house hundreds of commercial exhibits including cottages, trailers, television sets and the latest equipment for all sports, travel and camping.

On the opening night the "Outdoors Girl of Canada" for 1962 will be selected and crowned from among eight finalists from different parts of the country.

Three international all-breed dog shows will be held on March 14, 15, 16, and 17 and the bluebloods of dogdom from across the continent will be on display. In addition retriever field trials will be held each evening during the four days of the dog show.

Twice daily a thrilling stage and water revue will be presented in the arena with a dozen headline acts from many parts of the world.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

ROUGH-LEGGED HAWK

A fascinating sight for a bird student is a large hawk circling round and round, rising all the while. See how it pierces the sky like a corkscrew! This is the characteristic flight of a buteo or buzzard, to which class the rough-legged hawk (so called because of its feathered legs) belongs. Red-tailed, red-shouldered, and broad-winged are first cousins. All lack the dash and speed of those known as accipiters, for they are heavily built, with broad wings and long, full tails which are generally carried like an open fan.

Dash is replaced by grace. Instead of using speed when hunting, the rough-leg flaps, and glides by turns, suddenly stopping, either on rapidly beating wings or hanging motionless, to gaze down from a height of perhaps 200 feet. Is the hanging in mid-air an acrobatic feat? It appears to be, but actually the hawk is held there by an updraft of air. When prey is sighted, down it drops and strikes.

CATCHES SMALL PREY

In the rough-leg's summer home, the arctic tundra and a strip of Hudsonian forest, lemmings are the daily diet. Later in the season, in migration or when settled in the winter territory which extends from its breeding grounds to southern New Mexico and southern California, its food includes a variety of little mammals or even grasshoppers when possible. In spite of the rough-leg's large size (20-23 in.), its feet are weak, so small prey only can be caught. The half light of dawn and dusk are favorite hunting times as it is then that mice and such animals are active. This is a most efficient mouser, and as long as mice are available the rough-leg is able to stay in settled Canada. Whether or not it remains throughout the winter depends upon whether or not the open, grassy areas are free of snow. Ordinarily, this hawk returns from the south as soon as the snow melts.

In migration, the rough-leg soars high in the air. As it passes overhead we identify it by its characteristic buteo outline, manner of flight, and, when close enough to see, certain light and dark patches. The base of the tail is white, a wide, dark band goes across its body, and there is a dark "thumb-mark" about half way down the front edge of each wing which is tipped with dark. Unfortunately, the eager bird student is sometimes mystified by a rough-leg of the dark phase, almost entirely black.

Blame Yourself If Car Refuses Cold Starts

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Sure — the weather's really cold, but that's not the reason your car won't start.

Flooding is a common cause. The pedal is pumped again and again as the engine cranks, and cylinders are temporarily drowned. This is also why the battery is run-down...at the very time reserve power is needed.

Sometimes the battery is strong enough to start a cold engine, but loose cable connections or corrosion cripple its delivery.

Despite all-weather oils and all the reminders about winter grades, heavy engine oil is often the reason for the extra resistance which prevents starting.

These are the main conditions which can be blamed on the driver. Of course, just about every other cause — dirty spark plugs, faulty choke, sub-par ignition, ice in the fuel — must also be traced back to the car owner. In other words, don't blame the weather or the car ...no start in cold weather or hot means you've fallen down on the job.

J.M. writes: "I looked for a vent on my gas tank cap, but I can't find it".

A.W.D. writes: "As far as I'm concerned, you're all wrong about frequent spark plug service. I've never touched mine before 7,500 or 8,000 miles, and have never had troubles which were attributed to plugs."

(A) You're lucky — you're also wasting an awful lot of gas with dirty plugs.

* * *

G. McN. says: "Both of my questions concern the carburetor. First, do carburetor parts wear or gradually clog? Second, should idle mixture adjusting be done after the engine has been running for a while?"

(A) Many carburetor parts are subject to both wear and clogging. Idle adjustments should always be made after the engine is warmed up to normal running temperature.

* * *

From T.H.: "Isn't it true that auto tire pressures were once specified at 16 or 17 pounds?"

(A) Long ago, during the days of balloon tires, recommended inflation was as low as 15 pounds.

Dear Henry—Should boys be allowed to cook? That's the topic of the debate our family is having. Ralph, who is 14, thinks that boys do not need to know how to cook, while Susan and myself think that boys should know just as well as girls. Who is right?—THE CHEF.

Dear Chef:

I think both of you are right a bit. Ralph doesn't need to know how to stuff a turkey but he should know the fundamentals of cooking like making soup, bacon and eggs, hot dogs, toast and to top it off with dessert. You can live on that food in case mom is not around.

—HENRY.

Dear Henry—My son, who is 8, loves to play checkers and plays often with me. I usually win, unless I purposely try not to. My problem is that whenever my son loses, he cries and is terribly upset. But when I try to let him win, he senses it and is even more disturbed. How should I play checkers with him.—A CHECKER PROBLEM.

Dear Checker Problem:—Play, let him lose and let him cry. Before you laugh, you have to cry. Before you win, you have to lose.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am 12 years old and would like to own a pony. My mother thinks it is nonsense as we live in a residential district where there is no place to keep one. Have you any suggestions how I would own one and where I could keep one? Thank you.—PONY LOVER.

Dear Henry—I am 9 years old and like horses very much. But my father says that I cannot have one because we have no room. What can I do?—HORSES WILD.

Dear Pony Lover and Horses Wild:—You don't have any room for horses so why not get some cats? You can't ride cats but they can ride on you. Ever tried to put a horse in your pocket? You can do it with a cat. So why not get some cats as long as you don't have horses.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am a girl who is 11 years old with a 9-year-old sister. Everywhere I go she goes. She follows me like a puppy, and every move I make she makes. What is the reason for this?—ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL.

Dear Eleven-Year-Old:—

Mary had a little sister,
Her dress was white as snow,
And everywhere that Mary went
Sis was sure to go.

Sis loved Mary very much,
So she followed her.
Mary found this quite contrary
And to Henry she wrote.

The answer is, quote:
"Let sis tag along,
She needs your guidance
Through right and wrong."

—HENRY.

EXPORTS INCREASE

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain increased her exports by 2½ per cent last year while imports dropped two per cent below the 1960 level, the Board of Trade announced today. The value of imports totalled £4,417,000,000 compared with £4,574,000,000 in 1960, and exports totalled £3,709,000,000 compared with £3,580,000,000 in 1960.

Garden Notes

The Best Vegetables for 1962

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The last of November we used the last of the tomatoes brought in from the garden and ripened in a table in the basement. They had fair color and flavor for having kept so long. The imported ones we buy look well but tasted like ice cubes. I wonder what they do to rob them of all flavor?

The new catalogues offer a bewildering selection of tomatoes and still list the old favorites. This year I plan to grow some Orange Jubilee. This is not new but is extra good in texture and flavor. Makes a handsome dish sliced, on in combination with salad greens. Little Sugar looks good too. It is a small cherry type, very attractive and good flavor.

We buy four to six plants of early tomatoes with blossoms and a marble size tomato or two all ready formed. These are producing by mid-July and carry on until the vines are spent in September. In the meantime the late ones have come into bearing and in a sheltered garden they may go on into late Ooctober. Then you can pull off the green ones and bring them in or pull the whole plant and hang them up in the basement. Some gardeners claim the tomatoes shrink less with this method.

LOSES FOOD VALUE

Any vegetable loses a lot of food value when held in stores or even stored in the home. Picked fresh they may retain from ten to fifty percent of their nutrition if served within an hour or two. Carrots stored in plastic bags seem to keep well but the flavor of those fresh from the garden is much better. Try the nut like flesh, either cooked or raw of Nantes Half Long.

Ruby Queen and Red Ball are perhaps a little better than the old Detroit Dark Red beets but all are fine for table use or pickling.

No room for cucumbers? Grow them on a fence. Mandarin is a great climber sweet crisp taste and very prolific. Minnesota Dwarf Cuke XII will give you lots of fruit in little space.

I have always found that green beans seemed more flavorful then the yellow but that the yellow wax goes on bearing better in hot weather. Now the New Eastern Butter Wax is described as rich in flavor. Contender and Tender Green are good green types. If you have room for pole beans try Blue Coco, also Brecks Italian Pole. In Limas its Fordhook N. 242 for bush limas, and King of the Garden for pole limas.

For early onions plant them in the fall. Of course it is too late to do that this year but you can plant them this fall for next spring. White Welsh will winter over and be ready for early spring. Dutch sets and multipliers will give quick results for small green salad onions. Plant seeds early for small green onions and for savory dishes all through the summer. Keep thinning and using them and by mid-summer step on the tops and allow the bulbs to fill out and dry for winter use. For this use Ebenezer or Portugal White. For bunching try Japanese Bunching or Evergreen Bunching.

SNOW PEAS

Snow peas, those with the edible pods, are something to rave about. Other good new types are Dwarf Grey Sugar, Sweet Green, Mamoth and Melting Sugar.

Follow these up with broccoli. After the tops have been cut the side shoots will keep coming until hot weather. Keep them growing through the summer and they will yield many cuttings. Green Mountain, Calabrese and DeCicco are all good.

It is all very well to say that it does not pay to grow cabbage but if you have ever cut a cabbage fresh from the garden crisp as Scotch shortbread, and sweet as lemon sherbet you will know that price has nothing to do with it. Early Jersey Wakefield and Golden Acre still rate high though they are old favorites.

Wong Bok is a Chinese cabbage. It, or Chihili, a more upright form, should be planted about July first. Earlier plantings run to seed. This is good for salads and cooked. They keep well in cool basement.

If you have room for corn try the new hybrids. They are outstanding for yield, disease resistance and flavor. Here are a few of the good new ones North Star, Country Gentleman, Gold Cross Bantam and Stowell's Evergreen Hybrid.

Look for the new introductions in selecting your vegetables. If you have favorites plant some of them but give the new ones a try. Every new type is not an improvement but many of them are.

Not One Rain Drop Has Fallen In Six Years

By DOUGLAS LOCKWOOD

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia (Reuters)—There hasn't been a drop of rain in this region of central Australia in six years.

In some spots it has been 10 years since the ever - blue, every-sunny sky yielded a drop of moisture.

There is the constant, oppressive heat, creating mirages and burning life out of the land.

The few cattle not already dead are dying and there seems to be not a blade of grass in the entire area.

The drought area, once relatively prosperous but now dying, is in the heart of Australia, midway between Darwin on the north coast and Adelaide on the south. It runs for 500 miles north and south—a gigantic valley of death covering 100,000 square miles.

FEW STILL HEALTHY

Cattle graze desultorily on the bit of remaining herbage. A few even seem to be in reasonable condition, feeding on the leaves of the drought-resisting mulga tree.

But most of them gradually succumb to the bleak terrain and fall dead in a swirl of red dust.

Paradoxically, it is not lack of water that is killing the cattle—thousands yearly.

There is plenty of water from deep wells but some cattle go from birth to death without ever chewing a blade of grass.

R. B. Nott, administrator of the northern territory, has called the drought the worst in Australia's history and John Nelson, the territory's representative in Parliament, said it was the worst disaster since Europeans first landed here.

Hordes of kangaroos, wild donkeys and dingoes—the Australian wild dog—have ravaged the countryside.

TOURISTS RECORD

ATHENS (AP)—Tourist visits to Greece last year reached a record of nearly 500,000, up 25 per cent over 1960. Last year's total included 93,875 Americans.

PRIME MINISTER

Also, after two days of debate featuring stubborn Liberal party questioning, an amendment was passed to increase the credit facilities of the Export Credits Insurance Corporation to $300,000,000 from $200,000,000.

In other business, Finance Minister Fleming emphasized that Canada's policy is unchanged in having voluntary Japanese export controls on textiles sold to this country — despite a proposed new international agreement. This pact now awaits government ratification after a 19-country agreement at Geneva for a five-year period of gradual easing in cotton textile trade restrictions.

DEBATE CUBAN TRADE

Most of the day's heat came in debate on the increase in export credit insurance. The Liberals, including Opposition Leader Pearson, blasted for the second day at shipments to Cuba which they said included items of a strategic nature.

Trade Minister Hees, at times visibly annoyed and impatient, countered that in Cuban dealings Canada has adhered strictly to the strategic list drawn up by NATO, covering shipments to Communist countries.

There is a separate Canadian list under which so-called strategic and other goods — chiefly those like butter or wood pulp —can be controlled on imports or exports.

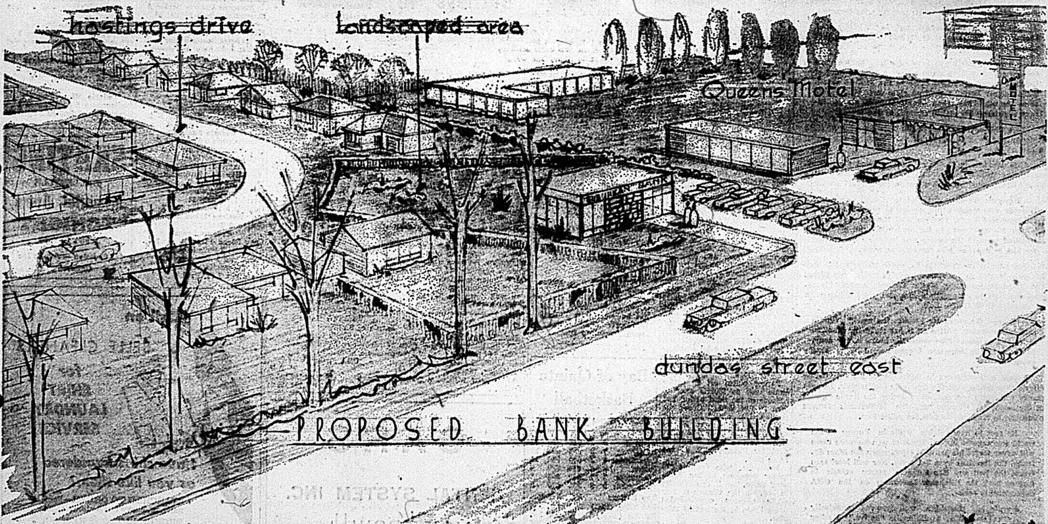
A STATEMENT OF INTENTION



It has been brought to my attention that the proposal to construct a one-storey bank building on lots 147 and 148 located on Hastings Drive in Belleville has been viewed with concern by a number of residents of the immediate area. Such concern is understandable for no residential property owner wants to see the value of his home depreciated by an undesirable business located in his immediate vicinity.

It is with this thought in mind that the architect's sketch and this statement is being published so there will be no misunderstanding of my intentions.

* * *

The plan is as follows: A new building, 40x50 feet, one-storey in height will be erected on the two lots approximately forty feet south of the Hastings Drive lot line. It will be an attractive building of modern design and when completed will be surrounded by a beautifully landscaped lawn area. There will be a parking space for a limited number of cars and this space is to be located on the southeast corner, facing the Queen's Motor Hotel. Also, I want to emphasize that there will be no access of any kind from Hastings Drive to the bank building.

* * *

The building will be occupied by a branch of a Canadian chartered bank. It is a matter of common knowledge that banks are second to none in the scrupulous manner in which they maintain their buildings and properties. They also, are desirable assets to any community, and I might add, that in this instance, the property will contribute a substantial tax revenue to the city. The first step in the plan, therefore, was to ask the city council to amend the by-law governing these two residential lots to permit the erection of the bank building.

* * *

I greatly regret that residents of this section of the city have been unduly worried by unfounded rumors concerning this project. If I have been remiss in not publicizing my plans more than I have, it was simply due to my assumption there could be no objection to the establishing of a desirable business in this part of the city. And finally, should the Ontario Municipal Board not approve the above project, then there will be no building of any kind erected on this property.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Nineteen years ago a tall,slim dark-haired youngster wearing the goalie equipment and colors of the Buffalo Bisons skated out on the ice in the Buffalo Arena.

He didn't know it at the time But it was the start of a 12-year professional hockey career that saw him play with eight American League teams and see brief service with two National League clubs.

GORDIE BELL

year old Gordie Bell [illegible] in his first year as a pro he would set an American Hockey League goalie seasonal record of nine shutouts that has weathered 19 seasons.

Prairie La Portage-born Gordie stepped up from the junior club of his native town to the Bisons. In his first year with the Bisons he not only set his shutout record but had the goals average per game mark of 2.40. He played in 52 games and had 125 goals scored against him.

In his 1945-46 season he played eight games with the Toronto Maple Leafs before going back to the Providence club and in 1955-56 he played two games for the New York Rangers in the National League playoffs. Between these National League stints he played for American and other minor pro clubs.

He is one of those rarities, a goalie who is credited with an assist. He got this while playing with Syracuse.

Gordie's all-time shutout mark is 22. His second best seasonal effort came in 1952-53 when he chalked up six zeros , while playing with Syracuse.

His record has never been equalled but on two occasions goalies have come within a lone shutout of Gordie's record. The first came in the 1957-58 season when Johnny Bower racked up eight zeros. The second came the other day when Dennis DeJordy of the Bisons registered his eighth shutout of the season.

Bell's 1942-43 record broke the standing mark of eight shutouts held by Bill Beveridge who recorded the mark in his previous season.

Alfie Moore and Nick DaMore registered seven shutouts in the 1938-39 and 1844-45 seasons respectively while Benny Grant came up with seven in the 1936-37 season.

However the biggest threat to Gordie's mark is DeJordy who stands a fine chance to equal if not beat the nine-zero mark. The youthful Buffalo goalie is having his best year in the pro ranks and his outstanding work in the Bisons nets has the fans rooting for him to equal or beat the existing mark.

The popular coach of the Belleville McFarland juniors has been invited to the annual party of the Buffalo Bisons and if, perchance young Master DeJordy breaks his record the first to congratulate him and present him with an award will be Gordie Bell.

"I hope the youngster breaks the mark" Gordie said this morning. "After all it has stood for nineteen years and its about time somebody broke it. My name has been in the American League record books long enough."

Gordie is best known in Belleville for his outstanding efforts as a goalie with the Belleville McFarlands. He was one of the club's best mainstays during the hectic games of the senior "A" league and the McFarlands' famous comeback in Kelowna to win the Allan Cup.

He rose to new heights while in Europe on the world tournament junket. Those of us who were there will never forget his brilliant effort when the Macs defeated the Russians by a 3-1 score. Nor will local fans forget the Bell and Bep Guidolin starry efforts in turning back the Kitchener Dutchmen in the OHA championship series.

Gordie has earned a well-deserved popularity here since becoming a Belleville "native." Hockey moppets in his playing days and since have idolized the tall dark guy. He has done much for hockey here despite the fact he nearly lost the sight of an eye while playing.

Kidd, Crothers Win At New York Meet

Canucks Take Three Events

NEW YORK (CP)—Fine performances by Bill Crothers and Bruce Kidd, University of Toronto track stars, helped Canada capture a good share of the honors Friday night at the New York Athletic Club track meet in Madison Square Garden.

Crothers turned in two dandy runs in an evening which also saw Gary Gubner, 19-year - old shotputter from New York University, shatter his own indoor record of two weeks standing with three heaves—the best a mighty toss of 64 feet, 11¾ inches.

Crothers was just four-tenths of a second off the world indoor mark as he completed the 500-yard run in 56.8 seconds. He topped off his evening by outrunning Irish miler Ron Delany in the anchor leg of the two-mile relay.

This performance helped Toronto's East York Track Club team to a clocking of seven minutes, 37 seconds and gave them their first victory over the strong Irish relay team in four recent tries.

James Snider, Stan Worsfold and Dave Bailey carried the baton for East York in the first three legs. Then Crothers turned on the steam and outkicked Delany for the win. Villanova University's freshman team finished third.

Kidd had his best night in United States competition this year. The 18-year-old distance star, a freshman at the University of Toronto, clocked eight minutes, 54.2 seconds for his win in the two-mile run.

There was nothing to hold Kidd back Friday night. Earlier this season, he was hampered at a Boston meet with a foot blister.

It appeared he was back to the form that in 1961 jolted U.S. track circles.

No Change in Imports Load

Grid Brass Rejects Farm System

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Football League Friday increased to 13 from 12 the number of American import players its teams can play in a game.

Although increasing the playing limit, the CFL made no change in the 15 - man import maximum the teams may carry on their rosters.

In connection with each club's total playing roster, which includes both Canadians and Americans, the league decided 35 players can be carried for the first three games but after that the number must be cut to 33. The limit after third game last season was 34.

A proposal to permit teams to bring in two players on loan from National and American Football League clubs and return them without the necessity of going through the waiver procedure was considered. However, the delegates decided to make no change in the present system.

Mayor Lloyd Jackson of Hamilton presented a brief inviting the CFL to hold the 1964 Grey Cup game in Hamilton. He also asked that the league's next annual meeting be held in Hamilton and offered the use of a Hamilton building as the site of a Canadian football hall of fame.

Blues Nip Golden Gaels, Mustangs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Toronto Blues notched a narrow win over Queen's Golden Gaels and University of Western Ontario Mustangs defeated University of Waterloo Warriors in senior intercollegiate basketball play Friday night.

Blues forward Jerry McElroy scored 36 points in a 76-70 victory over the Gaels, putting Toronto in undisputed possession of fourth spot in the league.

The Mustangs' 70-53 win was their ninth, with only one defeat, and ties them in top spot in the seven-team conference with Assumption University Lancers.

Booster Club Meeting Tues. Night

President Jim "Snipe" Matthews has called a special meeting of the Pepsi's Booster Club for Tuesday night of next week and has asked that "all members please turn out".

The meeting will be held in the city hall council chambers at 7.30 Tuesday evening.

"Snipe" refused to make public exactly what the meeting is about but with the Pepsi's starting their playoffs here against Lindsay on Friday, February 23, one night hazard a guess along those lines.

"Just tell 'em we want everybody out", was Mr. President's message.

U.S. National Team Named

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Selection of the United States national hockey team was completed Friday, team manager Robert W. Fleming of Rochester said.

The team, coached by John (Connie) Pleban of Duluth, Minn., will report at Colorado Springs, Colo., Feb. 25 and will play a few warmup games before participating in the world championships.

The 17 players include three who were members of the U.S. Olympic team which won a gold medal at the 1960 Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif. Three others had previous experience with U.S. nationals teams.

Members from the 1960 team are centre Bill Christian and winger Roger Christian, both of Warroad, Minn., and defenceman John Mayasich of Green Bay.

Round-Robin Opener

Macs Blank Petes 3-0

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

The Belleville McFarlands took their first step toward the OHA Eastern Junior "B" hockey league finals here last night when they blanked the Peterborough Monsens 3-0 in the first game of the semi-final round-robin series.

The Macs scored twice in the first period, fought through a scoreless second and added the lone tally in the third. They outshot the Monsens by a narrow 25-22 margin and were at full credit for the win.

Peterborough failed to come up with any kind ofa sustaintd attack and when they did get scoring opportunities, Gordie Parker in the Mac net pulled off key saves to preserve his second shutout of the year.

Centre Pete Weston and right winger Moe Hunter attended to the Belleville scoring. Weston triggered two of the goals with Hunter getting the other, as well as one assist. Dave Smith, third man on the line, and defencemen Ted Rowland and Gary Reid, drew one assist each.

Hunter opened the game scoring at 7.46 of the first heat, picking off Rowland's long pass and sinking a beautiful shot from about 50 feet out that fooled Monsen goalie Jim Horton completely.

The Macs continued to command most of the play and at 15.30 Weston tapped the disc past Horton from the goalmouth after the Peterborough netminder had made a good save on Smith.

Peterborough showed a little more spark in the middle session, forcing Parker to make two hot stops in the period's opening minute, and outshooting the Macs 8-6 on the period.

Hunter, Mavety, Weston and Rowland used a pretty passing pattern to kill off a penalty to Kellar at the 10.23 mark without allowing the visitors even one good shot on the net. LeBarr and Weston paired off with high sticks at 12.51 and Morris and Mavety got minors for roughing at the same time but no damage was done as the clubs played four aside.

Parker pulled off a pretty skate save on Morris after 40 seconds of the third period and then at 1.04 Weston closed the scoring. He carried in on the right wing and beat Horton with a low corner shot to make it 3-0. LeBarr drew a misconduct for Peterborough on the same play.

Belleville, who drew eight minor penalties to the Monsens' three, had little difficulty in holding the visitors at bay while playing short-handed three times in the last 16 minutes.

The visitors played without defenceman Jim Gooley and forwards Larry Hill and Gary Dalliday, out of the lineup because of injuries, sickness and work.

Gary Reid and Dave Smith, both of Belleville, picked up cuts that required stitches over their eyes. Reid missed the third period completely.

The Macs' next playoff game will be in Kingston Monday night. They will play an exhibition game in Picton tonight at eight o'clock.

Open Golf Tourneys

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP)—Jacky Cupit of the U.S fired a course record of five-under-par 67 Friday and took over the lead after 36 holes of the Venezuela open golf tournament. He has a total of 139, one stroke ahead of Ed Rubis, at the midway point of the tournament.

George Knudson of Toronto and Ernie Vossler of the U.S., the first-round leaders, failed to maintain their pace. Knudson went to a 73 to gain a tie with Jim Ferree of the U.S. for fourth place at 141. Vossler went to a 72 after his 68 Thursday for a share of second place.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Buddy Sullivan of Yuba City, Calif., retained the lead in the $20,000 Tucson open golf tournament by shooting a 69 Friday for a two-round total of 130, 10 under par.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg was well down the list at 136, despite a 68 Friday.

Meet Chicago Tonight

Cautious Blake Warns Flying Habs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There remains an air of cautiousness in coach Toe Blake's speech even though Montreal Canadiens have reduced their magic number to 12 in their bid for a fifth straight National Hockey League title.

The Habitants lead the league by 11 points and can clinch the championship through any combination of 12 victories or runner-up Toronto defeats. Each club has 17 games left.

"Let's remember that the schedule calls for 70 games," says Toe.

"Let's also remember that we were behind the Maple Leafs by six points at this time last season. Maybe the Leafs thought the season was over then, but we came on to win.

Despite the pessimism, Blake says he feels his players won't let him down.

PLAYERS DETERMINED

"They're determined to win the championship and lose or draw any game, it won't be because of a letdown."

The Canadiens have three big games coming up in the next five days.

They're at home to Chicago Black Hawks tonight, play at Detroit Sunday night and at Toronto next Wednesday.

Blake appears particularly concerned about the third-place Black Hawks, who have won nine of their last 12 games and picked up 19 points on the Maple Leafs in the last five weeks.

"The Hawks still think they can overtake the Leafs (they're five points behind at the moment) and they'll be tough," he says. "We'll be meeting a hungry bunch tonight."

If its any consolation to Blake, Chicago's Bobby Hull—the league's top goal scorer with 34—has managed only one tally in regular season play on Montreal ice during his five - year NHL career.

But Hull's scoring prowess cannot be overlooked. The Hawks muscle man has counted 19 times in his last 15 games.

FACE RANGERS TWICE

The Maple Leafs face New York Rangers, currently tied with Detroit for the fourth and last playoff spot, twice during the weekend. The teams meet tonight in Toronto and back in New York Sunday night."

Chicago also will be at home to last - place Boston Bruins Sunday night.

The Maple Leafs plan to use a revised power play — the old one connected only twice in the club's last 13 games — against the Rangers.

It features big left winger Frank Mahovlich and defenceman Tim Horton on the points with Bob Pulford, George Armstrong and Bert Olmstead.

"We're still looking for a power play that clicks," says assistant - coach King Clancy, who devised it this week. "This one looks mighty good in practice."

Twenty Pros Enter Ski Contest

THORNBURY, Ont. (CP) — Twenty men who make their living doing what thousands of other persons do for recreation are entered in the second Canadian professional ski championships.

The professionals from Austria, Japan, Canada and the United States will perform before expected crowds of 15,000-20,000 during the two-day event which ends Sunday.

Today's slalom and the giant slalom will be run on the Lightning Run at Georgian Peaks. A hump-spotted hill with ankle-wrenching stretches, Lightning Run has been rated equal with some of the best—and therefore toughest—runs in North America.

The all-star lineup on deck for this wide-open blast down the hill ranks well with entries into world and continental championships.

One of the top men will be Anderl Molterer, 30-year - old silver-haired Austrian who now is an instructor at Aspen, Colo. Molterer holds 11 Austrian championships, was named three times by the European press as the world's best skier, and won silver and bronze medals in the 1956 Olympics.

Three other Austrians could give Molterer a good run for the prize money of $500 for each race. Christian Pravda, 33, of Kitzbuhl, Pepi Gramshammer, [illegible] Kurstein and Ernst Hinter[illegible] 28, of Kitzbuhl all are ranked high.

Ont. Curling Championship

RCAF Defeats Cornwall

TORONTO (CP)—The lineup for the Ontario curling championships is shaping up as divisional playoffs continue across the province.

Eight rinks will enter the final Feb. 21-23 at Owen Sound to decide Southern Ontario's contender for the Dominion championship which will be played at Kitchener March 5-9.

Don Varey's Brantford rink won an Owen Sound berth by defeating the Fred Courtney foursome from Windsor 12-7 and 12-9 at Tillsonburg.

At Orillia, Evans Jenkins of Huntsville won over Doug Haig of Midland 12-10 and 12-9. Tom Caldwell of Orillia, Ontario's representative last year in the Dominion final, is passing up the 1962 competition.

Don Fawcett's Thornbury rink won a division playoff at Seaforth, eliminating Charles Shane of Exter 9-7 and 12-10.

At Gananoque an RCAF rink skipped by Bob Knippelburg defeated Pete McKay's Cornwall rink 2-1 in games to move up the ladder. The four RCAF corporals lost the morning match 5-4 but came back to take the next two 13-5 and 10-2.

Knippleburg is from Eatonia, Sask., and is supported by vice-skip Bob MacInnes of Kirkland Lake, second Ray Gagnon of Brandon, Man., and third Joe Brega of Vancouver.

Gurowka's rink eliminated Frank Matthews of High Park 11-3, 8-9, 9-7. DiMertile won 8-11, 14-6, 11-5 over Mike Cassells of Hamilton Thistles.

Sugar Ray, Moyer Meet Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson drags out those faded dancing slippers for the 161st time tonight to continue his comeback campaign in a rematch with young Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore.

Robinson, 41, fought his first pro bout Oct. 4, 1940, when Denny was a 14-month toddler.

Robinson is a 2-to-1 favorite for the return bout, which will be televised nationally in the United States over the ABC network and by CFTO-TV, Toronto's private television station.

Since winning the decision over Moyer, Robinson stopped Al Hauser Nov. 20 and Wilfie Graves of Edmonton Dec. 8. That ran his record to 147-9-3 with one no-contest bout. He has knocked out 95 opponents.

Moyer has a 30-5 record with eight knockouts and never has been stopped.

Salvation Army Band Beats Kingston 9-4

The Belleville Salvation Army Band journeyed to Kingston recently for a hockey match with the Kingston S.A. Band, which resulted in a 9 to 4 win for Belleville.

Doug Mason, Bob Lessels, Ken Lessels and Bud Lee were the goal getters for Belleville. Vic Thompson, W. Keeler and D. McBride scored for the Kingston music men.

The only penalty handed out by referee T. Keeler went to Belleville's Bud Lee; he was banished for two minutes in the sin-bin, to repent for cross-checking.

Western Hockey

Butt-Ends and Blows

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Western Hockey League competition was a brawling affair Friday night, featuring stick duels, fisticuffs, wrestling matches and one-goal victories.

Seattle Totems' 5-4 victory over Vancouver Canucks produced the roughest game of the season for about 1,200 Vancouver fans.

Calgary Stampeders scored a 3-2 overtime triumph over Edmonton Flyers after a second period free - for -all and San Francisco Seals edged Los Angeles Blades 3-2 in a game which ended in a punching match.

At Vancouver, tempers flared in the first period after Seattle defenceman Frank Arnett hit Vancouver's Larry McNabb over the head with his stick. Players from both clubs waded into the brawl.

SWINGS AT REFEREE

McNabb was the badman of a second-period melee and drew game and match misconduct penalties for lunging and swinging at referee Scotty Morrison, then charging past two policemen to throw punches at players on the Seattle bench.

Barney Krake scored the winning goal for Seattle. Ed Ehrenverth added two more and Ron Hutchinson and Bill MacFarland picked up one each. Phil Maloney scored two goals for the Canucks. George Ford and Barry Ross added singles.

Calgary's winning goal in overtime was by Ron Leopold. The other Calgary scorer at Edmonton was Doug Barclay with two.

At San Francisco Al Nicholson won the game for the Seals after teammate Jim Wilfox tied it up in the second period. The other Seals' goal was by Nick Mickoski. Blades' goals were by Ed Panagabko and Real Chevrefils.

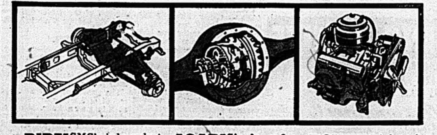
TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Racing Commission has appointed Eddie Gorman as commission steward for the 1962 thoroughbred racing season. He replaces Thomas Clark, who died last fall.

Pay for all the truck you need... and no more—with GMC 960 Series!



RIDE! GMC's independent Front Suspension, coupled with performance-proven GMC Vari-Rate rear springing, gives a smoother, easier ride to protect the truck, the load, and the driver . . . increase productivity and step up profit.

LOAD! Single, or 2-speed vacuum or electric shift, 15,000 or 17,000 lbs. capacity rear axles are now available. Result: larger cargoes can be carried for bigger payload profits.

POWER! A brand-new 327-V8 engine with 185 hp. is available in the 960 series as an optional extra—providing extra power for the most demanding load and road conditions.

GMC's wide range of options gives you the opportunity to buy the truck that's exactly suited to your needs.

In GMC's 960 series, for example, you'll find trucks that are properly balanced—the result of a total truck concept which relates power, transmissions, suspensions and axles one to another, to do the best possible job at your required GVW rating. The GMC 960 gives you a new range of GVW ratings to choose from —19,500, and optional 21,000, 22,000 or 23,000 lbs.—with a choice of Conventional or Tilt Cab models in a wide range of wheelbases. Now you can tailor a truck to suit your needs—without buying equipment that may be unnecessary for the task you have to do. Add GMC's famous built-in quality and good looks, and you're in business with the truck that's best suited to your requirements—with no unnecessary extras. Talk over your particular requirements with your GMC Truck dealer—he's the man who can best advise you on your equipment.

Woodstock, Indians Win

Senior Race Tightens

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The battle for first playoff spot in the Ontario Hockey Association senior series tightened Friday night as Woodstock Athletics climbed to within two points of the leading Windsor Bulldogs.

Woodstock's hopes rose with a 9-2 win over Waterloo Tigers as Windsor took a 6-5 defeat at the hands of Stratford Indians.

Galt Terriers still lead the league with 48 points but they will forgo the series playoffs to compete in the world hockey championships.

In Woodstock, a rough contest studded with flareups and penalties gave the Athletics two more points for a total of 43, two behind the Bulldogs. A Woodstock win Sunday coupled with a Windsor loss will leave the teams deadlocked for top spot.

Gerry Theberge, a talented winger, paced the Woodstock crew with four goals while rookie Buddy Horne went for three. Single goals were added by Gerry Stringle and Ed Davis.

Larry Litzgus and Bobby Brown were the only scorers for Waterloo. Both tallied in the second period and sent the Tigers ahead 2-0. But the Athletics rallied and whistled nine unanswered goals past Waterloo goaltender Gord Mallin.

Theberge started the season by playing for the Tigers but at Christmas switched to the Athletics and returned to haunt his old team.

In Stratford, the Indians ended their last scheduled game with a win but in seventh place. Wednesday, the Indians meet the Bulldogs in the first game of a best - of - nine semi-final playoff series.

OFTEN TEST MATCH

PORT OF SPAIN (AP)—Indian batsmen played timid cricket and as a result had lost six wickets for only 113 runs when play closed on the first day of the first Test Friday night. Rains cut a big slice out of the day's play, 141 minutes being lost through showers.

Madoc Sports Review

By GLENN SINCLAIR

BASKETBALL

Our Senior Rolling Roaches of Madoc High played two games last week.

Albert College visited our gym and won a hard fought game. This was an exhibition encounter but was very exciting. Albert was led by Chuck Johnston - 22 points, and John Newport - 19 points, while the Madoc scorers were Breen O'Connor - 11 and Lutz Schurm - 11. The final score was Albert 47 - Madoc 34.

Next the boys went to Stirling where they dumped the opposition 46-25. This game was not the best the boys had put forth yet they managed to hold a good lead throughout the game under the scoring power of Lutz Schurm 23, Breen O'Connor - 10, and Robert Taylor - 9.

The junior Rolling Roaches had a bit better luck winning both games.

In the exhibition encounter with Bancroft the Juniors scored a 57-30 victory. Top guns for MHS were "Sinc" Sinclair - 29 points; and Red Lummiss with 18; Phillips netted 12 points for Bancroft. In the regular scheduled game in Stirling the Juniors played a sloppy type of basketball yet came through on the top end of a 29-15 score. Sinclair led the winners with 14 points.

The Bantams played one game with Bancroft and won it handily by a 37-18 score. Top scorers for Madoc were Dave Adams - 11, Brennan Stewart - 8.

The senior and junior girls team split a twin-bill with Marmora. The Madoc Senior trampled the Marmora team 29-4 while the juniors were trounced 27-8 by Marmora.

HOCKEY

The juniors had two bad games as they were defeated 8-6 by Bancroft and upset 10-4 by Marmora.

Changing Gunsmoke Format Good Thing for Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—He was dressed as Matt Dillon, western duds, spurred boots, badge and all, but he talked as Jim Arness, easy, amiable, but with a sharp eye to business.

Business was good, as he admitted in the offices of the Jim Arness Company, producer of Gunsmoke. The CBS show had won out in a duel with old Fox movies on NBC.

"Yeah, we've been hittin' the ratings again," said the friendly giant. "First—second—third in the top 10. Around in that area.

"Sure, I wasn't so good in the early part of the season. A lot of people wanted to go over and try something new, see what those movies were like. But they came back.

"The response to the new hour show has been great. The comments we get from people, the mail and all, it's been getting better all the time. I think we've got it licked now.

SUIT HIM FINE

"We were on a spot, you know. It took guts to change a successful formula. It was like starting out with a new show; we could have gone down the drain.

"Now I think we've hit a pace, and the show should be able to last another two-three years—Maybe longer. That'd suit me fine. After seven years, I'm not tired of this character yet. And I don't expect to be."

He had his winter of discontent two years ago. Weary of working for a highly taxable salary, he staged a strike. CBS settled. The Arness company took over the production of Gunsmoke, and Jim was contented again.

How does he feel about the defection of deputy Chester—Dennis Weaver, who is leaving to head his own variety show next season?

"Naturally it is going to hurt us," Jim admitted. "We won't be able to replace him, and I don't think we'll try—not for the first year, at any rate. We'll just go on with the people we have." Meaning Matt, Doc (Milburn Stone) and Kitty (Amanda Blake).

Royals Blank Teepees

Baby Habs Nip Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers allowed Montreal Canadiens two successive penalties in the third period Friday night. That is one of the more certain methods of committing suicide.

For half a minute the Flyers survived with two men short. Before the second man's time was up, Germain Gagnon broke through with a screen shot from a power play to beat Wayne Rutledge and give the Habs a 4-3 victory.

The win moved Montreal a point ahead of Hamilton Red Wings in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings and set the stage for the last meeting of the season between the Habs and the Wings in Montreal Sunday.

SHUT OUT TEEPS

The Canadiens drew a season record of 3,201 paid customers at Niagara Falls. Montreal goalie George Holmes, a former Niagara Falls player, kept the Canadiens in the game for the second period and part of the third. He stopped 30 shots compared with 24 by Rutledge as the Flyers had a 10 - game unbeaten home streak broken.

Duke Harris, Bob Plager and Billy Taylor provided the Royals' margin in Guelph, the latter tow goals coming on power plays. The victory moved the Royals five points ahead of Niagara Falls and to within three points of the third - place Teepees.

WIN AUTO RACE

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Glenn (Fireball) Roberts and chunky Joe Weatherly drove their gleaming new high-powered Pontiacs to victory Friday in twin 100 - mile stock car races.

Roberts won his race with a record speed of 156.999 miles an hour. Although Weatherly was clocked at 157.895 miles an hour on one lap, his winning average speed was only 145.395 because of a wreck that forced the rate to be run under the caution flag for five laps.

Roberts and Weatherly each pocketed $1,000 first place money.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday February 18
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—If you visit neighbors, or have them over to your house . . .try to do more listening than talking. Tendency is for others to want to prove to you they are in right. Avoid useless quarrels.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Neighborhood or community acttivity all to the good . . . but there could be one rotten apple in barrel. Do not be dragged into controversy that involves only others . . take it calm, easy. Keep smiling.

..Gemini — (May 21 to June 21) — Mercury goes direct in motion in section of your chart relating to long journeys . . . both actual and "journeys of the mind". Time to express yourself . . . to travel, to write communicate.

..Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—If you could talk things out with those close to you . . in your own home . . . you might come up with valuable solutions! Trying to suppress emotions could cause emotional explosion. Speak up today.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Your cycle is up, but there are many outside pressures, duties. Key words today in pacing. Pace yourself . . . do what must be done . . . first things first. Don't allow yourself to panic. Hold fast!

. Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) —Willingness to serve others, in church or community activities, attracts favorable attention. Give of yourself . . . seek spiritual guidance. And don't be afraid to make suggestions.

Libra (Sept 23 to Oct. 22) — You can satisfy inner needs by attending church of choice. Much also to be gained from reading, relaxing . . . good time for getting together with friends, entertaining at home. Learn!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Trust ideas, hunches concerning long-range plans, future security. Be realistic, try to achieve goals that are attainable. Pie in-sky stories are not to be taken seriously.

Sagittarius (Nov 22 to Dec 21) — Moon in favorable aspect to your sign. This could mean spiritual fulfilment . . and it could mean greater understanding between you and loved ones Express true emotions Listen.

..Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Take time to add up budget . . . and goals. Earning power could be increased by decisions made today Attend church . . relax . . . permit ideas to flow through You may get pleasant surprise!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —So much depends upon timing for you these days. If you rush, you may trip . . . and have to retrace steps. But you cannot sit and wait. Instead, seek steadiness . . . of pace, purpose.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) —The direct approach not advised today. Be diplomatic, lenient. A social engagement later today could lead you toward sought- after goal . . but this cannot be forced. Be easy-going.

If today is your birthday . . you could find your greatest success in helping people to help themselves. You are vitally interested in social problems of the day. If you withdraw, you begin to fret. When you give of yourself . . . you are happiest.

General Tendencies: Long-publicized project could finally get started. Your newspaper today contains exciting stories . . . which may provide great keys to future. Space travel is in the news . . . and so are scientists who write their views.

DELAYS PAYMENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the second time in two months the United States is delaying a $3,000,000 monthly foreign aid payment to Laos in an effort to speed up the formation of a neutral government under Prince Souvanna Phouma. The aid funds are used by the royal Lao government, headed by Prince Boun Oum, to pay the salaries of its 60,000-man army and for other purposes.

ASK LONGER SESSIONS

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Demands are growing for longer sessions of the United Nations General Assembly. Twenty-two Afro-Asian countries Thursday asked that the 16th assembly — now in resumed session — be called into another resumed session in June to study independence for Ruandi-Urundi, central African UN trust territory under Belgian administration.

School Systems Are Inefficient Says Official

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian elementary and high school systems are inefficient and ineffective, a leading Quebec educationist said Thursday.

Miles Wisenthal, assistant to the director of McGill University's Institute of Education, made the charge at a meeting here of the joint planning commission of the Canadian Association for Adult Education.

The inability to meet the academic challenges which school presents is one of the main reasons for the high dropout rate, in which nearly 50 per cent of the pupils leave before junior matriculation, he said.

"No one of us remains in a painfully punishing situation any longer than we have to, yet we expect pupils to remain in school despite the fact that we expose them to the constant anxiety and frustration of failure."

Children who fail to achieve the expected standards are labelled non-academic types, said Mr. Wisenthal, and the final result is "an emasculated curriculum in which we substitute basket-weaving for biology, cosmetology (the use of cosmetics) for chemistry, fly - casting for French and laundry for Latin."

"And furthermore, we attempt to justify these watered-down nothingnesses on the grounds that they are preparations for living—preparation for living as part of our semi-permanent, half - trained unemployed."

Centenary

CENTENARY— Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hancock and Grant had Sunday evening dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stapleton and family, Newtonville.

Mr. Harold Cummings, Belleville had dinner on Saturday with Mr and Mrs. Fred Aikens.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mrs. Roy Tucker, Mrs. Vernon Harry and Mrs. Percy MacMullen of River Valley W.I. branch attended, "Summary Day", in the Stirling Community Hall on Thursday afternoon. The course for the senior training school centred around the theme "143 pounds of meat". Mrs. M. Waldron acting home economist and her assistant were in charge.

John Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray recently passed a course in arc welding with first class honors, at the Provincial Institute of Trades, in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Greenley are holidaying in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and their family placed special memorial flowers in St. Paul's United Church on Sunday morning in memory of the former's son Jack Johnson who was killed in an accident a year ago. The dinner guests at the Johnson home were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Farrell of Trenton.

District Deputy Farley Parnell, Grand Patriarch of Encampment No. 20 made his official visit to Stirling Encampment No. 80 and gave a splendid address on the work of Oddfellowship.

The members of West Hastings District Women's Institutes will be interested in the news that Mrs. L. G. Lymburner F.W.I.O. president reports that $1,000 has been contributed to the scholarship foundation fund and $500 was received in pledges This is a special 65th anniversary fund to send a home economist to teach women and girls in one of the emerging countries. Each Institute secretary has received a letter asking for a contribution and the reply should be at the Toronto office by March 1st. This is a wonderful opportunity to assist a most worthy cause.

The Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association held their regular meeting in the Stirling Community Hall with the special speaker, Dr. J. M. McLean.

Mrs. G. W. Dickson is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital

Mrs. J. Scarfe observed her 90th birthday on Monday and on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Macklin entertained several guests in honor of her mother on the occasion of her birthday.

Cde Fred Houchin was chairman for a program at the Stirling Legion Hall which opened with a pot-luck supper. The guest speaker was Arthur Duncan of Batawa and there was a good selection of vocal items. Each member was asked to bring along another non-member veteran as his guest.

Hrold Baker recently won a cash award for writing new business in 1961 for the Western Farmers' Weather Insurance Company.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Richardson recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. James Frederick of Kapuskasing.

TO ATTEND LUNCHEON

Several Institute members from the Trent Valley area are planning to travel by chartered bus and attend the 65th anniversary luncheon of Women's Institutes in Ontario at the Queen Elizabeth Building in the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, on February 19th.

The F.W.I.O. president, Mrs. L. G. Lymburner will be on the trans-Canada CBC matinee that afternoon.

It is expected that Mrs. H. Smith of Nebraska who is the special speaker for the luncheon will be on "Open House" CBC TV on Tuesday afternoon February 20th. Thus those who remain at home can probably enjoy part of the proceedings.

Nice Girl But Very Sloppy

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—What can I do about a friend who is now 16 but does not act her age?

She wears her hair combed back like a boy's. It's greasy and looks simply terrible. She's always in slacks and a blouse. She's on the fat side and very sloppy. Doesn't bother with lipstick or anything like that.

Now you can't just go up to a person and tell her how terrible she looks. At least, I can't. In spite of her appearance she is a nice girl but we are not the friends we once were.

What would you do?—TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED:—I need more clues. Is the family inclined to be fat? Does her mother object to lipstick? A greasy diet may be contributing to overweight and greasy hair.

This is her mother's concern. You can't do a thing unless your friend asks your advice. Perhaps if you ignore how she looks and keep acting friendly, she will do just that, some day.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—Would you please send me information on the various jobs one might obtain with an M.A. degree in psychology.—MRS. H. R.

DEAR MRS. H. R.:—The sky's the limit. The demand for M.A.'s in psychology includes: Guidance counsellor (private practice), psychologist in personnnel department, tester and counsellor with a psychiatric clinic, or rehabilitation centre, or probation department, or board of education, or penal institution; to mention just a few.

Any degree in the area of the humanities opens up a whole host of jobs with the government as well as private enterprise.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO M. H.:—If he picks "play fights" with you, he likes you. He wouldn't bother with you if he didn't.

• • •

(Has Doris helped you with a problem? Write and tell her so.)

Admittance Requirements In Canadian Universities Will Eventually Be Raised

By AL MARKLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Admittance requirements at most Canadian universities will remain unchanged in the immediate future but, when changes are made, high school students will find it tougher to get in.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows that most universities plan to stand pat for a while but all have given the subject some consideration.

A couple have recently set more rigorous entrance standards.

During the last four years shortage of space and increased enrolment have forced 11 of Canada's 43 universities to raise admission standards.

It has been predicted that enrolment will rise from 114,000 in the 1960-61 academic year to 312,000 in 1970-71.

Queen's University in Kingston, and the University of British Columbia in Vancouver recently announced changes in their standards.

Queen's changes affected only degree courses in the faculty of arts and science. To be sure of admission next year, applicants must have achieved an average of 65 per cent in their final Grade 13 examinations.

Dr. J. A. Corry, university president, said that "until this year students who had an average of 60 per cent were assured of admission but now students with averages between 60 and 64 per cent will be considered on their individual merits."

The University of Toronto has announced it will institute stricter admission requirements this fall. Registrar Robert Ross said preference will be given to students who finish Grade 13 in one year rather than spreading the tough final course over two years.

A system of "provisional admission" will be started this year. It allows a student to be accepted provisionally on the basis of his high school record for the first four years, with actual entrance confirmed or denied when results of the Grade 13 examinations are published.

About 14,000 students now attend University of Toronto, with a maximum enrolment of 23,000 expected by 1970.

Among other universities:

McMaster: Registrar Charles Linton says students with 60 per cent will continue to be accepted, even if they take two years to complete Grade 13.

WILL RETAIN

Western Ontario: Dr. G. E. Hall, president, says it is not likely the university will change its minimum requirements of 60-per-cent average on nine Grade 13 papers.

Ontario Agricultural College: The 60-per-cent standard probably will remain unchanged for the time being.

University of Waterloo: Established in 1957 and incorporated in 1959, the university will retain the 60-per-cent average on nine Grade 13 papers.

Waterloo Lutheran: One of the few universities in Ontario still admitting students with a passing grade on Grade 13 examinations, it is considering raising its standards.

Polish Cruise Ship Batory Again in News

LONDON (AP) — The Polish cruise ship Batory, famous as the setting for numerous Communist runaway incidents, has figured in two more escapee dramas, the home office disclosed Thursday night.

A spokesman said 20 Polish touists came ashore when the Batory docked at Greenwich Friday and refused to go back aboard. Seven asked for political asylum.

The ship left Sunday without them and 11 other passengers defected the same way in Copenhagen and asked for asylum.

The home office said those who had not requested asylum had applied for short-term extensions of their entry permits.

HAS 600 RED CELLS

MONTREAL (CP) — J. M. Keith, chairman of the economic development committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said Thursday night there are some 600 active Communist cells in Canada. He told the annual dinner meeting of the Textile Wholesalers Association the cells publish subversive literature and federal authorities "have asked our assistance in telling and warning Canadians about it."

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topic this week: Baby teeth, private dream worlds and athletic prowess.

TEETH TOO SOON

Doctors have been reporting babies born with teeth since the Roman Empire.

In fact, say researchers, it was considered good fortune in France and Italy to be born with teeth — probably based on the fact that such notables as Louis XIV, Cardinal Richelieu and Napoleon were reported toothsome at birth.

In a report on 12 current cases, a British researcher says the condition is probably inherited. It is probably due to a near-the-surface position of the tooth germ from which the tooth develops.

DREAM WORLD

All of us, like James Thurber's Walter Mitty, have a small secret life—a dream life, a private world we dart in and out of while we're asleep.

Scientists now are convinced that everyone dreams—as many as five or six dreams a night, each lasting perhaps 20 minutes. And we dream because our waking world is too small for our emotions and tensions which we let free without harm while we sleep.

A new book on dreams—The Science of Dreams (Doubleday) — charts the history and the sum knowledge of man's dreaming. Some interesting dream statistics, detailed by author Edwin Diamond:

Even if you dream a below-quota three dreams a night, you pile up more than 1,000 dreams a year. You remember few of these, and mostly in fragments, since dream memories seem to break-up on waking "like a frozen river during a spring thaw."

To best remember a dream, one scientist said, don't stir and don't open your eyes when first you awaken.

TOO MUCH MUSCLE

It now seems possible that athletes are born, not made. It all results from research on a stomach problem present at birth and caused by a muscle that is too strong for its own good.

British researchers began investigating some 600 persons who had the problem. A muscle, larger than normal, tends to close off the small opening between the stomach and the duodenum, the passage way for food from the stomach to intestine.

By checking into patient histories, researchers found that it tends to follow family lines. Most of the patients show remarkable athletic ability, indicating that this too may be determined at birth.

HICCUPS

Some current methods of treating hiccups: Deep and rapid breathing, or inducing nausea, or pressure on the eyeballs or on the carotid arteries in the neck. One other: Converting hiccups into sneezes by tickling the nose.

Seven Missing In North Bay Blaze

Search Debris For 5 Children, Two Teenagers

One-Storey Farm House Destroyed by Flames

NORTH BAY (CP) — Police were searching the ruins of a one-storey farm house today for the bodies of five children and two teenagers believed to have died when the structure was swept by fire.

Missing and believed to have died in the fire early today are the five children of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Foisy, identified as: Angelle, 7; Gerald, 6; Julien, 4; Micheline, 3, and Rachelle, 11.

The children were in the care of Denise Foisy, 1, a niece of the family, and Monica Bourdon, 15, both of Bonfield, about 20 miles east of here.

Provincial police said the parents were away from home Sunday night on a business trip to Kiosk, about 50 miles south east of North Bay.

Both were taken to hospital and have been placed under sedation.

Emile Foisy, a brother of Mrs. Foisy, who lives about ¼ mile from the new frame home told police he saw a light at the house shortly after midnight.

Suspecting fire might have broken out, he drove to the house while his wife telephoned the children. There was no answer to the telephone.

DOOR LOCKED

Mr. Foisy said he found the door of the house locked, and when he broke it down, he was forced back by a sheet of flame which made short work of the wooden building.

When North Bay police arrived at 1 a.m., the home was razed, and the structure had collapsed into the basement.

The scene of the blaze is about two miles from the small French-populated farming and logging community of Bonfield, on a concession road.

European Storm Abates, Claims 253 Lives

HAMBURG (AP)—North German coastal cities and towns, with wide areas still underwater, today struggled to bring some kind of order from the tragic havoc of weekend floods.

Flags flew at half-staff for a mounting death toll that stood at 253 dead or missing and believed dead according to official figures. It was expected to rise as rescue squads in rubber boats and motor launches combed the area for more flood victims.

In Hamburg, a city of 1,800,000 people, the toll stood at 108 this morning.

Food and drinking water was becoming a serious problem for tens of thousands who had spent their third night in flood-bound houses. Rescuers were giving priority to distributing emergency rations.

Gas and electricity came on again for large parts of Hamburg after a two - day failure that left homes dark and cold during the gale - driven flood catastrophe. Factories and business firms were asked to use only half their normal requirement, however, to keep from overtaxing the still limited power supply.

Rain Follows Heavy Snow In Some Areas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wind-driven snow swept southern Ontario Monday, switched to rain as temperatures climbed and left a pattern of sloppy streets and frustrated commuters as the storm headed east.

The storm moved into western Ontario from Indiana during the night, dumping snow to a depth of eight inches. Wind caused deep drifts across highways.

A layer of rain, followed by more snow in central Ontario left driving conditions hazardous. Temperatures climbed above freezing in southern Ontario.

The eastbound storm was expected to die out by Monday night in the face of bad weather moving in from the Atlantic.

The Atlantic storm battered Newfoundland with snow and winds up to 60 miles an hour in St. John's.

Quebec, with cloudy skies and zero-range temperatures, was expecting snow later in the day.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis — A storm centred in Indiana early today gave snow and drifting snow eastward to Trenton and north to Muskoka. Closer to the storm centre, the precipitation was in the form of sleet and freezing rain and sleet will occur eastward to Toronto until temperatures rise above freezing. The storm is expected to die out in southeastern Ontario tonight. A clearing trend and a return to colder weather is forecast for Tuesday.

Storms Batter U.S. Midwest

CHICAGO (AP) — Crippling snow and sleet storms which battered the U.S. midwest during the weekend, leaving a blanket of white up to two feet and sheets of ice, blustered into the northeast today.

The effects of the damaging weather in the eight-state storm belt from the Dakotas to Michigan were widespread. Some areas were virtually paralyzed.

ELECTION NOT LIKELY UNTIL EXAMS OVER

Hint Thrown Out To Students by PM

By RON LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and nearly half his cabinet took turns defending the government's record and attacking the Liberals over the weekend before a group of 300 university students.

Officially it was the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative Student Federation, but it was more like a 'dry run' of the government's campaign for re-election.

Referring often to the present as "the eve of an election," the government leaders proudly reviewed their accomplishments since taking office in 1957.

They tried out new slogans, resurrected Sir John A. Macdonald's historic National policy, distributed new election posters and asked for the students' assistance in active campaigning.

The prime minister hinted that the election would not come until the end of the academic year, saying the students would not have to campaign during their exams.

GETS OVATION

Mr. Diefenbaker received enthusiastic ovations for his denunciation of the Liberals as unprincipled opportunists "wailing and gnashing their teeth over any advance that takes place in the country."

Other speakers at the three-day convention condemned the Liberals for making extravagant promises that could not be kept and forgetting their principles in a desperate attempt to win power.

The Liberals were accused of setting one section of the country against another; of showing "arrogance and conceit" by claiming they had "all the answers," and of failing to learn that "the brass should stay close to the grass."

The government's record was described as a return to the national policy that had helped build Canada into a self-governing, self-sufficient nation in the 50 years following confederation.

The policy has been updated to apply to modern times, the ministers said, but its basic aims are still the same: National unity, national identity and national development.

Labor Minister Starr set the theme when he said the government has "licked" the recession. With unemployment declining, production and trade increasing, Canada was moving toward its highest level of prosperity in history.

CANCEL REPORTS

Nine cabinet members in all addressed the students. Amid all the campaign oratory, convention organizers cancelled executive reports and debate on

Erhart Regier Defends His Action In Criticizing Jagan's Opponents

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP)—Erhart Regier, socialist member of the Canadian House of Commons, said Sunday he is not in British Guiana to advocate any particular economic or political views.

He was replying to an attack on him in an open letter in the Georgetown Sunday Chronicle, signed by James Isaac Ramphal, recently-retired labor commissioner for British Guiana.

Saturday, Mr. Regier had said opposition forces in the Guianese government "acted very childishly" in inciting the people of Georgetown to conduct mass demonstrations against Premier Cheddi Jagan's left-wing government.

Mr. Regier, the New Democratic Party's financial critic and Commons member for Burnaby-Coquitlam, is visiting British Guiana at the invitation of Mr. Jagan to study ways in which Canada could aid the development of the British colony.

Mr. Regier declared that five out of six people in the colony accepted Premier Jagan's austerity budget. Protest demonstrations against it led to a general strike, and four days of rioting and looting which is just being put down by British troops.

He also said Premier Jagan had been lenient toward the opposition actions, which he said could be considered in Canada as "disloyal."

In the letter, Mr. Ramphal, urged Mr. Regier "not to abuse Guianese hospitality and generosity and not tempt them."

Mr. Regier said he regretted that his presence in British Guiana had met with Mr. Ramphal's disfavor but he had come in response to an appeal by British Guiana for foreigners to come and see how best they could help the country.

He said he would consider it the height of imprudence if anyone would come to any country to advocate any particular economic or political views.

LEAVES PARTY —CCF-NDP parliamentary leader Hazen Argue Sunday quit the party and resigned all positions, stating he was unhappy with the relationship of farmer-labor. Here, at a press conference in Regina, he and his wife face the press while Mr. Argue reads a prepared press statement. His future plans were not announced.

Caucus Names Herridge As CCF-NDP House Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herridge, CCF MP for Kootenay West, today was elected House leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party group at a caucus which branded as "untrue" statements by Hazen Argue, who resigned Sunday.

Douglas Fisher, CCF MP for Port Arthur and caucus chairman, said in announcing Mr. Herridge's election that a deputy leader will be named later.

Mr. Fisher said Mr. Herridge, 67 this month, and an MP since 1945, received the unanimous support of the group.

In a statement, he said the caucus expressed disappointment at the resignation of Mr. Argue, particularly with respect to the reasons given regarding labor domination.

He said Mr Argue's statement was "staggering in its misconception and untruth."

The experience since the founding of the NDP last August was that its basis was wider than that of the CCF party and that there is no domination by group or groups, Mr. Fisher said.

Mr. Herridge's election took place at a meeting attended by CCF MPs Harold Winch (Vancouver East), Arnold Peters (Timiskaming), Frank Howard (Skeena) and by Walter Pitman (NDP — Peterborough). Murdo Martin, member for Timmins, was not present. Erhart Regier, member for Burnaby - Coquitlam, is in British Guiana.

Mr. Herridge is the senior CCF MP both in age and in years in Parliament. He first entered Parliament and sat as an Independent CCF MP, at odds with the party organization, and previously was a member of the British Columbia Legislature.

Mr. Argue's resignation, while vaguely rumored and stoutly denied for several weeks, apparently caught the parliamentary group by complete surprise. They had scattered across the country for the weekend when Mr. Argue called his press con-

French and Moslems Agree On Cease-Fire in Algeria

PARIS (Reuters) — A French team has agreed with Moslem insurgent negotiators on a cease-fire in the seven-year Algerian insurrection, sources close to the government reported today.

Exact details were not immediately available but it was understood the agreement was subject to approval of the Tunis-based Algerian "provisional" government's executive as well as the insurgent "parliament."

France will endorse the agreement. President de Gaulle gave personal approval at each critical stage of the talks, which took place near the Swiss border.

French officials today acknowledged for the first time that the talks took place. An official statement said they began Feb. 11 and ended Sunday.

The French team, headed by Minister for Algeria Louis Joxe, flew from Geneva to Paris meantime and Joxe arranged to brief de Gaulle on latest developments.

The main question remaining was whether the "provisional" government's executive and the insurgent national council, a kind of parliament expected to meet this week in Tripoli, Libya, would give approval.

The "provisional" government has extremists in its ranks who disapprove of an understanding with France, but throughout Algeria there is a great war weariness among Moslems and Europeans alike.

Providing the insurgents approve the agreement an open meeting will take place for official ceremonies to be followed or to coincide with an official announcement of the cease-fire.

The agreement provides for the setting up of a temporary executive in Algeria representative of all Moslem communities including the National Liberation Front, the provisional government's military wing.

It was understood the executive would have a police force at its disposal and arrange for a self-determination referendum.

NET INCOME ON FARMS DOWN 24 PER CENT

Operating Expenses Play Big Part

OTTAWA (CP) — Estimated total farm net income for 1961 is $1,006,000,000, lowest since 1957 and some 24 per cent down from the revised 1960 estimate of $1,319,600,000, the bureau of statistics said today.

Farm operating expenses played a part by continuing to rise, but the bureau said the Prairie drought loss in grains—plus reduced farm grain supplies — was mainly responsible for the big drop from 1960.

Two other yardsticks for measuring farm income make that point clear, said the bureau.

Realized net farm income — which excludes changes in inventory—has been estimated at $1,313,200,000 for 1961 or $10,000,000 higher than 1960 and 2.4 per cent above the five-year average ending in 1960.

Secondly, farm cash income,

Shortage of Sugar in Cuba Blamed On 'Slight Lack of Co-ordination'

HAVANA (Reuters) — Sugar, the staple product of Cuba, now has joined the list of foodstuffs in "temporary" short supply here.

Ernesto (Che) Guevara, the minister of industries, blames the shortage on "a slight lack of co-ordination by the ministry of internal trade."

He also takes some of the responsibility for the shortage on his own ministry. Cuba, he explains, had shipped all the sugar left over from last year before the refineries began processing this year's harvest.

As a result, warehouses were left empty.

Guevara's statements in two recent speeches gave satisfaction to many Cubans who have long felt that the first blame for chronic food shortages should rest with the authorities for shipping too much food abroad at the expense of domestic consumption.

None but the staunchest of revolutionaries profess to accept the official line that the shortages are brought about by "the increased spending power of the workers and peasants since the revolution."

Rum, a by-product of sugar which rates high on the list for overseas exports, has also disappeared from Santiago shops and is even running short in Havana.

In Havana itself, goods in chronic short supply are eggs, butter, fats and cooking oil, chicken, fish, cheese, canned milk, cauliflowers, soap of all kinds and toothpaste.

In spasmodically short supply are potatoes rice, the various types of beans, malanga (a substitute for potato), onions, lemons, oranges and pineapples, milk and even coffee, another staple Cuban product.

Declares Party Controlled By 3 Labor Leaders

Avoid NDP Like Plague His Advice to Farmers

By SCOTT SCHILL

REGINA (CP)—Hazen Argue, the fighting farmer - politician from Saskatchewan and CCF member of the House of Commons for 17 years, bolted from the New Democratic Party Sunday because it has "become the tool of a small labor clique."

Mr. Argue was leader of the CCF-NDP group in the Commons and is former national leader of the CCF party.

In a surprise announcement—it shocked some quarters — the 41-year-old socialist said in a statement:

"The NDP now has become the tool of a small labor clique and is effectively under their domination and control."

He said in an interview later that control of the NDP, formed last year by the CCF and labor groups, rests with three men—the leaders of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, the United Steelworkers of America and the United Auto Workers Union, all affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress. Mr. Argue also advised farmers to avoid the NDP "like the plague."

MAY JOIN LIBERALS

"Leadership of the NDP should be more democratic and not so susceptible to control and dictation from labor bosses," he said in the interview.

Although Mr. Argue declined to comment on his plans, he is expected to join the Liberal party, following his former university roommate, Ross Thatcher. Mr. Thatcher left the CCF in 1955, joined the Liberals a year later and in 1960 became leader of the Saskatchewan Liberal party.

Mr. Argue planned to fly to Ottawa today with his wife, Jean.

He said he hopes to make a speech in the Commons Tuesday and arrange the location of his seat in the House.

Mr. Argue, who last August lost to T. C. (Tommy) Douglas in a bid for national leadership of the NDP, announced his resignation at a press conference.

He sent a telegram of resignation to Michael Oliver, national president of the party, Harold Winch, deputy parliamentary leader of the CCF-NDP group, and Douglas Fisher, CCF member of the Commons for Port Arthur.

CONSULTS WITH THATCHER

Mr. Thatcher immediately invited his old schoolmate to join the Liberal party. Mr. Argue consulted with Mr. Thatcher into the early hours Sunday before deciding to make his announcement.

Mr. Argue has represented the rural constituency of Assiniboia in Ottawa for the CCF since 1945. He was 24 when first elected; one of the youngest men ever sent to the Commons.

Mr. Argue said at the press conference:

"The action I take today I feel is not one of leaving the CCF because the CCF as we

RUSSIA WARNS OF HARASSMEN IN AIR CORRIDOR

West Has Rejected Soviet Flight Plan

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — Allied ai craft flew through the nor corridor from Berlin today t counter renewed Soviet pressu on the vital air lanes, informe sources said.

Military and commercia transports thrust through th Berlin-Hamburg corridor, ove East German territory, the in fomants said.

Western commanders gave or ders for the transports to fl below the level the Soviets wa for their exclusive use for three-hour period.

For the sixth time since started harrassing Western a links to Berlin Feb. 7, the Rus sian Air Force told the Berlin Air Safety Centre Sunday nigh it was reserving air space up to 7,500 feet in the north corrido leading to Berlin from Hamburg.

COMES AFTER PAUSE

The Soviet move came after a weekend pause in the Berlin air crisis. Sunday morning, Moscow announced it had rejected a three - power protest that manoeuvres of the Russian Air Force in the corridors were dangerous and illegal.

The Allies insist that air safety rules, in force for the last 17 years, require notification of each individual flight through the three 20-mile wide corridors linking Berlin with Frankfurt, Hanover and Hamburg.

The Western powers charged the Russians were trying to change the rules by making "block bookings" for the Russian Air Force. The Allies do not dispute Soviet contentions the Russian Air Force has equal rights in the corridors but they insist on carrying out the rule for safety's sake.

Rash of Minor Accidents Due To Bad Roads

No serious accidents were reported over the weekend in the Bay of Quinte District, although Provincial Police said there was a rash of minor accidents. There were no injuries.

City police reported one accident, but the damage was not extensive.

A car driven by Mrs. Lillian M. Guest of 121 Orchard Drive, was proceeding west on Orchard Drive and, after making a left-hand turn onto Prince of Wales Drive, allegedly failed to straighten out her vehicle and collided with a northbound car driven by William G. McDonough of 54 North Park Gardens.

Damage to the Guest vehicle was estimated at approximately $150 and an estimated $250 damage to the McDonough car.

Police said the street was snowpacked and slippery at the time.

TO RUN FOR SENATE

WARSAW (Reuters) — Edward Kennedy, 29, left here today by plane for Vienna at the end of a two-day visit during which he indicated he would run for President Kennedy's old Senate seat in Massachusetts. The brother of the president, who arrived here Sunday on the latest leg of a European tour, was asked to comment on U.S. magazine reports that he would be a candidate for the Senate. He replied laughingly: "Well, those magazines are never wrong."

have known it has now ceased to exist. The CCF has passed into history. The course I followed today is in a real measure out of respect for the CCF. The ideal that was the CCF, integrity, honesty, justice, impelled me to take this step."

In the interview, he said:

"With my experience and knowledge of the House and agriculture in Western Canada and with a thorough knowledge of dangers within the NDP, I feel it is my duty to present the strong views I hold at and on every public platform."

'A GREAT SURPRISE'

Mr. Douglas, former CCF premier of Saskatchewan, said in a statement:

"Mr. Argue's decision to resign . . . comes as a great surprise and disappointment to all of us who have been his friends and supporters and have worked loyally on his behalf for so many years. . . ."

In Ottawa, national Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said Mr. Argue's statement was "very interesting and very important," he said. he could make no further comment now.

In Toronto, William Dodge, executive vice-president of the CLC, said the resignation "is the crudest example of political opportunism in Canadian political history. His attack upon the labor movement, which he wooed from coast to coast during his campaign for leadership of the party, is pure hypocrisy."

Mr. Dodge said union contributions to the NDP are from Canadian sections of the unions and that the CCF received a considerable portion of its finances from the same source.

"It has never bothered him until now," Mr. Dodge said.

He said every great Progressive movement has had its Judas Iscariots and that the NDP is no exception.

'WHO PROVIDES SILVER?'

"All we need to know now is, who is providing the 30 pieces of silver."

Heads of the three unions named by Mr. Argue are F. W. Dowling of Toronto, national director of the Packinghouse Workers, William Mahoney of Toronto, national director of the Steelworkers, and George Burt of Windsor, Ont., Canadian director of the UAW.

In Assiniboia, Sam Asbell, vice-president of the Liberal Constituency Organization, welcomd Mr. Argue's resignation and invited him to join the Liberals.

"If he does," Mr. Asbell said, "I sincerely hope he will seek the Liberal nomination when we hold our convention March 20."

A NDP nominating convention is to be held in Assiniboia in March or April.

Mr. Argue, who indulges in a club-swinging style of oratory in the political arena, said he considered his move for "many months" and even before last year's NDP founding convention in Ottawa.

Mr. Argue followed M. J. Coldwell as national CCF leader in 1960. He said he was active in the CCF since he was a CCF member of the student's parliament at the University of Saskatchewan in 1940.

Italy Retains Bridge Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Italy's famed blue team edged out a North American team 331 to 305 Sunday to win the World Bridge Championship for the fifth consecutive time.

Italy began its romp in 1957 with the team's fine bidding style and accurate play. There was no tournament in 1960. The 26-point margin by which the Italians took the 1962 title was their narrowest.

The North American team, composed of five Americans and a Canadian, Eric Murray of Toronto, made a valiant effort to overcome the Italian lead in the final 20 deals, outscoring Italy 44-32 on those deals. But it wasn't enough.

Third Big Snowfall in Week Clogs Highways and Streets With Wind Bringing Drifts

For the third time within a week, the Bay of Quinte district this morning was visited by still another heavy snowfall with approximately five inches of the fluffy white stuff being dumped over the city and district up until noon today.

Accompanying the storm was a stiff wind, resulting in heavy drifting in the rural areas and even within the city limits.

Last week approximately a foot of snow fell in the area—eight inches on Wednesday and another four inches on Friday.

Despite heavy drifting in the rural areas, all high school buses were expected to complete their trips to the city, although at least three of them were late in arriving.

SCHOOL CLOSED

One rural public school in Ameliasburg township was reported closed for the day because of the road conditions.

In the city all snowplowing equipment owned by the city was again out early in an attempt to keep ahead of the storm and keep the main streets in a fairly passable condition.

And tonight after midnight snow removal equipment will go to work again in the downtown area to truck away today's heavy downfall.

WIDEN STREETS

This morning the city's snowblower and another rented unit were working on streets both on the East and West hills moving snow back over the sidewalk and onto lawns in a measure to increase the travel width of the streets.

City public works officials noted that the snows had narrowed many of the streets so that it was difficult for two vehicles to pass.

So the snow blowers have been pressed into service to blow the snowbanks over the sidewalks and onto the lawns.

Charles Ling Dies in Hospital, Ill Long Time

Following a short illness but in failing health for some time, Charles Ling, 141 Bridge Street West, retired businessman of this city, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday. He was born in Canton, China, 82 years ago and came to this country as a young man. He settled in Toronto and 46 years ago came to this city and soon after entered the restaurant business.

He operated the old Empire Cafe on Front Street for some years and then ran the Quinte Cafe on Bridge Street East for many years and he retired from business some years ago. The Quinte Cafe was one of the show places of the city for many years and Mr. Ling enjoyed a wide clientele from the city and district. It was the meeting place for many of his business associates in the morning and he was well liked and highly respected in his community. He was a man of fine principles a kind father and loving husband and his death will be sincerely regretted by a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Ling was a member of Christ Church and is survived by his wife, the former Ethel Gertrude Grisetti, three sons, Cecil, foreman of Ontario Intelligencer, composing room, James in the Customs department and George, manager of the Advance Cleaners, all of this city. Also surviving are seven grandchildren.

Industrial Commission Holds Reception in Toronto

As part of a stepped-up industrial promotion program recommended by the Lake Ontario Development Association following a local study last year, the Belleville Industrial Commission last week held a reception and luncheon at the King Edward - Sheraton Hotel in Toronto for industrials relations men from railways, banks and Ontario government representatives.

Approximately 55 persons attended the luncheon, including about 40 industrial experts from the Toronto area.

Members of the Belleville Industrial Commission, including chairman Ald. Jack Ireland, Mayor A. M. Haig, City Manager J. R. Reynolds and most of the department heads from city hall attended the luncheon.

Arrangements for the luncheon were made by the Belleville Industrial Commission manager Earl Dicknoether.

Mayor Haig briefly addressed the gathering assuring industrial men from the two railways, Toronto area banks and government representatives, that the city of Belleville was prepared to offer the fullest co-operation to industry considering locating in the Belleville area.

Three Cloyne Residents Had Narrow Escape

Three Cloyne district ice fishermen had a narrow escape Saturday when on their way across Mazinaw Lake to do some fishing their half ton truck dropped through a soft spot in the ice and sank into 15 feet of water.

All three men in the truck were able to scramble to safety and escaped with no more than an ice cold ducking. Driver and owner of the truck was Andrew Snider of Cloyne.

Occupants of a following car narrowly escaped a similar ducking when the driver was able to slam on his brakes and stop his car just as the front wheels dropped into the hole in the ice.

Sunday Mr. Snider's new truck was hauled from its watery grave just a short distance from the shore of the lake.

Earl Dicknoether, president of the Quinte Aqua Divers Club went down and attached cables to the sunken car.

Then a channel was cut in the ice from the sunken truck to the shore, and 14 men on a four-line block and tackle hauled the submerged vehicle to dry land.

HAUL AWAY SAFE

BARNARD, Kan. (AP) — A safe containing $10,000 was dragged out of the First National Bank of Barnard with a winch truck and hauled away in a truck early Sunday. The thieves broke open the back and front doors of the bank and smashed the interior so they could drag the safe from the vault. The winch lifted the safe into the pickup.

This probably saved the government some embarrassment, since the resolutions touched on such sensitive issues as acquisition of nuclear arms, adoption of a national flag and anthem, lowering of tariffs between Canada and the Common Market, lowering of the voting age to 18 and joining the Organization of American States.

The meeting ended Sunday with the election of a new slate of officers, Jerry Collins of Toronto, an Osgoode Hall law student, is president.

U.S. to Request NATO to Cut Trade With Cuba

PARIS (AP)—A U.S. state department official arrived in Paris today to urge the United States NATO allies to cut trade with Cuba.

A U.S. spokesman said Walt Rostow, counsellor and chairman of policy planning council, would confer with U.S. NATO Ambassador Thomas Finletter. He is expected to make his bid for trade embargoes before the 15-nation NATO council at its regular meeting Wednesday.

The United States hopes to get NATO co-operation on a ban of arms and strategic materials shipments to Cuba, as well as a reduction in other trade with Cuba to the fullest extent possible.

It would like allied and friendly nations to cut or eliminate purchases of Cuban goods in order to deny Premier Fidel Castro's government its income in foreign currency. Western European countries, Canada and Japan did an estimated $45,000,000 in trade with Cuba last year.

President Kennedy ordered an embargo on all imports from Cuba two weeks ago. He also banned all exports to the Caribbean nation with the exception of some food and medical supplies. This action is expected to cost Cuba $35,000,000 a year.

Canada, a NATO member, has indicated it intends to continue trading with Cuba in non-strategic and non-military items.

IN MEMORIAM

CARR. — In loving memory of Mr. Philip Carr, who passed away February 19th, 1961.

I cannot say and I will not say,
That he is dead, he is just away;
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He wandered into that glorious land,
And left us dreaming how very fair,
Its needs must be since he lingered there.
Think of him still as the same I say,
He is not dead, he is just away.

—Ever remembered by his daughter Pearl.

CARR. — In loving memory of Dad, Philip Carr, who passed away suddenly, February 19th, 1961.

At the pathway's end is an open gate,
Through which our loved ones go;
To a place of far more peace and joy,
Than we could ever know.
Our loving Father was waiting there,
To give him strength and rest;
May we, then, find our comfort,
in the thought that God knows best.

—Ever remembered by daughter Lola and family.

CARR. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Philip S. Carr, who passed away February 19th, 1961.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, our dear one,
That we do not think of you.
We often think of bygone days,
When we were all together,
The family chain is broken now;
But memories live forever.
To us he has not gone away,
Nor has he travelled far,
Just entered God's eternal home,

—Ever remembered and sadly missed by wife Ada, daughter Leah and family.

POMEROY. — In loving memory of our dear father, Harry Pomeroy, who passed away February 19th, 1956.

You ofttimes said we'd miss you,
Those words have proved too true;
We lost our best, our dearest friend,
Dear Father, when we lost you.

—Sadly missed by daughter Gladys, son-in-law Arnold, son Stanley, daughter-in-law Evelyn.

SCRIVEN. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Irving John William Scriven, who passed away suddenly nine years ago, February 19th, 1953.

We do not need a special day,
To bring you to our minds;
For the days we do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.

—Sadly missed and deeply loved by Mother, Father, Gary, Reggie and Eddie.

SCRIVEN. — In loving memory of a dear nephew, Irving Scriven, who passed away February 19th, 1953.

O blessed little sunbeam,
O child of love and prayer;
We give thee to the keeping,
Of the tender Shepherd's care.

—Ever remembered by Aunt Kay and Uncle Mick and Grandpa and Grandma Randle and Aunt Sondyra.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my appreciation to friends and neighbors for cards, letters and flowers and personal calls during my stay in Belleville General Hospital. A special thanks to Drs. Russell and Henry Bateman, nurses and nurses' aides, 2nd West and 2nd South.

—Roswell Reid.

Merchant Gives $1,000 Policy To Four Girls

TORONTO (CP)—The widow of Const. Frederick John Nash broke down in tears Saturday when she received a letter from clothing merchant Louis Mayzel stating he had taken out a $1,000 education policy for each of her four children.

"Jack and I always said we wanted our children to go to university," Mrs. Nash said.

The children are all girls — Jacalyn 11, Patsy, 8, Judy 6 and Karen, 2 months.

"I just cried over this wonderful thing."

Her husband died in a gun battle Monday morning when he stopped to make a routine check of a truck.

Polish-born Louis Mayzel had less than a dollar when he and his wife and three children arrived in Canada in 1930.

Now a rich man through a chain of clothing stores, building and development, Mr. Mayzel took out similar policies for the son of Detective - Sergeant Edmund Tong, fatally shot in 1952, and for the daughter of Alfred Layng, shot to death in 1949.

Butter prices: Canada first grade: Ontario tenderable 63-64; non-tenderable 61¾-62¼, in light trading: western 62½ (nominal).

Reith Lectures On Africa Will Be Broadcast

Six lectures dealing with the dissolution of British rule in Africa will be broadcast on the CBC radio series, The Reith Lectures, beginning Feb. 26th.

The series, recorded by the BBC and named after Lord Reith, first director-general of the BBC, will be delivered by Margery Perham, C.B.E., Fellow of Nuffield College, Oxford.

The lectures, subtitled The Colonial Reckoning, will be heard Mondays at 10.30 p.m. on the CBL with repeats scheduled at 9.45 a.m. Tuesdays, beginning March 6th.

This is the first time since inception of the annual Reith lectures in 1948 that they have been delivered by a woman.

The Colonial Reckoning, deals with growing anti-colonialism and anti-imperialism; the influences impelling Africa into independence; problems of self-government facing the new rulers; Britain's colonial record in Africa and the stategic status of these new, uncommitted nations.

Miss Perham's interest in Africa began in her childhood and was sharply increased when, as an Oxford graduate in the 1920's, she trekked through British Somaliland and Ethiopia.

"I soon found that behind the scene of forest and desert . . . there were absorbing problems of government," says Miss Perham.

Of her talks she comments: "Because of the nature of my interests and studies, the theme will be predominantly political, and mainly about British Africa . . . as I look back over some 30 years of travel and study."

Four Bread Salesmen Lose Day's Revenue

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Four bread company salesmen were robbed of $250 at gunpoint Saturday as they were checking in after their day's deliveries.

Two men, armed with a revolver and a semi - automatic pistol, appeared at the Canada Bread Company plant here and took the money pouches of three drivers who were checking in. A fourth arrived as the robbery was taking place and he, too, was robbed.

The drivers were locked in the back of one of the delivery vans and the gunmen escaped in a car owned by one of the salesmen. The car and one money pouch were recovered a short time later.

About a month ago the Oshawa plant of the same company was robbed and the manager shot in the stomach.

29 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eighteen of the 29 persons killed in accidents during the weekend in Canada died in traffic, a Canadian Press survey showed.

The survey, taken from 6 p.m local times Friday to midnight Sunday, showed Ontario and Quebec with nine accidental deaths each had the most fatalities in the country. British Columbia had five deaths followed by Nova scotia with four and Manitoba and Alberta with one each.

The survey does not include natural deaths, known suicides, slayings or industrial accidents

The Ontario dead:

James T. Filshie, 23, of Toronto, who was found dead Saturday under an apartment house balcony from which he is believed to have fallen 40 feet

Ronald Janssens, 2, of Chatham, killed Saturday when struck by a milk delivery truck while playing in front of his home.

J. Harold Walker, 20, and Clifford G. Curran, 29, both of Hagersville, Ont., in a two-car collision Saturday three miles north of Hagersville during a snowstorm.

George Henry Hiller, 24, of Brantford, in a two-car collision Saturday near Muir, five miles southeast of Woodstock.

Patrick John Dodge, 19, of Ottawa, Saturday when he lost control of his car and it crashed into a tree a few hours after his wife gave birth to a daughter.

William Campbell, 33, of Toronto, early Sunday in a car-truck collision near Malton airport.

W. A. Gidilewich, about 25, of Sudbury, Saturday when a loaded oil truck collided with his car about eight miles north of Sudbury.

Archibald Galbraith, 76, of Toronto, Sunday when hit by a car while crossing the street.

Throne Speech Debate Will Be Continued

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons returns to the throne speech debate today, another indication that the government plans to allow the current parliamentary session to follow a normal course for the next while.

The debate, which can last a maximum eight days, was interrupted at the halfway mark Jan. 26 so the government could push ahead with priority spending items and welfare and national development legislation.

This immediately heightened election jitters that have prevailed from the start of the current session Jan. 18. It was widely speculated that Parliament would be dissolved by last weekend for an April election but this did not happen. All along, there has been a well-informed body of opinion leaning to an election in June or the fall.

Resumption of the throne speech debate today gives the opposition unlimited latitude to attack the government. Unemployment is likely to be a favorite subject.

The Liberals made an unsuccessful attempt last Tuesday to have scheduled government business set aside for an emergency debate on the unemployment situation. That was the day the bureau of statistics reported 545,000 jobless at mid-January.

R. J. Whitley New President Of Trenton Conservatives

TRENTON — Ex-councillor R. J. "Dick" Whitley was elected president of the Trenton Progressive Conservative Association Saturday night.

Elected by acclamation were executive members: Lyle Carr, first vice-president; E. M. Parker, second vice-president; Ronald Birkett, treasurer; Douglas Whitley, secretary.

R. J. Whitley, Lyle Carr and Donald Whitley were all nominated for the presidency. As the first ballot resulted in a tie for R. J. Whitley and Mr. Carr, a second vote was taken with Mr. Whitley being named the president by a "good majority," to quote Jack Ireland, of Belleville, who supervised the counting of the ballots.

Before the voting took place, the resignations were read of president Bill House, Jr.; secretary Lloyd Worrall, and treasurer John Villeneuve.

Mr. House said that he was forced to retire from any executive position with the association because of health reasons and business pressure. He said that the new executive would receive his unqualified support and that he was in no way discontinuing his association with the party.

Mr. Villeneuve, in his letter of resignation, explained that his work had taken him to Montreal.

WOMEN'S EXECUTIVE

Re-elected to the executive of the women's association by acclamation were: Mrs. Evelyn Wessel, president; Mrs. Dorothy Todd, first vice-president; Miss Vera Barnum, treasurer; Mrs. Bea Wilson, secretary, and Mrs. Hattie Vantassel, corresponding secretary.

Present at the association meeting in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Elgin Street were Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South, Mrs. Grills, Elmer Sandercock, MPP for Hastings West and Mrs. Sandercock.

Mr. Grills spoke briefly to the assembly, assuring the association members of his continued interest in Trenton. He said, however, that he quite often felt "alone" in his efforts to do something for the town.

"A member needs to have some knowledge of what's going on locally," said Mr. Grills. "I can't be here and in Ottawa, too. I want to do everything I can for Trenton, and I will, if you give me a chance."

Mr. Grills reminded the association members that he had been instrumental in arranging for dredging in the bay last summer and promised that more dredging would be done this summer. He said that weed cutting would be carried out in the channel from Murray Canal to the mouth of the river. Mr. Grills also reminded his listeners that the federal government had advanced a loan to the town for the sewage treatment program and said that he felt this would help clear up some of the weed problem in the bay.

Mr. Grills told his audience that he had helped to straighten out an impasse between RCAF authorities and the Trenton Public Utilities Commission over water rates.

"The RCAF at Trenton is expanding," said the speaker. "Remember that the Trent Canal improvement system started in Trenton. You see, there is something going on around Trenton. I work amicably with your mayor and clerk for the good of the town and I consider them my good friends."

Mr. Grills assured the association members that Trenton would get a new federal building but asked to be excused from commenting further on this subject at this time.

Mr. Sandercock, in a brief address to the association, told the members that Mr. Grills was "always trying to do something for this riding at Ottawa." "He's a good hard-working member for South Hastings," Mr. Sandercock said.

Complainants Agree Fault Lies Mostly With Parents

TRENTON — At a meeting of the separate school board at Trenton two weeks ago, a delegation of parents whose children attend St. Peter's School, asked that a different arrangement about opening the school doors be made.

Parents claimed that children who arrived early on the bus were forced to stay outside until the school opened; that the school doors were locked immediately after the children ate their lunches, and locked again as soon as school was out, thus forcing some children to wait outside for the bus in inclement weather.

At this meeting, one parent, William Menzies, offered to supervise the school during the entire lunch hour, for a one-week period, and another parent, Jack Graham, offered to take over for the following week. This would permit the board to explore the possibility of supplying a supervisor at the noon hour, Mr. Menzies and Mr. Graham said.

At a special meeting of the board yesterday, board chairman Dr. J. V. Byrne read a statement from Mr. Menzies. He said that while he had not carried out supervision for the entire week, he had come to some conclusions. Mr. Menzies said that he now thought that 95 per cent of the fault lies with the parents. He said that the teachers had assured him that no order had ever been issued that children could not wait for the bus inside the school doors. He said that he had heard teachers ask children not to play in puddles and that the children had gone ahead and played in puddles. He said that the teachers had told him that the children were kept inside, or brought inside, in inclement weather.

Mr. Menzies said that "it was very difficult to keep 100 children under observation at all times."

He said that the teachers were not paid to supervise the children during the noon hour and in off-school hours and that if they did, they should be paid for doing so by the school board.

Mr. Menzies tendered an apology for the unfortunate publicity the affair had given the board, the school principal and the teachers.

Mr. Graham, who also said that he had not been able to supervise for the entire week, said that he was in complete agreement with Mr. Menzies.

Sister Mary Angeline, school principal, reading from a prepared statement, said that she had been shocked at the report of the board meeting in the newspapers.

The principal disputed a number of statements attributed to parents in the news article. She said that the children were not made to stay outside when it was raining or snowing and that if they did so, it was their own doing. She said that she had seen children playing around the school on Saturday and Sunday when the temperature was around zero.

The principal said that the teachers were interested in the welfare of the students, but that it was difficult to maintain order if the parents criticized teachers in front of the children.

The principal said that it would have been much better if the parents had come to the staff before making a public issue of their complaints.

The principal suggested that if the board was not satisfied with the school system, the staff might be replaced, and that the teachers felt they should do all the supervising, or none at all, and that the staff members should not be dictated to by the parents.

Dr. Byrne pointed out that according to an Ontario Court of Appeal ruling, "teachers were not required to supervise students every minute of the school days."

Dr. Byrne said that the school board in Brighton had passed a ruling recently to the effect that no child, living within a half mile radius of the school, could bring his lunch. Dr. Byrne also remarked that the Trenton public school board had recently run into the same "difficulty" and that it had ruled that the school doors would not be opened until 8:30 a.m. He said that children who attend St. Peter's School could go to 8 o'clock mass and to school afterwards.

Leonard McGaughey said that on behalf of the parents he would like to offer an apology to the principal and the teaching staff.

Sister Mary Angeline said that she would accept the apology.

Harry Lafferty then proposed that the teachers and the board members draw up a schedule for school opening hours and that once the ruling was made, the students be notified that they must adhere to it.

Many of the parents who had laid complaints with the board at the meeting two weeks ago were not present at yesterday's meeting.

Wellington Couple Observes 50th Wedding Anniversary

TRENTON — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McMurter of Wellington, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, at an anniversary dinner at the home of their son, Ross McMurter, 99 Stanley Street, Trenton. Around 40 relatives were present to wish the couple every happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. McMurter were married at Grace Methodist Church parsonage by the Rev. Bunter.

Mrs. McMurter was the former Jessie Ross of the 3rd concession of Murray and Mr. McMurter was born in Albury. They have lived in the Trenton-Prince Edward County area all their married life. Mr. McMurter has always taken a great interest in apple growing and is an expert at pruning apple trees.

The McMurters have ten children: Ross, Arthur and Clark of Trenton; Wellington of Vancouver, B.C.; Howard of Belleville; Douglas and Donald of Wellington; Eva (Mrs. Everett Dillabough) of Merrickville, Ont.; Evelyn (Mrs. Wesley Pearson) of Trenton, and Lorna (Mrs. Elmer McCaw) of Frankford. The couple have 23 grandchildren.

Two Cars Hit Poles

TRENTON — Around 1.50 a.m. on Sunday a car, driven by Zelma E. Palmer, Trenton, went out of control on Dundas St. East at Scott Street, skidded and struck a hydro pole. Road conditions were icy at the time. The driver was not injured. Property damage was estimated at $250.

Almost an hour later, 18-year-old Bob Vanderwelp of R.R. 3, Carrying Place, also lost control of his car and struck a hydro pole on North Front Street. Police say that the car veered across the street and mounted the boulevard near Bondhead street. Donald McCauley, R.R. 3, Trenton, a passenger in the car, was treated at Trenton Memorial Hospital for cuts and bruises to his forehead.

Fishing Contest Held

TRENTON — On Saturday, a number of hardy fishermen braved the elements to compete in an ice-fishing contest, sponsored by the Trenton Sportsman's Association.

Kim Adams of Trenton got credit for catching the largest fish; most fish were caught by Bob Atkinson, and the oldest contestant's prize went to C. W. Atkinson. Youngest fisherman was four-year-old Peter Menzies. Ladies' prize went to Mrs. G. Griffiths of Trenton.

Lucky draw prizes were won by G. Bond, J. W. Johnson, Don Chapman, K. Almey and Walter Wilson.

Man Produces to Live

The Ontario Farmers Union has taken sharp issue with the tendency to assume that efficient production is the supreme purpose of man, "as if men lived for the sake of production instead of producing in order to live."

That needed to be said. Perhaps we are not in any greater danger of making this basic error today than mankind has always been, but there is a more urgent need to remember this truth today than at times in the past because in the western world the mass of the people, for the first time, have a real choice in the matter. Throughout most of the past, and indeed in most of the world today, man has worked to live and lived to work. There has been no choice. Steadily, since the advent of the machine age, an opportunity to choose has developed, and just as steadily men, in practice, have indicated they recognize that man produces in order to live, rather than living for the sake of production. Yet, paradoxically enough, he has not preached what he has practised. It seems to us infinitely preferable to practise the true and preach the false, rather than to preach the true and practise the false, but it is still far from the ideal.

A second paradox confronts us. While there was never a time when the Farmers Union message was more timely, it is also true that there was never a time when it was more dangerous. For while living is the reason for producing material goods, to give life meaning we must also produce. This essential production, though, is of intangibles, friendship, or knowledge, or beauty or, just as necessary, the material goods and services which promote the growth of these intangibles. The man who not only produces goods in order to live, but also lives merely to produce more goods is to be pitied. but not so much as the man who has nothing, not even work, for which to live.

All this, perhaps, is a far cry from the point which the members of the Farmers Union wished to make—which was that the most efficient method of farming is not necessarily the system of farming best suited to man. For efficiency can sometimes turn any labor from one of love into mere drudgery. This is perhaps easier to grasp when we consider the tasks on the farm, with the close association between man and animals, than it is if we are dealing with factory or office, but the same principle holds true.

The threat which the farmers face today from assemby-line methods in agriculture has long faced the industrial workers—and is one of the main reasons for the continual demand for shorter hours. With the coming age of computer-directed automation it is likely to face the white collar man in an even more acute form at a date not far in the future.

What will the editorial writer do when a computer will weigh all the former imponderables and come up with the answer which will be guaranteed to please most of the readers, most of the time?

The Pot Calls----

The Russians have withdrawn from the world ice hockey championships at Colorado Springs, Colo. Their action is in protest against the U.S. exclusion of East Germany from the tournament. The Western Allies travel bureau in West Berlin refused to grant the East Germans the necessary travel documents.

Under the circumstances, with the Russian team financed by the government, it is difficult to see how any other decision was to be expected.

The Russians are protesting because politics are being permitted to interfere with sport —and their protest was inevitable because, in Russia, politics do interfere with sport.

This is not logical.

But those who might logically have protested, nations such as Canada where the government does not exercise control, apparently have no intention of making an effective protest.

We wonder what would be said in the U.S. if the U.S. team, true to our western belief that sport should be free of all political control, were to announce that it would not compete at Colorado Springs?

From the days of Cromwell, some of whose officers not only sat in Parliament but also dissolved it when Parliament failed to do their bidding, peoples . . . have wisely insisted on separating the military and civilian arms of government.—Robert A. Lovett, former U.S. Secretary of Defence, on alleged muzzling of the military.

Strictly Personal

Our Problem Is Wasted Literacy

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The news that President Kennedy seeks $50 millions for a drive on adult illiteracy somehow failed to thrill me to the marrow. I have met too many "literate" adults whose reading habits made a mockery of their extensive or expensive educations.

There are some 9 ½ million "functionally illiterate" adults in the United States — men and women over 25 who have had fewer than five years of schooling.

This, I suppose, is a deplorable fact, but, to my mind, not nearly so deplorable as the fact that, with nearly everybody in the country able to read, hardly anybody reads anything that is worth while.

Mere "literacy", by itself means nothing; in fact, it could be argued that it is folly to teach people how to read without instilling in them a sense of values concerning what is worth reading. It is this folly that has resulted in the mass vulgarization of most of our media of communication.

In Russia, where 70 per cent of the people could not read at the turn of the century, literacy is now practically 100 per cent. But Russia's social and political system discourages deep and free reading.

We do not have similar restraints, but a depressing blend of apathy, trivialization and commercialization has flattened out our reading level to the lowest common denominator. The Russians don't read true and meaningful books because they are not allowed to; we don't read them because we don't care to.

Illiteracy is a serious problem in the so-called "backward" nations of Africa and Asia. The problem in the more "advanced" countries is to see that somehow people continue to utilize their reading skills after they have left school. If we pay no respect to intellectual standards of any sort, then teaching people to read is simply granting them a dangerous freedom without conferring upon them any sense of responsibility.

I do not mean that the "content" of their reading should be prescribed; I do mean that if the mental life is not encouraged, if curiosity and imagination and intellectual vigor are repressed or perverted, then mere "literacy" becomes a tool for turning ruts into graves.

During the war a chaplain I knew took a special interest in the men who were learning to read and write. One day he passed a student on his way from class, and inquired, "Well, Bill, I suppose you're able to read the Bible by now?" The soldier smiled, "Better than that, sir — I was out of the Bible and into the sports pages more than a week ago!"

Danes Keep Exotic Pets

Chatham News

A ban imposed by Copenhagen landlords on those old, familiar friends of humanity, the faithful dog and the harmless necessary cat, has, it seems, produced startling results.

Owners of new flats have been warning their tenants that they are not allowed to keep a dog or cat. They have written the provision into their tenancy agreements.

But they have omitted to mention birds, monkeys or lizards.

As a result, exotic fauna, such as crocodiles, monkeys and even snakes, according to Carl Krag, one of Denmark's most important animal dealers, have achieved a startling popularity.

Krag believes a good miniature zoo could be built up from the strange pets at present kept in flats in Copenhagen.

"The demand is growing, and it is often difficult for us to fulfill requests," he said.

Inquiries come in for all types of smaller animals, including penguins, and even flamingoes, he said, "but when I tell them how difficult these animals are to keep, many change their minds."

Even so, de-scented skunks, alligators, monkeys, genets, a few mongooses and tortoises are at present living in private apartments, and more commonly rabbits, white mice, hamsters, and some racoons.

Many people want to keep a penguin as a pet, but there are far more inquiries than actual owners. Penguins are very expensive and very difficult to look after properly.

They need plenty of fresh fish, lots of water, a cool retreat in summer and a very high degree of cleanliness — conditions not always easy to meet in a small apartment.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THINK IT OVER

Is trouble necessarily punishment?

Sometimes we are tempted to believe it is. We know that the wages of sin is death. We know that in a God-created and managed world it is impossible for anyone continually to get away with evil. We look upon the forbidding walls of prisons and houses of detention and we know that within are sad, disillusioned, mixed-up people who are only too conscious of the fact that wrongdoing at last catches up with the wrongdoer.

We watch the health of the heavy drinker gradually slip away until there is no health left. The over-eater knows that someday he will have to confront a day of reckoning. The person who hates bitterly finds his hate coming back to sting and poison him. Much of our trouble — much of the world's trouble — is the result of evil But not all of it. Some trouble — as the Book of Job abundantly shows — is the result either of God's will or permission in order to allow us to be disciplined, to come to know life better, to learn how to put our trust in powers higher than our own.

Invariably when trouble comes upon us we ask, "Why?" Whether our trouble is leading us is also a matter of importance. What it is signalling us to do or to stop doing may be part of God's great plan.

Many troubles take the form of tribulation — the separating of the wheat from the chaff.

Think it over.

Canada Keeps Scots Busy

News from Scotland

A small firm in the Ayrshire village of Mauchline holds a Scottish exports record—it sells over 95 per cent of its output abroad. The product? Curling stones. And 90 per cent of them are sent to Canada.

Andrew Kay and Company have been making curling stones for 120 years. Since the war they have had to meet increasing demands for their stones from all over the world. Canada, with an apparently insatiable market, is the firm's biggest customer; but according to the managing director, Mrs. Wylie: "The U.S., New Zealand, Norway and Holland also have a growing number of curlers, all with their individual requirements."

Hand-shaping and polishing is an essential part of the craft, so mass production methods are not practicable. Average stone for the Canadian market is about 40 pounds, including handle and bolt, with a circumference not over 36 inches. Stones for New Zealand, Switzerland, Holland or Scotland's home market are two to four pounds lighter.

It's difficult to get suitable granite," says Mrs. Wylie. "Aberdeen stuff is not hard enough. We're working out a Welsh seam at the moment, and I'm hoping to get the best granite in the world again from Ailsa Craig."

Ailsa Craig, a huge granite rock jutting out of the Firth of Clyde, has not been worked since World War II. Now Mrs. Wylie has found a quarrying firm willing to develop a new seam there.

After being roughly cut, shaped on a lathe and bored by a hand-operated drill, the final polishing and balancing operations are carried out by skilled workmen using hand tools..

Butchers Too Adept

Windsor Star

Spare ribs are a modern delicacy, so much so that some eating places make a specialty of them. Roasted or barbecued, they are a delight to the palate. And the Irish can provide a very tasty meal with boiled spare ribs.

We find only one fault. That is the spare ribs are too spare. The men who cut the meat off them work miracles with the knife. It is akin to the art of slicing ham paper thin. We just can't see the advantage, from the consumer standpoint.

Farmers who killed their own meat weren't that adept with the knife, thanks be! They would leave half an inch, or perhaps even an inch, of meat on the ribs. That provided a meal indeed. A beef rib then would give a substantial dinner to a hungry man. There was enough meat on the rib so it could be cooked tender and succulent, without being dried out or brittle.

There is an old saying that "The closer the bone, the sweeter the meat." Our modern butchers are taking that too literally, by scraping so close to the bone there is little meat left.

Yule Trees Slow Erosion

Cleveland Plain Dealer

It is all very well to think of Christmas trees as a crop, even as a field of corn is a crop, yet there is something rather pathetic in the sight of thousands of slowly-dying trees which were never sold and which, without benefit of any Christmas memories, are headed for the dump heap.

Yet what can you do with a cut Christmas tree, once Christmas is over, and you are advancing enthusiastically into a new year? East Hampton, L.I., has found the answer. The trees, both unsold and discarded, will be collected, carted to the beaches and planted to help form protective sand dunes in areas where long stretches of dunes have been washed away by storms and hurricanes.

"The custom was started several years ago, and, according to the New York Times, "last year's trees are now buried beneath four feet of sand, with only their tops still exposed."

We don't know whether discarded Christmas trees could be put to use to retard erosion and promote the accumulation of sand in certain areas along Lake Erie, but experts in such matters should know. If such a plan were practical, it would offer a far more suitable end for a Christmas tree than the ignominy of a city dump.

To Your Good Health

Sensitivity To Bee Venom Can Be Very Dangerous

Dear Dr. Molner: Last fall we noticed that our son's hand was puffy and swollen. The doctor said that he had been stung by a bee, and told us that if it ever happened again, he must be given a shot of adrenalin immediately.

I am worried about this condition. Can he be given shots or pills to build up immunity? What causes his severe reaction to a sting? What effect would repeated shots of adrenalin have over a period of years? What dangers are involved if we don't know he has been stung?

The doctor said to teach the child to avoid bees, but how do you do that with a 5-year-old "roughneck"? — Mrs. R.E.

Some people are highly sensitive to one thing or another. Pollen sensitivity, food allergies and contact dermatitis are varieties of this condition. And some people are highly sensitive to bee venom.

After the first sting, the hypersensitivity increases, so you have been wisely warned to be careful.

For extreme cases, desensitization, with very small doses of bee extract is possible. This takes time and expert judgment of the correct amount. It is not a simple matter.

So, short of urgent need of this type of treatment, the best course is to avoid bee stings, and when one does occur, do as you were advised — go directly to the doctor.

Adrenalin is the classic antidote for such severe allergic reactions — this is, after all, one type of allergy, or extreme sensitivity to some particular thing or things.

In some instances, adrenalin can even be life-saving, since some individuals react to such an extreme degree. I don't mean to scare you, but it is just as well to know that extreme sensitivity can be desperately dangerous.

In most cases, adrenalin is adequate, and repeated injections will not have any future harmful effects. There may result, at the time, temporary nervousness and quickening of the pulse, but these disappear.

As to teaching a 5-year-old about bees — well, we begin teaching children younger than that the dangers of fire and so on. I think you can teach your little "roughneck," and I think he'll learn faster than you suspect.

Another thought on this topic comes from M.J. Deyell, editor of "Gleanings in Bee Culture," who comments that squeezing a bee's stinger out, after a sting, is not the best way.

The stinger should be removed to prevent venom from continuing to seep into the flesh — this applies to anyone, not just those who are hypersensitive.

But don't squeeze it out, Mr. Deyell says, because that can force more venom into the wound. Beekeepers suggest scraping the stinger out with the fingernail or using a "hive tool." I think a pair of tweezers would be ideal.

Dear Dr. Molner: In your opinion can hepatitis be transmitted through contact with a person who has it? — Mrs. C.S.S.

Infectious hepatitis can be transmitted from person to person and also can be acquired from contaminated food or water. But not all cases of hepatitis are infectious. There are different types.

Dear Dr. Molner: My baby daughter was born with a third nipple. What causes this? Will it have any ill effect as she grows older? — G.R.

Extra nipples are not especially unusual. They are more common than an extra finger or toe, which is not too surprising, either. Just a quirk of nature. The extra nipple or nipples will have no ill effect. They usually remain small, looking something like a mole. Nothing need be done.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WISDOM

In the page of ancient lore you will read of the Seven Sages and of all manner of wise men. The common folk looked up to them. They walked about as though imbued with Divine Right.

The day of the so-called "wise man" has passed. The everyday man today who uses his ordinary gifts of common sense, has more wisdom stored away in his brain than the wisest men of old.

The reason is that more has happened and more is happening today — both joyful and catastrophic — than those serious, long haired gentlemen ever dreamed about.

Today a man's brains must be educated. His eyes must learn to select as well as to see. And his heart must be schooled.

It means more to be wise in this day than at any other in the history of the world.

And the proportion of people who know things is greater than ever before. The art of making a success has reached a fine art. But success isn't restricted, and real success does not require a moneyed foundation. It requires wisdom, vision, and a broad understanding.

Kindness, gentleness, courtesy, simplicity are a few of the virtues that go hand in hand with great wisdom. No one who lacks them can be said to be truly wise. For wisdom is not wholly intellectual. It is intellect plus. With the plus as the cream requisite.

There is a deal of mystery in wisdom. As there is in all beauty. From whence does it all come?

Wisdom reaches into one as does a beautiful or rare flower.

Silence often asserts the greatest wisdom, emphasizing the rarest courage as well.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If I had told my grandfather, when he was the age I am now, that by the time I was his age, I would be whizzing around in a vehicle propelled by gas along with practically all my fellow citizens, each in his private vecchicle, the while we were turning small knobs on the dash board (there were dash boards on buggies in his time) and hearing music being played in England, he would unquestionably have favored me with the thin smile grandfathers reserve for the wild extravagances of the childish imagination.

I find myself shaping thin smiles when my grandsons, the age I would have been then, predict what they will be doing by the time they are as old as I am now.

"It costs $138," said my grandson, "to fly from Halifax to Vancouver. How much do you think it will cost to fly to the moon for a weekend holiday, when they get it going?"

I thought of my grandfather.

"Oh," I ventured, "it will probably be a luxury item. Maybe, $200?"

Panel Will Discuss Value Of Advertising to Merchants

The Tuesday meeting of the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club will be held in the Columbus Hall and will be devoted to special discussions about advertising and the role it plays in today's economy. Members have been privileged in the past two years to hear representatives of many national organizations outline how their various firms conduct their advertising policies. So successful have these projects been, that the Belleville club has been honored through a special advertising award presented by the Canadian Federation of Advertising and Sales Clubs both in 1960 and 1961.

At tomorrow's meeting, guest speakers representing newspaper, radio, and the Department of National Revenue will be heard in panel discussions on the subject of "Advertising for the Local Merchant and his Customers."

Taking part in the program are J. F. Madden, retail advertising manager for the Kingston Whig-Standard; John C. Morris, vice-president and sales manager, radio division, Stovin-Byles Limited of Toronto, and D. J. Gill, director, Belleville District Taxation Division. Each of the speakers has had years of experience in his chosen field and will outline to club members how to make best use of advertising as an ethical means of informing customers about merchandise and store policy.

In commenting on the event, Phil Flagler, past president of the club and chairman of advertising night stated today that the local businessman faces many problems, not the least of which is his ability to reach his potential customers with a sound, sensible advertising message.

When properly prepared and presented, advertising provides a consumer service. It informs the buyer about what merchandise or service is available to him, how and where to find it. However, advertising, to fill this role to everyone's advantage, must be honest, believable and in good taste at all times. Guest speakers for Advertising Night will use their past experience in the field of advertising to help club members to serve local customers even better."

The club is looking forward to a capacity turnout for the evening's discussions.

Editor's note: Mr. Len Taylor, director of The Ontario Intelligencer commercial printing department was scheduled to take part in the panel discussion Tuesday night. This morning, Mr. Taylor died of a heart attack at his home. He was to have spoken on the subject of direct mail advertising.

If Reporter Commentator Who Will Furnish Facts? Question Asked by League

QUEBEC (CP) — If the reporter becomes a commentator, who will furnish the facts to the public?

That was the question Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec asked managing editors from across Canada Saturday night at their annual conference here.

"I know well that to fight the imagery of television and to give news columns tone and individuality, the press often has no other recourse than the subjective interpretation of facts," Premier Lesage told the 212 delegates.

"It is a tendency that manifests itself more and more, even in columns of pure information," he said.

"But if the reporter becomes a commentator, who will furnish the facts to the public?" he asked. "Commentary, interpretation and explanation are necessary, but the facts have priority."

The premier said Canada's daily newspapers mirror public opinion and truly reflect the Canadian people as a result.

"Our press, like our popl, is steady and reliable, not easy to rouse, but stubborn in its convictions," he said.

He asked editors not to be distracted by some events in Quebec.

"The truth, like happiness, often is silent," he said. "There are, at times, noises in Quebec and the rest of Canada, noises that may sound disturbing to you and to us.

"Let us not be distracted by these noises; let us look ahead, instead, to the truth of Quebec and Canada."

CO-OPERATION AN ANSWER

Premier Lesage said that more co-operation within the industry may be the answer to problems that face daily newspapers.

Co - operation between Canadian dailies already permitted the existence of regional newspapers with great metropolitan dailies.

"The co-operative newsgathering agency, The Canadian Press has been, in this regard, a success," Premier Lesage said.

"The expansion of its French service in particular is a fairly recent development that will be followed, we hope, by further progress and efforts absolutely necessary to the cultural duality of Canada."

But had the possibilities of a co-operative formula that would allow "healthy multiplication of dailies across the country" been exhausted? he asked.

Emery LeBlanc of L'Evangeline, Moncton, N.B., was re-elected president of the association.

P. M. Preston of the Brantford Expositor was re - elected first vice - president and C. M. Fellman of the North Bay Nugget second vice-president.

R. D. Owen of the Kingston Whig-Standard was re - elected program chairman. The 1963 conference will be held in London, Ont.

Tom Uphill In Legislature For 40 Years

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tom Uphill, former miner, alderman, mayor and member of the B.C. legislature for 40 years, died Saturday. He was 87.

The former Independent Labor member for the Kootenay riding of Fernie, where he mined coal as a young man, suffered a heart attack three months ago.

His body will be taken for burial at Fernie, the once-prosperous coal mining town where he first became a miner's union official, an alderman and later the town's mayor. When he stepped down they made him a freeman of the city.

Tainted Oysters Send Liz Taylor To Hospital

ROME (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor was reported making a rapid recovery today after being rushed to the hospital with a mysterious ailment that turned out to be food poisoning.

Doctors said the 29-year-old beauty, starring in the movie spectacle Cleopatra being filmed in Rome, should be able to leave the hospital by tomorrow.

Attendants at Salvador Mundi International Hospital said Miss Taylor slept peacefully Sunday after an hour's visit from her husband Eddie Fisher.

Miss Taylor was sped by ambulance to the hospital Saturday night.

NDP CAUCUS

ference in Regina Sunday, a few hours after having conferred with NDP National Leader T. C. Douglas on the forthcoming election campaign.

The resignation sparked a flurry of speculation as to his future and the future of the NDP.

It appeared likely that Mr. Argue will be invited to join the Liberal party caucus, making him privy to their secret discussions and grooming him for Liberal party candidacy in the coming election—although Mr. Argue said in Regina he had not made a decision on this.

The Liberals need a spokesman for Western Canada and western agriculture. They have been without a member from west of the Lakehead since last year when Mervyn Hardie died. He was Liberal MP for the far northern riding of Mackenzie River, in the Northwest Territories.

Mr. Argue, a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan in agriculture and a farmer during what time parliamentary life affords him, could also decide to lead a new farm party. Hints of this have been heard on Parliament Hill, but have been difficult to pin down.

MAY LEAD FARM GROUP

One source — not within the CCF-NDP group—said Mr. Argue might well lead a new farm rebel group and create such a division in the socialist camp that, with any sizable following in the next election campaign, he could force his way back into the New Democratic Party on his own terms. It prided itself at its founding convention last August as a meld of farmer-labor interests.

While Saskatchewan Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher—himself a rebel from the CCF in 1955—issued a quick invitation to Mr. Argue Sunday to join the Liberal party, the important step is to be invited and to join the Liberal caucus here, if Mr. Argue intends to become a federal Liberal candidate.

The Conservatives believed Mr. Argue's resignation would strengthen their position politically in Western Canada. Mr. Argue's constituency of Assiniboia in Saskatchewan is the only one in the three prairie provinces not held by the Conservatives now.

By bolting from the NDP and charging it with labor "domination and control," Mr. Argue is generally believed to have dealt the new party a serious blow among farmers, who are always regarded as suspicious of organized labor.

If he joins the Liberals and brings to the main opposition party any sizable number of farm votes, there might be cause for concern among the Conservatives, some observers feel. However, the Conservatives are confident of sweeping the Prairie farm voters again, on their record of disposing of the wheat surplus and meeting crop failures with acreage payments.

Armed Robbery Case Enlarged For One Week

PETERBOROUGH (CP — The trial of four Montreal men charged in the $232,000 armed robbery of a Havelock bank was adjourned one more week today.

When court opened after a two-week adjournment, Arthur Maloney, defence counsel, asked for the case to be put off until Feb. 26. He said he is busy with a trial at St. Catharines.

Judge A. R. Wilmot agreed. He said the length and complexity of the evidence make it imperative the accused be represented.

Five men were originally charged in the Aug. 31 robbery in which $232,000 in cash and securities was stolen. The loot was never recovered.

One of the five, Hermyle Lalonde, died of a heart attack in Peterborough County jail Oct. 5.

Remaining are Yvon Lalonde, 31, Jean-Claude Lalonde, 23, Roger Poirier, 31, and Roger Martel, 41.

Len A. Taylor Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack at Home

Stricken with a heart attack, while shovelling snow at his home, 23 Humewood Drive, in preparation to going to work, Leonard Alfred Taylor, superintendent of the Commercial Printing Department of The Ontario Intelligencer, veteran and active businessman of this city, died early this morning. Mr. Taylor had previously suffered a heart attack and had spent some time in hospital a few years ago, but of late his health had been steadily improving and his sudden death was a shock to his many friends and business associates throughout the Quinte district.

LEN A. TAYLOR

Mr. Taylor was born in England 56 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Taylor and had been a resident of Ontario for the past 39 years. He was a printer by trade and went to Tweed some years ago from Orillia to take over the commercial printing department of the Tweed News and eight years ago he came to Belleville to take over the management of the printing department for The Ontario Intelligencer. In both communities he was active, not only in his line of business but in the civic life and he contributed greatly to the progress of many projects.

When the Second World War broke out, Mr. Taylor enlisted with an artillery unit in Toronto in 1940 and became an instructor on gas warfare and he served in that capacity for the duration of the war. He lectured before units in the United States and Canada and became one of the best informed men in the Corps on this type of warfare. He was discharged with the rank of sergeant-major. The cause of the veteran was carried over into the peace days by Mr. Taylor and he was a devoted worker until the time of his death.

FORMED LEGION BRANCH

When he went to Tweed he immediately got a number of the veterans together and soon a flourishing branch of the Royal Canadian Legion was formed. Mr. Taylor became a charter member and the first president of the branch and he still held membership at Tweed. After coming to Belleville he joined the Belleville Branch, No. 99, and immediately projected himself into the work of the Legion in this community. He was elected to the executive and had served continuously in that capacity. Two years ago, the Legion decided to expland their quarters and Mr. Taylor was named to head the building committee and soon a commodious addition was added to the main building with detailed plans for other renovations when the money was available. Mr. Taylor also assisted the committee in financing the project. He had also served as commander of Zone F-3 and for the past five years he had been public relations officer for the Provincial Command of the Legion, a post he filled with distinction.

In his own business of printing he formed the East Central Ontario Graphic Arts Association and became its first president. He was also interested in the Foremen's Club and was a most active member. He also took a great interest in the Sales and Ad Club. Mr. Taylor was a busy man but he could always find time to assist in any community project and his administrative ability was held in high regard.

SPLENDID SPEAKER

Mr. Taylor was well known throughout the province and he was in constant demand as a speaker for special occasions. He enjoyed a wide clientele in the business world and in his social life had a wide circle of friends, who will sincerely regret his sudden death. He was a kind husband and loving father and will be sadly missed.

He was an adherent of the Baptist Church and fraternally was a member of the IOOF, No. 226, at Tweed. Surviving are his wife, the former Ellen Louise Edwards; three sons, N. Robert Taylor of Delaware, Ontario; Corp. William E. Taylor with the Armed Forces in Germany; Burnell E. Taylor, of Peterborough; four brothers, Stanley Taylor of Aurora; Eric G. Taylor of Toronto; Ernest Taylor of Minden; Sidney Taylor of Orillia, and three sisters, Mrs. Lionel VanVlack of Orillia; Mrs. William Woolwich, of Burlington, and Mrs. George Barnes of Norfolk, England.

Mr. Taylor is resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, but funeral arrangements have not been completed.

NET INCOME

described as the most important component of farm net income, reached a record high of $2,928,900,000 last year or 2.4 per cent above the record year in 1952 and 5.3 per cent higher than 1960.

GET MORE CASH

Increases in the actual cash for farmers came from higher wheat sales and bigger returns on flaxseed, tobacco, cattle, calves, hogs, dairy products, poultry and Canadian wheat board payments, the bureau said.

There were three provinces that actually scored increases in realized net farm income—Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia, said the bureau. Biggest decline was on the Prairies, especially Saskatchewan.

Ontario's realized net, with 1960 figures bracketed was $313,888,000 ($337,788,000); total net was $331,072,000 ($327,412,000).

Picket Lines Set up at Chrysler Plant

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Picket lines were set up at Chrysler Corporation of Canada's three Windsor plants today after 3,000 United Auto Workers union members went on strike at midnight.

Negotiations between top-level union and company officials continued for more than an hour after the strike deadline was reached, then were recessed until 2 p.m. today.

The two three-man bargaining committees have been meeting since Friday in an effort to reach agreement on a new three - year contract for the hourly-rated workers. The old contract expired Nov. 15.

A Chrysler spokesman would not comment on what matters were unsettled, but Norman Matthews, vice-president of the international union, and George Burt, Canadian UAW director, said many non-economic issues had to be resolved.

They listed seniority, production standards, relief periods, in-plant representation and a backlog of grievances. Mr. Burt said earlier that the issues posed a strong likelihood of a prolonged strike.

STRUCK 3 YEARS AGO

The last strike at Chrysler's Windsor operations, which consist of a passenger car assembly plant, an engine plant and a truck plant, occurred three years ago after an impasse was reached in contract talks. It lasted less than a week.

UAW Local 444 had originally set a strike deadline of 2 p.m. Friday, but a general membership meeting voted to extend the deadline to midnight Sunday.

This paved the way for Chrysler officials from the United States parent company to enter bargaining talks for the first time in the 20 years the UAW has been certified at the company. In the past, negotiating has been done with Canadian Chrysler officials.

Husband Unhappy With Job

DORIS CLAR

DEAR DORIS:—My husband began as a truck driver. When I had a nervous breakdown the doctor told him he'd have to find a job in which he could be home more, so the company he was trucking for hired him as a mechanic, then as a manager, which he did not enjoy.

Then the company was bought by a large trucking firm who hired him as their salesman—and his wages were better than he earned as manager of the smaller firm. He enjoyed this very well. Now he is terminal manager. The problem is he does not at all enjoy this work. He has applied to other d partments in this company, but they have turned him dow telling him they can't spare him from the managing.

He enjoys meeting people, is particularly talented in r cognizing faces. He doesn't want to go back to trucking b cause he doesn't want to be away from home so much aga He has a knack of fixing broken-down motors. He lov animals. We would all like to move away from the rush a pressure of city life.

Any suggestions to getting my husband happier? I su hate to see him in the wrong field for the rest of his lif and the older he gets the harder it is to get new jobs. MRS. H.

DEAR MRS. H.—Twice he has become manager a hated it. Why? Pressure? Personal relations? Or real aptitude for some aspects of the less executive jobs?

MAIL CALL

Question: During lunch yesterday, I got into a discussion with some of the other girls from my office about how to eat a sandwich—the triple decker type, I mean. Several insisted it should be picked up and eaten with the fingers, the same as any other sandwich, but I sided with the minority which maintained a triple-decker should be eaten with a knife and fork. May we have your opinion? — Miss W.B., New York City

Answer: Here's a case where the minority rules. Its practically impossible to pick up a triple decker without dripping the fillings all over, let alone open one's mouth wide enough to take a bite. Correctly, it should be cut into bite-size pieces and eaten with a fork.

Question: I've just been promoted to the position of private secretary. My employer is extremely polite. He rises when I enter his office and holds the door when we happen to leave the office at the same time. I want to be just as mannerly, and wonder if I should rise when he comes to my desk and remain standing while he gives me instructions. Would this be the proper way to respond to his courtesies? — Miss J.M.S., Wantaugh, L.I.

Answer: It's not necessary for you to stand when your employer gives you instructions at your desk. He really doesn't have to rise when you enter his office, but the fact that he does shows that courtesy is so basic to him that he does it out of habit. He's to be complimented.

Question: I have a delicate problem. Without telling me, a friend gave my name as a reference when applying for a job. The position is with the firm I worked for before my marriage. She's a lovely girl and has many fine qualities, but I'm not sure she has enough experience for this particular spot. Should I go ahead and recommend her, or would it be rude to ignore the request of my former employers? — Miss M.A.F., New York City

Answer: It was impolite of your friend to use your name without permission. However, it would also be discourteous for you to ignore the inquiry now that you're down as a reference. Since she has fine qualities, you could give her a personal reference as neat, dependable, prompt, etc. Her former employers will be able to attest to her ability to perform the job, so there's really no need for you to give an opinion on this score.

Cannot Beat Women Selling Real Estate Says Expert

MONTREAL (CP) — When it comes to selling real estate, you can't beat a woman. That's the opinion of one woman expert.

Mrs. A. Laurie Bennett, mother of two grown children and owner of her own real estate business in Montreal, says there are unlimited opportunities for women in this business. But, she warns, it's not a part-time job.

"I've cancelled many a social engagement because a client wanted to see a house. You've got to be prepared to work evenings, weekends and holidays."

Mrs. Bennett is chairman of the 250-member women's committee of the Montreal Real Estate Board.

She says real estate is a natural for women "because we know what other women want, need and like."

"For instance, cupboard space, large, bright kitchens, sufficient bathrooms and well-planned playrooms, particularly for women with small children."

HAVE FINAL SAY

Men were more interested in the structural aspects of a building. They wanted to know the condition of the roof, wiring, heating apparatus, plumbing and foundation.

"The majority of women leave these details to their husbands. The husbands, if the house meets with their approval in these respects, usually let the wives make the final selection."

Mrs. Bennett, in the business more than 10 years and now joined by her son, says buyers seem equally divided between traditional and modern homes and that age has no effect on preferences.

"The one trend I have noticed is a return to the separate dining room.

"A great many people prefer a two-storey home to a split level, simply because they find they have fewer steps to climb in the long run.

"The bungalow would seem the perfect solution but people still like to send the children up to bed, particularly when they're entertaining."

She has noticed that people are more content to live in the suburbs when their children are young. But once the children reach high school and university age they often move back into the city.

Mrs. Khrushchev Appeals For Friendship With West

LONDON (Renters) — Mrs. Nina Khrushchev Sunday night broadcast an appeal for friendship to the women of the United States.

Speaking in English, the wife of the Soviet premier said "We do not want to fight, but we want to be friends with you."

Her speech was broadcast over the North American service of Moscow radio and was scheduled to be repeated three times.

"Unfortunately the dangr is now great," she said. "Many women in America realize this."

"Let us sink atom bombs, along with other weapons, in the deepest part of the ocean and live without weapons as good neighbors," Mrs. Khrushchev said.

This was her answer to the letters she had received from women of the United States "asking how to prevent war and preserve peace."

In some of the letters, she said, "some American women reproached the Soviet Union for having restarted nuclear tests."

But she said Russia was aware of the danger of nuclear tests and had repeatedly urged a ban on them along with the destruction of all nuclear weapons.

"It is not the fault of our country if the nuclear tests are being resumed," she said.

The three - power test ban talks in Geneva were broken off by the Western powers, she declared.

Would You Like to Be a Nurse?

Miss Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, has had special training in psychology and vocational guidance. In preparing this series, "Careers for Girls," Miss Clark has interviewed career women in the fields she is covering, as well as employers and guidance counsellors.

Doris Clark's human relations column, "Successful Living" runs regularly in The Ontario Intelligencer.

by Doris C. Clark, M.S.W.

(First in a series for teenagers on Careers for Girls)

Marianne comes home for a weekend after her first six months as a student nurse. She says:

"You know, Mother, it's wonderful the way patients appreciate the slightest thing you do for them. I gave an elderly woman a back rub and she was so grateful she gave me a box of candies. I brushed a little boy's hair, washed his face and told him how nice he looked — and he smiled broadly even though his legs were aching and sore.

"One woman told me to be sure and smile when I came in to see her. I do, with all of them and even that seems to make a difference in their day.

"It makes me feel that what I'm doing is really important. I'm so glad I stuck with the idea of being a nurse!"

Time and again the doctor says, "I've done all I can. Now recovery depends on good nursing care."

No wonder that those who have entered this warm-hearted profession declare there is no other which could possibly give the doer so many rewards as she goes along!

The nurse works hard; we know that. She is on her feet for long hours. But it is she who makes the doctor's magic work; it is her day-to-day service which helps sick bodies to heal and encourages patients to make the effort which can mean the difference between illness and health.

Mrs. J. Edgar Bates, Dean of Women of McMaster University, herself a graduate nurse, has known intimately many students of McMaster's School of Nursing. She says:

"I know of no other field of work in which the worker unhampered by barriers of race, color and creed and even without the need to speak the language of the patient, can give such satisfaction and receive such rich rewards as in that of nursing."

MANY FIELDS OF SERVICE

The field is broad. Not only is there urgent need for bedside nurses in private homes and in hospitals, but nurses are needed to teach nursing to others and to hold positions of authority, where large staffs and many patients depend on their good management.

Then there is the public health nurse — the white-clad worker at school who assists the doctor in examining throats, teeth, ears and eyes — and who helps to identify contagious diseases. She also serves at the public health centre, assisting the physicians at clinics for mothers-to-be, babies, sick and well, and other special services.

As a staff member of the Public Health Department or the Victorian Order of Nurses, she visits homes in the community to give expert nursing care to folks ill at home. The visiting nurse gives mothers information about how to nurse their sick daughters and sons and important facts about invalid diets.

The graduate nurse is found in the doctor's office, where she not only assists the doctor when making examinations and administering treatment, but has, as well, the interesting job of making his office routine run smoothly.

Her personality and friendly interest in others will contribute in no small amount to her employer's success in making folks well.

"LEARN BY DOING"

Most hospital courses are three years long (following matriculation), and almost from the outset, the student nurse spends part of her time every day caring for sick people. At the same time as she is absorbing the principles of anatomy, nursing and related studies in the classroom, she is actually practising the art of working with people, coping with practical problems and making decisions.

Universities now offer a four-year or five-year course in which a girl may work for the degree of Bachelor of the Science of Nursing or Bachelor of Nursing. The course includes both nursing and academic subjects.

After her period of training in either setting, the graduate nurse has had the equivalent of a university education.

Her work week has shortened, as compared with that of a few years back; the standard of practice now being 40 hours weekly. She can earn a high salary. If she works in private practice, the minimum fee for eight hour duty, as laid down by the professional association is $17. In a Victorian Order of Nurses office, Public Health Department, or similar organization, she shares in a pension plan. And her services are in demand wherever she goes.

SATISFYING CAREER

Can you picture yourself as just such a graduate? You will have witnessed the beginning and the ending of lives. You will have become adept at handling people and resourceful in meeting an emergency. You will have formed lasting friendships.

And, whether nursing becomes your whole career or you eventually find your life's main work in your own home raising a family, your special training will make your life richer and more satisfying every day.

(The new secondary school program in Ontario broadens your choice of subjects. To learn more about nursing and what studies will lead you into it, ask the teacher or guidance counsellor in your own high school.)

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Leah R. — This proves he doesn't want to recognize us as his family.

Mrs. N.L. — She is judging him too harshly. He still has some rights.

Leah R. — Our family was caught up in the Hitler persecutions of the Thirties in Poland. My husband and I fled to America, but before leaving I promised my parents that I'd struggle to bring over my two brothers and a sister. My poor father and mother were comforted by the sacred pledge we all made to watch over each other and to stick together.

In this country, one brother and my sister married in what you might call our circle, that is other refugees or newly arrived immigrants. But Oscar's wife is a third generation American and she's trying to make him a 100 per cent American fast. She keeps him away from our family reunions and is trying to make him forget his family ties.

The worst blow came last week. In answer to an invitation to my son's bar mitzvah, they sent a telegram: Sorry, we'll be in Palm Beach. Oscar forgets his pledge to our mother. I guess we must forget him, too.

Mrs. N.L. — I'm an old friend of the family and I don't like to hear Leah rip into Oscar and his wife so hard. She has always felt uneasy with this sister-in-law and views every move her brother makes in the worst light.

It's true that Oscar's wife doesn't fit easily into the family circle. There are barriers of language and past experiences — things she cannot share. But she is friendly and eager to be welcomed. The others are patient and warm with her. Maybe because Leah is the eldest she feels it was a sort of disobedience for Oscar to marry someone she didn't approve of. At any rate, we've all noticed how she picks on them.

They have a right to go ahead with plans for their Florida vacation. There's nothing personal against Leah, I'm sure. I guess Oscar and his wife have a different idea of loyalty towards the family. They're okay, Leah's just unreasonable.

The Council: Everyone knows that deathbed promises are made in the interests of the dying, to ease their anguish and induce peacefulness. The interests of the living may be glossed over at such a time. The hysteria and stress of the moment can lead to excessive commitments — the kind which are impossible to fulfill.

Thus the "sacred pledge" Leah speaks of must be translated in terms of the living to see just what was pledged in those heart-breaking moments of farewell, and how much of the pledge can be realistically fulfilled by brothers and sisters, no matter how well-meaning.

If Leah wants to find fault with Oscar and his wife in general, she can always invoke the old promise whenever her brother doesn't follow the party line laid down by the majority of the family. But Oscar is well within his rights to refuse to "stick together" literally, that is to sit around and hold hands whenever Leah issues a call!

As with other matters of conscience, one must relate general strictures to one's own specific way of life, and be prepared for the Leahs to shout traitor. Oscar, as Mrs. L. suggests, is true to Leah and the family in the way which permits him to be true to himself, too.

Leah must quit expecting literal adherence to that frantic vow. All it adds up to is the almost universal expression of interest in, and concern for the welfare of one's immediate family. This is quite different from the frightened huddling Leah seeks.

As described by Mrs. L., Oscar's heart is in the right place, and there's a snug compartment there for his sisters and brother. Leah is wrong to try to turn the old pledge into a noose. Attendance at her son's bar mitzvah is no test of loyalty. Oscar reserves the right to be true, in his own fashion.

Pupils Enjoy Crokinole Party

RAWDON — On Wednesday afternoon a Valentine party was held at the Williams Public School under the direction of the teacher Mrs. R. Parr. The event was planned for a skating party at the Potts rink. However, owing to the snow storm it was changed to a crokinole party. The winners were ladies' high — Mrs. I. Potts; men's high — Mrs. Burton Sharpe (playing as a man). Nearly all the mothers in the school section were in attendance and valentines were distributed to pupils and guests.

A short program was enjoyed when the school rendered a chorus entitled, "A Bird's Valentine". Readings on this theme were given by Judy McAdam, Ida Mae Bailey and Barbara Hoard. Two pupils gave their competition speeches Jean Sharp and Sally McAdam.

At the close of the afternoon lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

Unit Two UCW Lists 1962 Officers

FRANKFORD — The first meeting of unit two of the United Church Women was held on February 13, in the Perkin's Room of Rose Lowery Hall.

President Mrs. Dick Reid extended a warm welcome to everyone and gave the call to worship. Names of all present were recorded by the secretary.

Mrs. Bruce Servos gave the report of the nominating committee which was as follows — president — Mrs. Dick Reid; vice-president — Mrs. Earl Hewison; secretary — Mrs. Bob Tomecek; treasurer — Mrs. Bruce Servos; pianist — Mrs. Syckes; visiting committee — Mrs. Earl Hewison; finance committee — Mrs. Bruce Servos; flower committee — Mrs. Bob Lott; literature and communications — Mrs. Ray Rumney; manse — Mrs. Lawrence Way; membership— Mrs. Hugh Caldwell; press and publicity— Mrs. Harold Rowe; program — Mrs. Roy Osterhout; social function — Mrs. R. Seabrooke and volunteers for nursery service are Mrs. Gib Gilmour, Mrs. L. G. Hoyle, Mrs. A. Seabrooke, Mrs. Ray Rumney and Mrs. Bruce Servos.

Unit two was divided into groups of three each to be responsible for program and refreshments each month.

The ladies catering to the men's club dinner on March 15 are Mrs. Dick Reid, Mrs. L. G. Hoyle, Mrs. Hugh Caldwell, Mrs. Earl Hewison, Mrs. Max Defoe, Mrs. A. Seabrooke, Mrs. Eric Carson, Mrs. H. Vosbough, Mrs. Ken Roote and Mrs. K. Woodcox.

Mrs. L. G. Hoyle will be in charge of greeting cards sales for the coming year.

Mrs. Bruce Servos and Mrs. Ray Rumney presented the Worship Service and a most interesting study book.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dick Reid and Mrs. Bob Tomecek.

Club Activities

KUM - DOUBLE CLUB

HALLOWAY — The Kum Double Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hough for the regular meeting, on February 14.

Mrs. Harry Morgan presided over the devotional period, using the theme, "Fulfilling God's Appointment." A poem, "Love Will Live Forever," was given by Mrs. Coleman Townsend and Mrs. E. Emerson presented the story, "Listen To the Heart." Mrs. H. Morgan led in prayer and the closing prayer was given by the Rev. R. Reid.

Mrs. John Robson, president-elect, presided over a short business period. The roll call revealed 22 in attendance, including two visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Reid. All were pleased to have the new minister and his wife present.

An invitation by the Tri-M Tabernacle group, Belleville, to attend a bowling party in the near future, met with favor. Mention was made of the couples' party at Tobes, and also men's night on March 14. For this event the men do all the arranging and paying of the special supper for their women members.

The next meeting will be held in the church on February 28, when pictures will be shown by Miss Ruth McMullen.

An interesting contest was put on by Mrs. J. Robson, unscrambling words associated with "Valentines."

The Howler was read by Mr. John Wilson.

The social hour was in the form of a box social. Mr. H. Morgan performed the duty of auctioneer and over $25 was realized from the sale.

The hostess served tea and coffee and a pleasant time was

Infinite Variety Give Your Vegetables

by Mary Moore

By MARY MOORE

We were having a dinner party for eight and I wanted an exotic vegetable to go with marinated roast beef.

I should warn you in advance that what I chose were mushrooms - two pounds of them - so this dish is not cheap - but it is wonderful.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Stuffed Veal Hearts; Sour Cream Gravy; Baked Jacket Potatoes; Green Beans; Leaf Lettuce and Spinach Salad with Russian Dressing; Apple Crisp; Coffee.

MUSHROOMS BECHAMEL (serves 8):

2 pounds mushrooms, 1½ cups chicken broth, milk, ¼ cup butter, 1 onion minced, 1 clove garlic crushed, 6 tablespoons flour, ¼ cup chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper.

Wash and scrub mushrooms cutting large ones in half. Cook them in a large saucepan in the chicken broth, covered for 5 to 7 minutes. No longer — they should be barely tender. Strain and measure broth and add just enough milk to make it up to 2 cups, if necessary. Melt the butter, add the onion and garlic and saute until the onion is transparent but not brown. Blend in the flour, add the liquids and cook, stirring constantly, until the sauce is thickened and smooth. Add the mushrooms, chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Heat through.

For another meal take ordinary carrots and make.

CARROTS HARVARD

(Serves Six) 1½ pounds carrots (6 to 12 depending on size), ¾ cup water, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 to 2 tablespoons butter.

Wash and scrape carrots. Leave small ones whole, cut larger ones into fingers. Cook, covered, in a little gently boiling salted water for about 20 minutes or until just tender. Drain off liquid into measuring cup and if necessary add water to make ½ cup. In saucepan combine sugar and cornstarch, mix well, then add vinegar and cooking liquid Cook gently, stirring constantly until thickened and clear. Stir in butter. Add carrots and heat thoroughly.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS VINAIGRETTE

1 quart Brussels sprouts, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 tablesoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cook Brussels sprouts in boiling salted water to cover and cook quickly until barely tender and still bright green. Drain very well. Heat remaining ingredients in saucepan to blend and pour evenly over Brussels sprouts in serving dish.

See Wednesday of this week for a recipe for Glazed Onions.

Montreal Painter Recalls Greek Trip With Pleasure

PARIS (CP)—Because Paris is an expensive place for an aspiring artist, Montreal painter Marcelle Maltais decided to go with her Canada Council scholarship to Greece and set herself up on an Aegean island.

Now back in Paris, making plans for an exhibition, she recalls her Greek sojourn with pleasure, particularly the fact that she had her first European exhibition in Athens.

The results of the exhibition, she says, "were great, as far as criticism was concerned, but more meagre on the financial level.

In Paris, where studios are not easy to find at a moderate price, she is installed in a room big enough to permit her to work on some small canvasses and she is planning to participate with some other Canadians in a joint exhibition later this winter.

The Canadian group, known as la Nouvelle Ecole de Montreal (the New Montreal School), is planning an exhibition in a gallery in the left - bank district of St. Germain and, if this project is realized, Miss Maltais hopes to follow it up with an exhibition of her own in the same spot.

After that will come a trip back home. She plans to return to Montreal in April and hold an exhibition of her most recent paintings in May.

Miss Maltais first came to Paris in 1958 and, after a year of painting here, returned to Canada to apply successfully for a Canada Council scholarship.

It was on her second trip to Europe, in 1960, that she decided Greece might be the place to try her luck.

She attracted attention through her Athens exhibition and got some encouragement, she says, from Canadian collectors.

She bought a small, whitewashed house on the seashore of an island off the southern Greek mainland, complete with verandah, flower - garden, lawn and trees.

Life is "very inexpensive down there," she says, so the house is a refuge to which she can always return with paints and brush if the artist's life gets tougher in Paris.

However, the fact that she owns a house can give a false impression, she says. "I sank my last sous into it but, good heavens, as soon as the news spread around, everybody came to borrow money from me.

"To think that being the owner of just a small thing stamps its man, or its woman."

Public Library To Hold Lenten Tea

DESERONTO — A special selection of Lenten reading combined with a one - day liturgical art display is one of the community services to be offered to the town of Deseronto by the Deseronto Public Library.

The literary tea at which time the books and art will be on exhibition, will be held on February 21 from 3 to 5 p.m., in the library. The liturgical art, the work of Valentine Shabaeff, is on loan from the collection of Alec Adams. Mr. Shabaeff's work is well known in nearby metropolitan areas and has been seen in Montreal, Granby, Quebec, Toronto, and other Canadian cities.

NEW BOOKS

The new assortment of books includes loans from the Ontario Diocesan Book Centre and the Canadian Register. In addition to the borrowed volumes, there have been new books bought for Lenten reading. Of great interest will be the recently published book "Collectors' Items" by the Very Rev. Northcote R. Burke, native of Kingston, and now dean and rector of Christ Church Cathedral in Vancouver, B.C.

Also of interest to local readers will be "Saint Among the Hurons," the life of Jean De Brebeuf by Francis X. Talbot. The assortment of books ranges from the pleasant philosophy of Patience Strong to the world famous writings of Bishop Fulton Sheen. In addition to adult reading there will be a special section for children.

POURING TEA

The wives of local clergy will pour tea. Arrangements are being made by Mrs. L. E. Tunnicliffe, librarian; Mrs. Ross Sexsmith, library board president; Mrs. A. George Wakelin, and Mrs. E. F. Gill.

Business Women Hear Vice-President

U.C.W. Meetings

RAWDON U.C.

RAWDON — The February meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church Women was held on February 8th at the church hall with the pastor the Rev. W. G. Fletcher and 25 members in attendance.

The president Mrs. Milford Wrightman opened the meeting and Mrs. Ross Jeffs read her report. Mrs. Ernest Spencer repoted $92.43 in the bank. The pastor outlined the plans for the church renovation and for the new arrangements for the hall stage. A committee of three women were appointed to work with the men in finalizing the plans. The community will be canvassed for the painting of the church.

Mrs. Carleton Potts gave a paper on stewardship. Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, chairman of the finance committee set forth the church budget and over $900 will be needed to cover missionary allocation, parsonage fund, and all other commitments. The use of envelopes was recommended by the finance committee. This committee of five ladies provided a sale table of cream, jam, eggs, homemade cooking and candy and almost $8 was realized. The January and February group realized $18.25 from their potlyuck dinner held in connection with the congregational meeting. It was announced that over 145 was placed in the penny bags last year. This money will be used for kitchen supplies in the hall.

The Rev. W. G. Fletcher read a message prepared by the convener on Christian education and recommended 15 minutes of Bible study at each meeting. Mrs. Herbert Smith, supply secretary announced a quilting for February at the home of George Weaver. The new prices were set for quilting.

Mrs. Grant Hubble read an article on citizenship and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver gave the highlights of "Training Day". The regional rally will be held in May and the annual Presbyterial meeting will be held in the autumn at Picton United Church. The devotional and study were given by Mrs. William McAdam and Mrs. Will Jeffs and was based on "Our Church in Our Community".

The call to worship centred around "O worship the Lord in the beauty of Holiness". Mrs. Harry McAdam read the Bible message and Mrs. Ira David read a poem, "My Church". Mrs. Will McAdam outlined the study book story. She also read a corresponding story from the book, "Hasten the Day". Mrs. James Hoard rendered a vocal solo, "I Come to Thee". Mrs. Will Jeffs gathered the offering which the convener dedicated.

The refreshment committee, Mrs. Frank Bailey and Mrs. Oscar Merrick served an assortment of cookies and a cup of tea and all enjoyed a fellowship session.

Valentine Party Held By Pupils

RAWDON — On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Grace L. Morton and the pupils of the Allen Public School held a Valentine party at the school with the ladies of S. S. 3, as special guests.

Larry Jeffs, president of the Red Cross opened the meeting and told the group how they had spent their Christmas concert money. There were several choruses by all the pupils; also those by juniors and seniors and these were used to intersperse the other items on the program.

Brenda Williams gave her address on "Sir Adam Beck a Great Canadian". Larry Jeffs spoke on "The Diesel Engine" and piano selections were given by Brenda Williams, Janet Spencer, Bonnie Williams and Lorraine Jeffs. Jim Scott read a Valentine story and recitations were given by Doreen Hubble and Gordon Hoard. Selections were read by Timmy Auger, Keith McConnell and Gordon Spencer.

Two games were conducted by Brenda Campbell and Brenda Williams, and the Valentines were distributed after which the pupils served a special lunch.

Mrs. Raymond McConnell voiced appreciation on behalf of the guests for a most delightful Valentine party.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

On Tuesday afternoon at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church the Women's Missionary Society held its regular monthly meeting. The president, Mrs. M. Barlow, opened the meeting with an appropriate verse titled "Lord Show Me the Way."

During the routine portions of the meeting which followed, "British Guiana" was especially remembered in prayer for its people, its missionaries, and its church, this country being the particular subject of study by the group at this time.

The "Welcome and Welfare" committee, represented by Mrs. Yorke and Mrs. Kane, reported 39 visits to shut-in members of the church during the past month.

The president announced that plans for the World Day of Prayer on March 9th, held this year at St. Andrew's Church, were progressing.

The study program having to do with "Education in British Guiana" was in charge of Mrs. Vernon Weir and assistants. The subject was based on the Scripture reading by Mrs. Mills and meditation by Mrs. Carmichael, emphasizing the value of the development of Christian life in the home, in the school, and in the community, noting particularly the importance of an attitude of kindness.

From the study book, written by the Reverend Robert Dunconson, who was at one time associated with the RCAF at Trenton, Ontario, and now loaned to British Guiana to aid in their program of education, as well as in the work of the church, Mrs. Weir gave an informative discourse on the subject of education in that country, pointing out the dual control existing between the department of education and the church, indicating that evangelism goes hand in hand with education.

Many interesting details of the work were brought to the attention of the members, who were asked to particularly include in their prayers this month the work of the church in Guiana, that new doors will be opened there.

In the way of a pleasant interlude of entertainment three youthful pupils of Mrs. Boyce—Beverly Scott, Anne Cronk and John McKillican, played piano selections which were appreciated by everyone.

At the close of the meeting a social half hour, over a cup of tea, was enjoyed.

CAMPBELLFORD—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson of Campbellford were at home to their friends and neighbors last Saturday, on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Wilson is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alpha Hoar, of Percy Township, and Mr. Wilson is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, of Wilson Settlement.

They were married at the bride's home in Percy on February 7th, 1912, by the Rev. J. L. Lewis of Warkworth. They farmed in Percy Township until 1941 when they moved to Campbellford where Mr. Wilson was employed by the Barrymore Cloth Company, retiring in 1956.

The couple have two sons and two daughters, Stanley and Max, of Campbellford; Mrs. Ross Wynn (Blanche), of Campbellford, and Mrs. Wm. Sharp (Jean), of Toronto. They have eight grandchilden and three great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were entertained at a turkey dinner at George's Restaurant by their family. Present at the supper were: Mrs. Wilson's brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews, and Mr. Wilson's sister and nephew and niece.

They received many gifts which included an occasional chair from their children and wrist watches from the grandchildren as well as many other gifts and a pot of 'mums from the United Church.

Farm, Ranch, Community Water Supplies on Prairies Could Be Serious Matter

By SCOTT SCHILL

REGINA (CP)—The drought that hit the Prairies last year had two almost immediate effects — short crops and a scarcity of livestock feed.

But a third effect may be felt hardest. Farm, ranch and community water supplies in many areas dried up. Unless there is a heavy spring runoff, with good precipitation, the water supply situation could be more serious this summer.

Major instrument in the battle to preserve water supplies is the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, passed by Parliament in 1925 to deal with the immediate problems of drought and depression on the Prairies in those years.

PFRA is well known for several of its large projects, such as the St. Mary-Milk River irrigation development in southern Alberta, the South Saskatchewan River dam project in Saskatchewan, the Waterton River dam in southwest Alberta and several other large-scale irrigation programs.

INDIVIDUAL WORKS

But PFRA's farm and community dugout program probably is the major contribution to aiding western agriculture. More than 75,000 individual farm dugouts and dams have been constructed or improved since 1935, with PFRA supplying both financial and engineering assistance.

In 1961, when the spring runoff was lower than even in the dry years of the 1930s, between 8,000 and 10,000 projects were constructed with PFRA aid.

PFRA for the first time in its history in 1960 had paid more than $1,000,000 in such aid to farmers, the total reaching $1,185,000. For 1961, more than $1,500,000 was allocated for farm assistance under the dugout and dam program. In the first six months, 5,300 projects had been completed, equalling the number for all 1960.

BUILD THEIR OWN

Farm reservoirs for stock watering, irrigation or farm supply are constructed by the farmers or ranchers themselvis. The PFRA administration supplies free engineering and agricultural services, and pays a cash grant on projects that are constructed to standard.

Amounts paid are limited to $250 for dugouts and $300 for dams. Neighbors may co-operate on larger projects, where maximum assistance is $1,000.

One of the effects of last year's drought was a program of community wells. Under this program any rural municipality receives a refund of up to 70 per cent of the cost of drilling and developing a total of three community wells. Cost of this refund is divided equally between the federal and provincial governments.

The Saskatchewan government received more than 50 applications under the community well development program in 1961, and up to November had approved 29. In addition, the province filled more than 450 farm dugouts from other water sources, and also filled 12 community dugouts when towns and villages were threatened with a water shortage.

DISTRICTS AIDED

Towns and villages in Saskatchewan that had dugouts or reservoirs filled by the province include Norquay, Abernethy, Lemberg, Wakaw, Ebenezer, Peebuls, Wolseley, Canora, Kamsack, Eston, Birch Hills and Balcarres. Eston and Birch Hills required long lengths of pipe from the closest water source.

In Alberta three towns, Holden, Viking and Thorsby, all in the central area, had water shortages. Portable pumps were sent in by the Alberta agriculture department and pipe was laid to the nearest water source. But southern Alberta irrigation project operators fear a water shortage and want more storage reservoirs.

In Manitoba, the water shortage was filled in several communities, including Brandon, Portage la Prairie, Carman, Gladstone and Morden. The Manitoba government had five crews with 11 pumps in the field to fill farm dugouts. PFRA had one pumper in Manitoba and there is one private pumping outfit.

PUMPS VITAL

By November about 270 of 376 applications for dugout filling had been met, close to 100,000,000 gallons of water being pumped from rivers and lakes into farm dugouts in Manitoba. Average pumping distance was one mile; longest, 3½ miles.

At a PFRA pasture north of Dauphin, set up in 1960, 12 dugouts were constructed but no water ran into them in spring, 1961. PFRA crews set up pumps and piped water 1½ miles, filling seven of the dugouts and enabling farmers to pasture 1,500 cattle all summer.

One area equipped to meet last summer's drought was in southwest Saskatchewan, a normally dry area which through the years has prepared for drought periods by constructing dugouts and storage reservoirs with PFRA assistance.

In this area, 60,000 acres are irrigated through small projects set up by individuals or communities. Last year, the land produced the usual 100,000 tons of hay, and in addition ranchers had sufficient water stored to supply livestock for a normal winter.

WATER CONSERVATION

To show how water conservation can help in a dry year, PFRA officials compare the north and west sides of the Cypress Hills in southwest Saskatchewan and southeast Alberta.

On Maple Creek on the Saskatchewan side, about 25,000 acre - feet of water was in storage. Although there was no spring runoff last year, the stored water allowed 10,000 tons of top-quality hay to be produced, as well as 7,500 bushels of feed grain.

On the other side, the McKay Creek near Walsh, Alta., with about the same flow as Maple Creek, has no storage facilities. Ranchers there last year produced only 400 tons of usable hay and has to sell about one-third of their cattle for lack of feed and water. They would also have to buy feed to maintain herds during the winter. Construction may start this year on water storage facilities.

"We haven't even scratched the surface in ultimate water conservation in western Canada," said one PFRA official. The Walsh area would show what can be done, he said.

Head of Communist Party In Canada Running It Along Lines Laid Down by Buck

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — A former colleague of Leslie Morris was asked how this amiable chess-playing book-lover came up as head of the Communist party of Canada. He said:

"Les has been able to take those 90 - degree curves at 90 miles an hour without getting flung out."

For those unfamiliar with party manoeuvring, this means Mr. Morris has been able to negotiate the party line turns and twists and stay alive politically, often hard to do in the Communist party.

Mr. Morris, 57 and greying, has just taken over from long-time leader Tim Buck, the great red father of the party since 1929. Whether he turns up as hard - boiled as blue - eyed, flower - loving Tim remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, he says he's running the party along Tim's line, which is just about that of the Kremlin.

'GREAT ERROR'

However, he adds, "people who see only Moscow are making a great error." The Canadian group has its own principles and thinking, he says, and he also says he expects it to attain power in Canada some day despite its present miniscule membership for a national political organization.

The fiery Mr. Buck, who has spent years in jail and in the party underground, has retreated voluntarily at 71 to the semi - active post of party chairman and to his beloved carnations. It appears that Mr. Morris, a party functionary for almost 40 years, is his hand-picked successor.

The new leader survived a stormy internal brawl four years ago when an insurgent group sought to steer the party away from the Soviet line and orient it more in the direction of Canadian working - class thinking. Mr. Buck won and the losers, including some of the party's intellectual stars, were pushed out for their ideological backsliding.

PAY IS $70

Explaining his ability to take the curves, Mr. Morris says:

"There are many sharp turns in politics, but if a man has a strong set of principles he can take these in his stride."

A dedicated party worker, Mr. Morris has been a member 40 years. He now draws just $70 a week as leader, "that is, on the weeks I get paid." Sometimes, he says, there isn't enough money in the kitty to meet the payroll.

Mr. Morris insists the party treasury gets no help from Moscow.

The new chief, a native of Weston - super - Mare, England, has had a varied career since joining the party at Winnipeg in 1921. He has been mainly an editor of party papers, but also has been western organizer, national organizer and Ontario leader.

He has tried twice for Parliament, in York West and York South, and will be running in Toronto Trinity in the next general election.

SMALL MEMBERSHIP

Mr. Morris says he sees the party taking power in Canada eventually, and without the use of force. He declines to give membership figures, but Tim Buck stated last year membership was around 7,000, well down from the 18,000 card-carriers once claimed.

"We feel," Leslie Morris said in an interview, "that generally speaking there will be a leftward movement in Canada in which we would share."

He said he would not be surprised if the influence of the ultra-rightwing John Birch Society in the United States spreads to Canada. This, he believed, could result in a revulsion and an ultimate swing to the left.

"If there's no movement to the left or right, well, we would just be wrong," he admits.

Discussing the possibility of an East-West war, Mr. Morris said he believes it is not inevitable.

CRITICIZES NATO

"There can be peace provided there's a recognition of reality in the world. There has got to be an accommodation, on Berlin and so forth. But we think a thermo-nuclear war is not probable."

He was asked which side the party would be on if there were a war with Russia.

"There won't be any war with Russia. But if the NATO countries should go to war with Russia, it would be a war of aggression. We would be on the side of the people opposing war."

Is he for Russian foreign policy as opposed to Canada's?

"We feel Soviet foreign policy is directed towards peace," he said, "and we wish our country had such a peaceful policy.

"But as a matter of fact we've had no independent foreign policy. We have one that is virtually indistinguishable from that of the U.S Indeed, Canada has virtually surrendered her sovereignty to the United States."

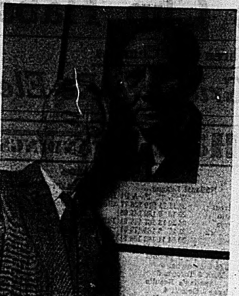
But he says the party isn't oriented strictly to the Moscow line, though one ex-colleague describes him as a man who keeps his eye on Mecca, meaning the Kremlin.

"We keep an eye on our beliefs," he said. "It's not a geographical matter. We don't hold an allegiance to Moscow."

One thing he would like to see, in the interests of easing East-West tensions, is a meeting between Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Nikita Khrushchev.

"If Mr. Diefenbaker would propose such a meeting, I think it would be fruitful. I think it would be a tremendous step.

"They could talk of trade as well as war or peace. I think our trade with Russia is shameful."



NEW COMMUNIST LEADER — Leslie Morris, 57-year-old Toronto editor and politician, has taken over as leader of the Communist party of Canada. He stands beside a portrait of Tim Buck who retired at 71 after leading the party since 1929. Mr. Morris, a native of Weston-super-Mare, England, joined the Canadian Communist party in Winnipeg in 1921 and plans to contest Toronto-Trinity in the next federal election. (CP Photo).

Stabilization System Cuts Roll of Ships

OTTAWA (CP)—It's enough to make seadogs walk the plank voluntarily: The navy is introducing a new stabilization system to reduce the roll of naval ships.

The system is simplicity itself. Tanks containing fluid are placed on either side of the ship. They are connected by a narrow duct. The greatest mass in the tanks remains on the high side of the ship, thus countering the vessel's roll.

The navy two years ago carried out exhaustive tests with the system. The roll in sea state five—a rough sea with wave heights of eight to 13 feet—was 15 degrees with the tanks not operating, four degrees with the tanks working.

The tests were so successful that the transport department is installing anti-roll tanks in a new icebreaking cable repair ship.

The system differs from the fin stabilization system in that it maintains the same roll-reducing influence regardless of speed. This feature makes it an ideal application for research vessels and other ships required to act as stable platforms when stopped or at slow speed.

Selling of Angling Rights In N.B. to U.S. Residents Criticized by Columnist

By JOHN MOSHER

FREDERICTON (CP) — Every 10 years angling rights for some of New Brunswick's crown-owned waters are auctioned. The next sale, in the legislative building here March 14, has reawakened old criticism.

Wilf Taylor, in a column in the Moncton Transcript, says most of the better and more expensive waters will be bid for by U.S. residents.

"Why should we sell our waters, yours and mine?" he asks. "We are citizens and taxpayers of the province of N.B., yet our government will not open these waters for the benefit of the general public of N.B."

A recent Older Boys conference for southwestern New Brunswick approved a resolution urging that sale of angling privileges to U.S. residents be limited to protect them for provincial residents.

In July, 1960, members of York County council characterized leasing of crown waters to wealthy non - residents as an "imposition" and "outrage."

K. B. Brown, deputy minister of lands and mines, said:

"I expect the government would take a different attitude if revenue were the only consideration. Improvements built by lease-holders are taxed by communities. There are payrolls, and in some localities it's a local service industry."

The government says there is a trend toward making more stretches available to public fishing. Opened this way in 1952 were 123 miles of streams and 45 lakes formerly under lease. Long stretches are open to the public. Subject to greater exploitation, they are less attractive to anglers.

Of 46 stretches on the auction block this year, 30 are for 10-year leases and 16 for one year. The latter may be renewed annually with government approval but must terminate in 10 years.

Revenue from the first sale in 1883 was $3,355. The last auction, in 1952, yielded $99,045.

Northern New Brunswick rivers, of which stretches are involved in the leases, include the Restigouche, Kedgwick, Tabusintac, Big Sevogle, Miramichi Tobique, Upsalquitch, Patapedia Nepisiquit and Cains.

Some old grants of land adjoining rivers retain riparian—or fishing—rights. Along many other stretches these rights are reserved to the crown. Rod and commercial licences are issued for various sections, in addition to general angling licences, and some areas are reserved for conservation purposes.

"The handwriting is on the wall," says columnist Taylor, "and the day is not too far distant when all the waters will be opened to public fishing, at a reasonable cost."

Rawdon

RAWDON — On St. Valentine's Day, a heavy fall of snow with drifting filled up a number of the side roads and by noon several events scheduled for that evening were cancelled. This included a church supper at Hoards United Church, a family night party at Carmel Jubilee Hall, and a public speaking contest at Stirling. By night the main highways had been snow plowed and the roads were passable, but driving was treacherous for awhile.

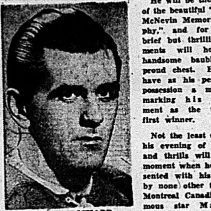
RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

I do not know who the youngster is at this writing, but you can bet your fallout shelter he will be the proudest hockey moppet in Belleville—and in Canada—on the night of March 6th.

His eyes will be shining, his heart will be pounding, and he will be the envy of over 300 puck-chasing counterparts.



"ROCKET" RICHARD

He will be the winner of the beautiful "Tommy McNevin Memorial Trophy," and for a few brief but thrilling moments will hold the handsome bauble to a proud chest. He will have as his permanent possession a miniature marking his achievement as the trophy's first winner.

Not the least event in his evening of triumph and thrills will be the moment when he is presented with his awards by none other than the Montreal Canadiens' famous star Maurice Richard. He will take home a picture of the presentation.

And he will have deserved all the tangible and other honors coming his way. For he will be the outstanding individual champion of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's twelve squirt hockey teams representing some 300-plus players.

He will be a "taller" champion than the dozens selected from each of the teams in the Squirt Division. They will be judged on hockey ability, achievement and deportment only, and will receive special trophies donated by two well-known but anonymous citizens.

The Tommy McNevin Memorial Award candidates will be judged by a special panel of sports and educational people. The winner will be the youngster selected on his achievements in the fields of "squirtsmanship", school work and music appreciation. The trustees of the award are the director of recreation, the inspector of separate schools and the superintendent of public schools.

The presentation will take place between periods of the March 6th annual hockey game between the city police and fire departments in aid of the Shrine Club Crippled Children's Fund.

Shriner George Muller, in charge of the game arrangements together with the Shrine Club as a whole, have made generous plans for the presentation.

The Shriners are bringing Rocket Richard here to referee the hockey game, also Gus Mortson and another National Hockey League figure, who will act as linesman.

They wholeheartedly consented to have the Canadiens' star make the presentation to the Tommy McNevin winner. "We are delighted to co-operate in any way with this fine gesture," said Shriner Muller.

And not a few proud kiddies will take home hockey sticks autographed by players of National Hockey League teams. The sticks will be awarded on a lucky draw basis. Each buyer of a ticket to the game will have a draw chance. National League clubs are co-operating in this respect.

The Shriners will be hosts to a number of crippled and retarded children of the city and district. They will be special guests and given a block of special seats. Members of Shriner Tom Lewis' Crippled Children's Committee are looking after the details.

Meanwhile the hockey teams of the "Blue and Brass" are having at it in hard practice sessions. The game looms as one, if not the most keenly contested, since the inception of the annual matches. As has been mentioned the clubs are playing in a City Departmental League—and rivalry is intense. And with the Rocket refereeing—and it is hoped—a full house looking on, the boys in blue will go all out for victory.

Meanwhile the tickets are on sale. Any police officer or fireman will look after your needs. They're only 25 cents each, less than the price of a packet of fags. And don't say "no" because you have other social or business commitments. Remember no man is so tall as when he stoops to help a child.

You will see a fine hard-fought hockey game—the famous "Rocket" Richard in referee action, a proud youngster living the finest, "thrillingest" moments of his life, and you'll be helping some crippled child to betterment or recovery.

Seattle Totems tightened up the scramble for second place in the Western Hockey League's Northern Division with a penalty-studded 5-3 victory over Edmonton Flyers Sunday night.

The Comets edged to within three points of the second-place Calgary Stampeders, who are only six points behind the Flyers.

In Saturday action, the Stamps beat the Southern Division leaders, Portland Buckaroos, 5-3 in Calgary and Spokane Comets, on home ice, defeated Vancouver Canucks 6-4.

Hawks, Leafs Split Wins

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings, led by substitute goalie Hank Bassen, look like the hottest club in the National Hockey League at the moment.

The Wings are undefeated since Feb. 4, the night Bassen took over in the nets for ailing Terry Sawchuk.

Sunday night they ran an unbeaten streak to six games—four wins and two ties — with a 4-2 decision over the league-leading Montreal Canadiens.

New York Rangers and Wings each have 51 points for a fourth-place tie. Detroit, however, has two games in hand.

The Maple Leafs beat the Blueshirts 5-3 at Toronto Saturday night. But at New York Sunday night, they were downed 6-2.

REDUCES MAGIC NUMBER

Montreal, in a runaway 11-point lead atop the standings, routed Chicago Black Hawks 6-2 on home ice Saturday night. This win, combined with Toronto's defeat, reduced the Habitants magic number to 10, meaning they can clinch a fifth straight title through any combination of 10 wins or Toronto losses.

Canadiens and Leafs each have 15 games to play in the 70-game schedule.

The third-place Black Hawks, five points behind Toronto, bounced back for a 6-0 rout of Boston Bruins at Chicago Sunday night.

Bassen blocked 30 shots for the Wings Sunday night. He has recorded two shutouts and given up only nine goals during the six-game stint.

Gordie Howe got two of the Detroit goals. The Wings' other marksmen were Parker MacDonald of Sydney, N.S., and defenceman Bill Gadsby. Gilles Tremblay counted the two Montreal goals.

The Leafs Saturday night victory was their first in five starts.

Eddie Shack, Frank Mahovlich, Eddie Litzenberger, Dave Keon and Allan Stanley were the Toronto scorers. Earl Ingarfield, Johnny Wilson and Andy Hebenton counted for the Rangers.

Andy Bathgate, the league's top point-getter with 72, drew his 49th assist on Ingarfield's goal which tied the record for most assists by a right winger in one season. Howe set the mark in 1960-61.

Shack, playing in only his third game after a six-week layoff with a knee injury was sidelined again — with more trouble, this time torn ligaments. Preliminary examination indicated he may be out another six weeks.

At New York, Rangers' Bathgate and Guy Gendron each scored twice. Wilson and Hebenton added one each. For the Leafs, the scorers were Red Kelly and Bert Olmstead.

SCORES 100TH GOAL

The feature of the Chicago rout was Don Marshall's 100th goal in his eight-season NHL career. Other Montreal scorers were Jean-Guy Talbot, Gilles Tremblay, Jean Beliveau, Bobby Rousseau and Billy Hicke.

Bob Turner and Bobby Hull tallied for the Black Hawks. Hull's goal was his 35th of the season, tops in the league.

Sunday night the Black Hawks struck for five goals in the first period and they never looked back.

San Mikita and Murray Balfour each scored twice while Bronco Horvath and Ken Wharram added singles.

Hall was outstanding in the Chicago nets, kicking out 30 Boston shots for his seventh shutout of the season — tops in the league.

There are no games in the league until Wednesday night when all teams are in action. Montreal will be at Toronto, Boston at New York and Detroit at Chicago.

Win Six Ski Gold Medals

Austrians Sweep Awards

CHAMONIX, France (AP) — Karl Schranz and Christine Haas of Austria won the men's and women's downhill titles in the world alpine ski championships Sunday to give the Austrians an unprecedented harvest of six of the eight gold medals.

Schranz rocketed across the finish line in two minutes, 24.33 seconds. The victory also gave Schranz the gold medal in the combined competition for downhill, giant slalom and slalom.

Miss Haas, an 18-year-old darkroom assistant, had a time of two minutes, 9.08 seconds, three full seconds ahead of second-place Pia Riva of Italy. Barbara Ferries, of Houghton, Mich., was third in 2:13.76.

CANADIAN FIFTH

Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., finished fifth in 2:14, one-sixth of a second behind Barbi Henneberger of Germany. Nancy Holland of Montreal and Linda Crutchfield of Shawinigan, Que., finished 15th and 16th Miss Holland in 2:17.15 and Miss Crutchfield in 2:17.16.

Vicki Rutledge of Ottawa was among four who failed to finish or were disqualified. These included the well-rated Heidi Biebl of Germany.

In the women's combined standings downhill, giant slalom, slalom, Marielle Goitschell of France was first with 41.13 points, and Marianne Jahn of Austria second with 48.33.

Miss Crutchfield was 14th with 222.39 points and Miss Greene 18th with 273.97.

BRUNET 19th

In the men's downhill, the best Canadian showing was by Jean-Guy Brunet of St. Agathe, Que., who finished 19th in 2:31.42.

Roddy Hebron of Vancouver was 29th in 2:37.00, Verne Anderson of Rossland, B.C., 30th in 2:37.55 and John Platt of Rossland 36th in 2:41.04.

Anderson placed eighth in the men's combined, with 166.28 points compared with the sensational 11.04 of winner Schranz. Brunet was 12th with 260.51 points. The lower the total points are in the combined, the higher is the placing.

In all, Austria claimed 15 medals to five for France, two for the United States and one each for Italy and Germany.

The only gold medals that escaped the Austrians were in the men's slalom, won by Charles Bozon of France, and the women's combined, taken by Miss Goitschell.

Three Teams Beaten

Minors Lose at Kingston

Belleville bantams, midgets, and juveniles all went down to defeat at the hands of the Kingston clubs Saturday in the opening games of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns in Kingston.

Kingston bantams squeezed out a close 3-2 victory, the juveniles dumped the locals 6-1 and the midgets copped an 8-1 victory.

All series are two-game, goals-to-count affairs and the return games will be played here in Belleville on Saturday. The first game is slated for 10.30 a.m.

JUVENILES

A four-goal explosion in the second period led Kingston to the 6-1 decision in this game. The winners were ahead 1-0 after one period and 5-0 before the clubs split a pair of goals in the third.

Jerry St. Denis scored Belleville's lone marker, assisted by Norm Richards.

T. Martin paced the Kingston attack, with a pair of goals, while R. Earl, W. Dowdell, K. White and G. Stevens had the others.

It was a rough and tamble affair with Kingston drawing 16 penalties and Bellevile getting 13. Belleville's total included two fighting majors and a misconduct to . Goodfellow and a fight major to P. Emerson. Kingston majors went to Martin, Smith and White.

Three Rule Changes

Gridders Re-Elect Commissioner

VANCOUVER (CP)—The annual two-day Canadian Football League meeting concluded here Saturday with the election of officers and three rule changes providing the major news

Syd Halter of Winnipeg was returned for another two-year term as commissioner. Jack Gaudaur of Hamilton was elected president, Eric Duggan of Edmonton vice-president and Bob Gillies of Regina secretary-treasurer.

Three proposals by the rules committee and the league's interlocking schedule for this season were approved during the final session.

The rule changes are:

1. A defending player will be allowed to intercept a forward pass in his own end zone and run the ball out, picking up blockers on the way.

2. Interior linemen will be frozen in their positions once they are taken, a move designed to stop them from intentionally drawing opposing players offside. The rule will further restrict the linemen's head and arm movements up to the time the ball is snapped and will provide penalties where these movements are intended to influence the actions of opposing linemen.

3. A pass will be ruled completed even if touched previously by another eligible receiver. The completed pass will be taken back to the point where it was first touched.

Previously, no two eligible receivers of an attacking team could touch the ball, even if an opposing player had touched it between the receivers.

A two-man committee was established to further investigate the merits of an interlocking schedule.

The Eastern and Western Conferences of the CFL operated with an interlocking schedule for the first time last season and will do so again this year. The system had been adopted on a two-year trial basis.

Booths Bow To Joyces, Rollins Wins

Joyce Real Estate widened their lead atop the Belleville Industrial Hockey League last night by defeating Booth TV's 6-1 in one half of the twin bill.

Meanwhile, Rollins Construction moved into undisputed possession of third place by dumping the winless Vagden Mills squad 7-5.

Both games were close during the first half but opened up into free-scoring affairs in the final thirty minutes. Joyces led 2-0 at the end of the first half in their game while Rollins held a slim 2-1 margin at the same point in the other tilt.

Vagden's tied the count 2-2 early in the second half before Rollins fired three in a row to wrap up the decision. Carl Boomhower and Beattie Huntley paced the Rollins' scorers with three goals apiece while Jack Hughes potted the other. George Crabb, Huntley, Hughes and Wayne Waite drew assists.

Bobby Duggan picked up three goals for Vagden Mills with Jim Rutherford and Norm Richards getting one apiece. Ron Pointer drew two assists, Cec Haines and Hugh Pointer one each.

Rollins picked up eight of the game's 12 penalties, including a misconduct to Doug Lucas. Duggan and Richards drew misconducts for Vagden's.

Joyces got a strong game from goalie Bob Green on their way to their seventh win of the year. Green kept his net clear of pucks until the 14.40 mark of the final period when Kaye Elliott scored Booth's lone goal on a play with Jackie Gill and Bob Hughes.

Wayne Fox paced the Joyce marksmen with a pair of goals and one assist. Huck Reeves, Jim Sheridan, Bill Vesterfelt and Hylie Bryant had the other goals. Ruffert and Doug Moreau drew two assists apiece with one each for Bert Faulkner, Reeves, Vesterfelt and Bryant.

Booth's had seven penalties and Joyces six, all minors.

Following is the league standing, including all games played to date:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Joyce R.E.	7	2	2	16
Napanee	6	3	1	13
Rollins	6	4	0	12

FIRE DESTROYS BUILDING

CORNWALL (CP) — Fire destroyed Charlebois Beverages Company here Sunday, causing damage estimated at $75,000. Smoke damaged nearby buildings. Cause of the blaze is not known.

Rodgers Wins At Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Phil Rodgers sank a 65-foot wedge shot for a two-under-par three on the 18th hole Sunday to win the $20,000 Tucson open golf tournament with a 17-under-par 263.

Rodgers, 23, had turned into the final nine trailing Buddy Sullivan by one stroke. He earned $2,800.

Jim Ferrier overcame a stiff neck to blaze home with eight-under-par 62. His 72-hole total was 266 and he won $1,900.

Sullivan, leader of the first two rounds, wound up in a tie at 267 with Charles Sifford and Paul Harney.

Mr. Moyer Gives Sugar His Lumps

NEW YORK (AP) — Young Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., gained revenge on Sugar Ray Robinson by hammering out a decisive 10-round decision over the former welterweight and middleweight champion at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Moyer, a 2 - to-1 underdog, weighed 159 to Robinson's 159¼.

The 22-year-old Moyer, just an infant when the 41-year-old Robinson turned pro 22 years ago, won almost as he pleased.

Robinson took a narrow, unpopular decision over Moyer at the Garden last Oct. 21 and had a winning streak of four. Moyer hadn't fought since his close one with Robinson.

ROBINSON HURT

The baby-faced Moyer treated the onetime great of the ring as a preliminary boy. He hurt Sugar Ray in the third, fifth, ninth and 10th rounds of the televised fight.

Although blood trickled from his nose from the first round on, Moyer went after Robinson like a tiger. He pounded the veteran with hooks to the body and right-hand leads to the head.

Robinson, just a shadow of his former self, saw the punches coming and couldn't do a thing about it.

After the sixth round a weary Robinson fought flatfooted whenever he stopped retreating. In the closing seconds of the ninth, Robinson's left leg buckled when he was belted in the stomach. In the 10th he was desperately trying to go the distance as the crowd of 7,000 roared.

Referee Art Mercante scored 7-2 and one round even for Moyer while judge Leo Birnbaum and judge Tony Rossi both had it 7-3 for Moyer.

It was Robinson's 10th defeat in 160 fights. Moyer scored his 31st victory. He has lost seven.

Robinson said he isn't retiring yet. "I want to think it over," he said.

Que. Youth Stars at 'Lift' Meet

A brilliant performance by Pierre St. Jean of Montreal, Quebec's "Athlete of the Year," featured the invitational weightlifting competition here Saturday night.

Eighteen-year-old St. Pierre, a middleweight class champion, easily defeated a field of nine entrants with a total lift of 795 pounds.

St. Pierre's only serious competition in Canada is Aldo Roy of Sudbury. The pair will battle for positions on the British Empire Games team in June.

Another feature of the meet was the record-breaking performance of Price Morris of the Belleville Apollo Club, who smashed a longstanding city mark in the snatch lift, heavyweight class, of 230 pounds.

Jack Cooper of Pedders' Club set the record of 225 pounds in 1939. Morris tried unsuccessfully to break Cooper's jerk record.

Bruce Fleming was unchallenged in the 123-pound class as bad weather prevented competition from Woodstock and Montreal from appearing.

Fleming was in good form, stacking up a total of 465 pounds. This, however, did not come close to the 575-pound record held by Tommy Pedder.

In the 165-pound class, St. Pierre defeated Roger LaLumiere, 725; Karl Hundhamer, 710; Joe Lewis, 675; B. Roberge, 650; A. Margolis, 645; Ken Foley, 620; Bob Langabeer 605 and Jack Rushnell, 560.

In this class, Lewis, Rushnell and Langabeer of the Belleville clubs staged a competition of their own with Foley of Ottawa. Lewis emerged tops with his 675.

Morris with his 780-pound total in the 198-pound class, turned back Jerry Vickers with a 725 total.

Joe Brown Meets Ortez Saturday

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Crafty old Joe Brown risks his world lightweight crown for the 12th time this week in a 15-round bout with Carlos Ortiz of New York, who has long clamored for a shot at the title.

The match, which will be televised nationally via ABC, is to be held here Saturday starting at 10 p.m.

The 35-year-old Brown, who lives in Houston, Tex., has defended the title more than any other 135-pound champion in history. The early betting favors him at 2 to 1.

Brown has won 83 of 113 pro fights, including 38 by knockouts. Ortiz has won 35, lost four and had one no-decision. He stopped 12 of his opponents.

Minor Hockey

The Red Wings blanked the Canadiens 7-0 and Barons downed the Rangers 7-2 in a pair of Peewee hockey league playoff games Saturday morning. Three exhibition games were also played.

B. Howe had the shutout in the Wings' victory while L. Moore, T. Boulter and L. Blatchford each scored two goals. R. Rappel triggered the other goal and also had an assist with B. James getting two helpers and B. Gibbons one.

J. Holgate fired three goals to spark the Barons in their victory. Other goals went to D. Loder, C. Scott, B. Mulvihill and D. Clements. Scott picked up two assists and Loder one. P. Jury had a goal and assist for Rangers with S. Scott also scoring.

In the exhibitions, Browns topped the Black Hawks 6-4. D. Lambert, with two, B. Campbell, T. Beresford, R. Jury and P. Goodfellow scored. Lambert and Beresford drew assists. R. Fuller scored twice with G. White and B. LaRue getting one each for the Hawks. LaRue and B. White had assists.

Maple Leafs downed the Bruins 4-2. A. Bradley scored twice, C. Wilson and D. Long once apiece for the Leafs. P. Goyer and D. Young had assists. W. Storms and T. Sulliven had Bruin goals, R. Day helping on one.

Quinte copped a 5-2 decision over the Macs with S. Lee and B. Janitch each scoring twice. P. Lloyd had a goal and assist and B. Hume one helper. Mac goals were scored by R. Mitchell and G. Burket with assists for Mitchell and M. Coughlin.

Foursome Gets Two Holes-in-One

LONDON (AP)—A hole-in-one is the dream of most golfers but two of them in the same foursome and on the same hole were chalked up Sunday at the Stanmore course in Middlesex.

A. W. Ashley-Jones, a 20-handicap player, and W R. Gilliland, 12-handicap, sank the aces on the 150 - yard 10th. They were opponents.

WINS DOG DERBY

QUEBEC (CP)—Ernest Brunet of Pointe Gatineau, Que., won the $1,500 first prize Sunday in the 88-mile Quebec International Dog Derby when his huskies completed the course in six hours, 26 minutes and three seconds. Keith Bryar of Lakeport, N.H., finished second and got $725 with a time of 6:36.59.

Peewees Meet Kingston Tues. Night

The Belleville Peewee All-Stars will play host to Kingston peewees here tomorrow (Tuesday) evening at eight o'clock in Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns.

This will be the first game in a home-and-home, goals-to-count series. Trentative date for the return game is Monday, February 26th, but definite word should be available on this following tomorrow night's game.

Belleville's bantam, midget and juvenile teams lost the opening games of their series in Kingston Saturday. Return games in all three divisions will be played here this coming Saturday.

The squirt games will be played according to schedule tomorrow evening, at six and seven o'clock, but the midget playoff games have been moved on and will be played immediately following the Kingston-Belleville peewee tilt.

Trappers Clobber Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The last - place North Bay Trappers trimmed the league-leading Kingston Frontenacs 7-2 Sunday in Eastern Professional Hockey League action. The win by the cellar-dwellers added the major touch of color to the weekend's four games.

It was sparked by Joe Szura and George Gosselin, who each tallied two goals for the Trappers. Norm Waslowski, Gary Mork and Bob McCammon added singles.

The Kingston scorers were Lorne Ferguson and Don Blackburn.

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens trimmed Soo Thunderbirds 7-2 and Sudbury Wolves defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers 4-2 in Sunday's other games. In Saturday's action, Kingston defeated the Thunderbirds 4-1 and Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers shut out Sudbury 4-0.

DARK WINS AGAIN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Alvin Dark, manager of San Francisco Giants of the National League, Sunday won the U.S. baseball golf championship for the fourth time. He shot a nine-over-par 79 Sunday for a 298 total, edging Philadelphia coach Peanuts Lowrey by two strokes. Robin Roberts of New York Yankees had a hole-in-one on a 160-yard hole but finished well down the list.

American Wins Ski Title

THORNBURY, Ont. (CP) — Josef (Pepi) Gramshammer took top prize money back to Sun Valley, Idaho, with him after winning the unofficial combined title in the Canadian professional ski championships on Lightning Run during the weekend.

Gramshammer won $1,065 with a second-place spot in Saturday's slalom and first place in Sunday's giant slalom. The prize money moved him close to Ernst Hinterseer of Austria, second - highest money winner on the pro circuit—behind world champion Anderl Molterer of Aspen, Colo.

Hinterseer won the slalom, dominating the field, but failed in his effort to match Gramshammer's sizzling time in the giant slalom when he caught a tip at a control gate and was tossed through the air. He lost the binding on his left ski and could not finish the race.

In the slalom Hinterseer put together times of 55.7 and 57.8 for a total time of 1:53.5, a comfortable edge on Pepi's 1:59.5 combined total. Third in the slalom was Ernie McCulloch of Mont Tremblant, Que., with 2:04.7.

Soviet Wins World Skate Title

MOSCOW (AP) — Viktor Kosichkin, a 25-year-old Soviet Union machinist, wrested the world speedskating championship from Hank van der Grifft of The Netherlands Sunday.

Canada's hopes were dashed when Paul Enock, 27-year - old Toronto goldsmith, was knocked out of Sunday's events by a heavy cold after finishing far down in Saturday's two events.

Kosichkin placed eighth in the 1,500-metre race and third in the gruelling 10,000 - metre competition, final events of the two - day meet. He scored a combined 188.340 time points for four events, including Saturday's 500-metre and 5,000-metre races. Kosichkin was eighth in the 500 and fourth in the 5,000.

Van der Grift was the runner-up with 189.143 time points, followed by Ivar Nilsson of Sweden, 189.316, and Boris Stenin, Russia, 189.915.

After Saturday's two races, Enock was in 39th place.

APPROVE NEW GRANTS

NEW YORK (AP) — Trustee of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, of Appleton, Wis., approved Saturday a program to increase the institute's academic scholarship endowments by at least $2,500,000. The institute is a graduate school and research centre devoted to the pulp and paper industry.

Indians Win North Electric Hockey Title

The Indians edged the Hornets 7-6 Sunday morning to complete a sweep of the Northern Electric Interdepartment Hockey League finals in two consecutive games.

Indians took a 4-0 victory last weekend in the first game of the finals. Jones scored twice with a goal each for Cornell and Walker. Soule drew three assists, Jones and Walker one apiece.

In yesterday's game, Cornell paced the scorers with three goals. Green, Soule, Jones and Hunt potted a goal each. Jones earned three assists with Walker, Soule and Barrett each getting two and York one.

For the Hornets, Semark and Philp scored two goals each with Smith and Gill bagging the others. Post drew two assists, Philp, Gill and Smith one each.

The Belleville Northern Electric all - star team will play other company teams from Toronto and London in a round-robin tournament at Belmont, just outside London, Ont., on Saturday, February 24.

DeJordy Gets an Assist

By TH ASSOCIATED PRESS

Goaltender Denis Dejordy of Buffalo Bisons, who is within one of the American Hockey League's shutout record, is turning his hand to scoring.

He was credited with an assist—a rarity for a netminder—as the Bisons stretched their Western Division Lead to three points with a 9-3 victory over Pittsburgh Hornets Sunday night. Cleveland Barons lost 9-4 to Rochester Americans.

Dejordy who has eight shutouts this season, got his assist on Buffalo's sixth goal. He cleared the puck to Brian Smith, who passed to Art Stratton, who scored.

Quebec Aces beat Hershey Bears 5-3 and Providence Reds broke a seven - game losing string with a 3-1 win over Springfield Indians.

In Saturday games Cleveland defeated Providence 9-2, Springfield overpowered Hershey 7-2 and Rochester beat Pittsburgh 6-2.

First place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series changed hands again Sunday before the largest crowd to see a junior game in Montreal in nine years.

And most of the 8,016 fans packed at the Forum spent the last seven minutes on their feet as the Canadiens defended a one-goal lead and defeated Hamilton Red Wings 5-4.

Three goals by centre Bill Inglis had Montreal ahead 3-0 after the second period but in the third Hamilton tallied for of the six.

Gemain Gagnon and Jean Gravel got the Canadiens' other goals while Paul Henderson, Pit Martin, Joe Budjoso and Howie Menard scored for Hamilton.

DEFEAT PETERBOROUGH

In other weekend games, the Wings dumped the Petes 3-0 at Peterborough Saturday night while Niagara Falls Flyers retained their playoff hopes with a 5-3 come - from - behind win over the Teepees at St. Catharines.

The Flyers moved to within three points of fourth - place Guelph Royals, who trail the Teepees by the same margin.

Bob Bedard Named Top Tennis Star

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., Saturday was named Canada's outstanding tennis player for eighth straight year.

The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, at its annual meeting, ranked him No. 1. Ann Barclay of Vancouver, an outstanding young player, won the top spot on the women's section.

Bedard, 30, last month announced retirement from Davis Cup competition. He said he will continue to play in a few tournaments, provided they can be worked into his teaching schedule. He has not been defeated by a Canadian player in eight years.

Laird Watt of Montreal was elected president.

In the rankings, Don Fontana is missing for the first time in years. Business forced him to restrict tournament play.

Replacing Fontana at No. 2 is Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que. who narrowly beat out Toronto's John Swann.

In the ladies section, Susan is unranked because she played in no Canadian tournaments in Butt of Victoria, No. 1 in 1960, 1961.

Marian Boundy of Montreal is ranked second.

Kenora Rink For Kitchener

COPPER CLIFF, Ont. (CP)—Ron Redding's Kenora rink Sunday won the Northern Ontario curling championship and a berth to the Dominion finals next month at Kitchener.

Redding's crew defeated the Jack Plyblank foursome from Kirkland Lake 11-6 in the deciding match of the three - rink double Round robin. Redding downed Arnold Chisnell of Sudbury 9-8 Saturday.

3 BOYS DROWN

HALIFAX (CP) — Navy divers Sunday took the bodies of three boys from the waters of Halifax Harbour. They were believed to have fallen through thin ice. Dead are David Berry, 12, his brother Gerald, 11, and 12 - year - old Michael Keenan.

Edmonton Rink Wins Playoff

CALGARY (CP) — Hector Gervais and his Edmonton rink lost a battle but won the Alberta curling war Saturday, advancing to Dominion competition where they will defend their Canadian title next month.

In a torrid best - of - three provincial final that went right to last rock on its 36th end, the 28 - year - old potato farmer scored just two more points than Calgary's Jimmy Shields for an 8-6 victory in the sudden - death final game Saturday night. In the two earlier matches Gervais won 10-7 and Shields 9-6.

Lead Wally Ursuliak and second Ray Werner — steadiest man on the rink Saturday—join vice - skip Ron Anton and Gervais in Kitchener - Waterloo March 5-10 for the Dominion matches. The winner there goes on to the world championship, also won last year by Gervais.

Deer Hunter's 'Buck-Law' Woes

The morning of the opening day of the deer season in Pennsylvania dawned clear and cold. The woods were dry underfoot and excessively noisy. It was impossible to do any stalking. Nothing for it but to select a likely tree or rock and wait for something to happen.

As might be expected on opening day, the woods were full of deer hunters. A great many of these were moving about and the deer soon took alarm. Here and there shots were fired. Then from the edge of the clearing came a small herd of deer, ten in all. There was only one buck in the herd, a nice eight-pointer, but the smart old devil ran with his ladyfolks all around him. (Ed. Note — In many U.S. States it is prohibited to shoot does or fawns)

A bullet from a deer rifle often will go right through a deer. Thus, it was too risky to chance a shot and possibly kill two deer instead of one. No choice but to stand there, rifle in hand, and watch them disappear into the woods beyond the clearing.

Always there are irresponsible people on the loose in the woods during the deer season, the sort who shoot first and inspect afterwards. Before long a doe came by on three legs, the right hind leg dangling limply. She made her painful way into the brush. Then came another, this one with a broken foreleg.

Next came five doe, running. These were greeted by a barrage of shots from a group of trigger-happy hunters down in the valley.

Shot Without Looking

Disgusted, we started back to the car, almost falling over a dead doe, lying under a bush in fairly open woods. Somebody evidently had shot without looking and there she lay, wasted. We drove home, pondering on the ways of the "great American sportsman".

Then, thinking things over, our thoughts turned to the present shaping of our game laws. Bucks only — for the two-week season, Sundays excluded. Then one day of antlerless deer hunting; fourteen days in all. That morning, during the two hours that we stood on our watch (until stupid and irresponsible hunters practically drove us home) we had seen 18 deer. Of these, one was a buck, a recognizable buck. There may have been some antlerless bucks among the others. No way of telling about that.

Moreover, there had been a great deal of shooting. Some of this we knew to be shooting at antlerless deer. We had seen three examples of this — one dead and two badly wounded. Why, we wondered, aren't the game laws arranged so that for the short duration of the season any deer is legal game?

A good many hunters are going to shoot at just about any deer they see anyway. Why not avoid that waste? After all, the archers of Pennsylvania can take home any deer they can manage to hit. Moreover, they have 26 days in which to do so, Sundays excluded. Why discriminate against the boys with powder and shot?

Of course, there are some hunters who maintain that it is unsportsmanlike to shoot any deer but an antlered buck. Never have we been able to understand this off-centre concept of sportsmanship.

Just About Impossible

It is just about impossible to tell a male from a female bear at ordinary shooting ranges. Certainly you can't tell a male from a female grouse or, for that matter, a male from a female woodcock. A cottontail bunny is simply that until close inspection gives you the answer as to sex. Yet people shoot these animals and birds, year after year, and think nothing of it. Moreover, the supply seems to remain fairly static regardless of this lack of discrimination.

Another time-worn and badly frayed argument against an any-deer season is that in a short time the deer herd would be wiped out should the female deer be legal to hunt. Shucks! Since time began the deer herds have been holding their own against natural predators, Indian arrows, the guns of early settlers, dogs, etc. These, as you know, knew no buck law. A deer was a deer to them.

Under the heavy hunting pressure of today, wild game seems to be able to hold its own. In New Brunswick, Canada, the any-deer law is in effect and has been for a great many years. The same is true of several States. Reliable informants tell me that the deer herds stay pretty much the same, year after year, without decrease.

One thing very much in favor of the any deer law is the annual winter kill by starvation during the times of heavy snow. The smaller deer, and this means the females, are the first to succumb, they being unable to reach the less accessible food.

Why, we wonder, not harvest some of this crop instead of allowing it to go to waste as it now does? During the winter, hungry deer can be their own worst enemies when heavy snow throws the herds out of balance with available food supplies.

Not Much Chance

But an item of primary importance in the matter of deer hunting is this. As things stand today in most States, Mr. Average Hunter really doesn't have much chance for sport during the deer season. He has a job and he can get away for only one or two days. He doesn't belong to a club or an organized group. Thus, he is on his own.

Going out by himself, his chances of having any shooting to speak of are small indeed. Consider, for example, our experience of opening day — eighteen deer within range and only one of these a buck. He pays out his money for his hunting license just the same as anybody else. Were he allowed to shoot any deer that he can manage to hit, he would be a happy man indeed. True, luck might send him a trophy buck. If so, so much the better. But lacking this stroke of good fortune, at least he could get his money's worth by burning some powder and, maybe, bringing home some game for a change.

Were an any-deer law a serious threat to our deer herd, surely we would be the last to advocate such a move. But we do not feel that it is. To be sure, the first few hours of the first day of the season will be busy ones. And the kill heavy, just as it is on the first morning of the antlerless deer season.

But once the deer are alarmed then the story is differtnt. Mr. Average Hunter drives to his hunting location, say, on the second day of the season. He parks his car, opens the trunk, and assembles his gear. By the time he is through slamming car doors and trunk lids, talking to companions, etc., every deer within half a mile has high-tailed it for the safety of the deep swamps or the mountain tops.

No, an any-deer law would do no serious damage to the deer herd. And it would add many thousands of happy hunting hours to the days on which the rank and file of the hunters can take time out to go afield. Think it over.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

The knock in recent years against Canada's athletes has been that they failed to reach their peak in British Empire and Olympic Games. They were improving their performances but hadn't hit razor - sharp form when the big challenge came along.

Officials readily pointed out the reasons — lack of facilities, expert coaching, apathy on the part of the public to its athletes, weather conditions in Canada and so on.

Now, things are due for a change, particularly in track and field, a sport in which Canada has been sadly trailing the world. The man to do it is Fred Foot, 45-year-old Toronto police department accountant who likely will be track coach at the B. E. Games in Perth, Australia, next November.

COPY THE BEST

"I'm going right after the program set out by Arthur Lydiard," Foot said in an interview. He couldn't set his sights much higher because Lydiard is the driving force behind Peter Snell of New Zealand, the fastest man in the world at the half mile and mile.

"Our guys are going to train just like Snell, with only minor differences," says Foot. And his "guys" are prime B. E. Games material — 18 - year - old Bruce Kidd, 21 - year - old Bill Crothers and the Toronto East York Track Club relay team of George Shepherd, Stan Worsfold, Jim Snyder, Crothers and, possibly, 16 - year - old Dave Bailey.

All of these, and others, are coached by Foot, and the rest of the country will have to be good to beat them out for places on the team when the track and field trials are held at Toronto Aug. 4-6.

HILLS AND SPRINTS

"I had a long chat with Lydiard in Los Angeles a week ago when Snell and Crothers both broke the United States indoor record over 1,000 yards." The 22 - year - old powerfully - built Snell won it with about 10 yards to spare over the bespectacled University of Toronto student.

"I decided then that my kids would follow Snell's program, which is really strenuous," says Foot. Snell runs nearly 100 miles a week, jogging over a 22 - mile course that rises to 1,200 feet and racing through sprints of 220 yards.

"It would be difficult to thrust a Canadian boy into this program right off the bat, but we'll start over possibly 10 - mile courses, work it up to 12, 15, 18 and then 20 miles. And it will be over hilly country.

"We'll do our speed work as we can. We'll probably do these in the hot summer days when I wouldn't ask a youngster to run up and down hills for 20 miles in 90 - degree weather."

HOPES FOR PERTH

Foot has high hopes for Crothers and Kidd.

"I think that Crothers will give Snell a much better race at Perth than he did at Los Angeles. He's improving all the time."

And Kidd?

"The two miles is not his piece of cake. It's far too short for him and he hasn't got the basic speed. He's forced to run the two miles in indoor meets in the winter because there are no longer distances carded.

"He'll concentrate on the longer distances when the outdoor season opens."

There's one phase of Lydiard's program that makes Foot squirm.

"He runs those hilly courses with Snell. I'm too old for that kind of stuff. Besides, in my track days, I was a sprint man.

"I'll follow my guys by car."

Win Over Warroad

Maroons Clip Terriers

WINNIPEG (CP) — A late scoring splurge carried Winnipeg Maroons to a 7-4 victory over Galt Terriers, the Canadian national team, in an exhibition game before 4,462 fans Sunday.

The Maroons scored four consecutive goals in the third period to gain a measure of revenge for their loss to Galt in last year's Allan Cup final. The second period was scoreless and the score was 2-2 at the end of the second.

Galt took a 4-3 lead early in the third and then the roof fell in.

Ross Parke scored three goals for Winnipeg and Fred Dunsmore two. Tom Rendall and Tom Marshall got singles for Winnipeg.

Joe Malo, Bob Brown, Tod Sloan and Bill Wylie scored for the Terriers, who now have a 2-2 record in their warmup tour before the world championships in Denver, Colo., next month.

TERRIERS SEEM TIRED

The Maroons dominated play in the last two periods. Galt, playing its their second game in two days, seemed to tire as the game wore on.

The Maroons' top line of Parke, Dunsmore and Reg Abbott found easy pickings in a faltering Terriers defence.

After the game, Galt manager Len Gaudette said he planned to strengthen the Galt defence with the addition of Harry Smith of Trail and Jack Douglas of Chatham Maroons before the world tournament.

Continuing their 14-game exhibition schedule, Galt meets the senior Moose Jaw Pla-mors in Moose Jaw tonight.

WIN SATURDAY

At Warroad, Minn., Saturday, two goals by Bob McKnight helped the Terriers to a 7-4 victory over Warroad Lakers.

A crowd of 1,200 watched McKnight score in the first and second periods against the Lakers of the Ontario-Minnesota Intermediate League. Sloan, Jackie McLeod, Don Rope, Bob Nader and Brown got the others.

Finish in Second

Dogs Whip Maroons

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs completed their Ontario Hockey Association senior schedule Sunday, defeating Chatham Maroons 3-1 and winding up in second place in league standings — the top playoff position.

Windsor earned 47 points during the season, one behind Galt Terriers, who will forgo the playoffs to compete in the world hockey championships in Colorado Springs, Colo., next month.

The Bulldogs, finishing two points in front of Woodstock Athletics, raced to a 3-0 lead against Chatham with goals by John Palestine, Jack Costello and Irwin Gross. Jack Douglas closed the gap to 3-1 in the final period.

Third - place Woodstock also ended its season on a winning note, defeating Waterloo Tigers 8-4, leaving Waterloo in sixth place in the final standings.

START FRIDAY

Woodstock will meet Waterloo in a best-of-seven quarter-final series starting Friday.

Jean Marc Asselin, Jerry Theberge and Tom Wilson led the Athletics, each tallying twice and Don Myers and Rio Caron each scored once.

Larry Pfaff scored twice for Waterloo and single goals were scored by Art McCarthy and Charlie Brooker.

Strathroy Rockets ended their season in fourth place—10 points behind Woodstock and five ahead of Chatham which has a game left to play against the last-place Sarnia Rams Tuesday.

In its last game, Strathroy trounced Sarnia 10-4 Saturday night.

WINS DOG DERBY

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Andy Smith drew cheers from hundreds of spectators Sunday as he drove his dog team across the finish line first in the final heat of the 24 - mile Sourdough Rendezvous Dog Derby. The derby was a high point of three days of whooping it up by Whitehorse residents and visitors during the Sourdough Rendezvous.

Howard, Boyer Get Increases

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Catcher Elston Howard and third baseman Cletis Boyer agreed to terms with New York Yankees Saturday.

Howard, who once starred as an outfielder-catcher with Toronto in the International League, will receive an estimated $42,000 this year, a raise of $12,000. He was the Yankees' leading hitter last season with a .348 average.

Boyer, fielding star of the world series, signed for about $20,000, an increase of $5,000.

Outfielder Roger Maris, who hit a record-breaking 61 major-league home runs last season, and second baseman Bobby Richardson are the only members of the world champions still unsigned.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers scored two goals and drew an assist in two weekend games to move six points ahead of Detroit's Gordie Howe in the National Hockey League's scoring race. Bathgate has 72 points on 23 goals and a league-leading 49 assists.

Washboard Weepers Busily Reflecting Life of Family

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The daytime serials — sometimes referred to as washboard weepers or soap operas—are busily reflecting the day by day life of the average U.S. family.

Ricky, in Love of Life, has been unjustly accused of murdering his boss. One can only hope his wife will stick by him through the ordeal because when the killing took place, innocent Ricky was dead drunk and with the "other woman", his only alibi.

On Search for Tomorrow, the reformed alcoholic husband of Rich Alison slipped back into his cups just before he was scheduled to make an important speech and staggered out of the meeting.

Robin, on Guiding Light, now is married to an older, rich, and terribly jealous man, but Michael, her first husband — young and good looking—is back on the scene again. Robin still seems faithful to Alex, her current spouse, but it's a dangerous situation.

As I was saying, the goings on in these Monday-Friday dramas are just as you would expect in the house next door.

Two real cops in New York City Patrol Car 1509 demonstrated Sunday night that it is difficult, sometimes dirty and often dangerous work.

The program was NBC's Police Emergency, on the work of the emergency squad.

A camera crew followed Mike Chadwick and Gene Corcoran for three months and we saw them pulling a corpse from the river, administering first aid to victims of heart and knife attacks, interviewing holdup victims, carrying an old lady's bundle and talking together about their families and boyhoods.

Any resemblance to the usual TV police-action show was purely coincidental.

Recommended tonight: To Tell the Truth, CBS, 7:30-8:00 EST—Consistently amusing panel show with Johnny Carson, Tom Poston, and Dina Merrill separating liars from truth tellers.

AT THE PARK — Jack Hogan in title role as "The Cat Burglar" threatens June Kenney in sizzling espionage story opening tonight at the Park Theatre, through United Artists release. On the same program "X-15", in Technicolor the world's fastest plane. Both hits are first Belleville and district showings.

Takes Venezuela Playoff

Knudson Wins Tourney

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP)—George Knudson of Toronto beat Jim Ferree of the U.S. on the second hole of a sudden - death playoff Sunday and won the Venezuela open golf tournament.

Knudson collected $1,500 for his victory in the pros' second stop on their Caribbean tour.

Knudson and Ferree were tied at 286 at the end of 72 holes. In the playoff, they halved the first hole. Then Knudson won with a one-under-par second hole after Ferree had parred the hole.

Knudson, who had a two-stroke lead going into Sunday's play, had a two-over-par 74 in the final round.

TORONTO (CP) — An inquiring mind is more important than an acquired skill, J. Flavelle Barett, a vice-president of the Upper Canada College Old Boys' Association, said Friday night at the annual founder's day dinner. Premier Robarts, guest speaker, said events have shown the nations of the world that their futures depend upon the quality of their educated persons.

Astrological Forecast

For February 20

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Most gains today achieved by taking creative path. Make things just a bit different . . . apply flair for the dramatic . . . showmanship. A little consideration goes far.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Let your heart lead the way . . . show others you can "feel" their problems. Open your mind . . . and your heart. This can bring you success . . . and open doors.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Seeking outside aid could cause disappointment. You best help yourself today . . . by self-reliance. Others may mean well . . . but it must be your individuality which shines through.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Being obstinate will not, in long run, win your point. You gain the most now by being the moderator—by listening — and by making concessions. Meet others half way.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Today could be day when you find others are willing to give credit where it is due. You certainly are in line for your share of accolades . . . accept compliments, honors, graciously.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): All indications urge you to take road of independence, originality. Be willing to tear down past in order to constructively rebuild your future. Now is time to throw fears away — be confident, vibrant

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You could lose out through impatience . . . you could gain by being willing to wait and see. Your power is in willingness to study all angles . . . and to perceive the "meaning" of each person. Be the analyst.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Friends come up with surprises. Offer encouragement . . . otherwise, you could be accused of our grapes! A kind word, consideration is so easy . . . and could mean much!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): On this day, you must show what you have . . . mere talk wishful thinking, bluffing will not stand the test. Be willing to attend to details, to unveil plans. If thwarted . . . keep trying.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Like Taurus, your own hunches, your intuition . . . your ability to sense what others really think . . . come into the spotlight. Don't be immovable — make changes — be dynamic— stress humor!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Face facts of budget situation. Tendency is for you to want to be generous, giving . . . but you should also be realistic about money matters. Ask for accounting.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): If you walk with your eyes shut bump into something. Stay wide . . . you almost certainly will awake, alert Cycle will soon rise — plan now — act later.

• • •

If today is your birthday . . . you gain most this year through routine, the discipline of planning, preparing for future. April could be outstanding. You are extremely sympathetic . . . don't let others take advantage of this fact.

• • •

General Tendencies: A well-guarded secret could be exposed before day is over. Now it's time to reveal it. All signs could benefit from study of Sagittarius interpretation today. Pisces must go slow. Virgo must be willing to tear down in order to create anew.

TAKE TIME OUT FOR SURVIVAL - ENROL FOR PAID TRAINING NOW

Canada needs 100,000 additional men to help the Canadian Army Militia carry out national survival operations in the event of nuclear attack. Six-week training courses are being held in your own community — the next one starting February 26 and continuing until April 8.

If you are between 18 and 50, and meet enrolment standards, will you go to work for Canada as a citizen soldier? During the course you are given all day training five days a week. You live at home and receive the same pay as a regular soldier, plus a living allowance.

To be sure of a vacancy, you should act right away. Get full details NOW, without obligation, at the address below that is nearest to your home:

NAVIGABLE WATERS PROTECTION ACT

R.S.C. 1952, Chapter 193

The Ontario Water Resources Commission hereby gives notice that it has, under Section 7 of the said Act, deposited with the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa and in the office of the Registrar of the County of Hastings at Belleville, plans and description of a 30-inch diameter reinforced concrete subaqueous pipe sewer proposed to be built under the Bay of Quinte on a water lot lying opposite part of Lot 36, according to registered plan No. 288.

Take notice that after the expiration of one month from the date of publication of this notice the Ontario Water Resources Commission will, under Section 7 of the said Act, apply to the Minister of Public Works at his office in the City of Ottawa for approval of the said site plans.

Dated at Toronto Ontario, this 19th day of February, 1962.

W. S. MacDonnell,
Commission Secretary,
Ontario Water Resources
Commission.

Govt. Opens Broad Study of Stock Exchange

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has opened a broad study of the New York Stock Exchange with a 16 - page questionnaire for the exchange's 350 stock specialists.

In the forms, distributed Friday, the Securities and Exchange Commission is seeking answers to three broad questions. In effect, it is asking:

1. How do specialists handle trading in more than 100 selected stocks that represent a cross section of securities?

2. Do some specialists have conflicts of interest which might compromise their position as servants of the investing public?

3. Are certain large investors, such as the mutual funds, given favored treatment when they and sell?

WILL CO-OPERATE

In New York, Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said:

"The exchange's members and member organizations will naturally co-operate to the fullest extent in this and all other phases of the securities and exchange commission's study."

The SEC recently completed an investigation of the American Stock Exchange. The agency issued a public report last month that was critical of American Exchange specialists.

At the direction of Congress, the SEC is conducting a year-long study of all phases of the securities industry, including the operations of the 14 registered stock exchanges.

Milton Cohen, director of the SEC study, wrote the specialists that receipts of the questionnaire "is not to be construed as a reflection upon you or your firm or anyone connected with it."

Crown Firms Efficiently Run Says Official

OTTAWA (CP) — Investment of public funds in 20 of the 30 Crown corporations in Canada stood at $3,627,733,000 at March 31, 1961, Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson notes in his annual report to Parliament. The other 10 involved no direct public investment.

In examining the books of the 23 corporations subject to his audit, Mr. Henderson was impressed "by the conscientious and efficient manner in which their operations were conducted."

The reports on the Crown corporations described each, its financial operations and mentioned "other matters which it is felt may be of interest to the House of Commons."

The Canadian Press in a news story Feb. 14 on Mr. Henderson's report erroneously included in a list of "irregularities" certain references to the National Battlefields Commission and the Farm Credit Corporation. These references were simply to indicate points of interest, not irregularities. They were:

National Battlefields Commission: a $27,000 fund has been undisturbed in a commission account for 30 years, representing balance of funds held exclusively for acquiring land.

Quebec City in 1955 imposed a snow removal tax which amounted to more than $400,000 last March 31. The commission regarded the battlefield as a park, thus not taxable, and had appealed the assessments. Meantime no provision for the levies had been recorded in the commission's accounts.

MADE A MOVE

Farm Credits Corporation: In June, 1960, the corporation's Toronto office moved to new and larger quarters to accommodate increased staff. It couldn't terminate a five - year lease on former premises and by mid-1960 had paid $10,300 for unused space, later sublet for less than half the monthly rental.

Interest rate on loans to farmers is fixed at five per cent by the Farm Credit Act. During the last two years, the corporation borrowed from the government $38,500,000 at five per cent and $30,800,000 at 5¾ per cent. It would lose $3,000,000 over the repayment period on the 5¾-per-cent loan.

Institute Told More Serious Papers Seems to Prosper

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — The tendency in North America is for the more serious newspaper to prosper and for the sensational paper to decline, several speakers stated at the weekend winter conference of the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs.

The conference subject was The Press and the Public and criticisms were expressed of almost every aspect of newspaper activity, many of them by the newspaper men who made up the speaking panel.

The consensus appeared to be that the press has improved but probably not fast enough.

R. A. Farquharson, former newspaper editor who now is minister - counsellor, Canadian embassy, Washington, stated:

"There has been a steady improvement in the quality of the product, but I doubt if the progress has been as fast as the development of world complications. Newspapers are still confusing rather than clarifying."

CITES REASONS

The turn towards the more serious newspaper was variously attributed to a more informed public that was asking more of its newspapers; and to the virtual disappearance of "the scoop," with the development of radio and television.

Pierre Berton, Toronto Star columnist, said many publishers are operating "on habit" and still emphasizing "worn out" frothy features, while the public is expecting reporting "in depth."

Speakers emphasized that by "serious newspaper," they don't mean a "dull newspaper." In this area newspapers were charged with stressing the voice of the established forms of society whether it be government, business, labor, or the local ladies' aid, and not giving enough attention to the unorthodox.

Mr. Berton said the worst feature of Canadian papers in general is that "they lack daring and imagination and literary style." There was nothing in English - speaking Canada for instance, to compare with Le Devoir of Montreal.

Discussion at Sunday's closing two - hour session, of which one hour was televised by CBC, dealth at length with the amount of foreign news received in Canada from news agencies of other countries.

DISCUSSES CP

Speaking about The Canadian Press, the co - operative news-gathering association of Canadian daily newspapers, which handles in Canada news from the associated press of the United States, and Reuters of Britain, Arthur Blakely, chief of the Montreal Gazette's Ottawa bureau, said:

"Its most serious weakness is in the foreign field."

Mr. Berton commented that it is supported by the newspapers "and they don't give it enough money."

Mr. Farquharson said CP has offices in Washington, New York and London and regretted that it had no steady representation in Paris. In this regard, he added, CBC moves faster.

Ken McTaggart of the Toronto Telegram, speaking from the audience, asked Mr. Farquharson whether he favors payment for Canadian newspaper representation in other countries from the same "hopper" (government) as pays for CBC.

Mr. Farquharson replied, "no."

OTHERS AGREE

Most of the newspaper men objected to the idea of government subsidy for the extension of newspaper coverage.

Gerard Pelletier, editor of Montreal La Presse, said he would prefer to see more foreign news coverage through The Canadian Press and perhaps newspapers should supply it with more money.

Mr. Blakely felt a subsidy would be a "dangerous innovation," adding that CBC's greatest weakness is the possibility that its grant may be cut or not increased as fast as desirable.

He felt it unfair to be critical of newspapers in regard to foreign coverage unless the financial angle was considered. No single business was as precarious as newspaper publishing.

Mr. Berton commented that to make money, one must spend money and the newspapers that spent for worthwhile purposes were the ones that would survive.

WOULD RAISE PRICE

However, the financial angle would be solved if the public paid a proper price for newspapers.

"I think a newspaper is worth more than a cup of coffee," he stated. "But the public doesn't think so and until they are willing to pay 25 cents for a newspaper they will get what they deserve."

Coverage by Canadians from Washington, Mr. Farquharson said, is the best it has ever been and the 10 Canadian correspondents there are all hard-working newspaper men.

On the general calibre of Canadian newspapers and newspaper men, Mr. Berton said:

"I think the press of Canada is a responsible press. By and large newspaper men in Canada are honest and honorable and their intentions are of the best."

Mr. Pelletier commented that laymen who get a close look at the pressure under which newspapers are produced "tend to be astonished that there aren't more mistakes."

GLENN COMES DOWN SAFELY IN OCEAN

Hazen Argue Has Capital Guessing About His Plans

Would Choose Liberals Over Conservatives

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Hazen Argue today paid a warm compliment to Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson but said he has made no decision on his political future except to stay in the federal arena.

Mr. Argue, accompanied by his attractive wife Jean, arrived on Parliament Hill at 9:30 a.m. and went immediately to the office of H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) who succeeded him Monday as House leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party group.

The former parliamentary leader of the party, who bolted from it Sunday charging it was under the control of a small labor clique, then went to his office to start sorting out his files.

He said he would spend the day in his office and getting new quarters established and did not expect to go into the Commons chamber today.

SENATOR DROPS IN

After he had been in his office 20 minutes, Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot (L—Quebec) passed his door with a pot of coffee from the parliamentary restaurant, paused and went in. A few minutes later the two men emerged.

"This is the first man to come around to wish me well," Mr. Argue told reporters with his arm around the senator.

"Good luck to you Hazen," said Senator Pouliot.

Mr. Argue said he had talked with Commons Speaker Roland Michener by telephone and had requested a large private office. He said the question of where he would sit in the Commons was left open, because he did not expect to go into the chamber today.

Mr. Herridge crossed the corridor and talked with Mr. Argue. The former leader said they wee still warm friends and had a lot to discuss in making the transfer of responsibility and offices.

"I have no plans to meet Mr. Pearson in the near future," he said.

He denied having any immediate intention to join the Liberal party.

Asked about a statement he made in Toronto in November, 1960, that the greatest mistake the Liberal party had made in its history was to choose Mr. Pearson as leader, Mr. Argue told reporters.

IS NEW PEARSON

"I think many members of his own party would agree with me now that it is definitely a new Pearson that has been leading the attack on the prime minister this session."

He said Mr. Pearson's speech in this session's throne speech debate was "the most effective attack I have known by any opposition leader" and added that he thought Mr. Diefenbaker himself would agree privately.

However, he said he had had no overtures from the federal Liberals or the Liberals of his Saskatchewan constituency of Assiniboia. He said he would

FEAR DEATH TOLL MAY CLIMB OVER 400 MARK

Estimated 75,000 Persons Homeless

CP from Reuters-AP

HAMBURG — Flood stricken north Germany, hit during the weekend by its worst flood disaster since the Second World War, today feared the death toll may climb to more than 400.

The official count of bodies recovered remained at the 232 announced Monday night. But the bodies of other victims were recovered during the night but had not yet been added to the official toll.

Informed sources at city hall in Hamburg, hard hit by the rampaging flood waters, said as many as 200 more may be added to the 208 known victims in the city.

The enormous task of rescue and repair continued through the night. Car lights directed helicopters bringing emergency food and clothing supplies into the hardest-hit sections of this devastated city.

An estimated 75,000 were homeless here and thousands more lost their homes along the banks of the Elbe and Weser rivers, in the low-lying coastal areas bordering the North Sea and on the Friesian Islands just off the coast.

The West German cabinet meets Wednesday to consider relief measures.

Cuban Exiles Organizing In Guatemala

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—A group of Cuban exiles in Guatemala are organizing an army to seek the overthrow of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro. The organization, however, is still on paper and a spokesman said it cannot mobilize unless it gets United States weapons.

The best available information is that no Cuban exiles are being trained here under arms at this time. Both Guatemalan and U.S. officials deny there is such activity. Guatemala was one of the training areas for the abortive invasion of Cuba last April.

The new organization is called the Army of Liberation of Cuba. Its chief is a former commander in the Cuban Army, 58 - year - old Gen. Jose Pedraza y Cabrera.

A civilian spokesman for the group, asking not to be identified, said the organization has "all the men we need" for an attack on Cuba.

These men — all Cubans—are scattered throughout the continent waiting for the signal to unite and train as an invasion army, he said.

U.S. Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., is shown in the above picture dressing for his history-making flight. A technician assists him. Both are evidently in high good humor.

GLENN CHECKS MAP—Astronaut John Glenn looks over world map at the Cape Canaveral missile test centre, as he waited another attempt to put him in orbit around the earth. The points of launch and landing are noted on the map. The shaded circles indicate the range of tracking stations which will maintain radio contact with Glenn during the flight. The black lines indicate the projected orbital paths.

Glenn Started Trip Into Space With Confident Wave

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—With a confident wave, U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. set out again today to conquer the biggest objective any marine has ever tackled, the first U.S. "beachhead" in orbit around the earth.

Glenn walked from his special training quarters at 5:01 a.m. EST. Just 25 days ago, the marine lieutenant - colonel started on this same journey, only to be thwarted by a heavy cloud cover just 20 minutes from launch time.

Glenn had said calmly back on Jan. 27 that there would be another day,—and today it had come.

His silver-coated space suit glinted in the glare of television lights as he strode from the doorway of hanger "S" to a waiting van. The truck began a slow, four-mile, drive to the launch pad.

Swarms of project Mercury ground crew members, many in white coveralls and colored helmets, buzzed about the mighty Atlas rocket and the black space capsule pointed toward the sky.

Banks of powerful searchlights played on the tall silver rocket cradled in a red steel service tower soaring 16 storeys from the ground.

The Atlas, with the words "United States" and the number 109D decorating its glittering skin, had been on the pad for more than 2½ months. It had had troubles in its fuel tanks and other parts—troubles which had contributed to some of the 10 delays since late December.

But now Atlas 109D was ready to spend its great thrust—equal to the power of more than 7,000,000 horses—to propel Glenn and his spacecraft into orbit at 17,500 miles an hour.

High atop the rocket, the 4,200-pound space capsule was undergoing the final, painstaking checks. Named by Glenn as "Friendship 7," the capsule bore the American flag painted on its side.

At 2:20 am., Glenn was awakened by Dr. William Douglas, the air force flight surgeon who has said "I'm as close to this man as I am to my brother." After a shower and a shave, Glenn sat down to a steak breakfast.

At 3 a.m., came the final preflight physical check, just in case Glenn had contracted any previously-undetected ailment.

Douglas attached four button-shaped sensors to special tattoos on Glenn's chest and rib cage. They were intended to send a steady flow of radio signals to doctors on the ground, telling them how the astronaut's heart was reacting during weightlessness and the other experiences of space flight.

Other sensors in Glenn's helmet and elsewhere on his body signaled a record of his breathing and temperature.

After a pressure check to make sure his 20-pound space suit had no leaks, he was dressed for his journey.

Glenn Talked With Wife, Children From Capsule Before Blast-off

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. talked to his wife and two teen-age children by telephone today as he waited out in his space capsule the countdown for his orbital flight.

The call came through from the sapsule, poised atop its gigantic rocket booster at Cape Canaveral, Fla., about 8:50 a.m. EST.

Mrs. Glenn and the children were watching television broadcasts of the preparations for Glenn's great adventure.

Inside the Glenn home with his family were Mrs. Glenn's parents and four friends and neighbors.

A representative of the federal space agency told reporters that Glenn talked to his family for about five minutes. He said he believed the call was placed by Scott Carpenter, Glenn's standby pilot.

Lights went on in the astronaut's home at 5:45 a.m. and the family quickly clustered around three television sets in the living room.

It was a big day in the household.

If the repeated postponements of her husband's adventure brought strain and anxiety to the Glenn family, the astronaut's wife, Annie, 41, was keeping it to herself.

Mrs. Glenn has repeated that she felt fine during all the waiting for her husband's historic flight and that she has complete confidence in the space project.

Third Increase in Population Seen for Region in 15 Years

TORONTO (CP) — The Lake Ontario region of east - central Ontario is described as an "area of increasing economic activity and growing opportunity" in a provincial government survey released today.

The 110 - page survey is the fifth in a series on the 10 economic regions of the province prepared by the economics and development department.

The Lake Ontario region comprises most of the counties of Peterborough, Northumberland, Durham, Hastings, Victoria, Lennox and Addington, Prince Edward and Haliburton.

The survey foresees a one-third increase in population for the region within the next 15 years — to more than 450,000 from the present 338,000.

"Adjacent to Metropolitan Toronto's huge and growing central market area, provided with an extensive and modern network of transportation facilities and an energetic and versatile work force," the survey finds, "the area is certain to attract more new industry and see the further expansion of resident enterprises during the '60's."

Surveys and statistics led the report to conclude that the region has a "sound and professive form of development which augurs well for the future."

Beautiful Sight Says Astronaut Circling Earth

Glenn Has Completed Second Orbit, Goes for 3

FLASH

CAPE CANAVERAL — Glenn landed safely in the Atlantic Ocean at 2.43 p.m.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Florida (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. reported that despite minor difficulties with his capsule control system, he was in good condition to complete his full three-orbit mission around the world.

While officials were considering the possibility of terminating the flight after two orbits, the astronaut told the Kauai tracking station in Hawaii that he was in good shape and was having no trouble controlling his craft.

Asked how he felt about a third orbit, Glenn replied: "Affirmative. I am 'go' for the third orbit."

The Hawaii station confirmed Glenn's judgment, advised the Mercury control centre at Cape Canaveral, and Glenn was given the green light to continue.

Glenn said the roll of his capsule "seems to be about 20 degrees off."

HAS TROUBLE

He encountered some minor trouble with his space control system, but officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it was not serious.

There are three ways the spacecraft can be controlled. One is the regular automatic system, one is all manual, and the third is the fly-by-wire system which is a combination of the two.

His trouble was in the automatic system and he switched to the fly-by-wire method.

Scientists planned to return Glenn's Friendship 7 spacecraft to earth after three sweeps around the earth. The three-orbit mission was to last four hours, 50 minutes.

As Glenn soared toward his rendezvous with the stars, he reported by radio to the project Mercury control centre at Cape Canaveral that "I feel fine and the view is tremendous."

He said he could see the Atlas booster rocket falling away behind him and that he had a clear view of much of the earth stretching back to the cape from his vantage point about 100 miles in space.

"It's a beautiful sight," Glenn exclaimed.

MONITOR FLIGHT

The reports came from the control centre here, where tense officials carefully monitored the historic flight of the first American to be fired into orbit.

Glenn's space capsule was blasted skyward by a powerful Atlas booster which shot aloft at 9:47 a.m.

The massive rocket, generating 360,000 pounds thrust, performed perfectly and with pinpoint precision, boosting the spacecraft to the proper speed and altitude for the mission.

Officials reported the capsule was in an orbit ranging from a high point of 160 miles to a low of 100 miles and the speed was 17,530 miles an hour. Estimated time of each circuit of the globe

Bay of Quinte Pickerel Season Opens Fortnight Early, April 28

The pickerel season in the Bay of Quinte will open this year on April 28th and close on March 31st, 1963, the Department of Lands and Forests Tweed district announced today.

Previously the season opened in the bay district on May 15 and closed April 1st the following year.

This gives district pickerel anglers at least a two-weeks earlier start.

There is no closed season for pike in the Bay of Quinte.

Mr. Russell Whitfield, of the department's Tweed district headquarters, said today that the speckled-trout, Kamloops trout and brown trout seasons in inland waters open on April 28th this year instead of May 1st.

He said that on all instances when the angling season opens on Tuesday this year, the date will revert to the preceding Saturday.

The departmental research staff at Glenora after an extensive survey of pickerel conditions in the Bay of Quinte, recommended the season be opened two weeks earlier than May 15, Mr. Whitfield told the Ontario Intelligencer.

"The pickerel population in the bay is at such a high level that it warrants the earlier date. Anglers could go in two weeks earlier at the time before the fish leave for deep waters to spawn, without affecting them numerically" he said.

Research officials have been conducting the survey for some time, probing habits and habitats of the fish and getting important information from anglers and their catches.

Another reason for the change in pickerel fishing dates and others that may materialize in the future is that the Department of Lands and Forests, following research reports, believes in more liberalized fishing in the province, said Mr. Whitfield.

PC BACKBENCHER GIVES VIEWS ON QUE. SECESSION

Offers Program To Prevent Rupture

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — A Conservative back-bencher said Monday that Canada will be swallowed by the United States if Quebec ever secedes from Confederation.

Louis Fortin, MP for Montmagny-L'Islet, said in the Commons that the government isn't doing enough to prevent the rise of Quebec's separatist movement and offered a program to prevent a racial rupture.

Mr. Fortin, who represents the Quebec riding once held by Quebec Liberal Premier Lesage, said he isn't against the separatist movement. It had brought into the open the injustices suffered by French Canadians.

But he was against the ultimate aim of the separatists—secession of Quebec from Canada.

Speaking in French, the former municipal judge and one-time banker launched into the separatist issue as the Commons resumed the throne speech debate, disrupted Jan. 25 to make way for legislation on pensions and new railway lines.

PREDICTS DIFFICULTIES

Mr. Fortin said secession would create "insurmountable difficulties" for Quebec and would mean the "rest of Canada would be taken over by the United States."

He complimented the government for introducing simultaneous translation in Parliament, for adopting bilingual cheques and for appointing a French-speaking Governor-General.

This was more than the Liberals had done. But it wasn't enough.

Dubbing himself "the spokesman for 5,000,000 French Canadians," the 41-year-old MP suggested the government:

Set up a royal commission on bilingualism; appoint French-speaking deputy ministers in government departments, and alternate the post of Governor-General between French and English - speaking Canadians every five years.

He also called on the government to give Canadians a distinctive Canadian flag and designate O Canada as the national anthem.

Isn't spring grand?

Despite the snow and near-zero temperatures, Mrs. H. Reddick of this city is certain today that spring is, at the worst, just around the corner.

Mrs. Reddick, while out driving with her family on Sunday, spotted a patch of pussywillows, about two miles north of Halloway.

"There were not too many but they were out enough so that I spotted them from the car", explained Mrs. Reddick.

Just to keep the thought of spring in the air, Mrs. Reddick has a bouquet of the pussywillows in her home this week.

Oops here comes another foot of snow.

TREE MAINTENANCE TO COST $8.571 IN COMING YEAR

It is going to cost the city $8,571 to have its trees looked after during 1962.

This was the amount of the tender accepted yesterday by city council from the Davey Tree Expert Company of Canada for tree maintenance and tree removal this year.

The Bell Telephone Company and the Belleville Public Utilities will assume a portion of the tree maintenance cost.

Says He Saw Robin at Corbyville

"When the Red, Red Robin . . ."

It wasn't a misguided woodchuck. It wasn't a bear cub having a nightmare.

It was a robin.

That is what the men says.

If this "harbinger of spring" is an official envoy, it is welcome.

If it is not on official business, it should have its head read.

However it was a robin, Harry Ramsay of Corbyville maintains. Said he saw it yesterday.

It is a record, sir, as far as this newspaper is concerned.

What the redbreast was doing around Corbyville has not been ascertained.

Unless it had an advance seizure of spring fever and was planning amorous advances to the well-known parrot who exhorts all and sundry to utilize a local product.

Police Trying To Find Out What Happened

KINGSTON (CP) — Provincial police are trying to find out what happened to Leslie Hartwick, 55, who has been 19 days on the critical list in hospital here.

The middle - aged bachelor, who lives with his mother in the village of Mountain Grove 50 miles northwest of here, was found on the floor of his home Jan. 30.

He suffered a fractured skull, complete paralysis of the right side, laceration to the back of the head, a badly bruised face and pneumonia.

A tracheotomy was performed to allow him to breathe through his throat.

Provincial police said originally Hartwick had slipped on ice and fallen. Monday, a constable at Sharbot Lake detachment said:

"There will be a case for the court."

He did not elaborate.

One report said Hartwick went visiting at another house in Mountain Grove and was beaten up there. He was apparently returned home during the night and propped in a chair.

He fell to the floor and his moans roused his mother, a woman in her 80s.

Students Display Exhibits From Science Fair

The regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club of Belleville had its scheduled program upset by Old Man Winter yesterday when the guest speaker apparently failed to make the right dog team connections to arrive in this snowbound community.

Local talent filled the gap, however, and gave club members a chance to wax both philosophically and scientifically. The latter opportunity was provided by three local high school students and their exhibits from the recent Science Fair, which is sponsored by the local Rotarians.

Garth Stephanson of Moira Secondary School demonstrated his display of electronic relays and gave a brief dissertation on their use in modern industry and science. All of the relays were locally made.

Jim Pickering, also of Moira, had an interesting display of rock specimens denoting various phases of mineral precipitation. He outlined the various natural effects which caused the formation of many of the samples on display and endowed a number of them with phosphorescent qualities.

Vincent Miller of BCIVS, the Grand Prize winner of the Science Fair, advised how to view his display on reproduction under three facets; equipment, process and product. As Grand Prize winner he will attend the provincial science fair in Toronto.

The Science Fair competitors were introduced by Rotarian Dave Gale.

The philosophical side of the program was conducted by past-president Joe Demeza with a talk and discussion on programming for Rotary Club meetings. It was noted that there were several events throughout the year that were observed internationally by Rotary Clubs everywhere. Rotary's anniversary, the 57th of which will be observed on this coming Friday, was one such event.

World Understanding Week, to be held in March, was another event and it was suggested that members propose some manner in which the club could observe the spirit of this occasion.

Members were also asked for suggestions as to the type of meeting they liked best and suggestions were received as to possible formats for future meetings.

President Virgil James conducted the meeting.

FREEDOM TO BARK

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—City councillors ruled that dogs have an inalienable right to bark When attempts were made at a noise abatement committee meeting to include action against barking dogs, dog lovers in the council excluded dogs from the agenda.

Approve Pact With Firemen Except Two-Platoon Plan

TRENTON — Trenton council voted last night to sign a two-year agreement with the town's fire department, provided one phrase in the proposed agreement were deleted.

The objectional phrase, from council's point of view, is "a two - platoon system, with a schedule agreed upon by both parties", and was appended to a proposal that the firemen work a 48-hour week, as opposed to the present 56-hour week.

"I don't like the reference to a 'two-platoon system' ", said Councillor Ed Todd, "I don't know if it means anything or not, but I'm for the agreement as long as it doesn't mean we're going to have to hire two extra men".

Councillors Lloyd Worrall and James Duncan had other objections.

The agreement calls for a $150 per year salary increase, for each of the two years, across the board.

Council was generally agreed that this schedule would have the general effect of bringing the department in line with the "average" salary scale across the province, but the two dissenting councillors felt that such fringe benefits as an increase in boot allowance, cleaning allowance and the proposed holiday with pay schedule would have the end result of giving the men a 36-cent an hour raise over the two year period.

ACCEPT 48-HOUR WEEK

"To me, this is above and beyond what this town can afford", said councillor Worrall, "I go for the 48 hour week, but that's all."

"I shudder to think what they will throw at us in 1964", said Councillor Duncan.

'Fringe benefits are actually hidden costs", opined Councillor Duncan McDonald.

Councillor Ross Burtt, who, as chairman of the protection to persons and property committee, has jurisdiction over the fire department, defended the firemen's proposals. He said that other groups got fringe benefits and didn't work the hours the firemen did.

"Put the agreement to a vote and if it's defeated, Councillors Worrall and Duncan can negotiate," he said.

"I move an amendment to the agreement," said Councillor Worrall. "I move to delete all other proposals except the 48-hour clause."

Councillors Duncan and Worrall voted for the amendment; Councillors Todd, Burtt and McDonald voting against.

Councillor Todd then proposed that the reference to "a two-platoon system" be deleted from the original proposals. He said that he was afraid that this would mean the hiring of two additional men in the long run.

Voting on the agreement, with the phrase deleted, brought affirmative votes from Councillors Burtt, McDonald and Todd and negative votes from Councillors Worrall and Duncan and thus was passed.

Council Delays Decision On Payment to Committee

TRENTON — Trenton council last night delayed a decision on a request from the members of the Committee of Adjustment that they be paid $15 per meeting for the chairman, (Harold Blakely), and $10 each per meeting for the members, (Gerald Weaver and William Steenburg).

"This payment would be way out of line with those made to Court of Revision members," contended Councillor Lloyd Worrall. "There's no differentiation between the chairman and other members on the Court of Revision, and the payment per meeting is $5."

It was decided to contact the Committee of Adjustment and find out what the feeling about lower payment would be.

(Councillors donate their time free to the Court of Revision).

Members of the Court of Revision were appointed last night. Councillor Worrall is 1962 chairman, and the members are ex-councillor D. R. Fraser, 1961 chairman; F. J. Aziz; Frank Fillon and Walter Steevie.

Councillors voted to have the members of the Industrial and Economic Development Committee contact the principals of a partnership, who propose to buy approximately five acres of land in the Sidney Street area, north of the CNR tracks and south of Highway 401.

The persons desiring to buy the land propose to erect a small manufacturing plant and employ 14 persons.

The land in question is not serviced with sewers or water and council questions the suitability of the site and the need of so much land for such a small plant.

It was suggested that the partnership might be interested in acquiring a site on the west side of the river in the vicinity of the H. S. Camp plant.

APPROVE RESOLUTION

Council voted to approve a resolution advanced by the town council of Penetanguishene, that the Ontario government be asked to amend a ruling that welfare recipients cannot be asked to work for the welfare payments they recieve.

"Some people getting welfare would be glad to give something back", said Councillor Burtt.

Mindful of a certain amount of controversy triggered last year by the Trenton Legion branch holding a carnival at the end of Albert Street in the Bayshore Park area, council will consider further a request that the branch be permitted to hold a June carnival on Legion land, north of the branch hall.

"Wasn't there a bylaw passed last year that all fairs must be held on the community gardens land?" queried Councillor Burtt.

"Is this a carnival really?" asked Mayor MacDonald, 'I understand it's quite small".

Also delayed, until budget time at least, was a decision on whether the town will go ahead with the installation of trunk sewers on Dufferin Ave. South.

Consulting engineers Gore and Storrie recently completed a preliminary survey of the area and have recommended that the Ontario Water Resources Commission be asked for approval of the project. The engineers estimate that the work would cost $222,000. In the five-year capital budget estimates, $140,000 had been planned for this installation.

"Wouldn't the Dufferin sewer project prejudice the bridge plan?" asked Councillor Worrall, "We'd like to get the bridge this year".

COMMISSION NAMED

The members of the Trenton Recreation Committee had proposed that 1961 members, Dr. J. V. Byrne, Dr. W. A. Gray, Robert Sager, Neil Ramsay, George Greer were reappointed.

Council voted to appoint Dr. Byrne, Robert Sager, Don Kilgour, Harold Long and George Greer to the body with F/L Frank Lynch being a liaison officer from the RCAF.

Councillors Duncan McDonald and Claude Graham also sit on the committee.

Council approved of a resolution brought down by the Sarnia council that the Ontario government be asked to assume the responsibility of seeing that meat for human consumption in the province be adequately inspected.

A local car dealer, asking that he be allowed a $14.67 rebate in his tax bill because he was not reminded that the payment was due, was given short shift by council, after a letter on the subject from tax-collector G. Allan Weaver was read. Mr. Weaver said that the dealer should have received the tax bill at the time he bought the business and that notices had been put in the newspaper and broadcast over the radio of the impending due date. Mr. Weaver suggested that if this dealer were given an allowance because he had not been reminded that the tax was due, the department would be "swamped" with similar requests.

Councillors felt that they could not approve a resolution from the board of health that a sociological survey of the town be undertaken. The survey would establish the need for redevelopment in certain housing areas and council felt that it could not follow up any recommendations made in the survey, at this time, for economic reasons.

WILL EVICT TENANT

Council did approve a health board recommendation that the occupants of a Bay Street house be evicted as soon as suitable weather arrives. The house has been condemned as "unfit for habitation" and the occupants are constantly complaining about living conditions.

Council also approved a recommendation made by the traffic committee that Front St. be "immediately" made into a one-way street, with traffic movement being from north to south From Dundas St. to Elgin St. Parking on the east side of the street will continue until the work on the sewer installation is commenced.

Daylight saving time in Trenton will commence at 12.01 a.m. on Sunday, April 29, and will be in effect until 12.01 a.m., Sunday, October 28.

Obituaries

FRANK GARDNER

The funeral service of Frank Gardner was held from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Avenue (at Church Street), to Christ Church where service was conducted by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan and the Reverend Everett P. Smith. A guard of honor, composed of members of the Belleville Fire Department, was present. Interment was at Belleville Cemetery.

Bearers were Dell Hope and Herbert Mallory of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office; Deputy Chief Gerald O'Brien and Captain Ted Post of the Belleville Fire Department;and Cpl. Gordon Stout and Cpl Tom Lummiss, of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Among those present at the service were Fire Chief Gerald Vance, Police Chief Walter Probert and Inspector A. McDougall of the OPP.

To Seek Tenders For Ambulance

TRENTON — Trenton council voted last night to put the supply of ambulance service for the town for 1962 up to tender.

The health board had asked council to allow for the payment of a $3,600 subsidy for the year to the operator of the present service, Douglas Rushnell.

"Does anyone object to tendering for the service this year?" asked Councill Worrall.

"You might be going back to the same schmozzle we had last year," warned Councillor Todd.

"We don't want that," said the mayor.

Councillors Todd and McDonald were against calling for tenders; Councillors Worrall, Duncan and Burtt were for it.

Repair Costs For Vehicles Alarm Council

TRENTON — Alarmed about the size of repair bills for town-owned vehicles, town council voted last night to permit town engineer Eric Aldersey to okay bills of $100 or under but asked that he contact the chairman of public works, James Duncan, if repair estimates are over $100.

Mayor MacDonald said that the police department is renting cars this year, rather than buying vehicles.

Councillor Worrall queried a monthly gasoline bill for $1,000 for town-owned vehicles but was told that some of this is recoverable from the public utilities and the police department.

Council also voted to spend $3,000 to replace the engine in the fire department's Bickell-Seagram pumper.

IN MEMORIAM

DENYES. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mary Denyes, who passed away February 20th, 1958.

The month of February now is here,
To us the saddest of the year;
We lost a loved one good and fine,
She will live in our hearts,
'Till the end of time.
To be with us in the same old way,
Would be the dearest wish today.

—Remembered by husband and family.

EGGLETON. — In loving memory of Ira L. Eggleton, who passed away February 18th, 1958.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair,
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of the one who once sat there.

—Ever remembered by wife Elizabeth.

RORABECK. — In loving memory of my husband, Cortland (Dave) Rorabeck, who passed away February 20th, 1953.

Though tears in my eyes do not glisten,
And my face is not always sad;
There is never a night or a morning,
But I think of the husband I had.
Not a day do I forget you,
In my heart you are always here;
For I loved you and I miss you,
As it ends another year.

—Lovingly remembered by his wife Loyola.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to thank all our friends and neighbors for flowers, cards, calls and their deep sympathy extended to me in my bereavement; and a special thank you to Dr. Russell Bateman, the staff in Emergency at the Belleville General Hospital, and our special nurse. Thank you.

—Helen Drury.

We wish to extend to our neighbors, friends, relatives our sincere thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received during our recent bereavement. A special thanks to Dr. Loynes, nurses and aides on Second Floor South, the John R. Bush Funeral Home and Rev. E. Smith.

—Mrs. Fred Motley and family.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a premium of 4 25-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Monday the noon rate was $1.04 25-32.

Pound sterling was at $2.95 1-16, up 1-16.

$22,331 Operating Deficit Shown in Second Report of Transit Board to Council

The Belleville Transit Commission had an operating deficit of $22,331.95 for the year 1961, it is shown in the second annual report of the commission which was presented to city council yesterday.

In addition to the operating deficit of $22,331, the commission also had capital charges of $9,588, making a total deficit of $31,920 for the year.

Revenue for the year amounted to $101,370.18 including $96,731.21 from fares.

On the expenditure side, wages and salaries took $77,475.40 gasoline, grease and oil $14,870 and parts and repairs $7,598.

The outstanding debenture debt of the commission at the end of December, 1961 was 35,000 with approval having been received for a debenture issue of $50,000 to finance the purchase of five new buses, all of which are now in operation.

NORMAL CONDITION

The deficit position of urban transit commissions seems to be a normal condition in these times according to the report. This reflects the severe competition from the private automobile.

Members of the Belleville Transit Commission are T. W. Schwab, chairman; Kenneth Pinder, and Sidney Sillitoe, while permanent staff members include C. J. Bender, city treasurer, Miss Murial Jobson, office manager, and Walter Lewington, operations manager.

The operating staff of the Commission includes 13 bus drivers and five garage mechanics and helpers.

24 MEETINGS HELD

During the year the commission held 24 business meetings, two employee conferences, and two collective bargaining sessions with the Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

Following is the report of the Commission presented to council:

UNION CONTRACT

Culmination of negotiations with the Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers was the signing of a two-year labor agreement effective April 1st, 1961, involving successive 8 cent and 7 cent per hour increases for bus opeartors and Mechanic or Bodymen Helpers, and 10 cent and 5 cent per hour increases for Licensed Mechanics, in addition to establishment of seniority, annual vacations, sickness benefits, grievance procedures and rules and regulations of the Commission.

EQUIPMENT

The original equipment consisting of ten old buses was maintained in operation throughout the year, and studies were conducted with a view to recommending new equipment in order to reduce repair costs and increase efficiency and comfort to the public. An investigation of the North Bay Operation was made, and the patronage pattern on all routes was studied. As a result, the Council of the City of Belleville was requested to appropriate $50,000 for the purchase of five new buses, and this was approved by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Specifications were drafted and tenders were called for three 13 to 20 passenger, and two, 28 to 36 passenger City Transit type buses. Contracts were awarded for Mercedes Benz and General Motors buses through local dealers, and delivery of the three small buses was made in November. A trial period of operating the small buses on light runs and off-peak periods has indicated that their application should be successful, when a few mechanical corrections, which are now in process by the manufacturer, have been made. Delivery of the larger buses is expected early in 1962. These will be used on the heavier runs.

Purchase of the new equipment is expected to pay for itself through economies in operation and reduction in repairs over the next seven years. Five old buses will be sold to the highest bidder.

OPERATING STATISTICS

With the exception of the first week, the bus system operated under a system of revised and enlarged loop routes, as compared to the express route system tried out in November and December 1961. The accompanying curves of passengers carried by the system each month compares the patronage experienced under three types of routes:

Original Rawson Routes of 1960 (annual mileage 240,000); Extended Express Routes of November and December 1960 (374,000); Extended Loop Routes of 1961 (293,000).

LOW, HIGH POINTS

The temporary loss of revenue experienced with route changes due to time needed for readjustment of the riding public to the new conditions is evident in the months in which these changes were made. Following the last major change made in January, 1961, it has taken a full year to build patronage to equal that of December 1960 Seasonal low and high points are July and December.

In spite of the increased route mileage covered to give service to the extended boundaries of the city, the transit system has not yet overcome the shock of the changes in routes. The original Rawson routes enjoyed additional patronage between 5 000 and 10,000 passengers per month over considerably shorter routes. It is recognized that this was due largely to the provision of 15-minute service. With extended loop routes the Commission was forced to reduce service to ½ hour and one hour for the Avondale-Parkdale route and when the patronage pattern on these routes was established and understood, an attempt to approach the former service was made in September by adding an extra bus for peak periods on the East Hill and the Avondale-Parkdale routes, bringing the service up to 15 minutes and ½ hour respectively for these periods. With these changes and the discontinuance of the experimental Bridge-Victoria route, there is an apparent improvement in public acceptance.

While the lesson learned from route changes is that they are disturbing to the public and costly to the system, at least temporarily it also must be recognized and appreciated that as the city grows, the travelling habits of the public will change, and further route changes may have to be made in order to accommodate this growth. It is also true that the presence of a bus line influences the direction of the growth of the city.

When routes are extended beyond the economic limit as they have been in Belleville, the next step is to explore possibilities for greater use on those routes which are running below capacity. One such example is the Avondale area, where lack of a cross connecting street between Avondale Road and Wright Avenue deprives 93 homes of a convenient access to the bus service. The Commission has therefore brought to council's attention for the second time within the year, the need for opening Glen Road, and has had a brief before council since October, recommending that this street be opened to enable the Commission to run a loop circuit around this area instead of dead-ending as at present, to improve both service and revenue.

OTHER CHART

Another chart comparing monthly "operating revenue" and "operating expenditure" shows the need for levelling out certain large expenditures on a monthly basis, such as insurance (June). It is expected that the decision taken by the Commission and approved by council to provide five new buses will reduce the abnormal repair bills which have been a further disturbing influence.

Using only the operating revenue, and operating expenditure as a basis for calculation, these two figures have been derived to give expression to the state of the operation as the basis of comparison for future years: Revenue per mile, 35 cents; operating cost per mile, 45 cents. Also the average number of passengers carried per mile was only 2.17 indicating the light loading and need for greater load density. To break even, on an operating basis only, without recovery of capital investment, it is necessary to carry an additional 16,250 passengers a month raising the monthly average from 52,500 to 68,750 passengers per month. In other words, the peak month of December 1961 represents what should be an average month throughout the year for the system to break even.

FINANCIAL RESULTS

The financial statement embodied in this report shows a deficit made up as follows: operating deficit, $22,331.95 and the capital charges were $9,588.38.

The deficit position seems to be a rather normal condition in these times for almost all municipal transit systems, and reflects the severe competition of the private automobile. It is the policy of most municipalities to regard the provision of a public transportation system as a necessity for the good of its citizens, particularly the young, the aged, and the less fortunate. Continuation of such service may well be the only solution to traffic congestion and parking problems. Considering these factors it is a moot point whether the Transit System should be required to be entirely self-supporting, any more than other conveniences such as paved roads, street lights, utilities, parks and so forth which have become accepted as legitimate components of the municipal tax levy.

BEAUTIFUL

was 89 minutes.

As the rocket rose skyward, Glenn, acting like a true test pilot, reported on the condition of his instruments and of himself. He said forces of eight times the pull of gravity worked on him during the peak acceleration.

After reporting the fall of the booster, he radioed that his spacecraft had successfully turned around 180 degrees as planned so that he was riding upright and backwards, with the craft's heat shield leading the way.

Almost immediately, the Mercury tracking station at Bermuda picked up signals from the swiftly-moving vehicle and reported Glenn's voice coming in clearly.

At this point, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration confirmed that orbit had been attained.

It was planned to bring Glenn down to a landing 800 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral at approximately 2:37 p.m.

The launching came after several frustrating postponements dating back to Dec. 20. Several technical delays today backed up the scheduled 7:30 a.m. launching for more than two hours and almost forced reduction of the flight to two orbits.

Officials had said that if the liftoff occurred too much past 9:30 a.m. they might cut the number of orbits.

The gravity forces which gripped Glenn on liftoff, making his body feel eight times heavier than its normal 165 pounds, vanished suddenly when the capsule entered orbit. The pressure was gone and Glenn became weightless—the buoyant feeling that results when a delicate balance is achieved between the outward pull of centrifugal force and the downward pull of the earth's gravity.

Glenn was to be in this mysterious weightless condition for most of his flight, until the capsule re-entered the atmosphere en route back to earth. A major goal was to determine man's capabilities and limitations in this environment.

It is a sensation future space travellers must learn to cope with for days and weeks at a time.

Still ahead for Glenn lay a critical period of re-entry at completion of the three orbits. A trio of reverse rockets at the base of the capsule were to be fired by a signal from an automatic clock aboard the craft as it approached the west coast of the United States near the end of the third circuit.

If all fire properly, speed will be reduced by 350 miles an hour, enough to take the capsule out of orbit and enable it to descend gradually to a landing near Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas.

Because the capsule, "Friendship 7," was speeding five miles a second, it would miss the intended impact zone by five miles every second of error in the clock. Or, if only one or two of the rockets fired, it would miss the area by hundreds of miles and recovery would be more difficult.

After firing of the retros, Glenn then had to rely on the complex spacecraft control parachute and landing systems and the far-flung recovery forces for his salvation.

Or, as in the case of the orbital flight of Enos the chimpanzee last November, trouble could develop in the capsule and the flight be terminated early.

At 10:09 a.m., the Kano, Nigeria, station made contact and reported that the mission seemed to be going as planned.

EATS FIRST MEAL

The Kano station said Glenn was in "excellent voice" as he passed overhead. It also reported that the astronaut had eaten his first meal in space at about this period and had exercised the manual control systems in the capsule.

Glenn carried two tubes of a mixture of beef and vegetables which he squeezed into his mouth through an opening in his helmet.

He was high over the Indian Ocean tracking ship at 10:30 a.m. Here, he passed suddenly from daylight into darkness and in a period of about 45 minutes he had moved from winter in the United States to summer over the Indian Ocean.

Halfway through the first orbit, Dr. William Douglas, medical officer at the control centre at the cape, reported Glenn was in a "completely normal situation and proceeding in excellent condition."

GOING WELL

As he passed over the Muchea, Australia, station, Glenn conversed with fellow astronaut Gordon Cooper, following progress of the flight in Australia. Glenn told Cooper that everything was going well and he also reported seeing much cloud cover over the Indian Ocean.

He told Cooper he observed a cluster of very bright lights below. He assumed these were the lights of Perth, where everybody in town planned to turn on their lamps in hopes that Glenn would see them as he whizzed overhead.

Glenn said:

"Thank everybody for turning them on."

Past Presidents Kinsmen Club Are Honored

Local Kinsmen honored former past presidents at their "Past Presidents' Night" held at the Shrine Club yesterday evening. Guest speaker for the occasion was Mr Al Thompson of Kingston, inspector for the Department of Health.

Mr. Thompson stressed the importance of the individual developing his talents and planning ability. This, together with self confidence, a definite goal in life and hard work, must eventually lead to success, he suggested.

The speaker also urged that one not lack faith in his purpose in life else he would fall by the wayside.

Dependability was a quality stressed by Mr. Thompson, who also emphasized the importance of service club work to both the community and the individual. He noted the community development often depends to a great degree on the activity and projects of the service clubs within it.

Kinsman Frank Lang was honored as one of the community's outstanding Kinsmen and recognition was paid to his having achieved 20 years of perfect attendance, a record for the local club.

Will Purchase Ice Planer For Arena

City council last night approved the purchase of an ice planer for the Belleville Memorial Arena at a cost of $1,382.

Alderman William Lowen told council the planer would enable the thinner ice sheet to be maintained with resultant savings in the cost of operating the ice refrigerating machine. Costs of ice removal would also be reduced because of the thinner ice, it was stated.

Alderman Robert Temple opposed the purchase of the planer at this time claiming the item instead should be placed in the year's budget.

And Alderman William Jarvah went a step further asserting that council should know the amount of the 1961 arena deficit before giving approval to the purchase.

"As it is we would be merely adding to the deficit," he said.

Ald. Les. Digby noted that the cost of the machine would be recovered to a certain extent by renting it to Trenton.

Many Members Now Observing Boy Scout Week

In recent weeks Boy Scouts and their leaders across the country have been preparing for Boy Scout Week which is being observed this week. Purpose of the observance is to focus public attention on the organization, to show what Scouting is and what it offers.

During the week, which will include celebrations in honor of the movement's founder, the late Lord Baden-Powell whose birthday is Feb. 22, Canada's 309,517 Cubs, Scouts and Rovers with their leaders, hope to gather the interest of parents, relatives and friends by holding open house meetings. More than 11,000 packs, troops and crews have drawn up programs displaying the organization's work.

Other highlights will be displays of equipment, photographs and crafts in store windows and in lobbies of public buildings. Many groups will feature parents' night, father-and-son banquets, hobby shows and group reunions.

Some groups will see the film Jamboree Diary, a record of one Scout's impressions of the 3rd Canadian Jamboree held last summer in Ottawa. Others will take part in winter camping projects, overnight hikes, skiing, tobogganing and other events.

TO SERVE AT HQ

OTTAWA (CP) — Brig. Dollard Menard, 48, who commanded Les Fusiliers Mont Royal in the famous Dieppe raid of August, 1942, has been appointed to army headquarters for duty with the army's survival operation. The army announced Monday that Brig. Menard will serve under Maj.-Gen. A. E. Wrinch, major general survival.

Council Requests Hospital Study Ambulance Service

Belleville city council would like to investigate the possibility of an ambulance service being operated by the Belleville General Hospital.

Yesterday council approved of a motion asking that the hospital board of governors be asked to appoint a special committee to act with the finance committee of council to investigate the possibility of a hospital operated ambulance service.

Alderman Don Whalen questioned the logic of the move when, as he put it, "we already have three ambulance services competing for business in the city."

Alderman Ross Bailey chairman of the finance committee, replied there had been several applications for the provision of ambulance service in the city but most had been on the basis of an exclusive franchise with subsidy.

He said it was felt that before a decision was made to pay a subsidy the hospital angle should be explored.

Greenbelt Area On Cannifton Road 'Thawed'

With close to a foot-and-a-half of snow arriving during the past week, Old Man Winter is still definitely here for the most of us, but a thaw has set in for property owners on the east side of Cannifton Road in the northern part of the city.

The "thaw" approved last night by city council means that the property of residents living between the Moira River and Cannifton Road is no longer frozen.

Council agreed that the greenbelt in the above area be changed to RM1.

Alderman Leslie Digby noted that the area in question had been zoned as a greenbelt which in effect "froze" the property so that it could not be sold for other use or even improved.

He said the intention had been that the city would ultimately purchase the property and develop the area as a greenbelt.

NOT ABLE TO BUY

But it had now been decided the city was not in a financial position to purchase the property and the only fair thing was to re-zone it as was being recommended by the suburban planning board.

Alderman William Jarvah noted the matter had been before council several times but council had been told that nothing could be done about the matter.

The alderman wanted to know why action could now be taken on recommendation of the planning board when the request of private individuals had been refused.

Alderman Stuart Robb felt that re-zoning the area now would be defeating the purpose of the over-all city zoning.

"What's the use of zoning if we are now going to make this area commercial", he asked.

Alderman Jack Ireland said that many other areas zoned as greenbelts were being retained by the city.

Lightfoot Will Build Two Pumping Stations

The Lightfoot Construction Company of Belleville will build the two pumping stations necessary for the initial stage of the city's sewage disposal project.

Alderman Jack Ellis, chairman of the city council special sewage disposal committee, yesterday told city council that the bid of the Belleville firm was the lowest for the construction of the pumping plant at Fireman's Park and on Dundas Street West, opposite the Ontario School for the Deaf.

The contract price for the construction of the two stations was $198,260, or about two per cent lower than the estimate of consulting engineers Gore and Storrie.

GUARD BOONE HOME

LONDON (AP)—Movie actor Pat Boone has a 24-hour police guard around his London home. The residence was ransacked Sunday by thieves who made off with about $2,800 in personal effects.

Britain Gives All Her Forces Air Mobility

LONDON (AP) — Britain today announced a sweeping policy of complete air mobility for her defence forces to make them capable of reaching any world trouble spot in a few days.

This was coupled with even tighter integration of the three armed services at the top command levels.

Defence Minister Harold Watkinson presented Parliament with a white paper, an official government document dealing with military planning for the next five years.

Arms expenditure for the fiscal year beginning April 1 was budgeted at £1,721,000,000 an increase of £65,400,000 over the current year.

The new policy of airborne striking forces is designed to enable Britain to maintain her military commitments in the East and the Orient.

But it also could touch off an argument on strategic policy with the United States government, informants said.

Although the white paper makes no mention of a cut in the British army in West Germany, the whole trend of the planning indicates that continental commitments will be pared down in the future to provide a mobile strategic striking force.

Another Storm Hits Maritimes

HALIFAX (CP) — A blizzard swept into the Maritimes today and headed for Newfoundland, just beginning to recover from another snowstorm.

Five to 10 inches of snow were forecast for the Maritimes, with winds up to 50 miles an hour expected to cause heavy drifting.

Newfoundland is likely to get the storm with even more fury tomorrow. Ten inches or more is forecast.

A storm that dropped up to two feet of snow in central Newfoundland moved northward Monday night, leaving many roads blocked.

Why Adults Are Jealous

Dr. John Rich, a psychologist who spoke at the annual dinner of the Hamilton Big Brother Association, said adults are jealous of teenagers.

"To be young today," comments the Hamilton Spectator, "might not be 'very heaven,' but by contrast with being young in the depression years it looks something like it. Adults look back on parched desert in which they spent their youth and compare it with the green fields of today where by contrast there is a horn of plenty and opportunity calls for only a little effort from youth. Surely, a little jealousy is understandable."

It certainly is if, by youth, is meant not only the teens but also the twenties.

To call the depression years a "parched desert" for the teens is not, however, quite correct. They were for some, whose families were on relief. But we cannot escape the conviction that in the thirties, and the twenties, too, young people enjoyed themslves just as much, or more, than they do today. They lacked money—but this made a demand on their inner resources. There might be only a couple of school dances a year—but they were, for this reason, all the more memorable. When one is young, there is more fun in flooding a rink of one's own, than in having a season ticket to an ice palace. If one gets to the beach twice in a summer, it is not at all certain that one gets only a tenth of the pleasure obtained from outings twice weekly.

What makes an adult jealous of today's youth is not the opportunities for pleasure, but the opportunities for work. Given a normal intelligence and diligence, a young man or woman can today go far, fast. Remuneration is high. It is not true that prices have outstripped wages, for an increase in productivity has brought a real increase in living standards. If he is content to live frugally, a young man who is single today can work and travel, or work and study, or even work and loaf, in alternate years.

Surely, as the Hamilton Spectator says, a little jealousy is understandable.

A Timely Warning

Political tags are often deceiving, but in view of the great changes now underway in Quebec nobody could say that Premier Jean Lesage is really a man of conservative temperament. This adds appreciably to his warning against a current trend in the world of journalism.

"If the reporter becomes a commentator, who will inform the public of the facts?" he asked managing editors from across Canada, gathered at Quebec City for their annual conference. "Commentary, interpretation and explanation are necessary," he admitted, "but the facts have priority."

His remarks will strike echoes in the consciences of many older newspapermen who, because of their years, may have hesitated to speak out in like manner for fear that their misgivings might be no more than that dislike of change which often is the companion of advancing years.

But, as we said, Premier Lesage cannot be mistaken for a man opposed to change, per se.

We consider his words timely, not because interpretative articles on newspages do not fulfill a useful purpose, but because we fear that this trend, like many another, may be carried too far. Indeed, there is already evidence that it has been carried too far on some occasions—reports emanating from the U.S. on the anti-Castro invasion of Cuba were nine-tenths interpretation of the U.S. viewpoint and one-tenth facts.

We commend to newspapermen, everywhere, Mr. Lesage's sage observation: Facts have priority.

The shelter owner gambles (like the track bettor) that a complex set of variables will so arrange themselves that his shelter (or his horse) will come through.—Dexter Masters, director of Consumers Union, saying fallout shelters are a poor bet.

The widespread and free dispersal of firearms in this country today is the greatest assurance of liberty, next to the grace of God, that can possibly be imagined.—U.S. Gen. Edwin A. Walker (ret.), rightist spokesman.

Why . . . should man die of old age? I consider the process of aging a pathological, an abnormal process. I am sure that one can find means of switching off the mechanism which makes cells age.—V. T. Kuprevich, Soviet scientist.

Ottawa Offbeat

"No Sing-Song, Please" Order Issued in Bulletins

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — This is going to be a very musical election campaign — a sort of "Sing Along With Mike" — "Jazz It Up With John"—or "Downbeat with Dief"—and, just to get the NDP-CCF into the act, "Tune In With Tommy."

Ever since the luckless Liberals met with the unhappy accident of being caught open-mouthed at their National Council banquet singing The Whiffenpoof Song, they have had to cringe as gleeful Conservatives kidded them about their public confession of being "poor little lost lambs."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has taken to referring to them as "little lost sheep," and it's just possible that the Conservatives in the campaign will be developing and exploiting The Whiffenpoof Song as a sort of political battle cry in reverse.

Perhaps Conservative National Organizer Allister Grosart might arrange with his captains in the constituencies across the land to plant a political barbershop quartet in the back of the hall at Liberal election rallies, with instructions to do a little Whiffenpoofing at the psychological moment.

Might be fun.

• • •

NO END OF IT

But the Whiffenpoof Song has not been the only embarrassment in harmony that the Liberals have suffered.

At this same National Council pow-wow, they came up with still another politically inappropriate song:

With Toronto tenor and CBC TV luminary George Murray and Ontario Liberal Association President and television panelist Royce Frith giving them the downbeat, they gave out — all unabashed until they began hearing the echoes — with this:

Hey, look us over,
Lend us an ear,
Fresh out of clover,
Mortgaged up to here:
But don't pass the plate, folks,
Don't pass the cup:
We figure whenever you're down and out
The only way is up.
And we'll be like rosebuds
High on the vine;
Don't thumb your nose bud,
Take a tip from mine,
We're a little bit short of elbow room,
But let us get us some,
And look out world, here we come.

It has all been very painful . . . what with so tunefully confessing to be "poor little lambs who have lost our way" . . . and then innocently admitting to be so far "down and out, the only way is up."

• • •

NO SONGS PLEASE

Liberal Leader Pearson and the heaquarters offices here of the National Liberal Federation have been grinning and bearing it as best they could.

For this is one of those oddball things that just might catch on in the campaign . . . and it would be devastating if the Liberals were to be tagged in the public mind — even in fun — as little lost lambs.

The two jolly Liberal lyricists, Murray and Frith, have been permanently retired from the political song business.

As a matter of fact, just to be safe, the organizational men in both Liberal and Conservative parties have put out an all-constituencies bulletin . . . "No sing-song, Please!"

It's a little late for that now, as far as the Liberals are concerned. For the damage has been done, and The Whiffenpoof Song has even been turning up in some of the political cartoons on the editorial pages of the nation's press.

Could be that before the campaign is over, The Whiffenpoof Song and the perhaps lesser known, Hey Look Me Over, will have become almost as familiar as O Canada.

In fact, out of sheer gratitude, the Conservatives could do the generous thing — after marching to the polls and back to power on Parliament Hill on The Whiffenpoof beat — and give the song some status of official designation, perhaps as alternative national anthem, fourth grade.

Letter To The Editor

Answers Criticism Of 'Ads' on Radio

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

I just received a clipping from one of your papers of the past week. It was a letter to the editor from a "Rural Reader." When I am not here in Kingston, I too am a rural reader and therefore I do not like the unpleasant association with the letter.

First, about the commercials; just how does our "Rural Reader" think the wonderful services of radio are provided? The costly equipment necessary for a radio station and the large staff required to run it all cost money. Sponsors provide this money so that the listener does not have to pay one cent for all the service he gets. I wonder if your anonymous reader objects to the Intelligencer's advertisements. Maybe he'd rather pay many times the present subscription rate to avoid some of those hideous big ads, especially the annoying one-page kind.

Now about the humor. I am a loyal listener of the local radio station. I am unable to receive it here in Kingston, unfortunately, and I sincerely miss it. I especially miss the excellent, cheerful morning show with its bright bits of humor. I did not hear the joke in question, but I hope I do. I am quite curious. If the program is distasteful it can be quite easily censored; simply shut off the radio, (no unhandy clipping as is necessary with a paper or magazine). If radio, or the newspaper, never offended anyone it would be extremely dull and completely useless. Even the news could not be reported properly.

I have known many of the staff members of the local station for several years and I feel quite sure that they "do do their best to please their audience." but audience is a collective noun; the audience is certainly composed of infinitely more than one listener. Some people may take offence at one small detail but the programs are planned for the majority of the audience. I think the fact that the programs are well selected can best be demonstrated by the numerous awards the local station has amassed over the years. It certainly has an enviable reputation concerning the quality of programming, and I might add, one that few other stations in this area can equal.

I too object to one segment of radio programming. Rock and Roll, Twist or whatever they call it now disgusts me. But I have a solution, I exercise my censorship and either change stations or shut the radio off.

A rural reader who is not ashamed to state his name.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

EMOTION

Some people have the idea that emotion is always wrong. Oh, to be sure, there is emotion in every love affair. Boy meets girl, girl meets boy, and of course falling in love is an emotional experience. But the emotions are meant for more than romantic experiences.

Anger is a good and necessary emotion when kept within bounds and when directed only against evil and injustice. Fear is a proper emotion when we confront things of real danger. Zeal and enthusiasm will get us a long way toward success. So never let us smile at those people who appear always to be bubbling over with plans, projects, and loyalties.

Physically we are built in such a way that if our emotions get out of balance the body cannot bear them without pain and disorder. Well-channeled emotions fill life with joy and a sense of purpose. Ill-adjusted emotions, uncontrolled anger, morbid fear, sensuality in all its forms — these first corrupt the soul, then distort the mind, then tear the body apart.

Well-integrated emotions are not the only thing in the makeup of a satisfactory individual, but there can be no satisfactory life unless the emotions are well integrated. They must be controlled.

The true formula for joyous living is the proper channeling of emotions in such a way that our lives glow with lustre, our minds see the world as it is, our hearts rest in peace.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 20th, 1942.

On February 15th at a meeting of the Jewish Ladies' Auxiliary, the winning ticket was drawn on a raffle in aid of the Red Cross. The proceeds of this raffle, which was sponsored by the Jewish Ladies' Auxiliary, amounting to $77.50, has been handed to the Belleville Red Cross Society.

Mr. A. R. Symons was re-elected to the office of president of the Belleville Horticultural Society at the annual meeting of the Association. President Symons particularly stressed the work the Society accomplished at Memorial Park in their landscape enterprise and also the assistance given to Avondale school which won the award for the best rural school beautification for South Hastings last year.

Possibly no family in the Belleville district, or even in Ontario, has made a greater contribution toward Canada's war effort than the members of the Whittard family of James Street. To date their contribution has been, their only two sons serving with the Canadian armed forces, while the parents have supplied more than 500 knitted articles for the boys on active service. The father is a veteran of the First Great War. "It's the only contribution that I now can make toward the war effort," stated Mr. C. H. Whittard to the Ontario Intelligencer, as he modestly admitted that he could knit a pair of socks in a day.

30 YEARS AGO

February 20th, 1932.

At the annual meeting of the congregation of Bridge Street United Church, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Bell, presided. Mr. J. E. Shortt reported for the Sunday School of which he is the superintendent; Mrs. Stoneburg, secretary, reported for the Women's Association; Mrs. Harold Holton reported for the Women's Missionary Society; Miss Lazier reported for the Mission Circle; Miss Betty Gilbert reported for the Mission Board, and Miss Marjorie Hall reported for the Canadian Girls in Training. Mr. Harry Ackerman reported that the amount raised for all purposes was $22,58[illegible] and the amount raised for missionary and maintenance funds was $7,873.19. The following were elected to membership in the Quarterly Official Board. — Mrs. J. G. Galloway, Messrs. H. J. Clarke, E. W. Dickens, Morley P. Duff, George H. Griffin, John F. Houston, Glenn McKinnon, Fred W. Sprague, Ralph Morden, Russell Wotten, J. Imlah and W .H. Finkle. During the year two bequests totalling $6,236.83 were turned over to the church treasurer from the estates of the late Mrs. Addie Campion and the late Mrs. Annie Farley.

40 YEARS AGO

February 20th, 1922.

This part of the province had a real mid-winter thunder storm last evening which commenced about 6.30 o'clock. The services in the churches had hardly commenced when the lights went out. In Bridge Street Church the gas equipment was used but it lighted the church dimly. The organ could no be used for lack of electric power, and the choir and the congregation sang well-known hymns unaccompanied. In the Tabernacle a few gas lights were used, and in other churches candles were brought into use. Thunder in winter means cold weather according to weather prophets, but this remains to be seen.

Strictly Personal

Character Building Is Often Ignored

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the great joys of parenthood that I have seldom heard or read much about is the blossoming sense of "fairness" in the child.

There is a great deal of sentimental satisfaction when the young child takes his first step, or utters his first word, or exhibits any of the "cuteness" or "brightness" so endearing in little ones.

But what should be most celebrated by parents — if they know what a human being ought to be — is the beginning of a sense of justice and fair play in the child's mind and character.

That is a lovely thing to see, much more admirable and worthy of comment, encouragement and praise than the show-off antics we customarily give our approval to.

When the child first returns a toy to its proper owner, when he admits the blame for an action, when he wants no more than his fair share, when he absolves another from guilt and when he displays the charity that goes beyond justice — then we have reason to be rpoud.

But this budding sense of fairness, this tender flower of humanity, is too often ignored or neglected by parents who lavish their praise on smart sayings or self-conscious precocity on the part of the child.

It is curious and depressing that proud parents will place so high an evaluation upon the child's mental or physical prowess but will pay little regard to his development of character. Yet in later life, as we know, if the character is stunted or twisted, mental or physical skills cannot compensate for this poverty of soul.

It is interesting, too, that while parents pay so high a tribute to the child's "brightness," this brightness comes to be regarded with suspicion and resentment if it is continued into adolescence and young adulthood.

Most parents do not feel easy or comfortable with extremely bright children; and, indeed, our whole society views intellectual superiority with a sullen eye. Why, therefore, do we place so high a premium on the small child's "brightness," if we want to stifle it when he grows older?

I think the reason for this is that parents who excessively encourage smartness in their little child often do so at the expense of the child's general character. They would rather have the child be shrewd than fair, and quick of tongue than warm of heart. Thus, many bright children grow up deficient in character traits, for these traits have not been nurtured in the family.

A "cute" child is a delight; but a fair-minded one is a blessing beyond all value, long after the cuteness has disappeared.

To Your Good Health

Leukoplakia Very Rarely Ever Becomes Cancerous

Dear Dr. Molner: My sister has a bad case of leukoplakia. The doctor had her on Vitamin A capsules. Her tongue and mouth were doing well, but he took her off and said he wanted to try something new. Right away her tongue and mouth became worse.

After a few days she became so discouraged that she started taking Vitamin A and is feeling better. If she takes too much Vitamin A, what could happen?

I understand that leukoplakia can become cancerous in a short time. I want to help and encourage my sister but I certainly don't want her to do anything contrary to the doctor's advice. — Mrs. J.S.

Leukoplakia is a thickening of the linings of the mouth — or of similar tissues elsewhere in the body. However, we most frequently note it in the mouth.

The surface, normally pink, shows patches of white as it thickens. An area of leukoplakia may become cancerous in some small percentage of cases. Although this happens infrequently, it's certainly worth while to keep watching leukoplakia or to get rid of it entirely, if possible.

Vitamins A and C, in large doses over a long period, are often helpful. Sometimes injections of crude liver are beneficial.

Most certainly it helps if the underlying causes are found and corrected. These can be poor oral hygiene; chronic irritation from lip-biting; sharp, broken teeth or dentures that don't fit correctly; and perhaps the commonest of all, heavy smoking. Other types of irritation may also be responsible.

As to your sister taking Vitamin A after her doctor had switched to some other medication — it may be that the Vitamin A is best for her, for all you know. Or for all I know, or for all her doctor knows.

But she should not just go ahead and take it without letting her doctor know exactly what she is doing. Not all people react the same way to medications. Observing the results is the only way to find out which people may be exceptions to general rules.

Your sister's doctor, having started the new medicine (which might, conceivably, contain a mixture of Vitamins A and C, or may be something else) can't tell what the new medicine will or won't do if she is taking something else unknown to him.

It is possible to take too much Vitamin A, as it is possible to take too much of almost anything, even water! However, Vitamin A causes trouble only after very large overdoses for quite a long time.

The skin may become yellowish, or the hair thinner or coarse, or the skin dry and rough. There may be bleeding under the outer layer of the bones, hence causing swelling and tenderness.

Fortunately the symptoms disappear promptly when the drug is stopped.

Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor tells me I have a fibroid tumor as large as an orange. I am 45. Shall I have a hysterectomy now or wait until I'm 50? I still have noraml periods. Is it possible for the tumor to get smaller? — Mrs. A.R.

Waiting five years may be too long. While these fibroids sometimes diminish slightly with menopause, this cannot be predicted. Some of them may cause serious trouble. So I suggest that you let your doctor decide whether removal should be done now.

Note to Mrs. W.S.: Obstruction of the Fallopian tubes sometimes can be corrected by insufflation — blowing a gas through them. Sometimes this then permits pregnancy. And on the other hand, the procedure also may indicate whether some permanent obstruction exists.

Whites Make Eskimos Lie

Ottawa Citizen

The Eskimos, according to hints advanced at the recent meeting of the Northwest Territories Council in Ottawa, may be turned into liars because of their contact with white men, and white men's discipline. This is a sobering thought. At first blush, one would conclude that the white man is helpful. An inability to lie is, after all, a barrier to many careers: politics, for example, or diplomacy. Yet it would be a pity if Eskimos were brought that far into the white's man world.

One need not be sentimental to agree that much of the Eskimos' charm has depended on his innocence and this, in turn, has been founded partly on his communal way of life, partly on his reluctance to discipline his children when they are mischievous. According to J. Gall of Yellowknife, the undisciplined Eskimo child does not fear punishment and therefore does not lie about his misdemeanors. He constantly renews the myth of George Washington and the cherry tree, and then grows up to be a fine man, like Washington.

When white man's punishment is threatened he begins to lie or at least evade, in order to avoid the penalty.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EXPECTATION

Expect much and you will not be overwhelmed with disappointment if you fail to get many things that you hope for.

There is no better habit than that of adding to your expectations. Though you lose in some you average high and your courage keeps on the upward grade.

Those who pin their all to one thing in life are like those who go hunting with but a single shell. When that is shot, no other game is possible — and if there be a miss, all is lost.

There is something sublime in the man or woman who knows how to fail and then to rise.

When you get into a tight hole you need faith above all else. You need a resourceful mind able to cope with losses.

All the world loves the man who expects to win at the thing he works at or is attempting. Confidence is his background and hope is spread all along the way.

Worry eats away hope.

Within the heart is a precious substance. God put it there. It waters the garden of expectation and keeps it growing. Without this freshness life would be a dull affair and a continual struggle against odds instead of a continual struggle toward something better and more worthwhile.

Hope for more than you expect to get always.

And fill yourself so full of expectation that a little over running won't matter.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What must be the feelings of a composer of a beautiful song or melody, such, for example, as those in Camelot, when he hears, not long after the release of the piece, what the fast-buck boys of the record business do to it? Barely has the lovely composition won the hearts of the public when along come the "individualistic" pop singers, all vying with one another to see who can soup it up and distort it most effectively.

The final indignity comes when the jazz performers take hold of it. Jazz has created little material of its own. It relies very largely on squashing old familiar airs through its rituals. The sensation of those of us who are not capable of appreciating jazz, on hearing the jazz treatment of some well-remembered melody, is almost the same feeling we experience on returning to the scenes of our childhood and finding everything faded, shrunken, decrepit and slummy. Or worse, like revisiting an old familiar summer resort, all its beauty and serenity vanished, and given over to hot dog stands, juke boxes, large garish signboards and decayed motels.

HAZEN ARGUE

like to be designated simply as Hazen Argue (Assiniboia) without any party or independent affiliation label.

A reporter asked whether he had any kind words to say about Stanley Knowles, former CCF MP and now a vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress who was a founding father of the NDP.

NEEDS KIND WORDS

"Mr. Knowles will need all the kind words he can get if he decides to run in Winnipeg North Centre again," Mr. Argue said.

He said he had nothing to say now about apparent attempts by the NDP founding fathers to push him into the background in the leadership race which he lost to T. C. Douglas, former premier of Saskatchewan.

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton had understated the situation when he suggested that the NDP would lose 20 per cent of its Western support with the loss of the farmer vote resulting from the Argue defection.

"I think it will be much greater than 20 per cent and that it is dropping off fast. In the next number of days there will be resignations from the NDP in very substantial numbers."

DOESN'T KNOW

Asked whether any federal CCF-NDP members of parliament would quit the party with him, he said:

"Not to my knowledge."

He explained he knew them intimately but would not speak for provincial members or others in the party.

Some of the desertions, he said, would be "just as newsworthy and shocking as the one that has already taken place"—apparently referring to his own action.

WOULD PICK LIBERALS

He told an airport press conference following a flight with Mrs. Argue from Regina that as a political alternative he would have no difficulty picking the Liberals over the Progressive Conservatives.

"Of the two old parties, there's no question in my mind that the Liberal party under Mr. Pearson with the advisers he's acquired around him has formulated in many fields a fairly progressive program. I think the government on the other hand has been a complete fiasco. . . ."

Of his immediate plans, he said:

"I thought I might discuss the general question with the Speaker tomorrow although I do not have any proposal to put to the Speaker but I just thought I might discuss with him how the name plate (on his desk) is moved to some other location."

He said he had not decided whether to put in an appearance on the floor of the Commons, which meets at 11 a.m. EST today.

Regarding possible entry into provincial politics, he said "I'm not going to the provincial field."

REPEATS CHARGES

Mr. Argue repeated the charges he made when he resigned—that the NDP, formed last August by the CCF and Canadian Labor Congress, is labor-dominated.

He forecast that prominent members of the NDP, not necessarily among the eight remaining members in the Commons, will follow his lead out of the party in the near future.

He said he was "amazed and overjoyed" at the flood of telephone calls received by him and members of his family, all expressing support for his decision to quit the NDP.

He also was "amazed at the number of defections and decisions not to run" in the West. He mentioned among these Al Mackling, a former Manitoba CCF president, and Jake Shulz, an official of the Manitoba Farmers Union.

On the same flight with Mr. and Mrs. Argue as far as Toronto was T. C. Douglas, national leader of the NDP who defeated Mr. Argue for the party leadership last August. Both said it was coincidental.

To a reporter's suggestion that the two might be pitted against each other at the next federal election in Assiniboia constituency, Mr. Argue said "I would welcome it. . . . I think I would be the winner by a very wide majority."

Mr. Argue has held the Saskatchewan constituency for 17 years. Its boundaries include most of the provincial constituency Mr. Douglas represented as Saskatchewan premier from 1944 until he resigned last year after winning the NDP leadership.

As Mr. Argue flew to the capital, Liberal officials conferred on the question of placing before the Liberal caucus of MPs any bid by Mr. Argue to sit as a Liberal MP.

Sources here said such a proposal was placed before Mr. Pearson by Saskatchewan Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher, himself a former CCF MP who left the CCF in 1955 and joined the Liberals in the Commons a year later.

ELECT HERRIDGE

Mr. Argue's resignation was followed by election of H. W. Herridge, CCF MP for Kootenay West, as parliamentary leader by a meeting of six of the eight remaining members of the CCF-NDP group in Parliament.

This left the post of deputy leader, held for some time by Mr. Herridge, unfilled and was reported to have raised new problems among the group. Rumors circulated that it remained vacant as a result of uncertainty about the course that might be followed by two veteran CCF members.

Shortly before leaving Regina, Mr. Argue said the eight remaining members are "disillusioned" and that he expected other members to follow his lead.

A suggestion that Walter Pitman, NDP member for Peterborough and junior member of the group, become deputy leader was said to have been shelved in the face of violent opposition from Harold Winch, former CCF leader in British Columbia and an MP since 1953. Mr. Pitman, first MP elected under the NDP banner, entered the Commons after a byelection in October, 1960.

The matter may be thrashed out next week when Erhart Regier, CCF member for Burnaby-Coquitlam, returns from a visit to British Guiana and Murdo Martin, CCF MP for Timmins, returns from a visit to his constituency.

Party sources indicated both Mr. Winch and Mr. Regier may lay claim to the deputy leadership.

The caucus and Mr. Argue's former party colleagues vigorously denied Mr. Argue's charge that the NDP has become a tool of a labor clique.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF national leader until 1960 when Mr. Argue succeeded him, said Mr. Argue "betrayed a trust." He had pledged his support to the new party at the founding convention and had said "'you may be sure I will never let you down.'"

"No one knows better than Mr. Argue that his charge . . . is without foundation in fact," the party's elder statesman said, in a prepared statement.

"I am certain that my feelings will be shared by many thousands of friends across Canada who have placed principles and loyalty ahead of personal ambition."

Mr. Douglas said it was hard to reconcile Mr. Argue's statement with the fact that Saturday Mr. Argue addressed the provincial council of the CCF-NDP in Regina and consulted with Mr. Douglas on future plans for the NDP.

"At no time did he indicate to me he contemplated leaving the ranks of the NDP."

CLC Vice - President Stanley Knowles, a CCF MP for 13 years and a prime mover in the NDP founding, said Mr. Argue "made charges he himself knows to be false." Mr. Argue was trying to find an excuse prompted by his disappointment that he didn't become party leader.

Department Will Be Asked to Make Survey

The Ontario Department of Economics and Development will be asked to make a survey in the city to determine the need and demand for self-contained senior citizens' rental accommodation.

Yesterday council approved of the request of the Belleville Real Estate Board for the survey to be made on condition that all costs be borne by the real estate organization.

The local real estate organization is considering the erection of senior citizens' accommodation in the city.

Parkdale Baptist Holds Anniversary

The first anniversary service of Parkdale Baptist Church was celebrated last weekend. Church members look back on the past year with hearts full of praise for all the Lord has done, and to the future, confident that God's blessings will increase in the year that is ahead.

The Rev. Jack Scott from Forward Baptist Church in Toronto, ministered the Word on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Lorraine Morrison from Toronto was the guest soloist.

Church members warmly welcomed back Rev. Robert Snyder, their former pastor, to assist in each of the services.

Friday's service was devoted to "family night" and Saturday's service was for "young people." Each time he spoke, Dr. Scott gave a warm but powerful message. On Sunday evening he spoke on the three great statements made by Jesus Christ: "It is written." (Matt. 4:7 — The Bible is "the Word of the Lord." In the Bible God has revealed His character; His love and His justice. "It is finished." (John 19:30 — In these words from the Cross we see 'the work of the Lord.' Christ's death made possible man's redemption. Christianity without the Cross is empty, for it was for this cause that Christ came into the world. "It is I." (Matt. 14:27 — Man's only anchor is found in 'the Person of the Lord.' Life is short; without Christ it has no purpose. "Christ can give us this new life that has meaning. He will take control of our time, talents and treasures. If we know Jesus Christ as Savior, we should make Him 'Lord of All'."

New Trial Lights Will Be Placed in Downtown Area

As part of the city's five-year street lighting plan which has now reached about the half-way point, Belleville's downtown area is scheduled to be brightened up with the installation of new lights.

Just when the new lights will be installed has not yet been determined but apparently there is an agitation afoot on the part of local merchants to have the program stepped forward.

Yesterday at city council, Alderman Jack Ireland as chairman of the city traffic and light committee, said that trial lights would be installed on Front Street to give merchants and residents the opportunity of determining which type is favored. Two mercury vapor type lights and two fluorescent type lights will be installed for trial purposes.

The lights now in the downtown area were installed back in 1947. They are series incandescent 10,000 lumen type lamps.

DOUBLE CAPACITY

The type to be placed on a trial basis will be of double or more this capacity. Mercury vapor type lamps have a more or less directional beam which effectively light the street, while the fluorescent type serve to light the buildings as well as the street.

Alderman Ireland said replacing of lights in the downtown area was now under review by his committee.

With the 1959 annexation and the subsequent street lighting program introduced by council, street lighting costs in Belleville have increased considerably over the figure of only a few years ago when the annual lighting bill was around $20,000. Alderman Ireland said the cost last year was double this amount and was still going up.

Yesterday council approved of a recommendation carried over from two weeks ago which called for the removal of certain parking meters on Front Street with the spaces to be allotted for the use of commercial vehicles for deliveries between 9 and 11 a.m.

Two weeks ago the recommendation was turned back to the committee for further consideration.

Rescind By-law Authorizing Fluoridation; Will Hold Vote

Belleville's off and on again fluoridation question today is a step nearer to having the issue decided by the electors.

With the issue now having been before council for almost a year, the city fathers yesterday voted to rescind the by-law authorizing the fluoridation of city water supplies and agreed that the matter should be put to the electorate.

The covering by-law, however will not be dealt with for another two weeks.

Yesterday Alderman Jack Ellis presented a strong case for fluoridation, quoting different Canadian and American health authorities who claim that fluoridation could result in the elmination of at least two thirds of dental caries.

Alderman Eugene Harrison also spoke strongly in favor of going ahead with the fluoridation program, as had been directed by council last year.

Councillors generally agreed that fluoridation would reduce dental cares but claimed it was not the responsibility of council to direct that fluorides should be placed in the entire water supply.

Both Mayor A. M. Haig and Alderman Jarvah said they agreed that fluoridation could be beneficial, but declared it was the right of the people to say whether they wanted it.

The vote to rescind the previous by-law authorizing fluoridation was carried by an 8-4 vote.

Supporting the motion to rescind the by-law were Mayor Haig and Aldermen Dibgy, Ireland, Jarvah, Robb, Temple, Whalen and Wishart. Opposing the move were Aldermen Bailey, Ellis, Harrison and Lowen.

Heavy Snow Keeps Many Schools Closed

PICTON — Only cheerful people of Monday were the many hundreds of school pupils who did not have to attend classes. The seven inches of snow, plus strong winds, in the early morning hours of Monday, resulted in Prince Edward Collegiate being closed for the day as only a few of the buses would have been able to cover routes and bring in the thousand pupils. A great many rural schools were closed, including Milford Central, which in an earlier storm had its pupils housed in neighborhood homes when they could not get home. West Lake was another of the larger schools closed.

Scores of town workers were delayed until plows were able to open roads and traffic during the day was slow as most roads were heavy and drifting continued. Not in some years has there been such a quantity of snow piled along roads and some in rural areas almost resemble tunnels.

Council to Take Second Loo Before Finalizing By-law Amendment for Hastings D

In the face of strong opposition from residents of the area who are protesting any change of zoning that would allow what was termed as "highway commercial" construction, city council will take a second look before finalizing a zoning by-law amendment for the Hastings Drive area.

Two weeks ago council recommended that the zoning on two vacant lots between Hastings Drive and Dundas Street be changed from residential to general business to allow for the construction of a bank building.

Yesterday city hall council chambers were filled almost to overflowing with Hastings Drive residents protesting the proposed change. A petition bearing approximately 200 names was presented to council.

As result council voted to rescind the recommendation passed two weeks ago and laid over for two weeks an amending zoning change by-law which would allow only the construction of the proposed bank building.

ALLOWED ANY TYPE

Although the stated intention was to build a bank structure with no exit or egress from Hastings Drive, the recommendation passed two weeks ago would have allowed any type of highway commercial construction and it was this move which residents of the area sought primarily to defeat.

Yesterday's delegation to council which saw Don Barrett act as spokesman, told council it was felt commercial construction would materially lower the value of their property.

The zoning change by-law which was ready for presentation to council yesterday, was changed from the wording of the original recommendation and would have allowed only the construction of the proposed bank building.

Mayor A. M. Haig told council he took full responsibility for having the wording changed noting that this had b done after it was learned th was strenuous objection to straight change to commerc zoning.

ONLY BANK SUGGESTED

He said that the Ontario M nicipal Board had advised th were many precedents for limited change in zoning.

Mayor Haig said it had be hoped the compromise sugg ted in the by-law would ov come the objections of reside in the area.

J. N. Yanover, owner of two building lots on which bank structure is proposed be built gave assurance th only a bank structure would built on the property. Had realized there would be su strong objection he said "would not have bothered."

As spokesman for the dele tion, Mr. Barrett was unable answer a question posed by o alderman, who asked if the o jection was to a general bu ness zoning of whether the p posed bank structure was bei opposed.

Mr. Barrett said his deleg tion did not know the zoni change would restrict constru tion to the bank building.

Alderman Jack Ireland, chairman of the Industrial Co mission noted that in effect t bank building would be a sma industry which would retu heavy property and busines to the city.

The feeling of council w that a further delay of tw weeks would enable both sid to consider the matter fully.

"We all want to do the rig thing in this matter," note Mayor Haig as council voted lay the issue over for tw weeks.

Weddings

WILLIAMS — COONEY

A very pretty winter wedding was recently solemnized in Springbrook United Church at 10 o'clock, when Beverley Anne Cooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Cooney, R.R. 1, Stirling, became the bride of John Albert Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Williams, Springbrook. The Rev. H. Beare of Roseneath, performed the ceremony, assisted by Mr. H. Pillen of Springbrook.

Miss Doreen Broadworth played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Helen Morrow, of Stirling, who sang "Because" before the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. The church was decorated with white potted 'mums for the occasion.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked radiantly lovely in her street-length gown of white silk organza with fitted bodice and lily-point sleeves. The Sweetheart neckline and the skirt were trimmed with sequins as well as the elbow length veil, which was held in place by a seed pearl trimmed crown. Her bouquet was of orchids and camellias.

The maid of honor, Miss Bernice McCurdy, Stirling, was gowned in pink peau de soie satin with matching mittens and white petal hat and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Joy Cooney, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Miss Jane Robinson of Belleville, as junior bridesmaid, were gowned in blue peau de soie satin, fashioned the same as that of the maid of honor's. Each wore matching mittens and white hats and carried bouquets of pink roses.

Little Miss Linda Jones, Belleville, dressed in yellow nylon with matching head wreath and carrying a nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley, was flower girl.

Mark Cooney youngest brother of the bride was ring bearer.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Lynn Johnston of Kingston and the ushers were Bob Cooney, brother of the bride, and Terry Hutcheon of Springbrook.

After signing of the register the bridal party and the parents received the guests in the church. The bride's mother dressed in blue-figured crepe with black accessories and wearing a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother dressed in green printed silk jersey with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

All bouquets and corsages were designed and made by the bridegroom's grandmother.

A reception was held in the church basement. The head-table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Pink and white candles and the bridal bouquets completed the decoration.

The other tables were decorated with centres of pink and white flowers and pink and white candles. The junior adult class catered and eight girls of the Sunday School served the 80 guests with a turkey dinner.

Mr. Pillan was toastmaster and Lynn Johnston proposed the toast to the bride, to which John responded. The bride's father invited the guests to their home to see the gifts. Congratulations were offered by the bridegroom's father and Rev. H. Beare.

The bride's home was tastefully decorated in pink and white and numerous and lovely gifts were on display, as well as the shower presents.

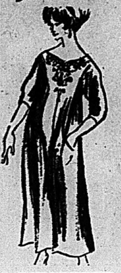
For travelling to Toronto, points west and Kingston, the bride wore a blue wool sheath dress with matching blue accessories, black coat and corsage of baby orchids.

On their return they will reside near Springbrook.

Guests were present from Trenton, Frankford, Belleville, Stirling, Plainfield, Shannonville, Toronto and Ottawa.

The bride was honored previously with a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Bernice McCurdy and her mother, Mrs. D. McCurdy, at their home, in Stirling.

Elegance At Home



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE,

Velvet pants and silk blouses have given way to a different look for smart at-home wear.

Here is one aspect of the new fireside fashions — a gracious robe for the hostess.

This one is of red velveteen with bright jeweled embroidery at the neck and front of the bodice. The line flows from the narrow underarm to soft fullness in the skirt.

Low-placed pockets are worked into the seaming.

'Evangelaires' Trio Guests At Frankford

FRANKFORD— Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle CA's held their weekly meeting on Friday evening, February 16th, at 8.00 p.m. Rev. F. Spring welcomed everyone and the service was opened with a number by the C.A. chorus.

Mr. Ray Walker led the meeting in prayer, and the hymn, "He Keeps Me Singing" was sung.

C. A. President Keith Helm read the Scripture reading, St. John's Gospel, chapter 9, verses 1-11, followed by the singing of hymns.

The Evangelaires Trio (the Misses Diane Chisholm, Marilyn King and Sharon Krause), EPBC students, rendered two lovely selections, "When There's a Rainbow in the Sky" and "One of His Own."

Rev. F. Spring read the announcements. Ushers, Richard Patrick and Calvin Watson received the evening offering. The trio sang "Till the Storm Passes By."

Mrs. Mary Patrick conducted a Bible quiz. The girls' trio defeated the boys' trio by two points.

Three sermonettes followed: "Justification by Faith," given by Miss Dianne Chisholm; "Transformed," given by Miss Marilyn King and "Soul Winning," given by Miss Sharon Krause.

Following the singing of a chorus, the meeting closed with a time of prayer.

◆ DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES ◆

MARMORA W. I.

MARMORA — The regular meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held on February 14th, at the home of the president, Mrs. George Empey, with an attendance of 15 members.

The meeting opened with the Institute Ode, led by the Mary Stewart Collect. Being home economics night, the roll call, your favorite recipe, and a sample brought a good response.

A welcome was extended to Mrs. Don Bailey who had been absent for the past two months due to illness; she thanked the members for the plant which she received.

Correspondence was read regarding the 65th anniversary of the Women's Institute. Lunch to be held in Casa Loma, Toronto, on February 19th, which will be televised and on radio.

Mrs. J. E. Belanger gave the motto, "Waste Not Want Not," with Mrs. Frank Grant, convener of home economics, speaking on that subject.

Mrs. H. H. Sabine gave a short talk on public relations and displayed a page from the "Hamilton Spectator" showing several pictures of Marmora and Marmoraton Mines.

It was moved by Mrs. Green, seconded by Mrs. Belanger, that Mrs. G. Empey and Mrs. M. O'Neill go to Madoc on February 22nd, and take a course as home economics leaders and be able to teach a clas sof girl students in Marmora high school Home Economics room.

A letter was to be written to the department re the promised spring millinery course.

Plans were completed re the Valentine afternoon tea and bake sale. A "touch-and-take' 'table will be a feature of this Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Empey put on a contest which was won by Mrs. Tinsdill. She also won a contest by Mrs. Belanger.

Mrs. M. O'Neill and Mrs. Empey each read poems on Valentine's Day. The meeting was closed in the usual manner.

Lunch was composed of the generous offering from the roll call and of the hostess, Mrs. Empey. An exchange of recipes finished the social hour.

FOXBORO W.I.

The February meeting of the Foxboro Women's Institute was held in the school auditorium, taking the form of the annual supper to which the husbands were invited as guests.

Mrs. R. Tucker, president of the East Hastings district and Mrs. Wager of Marysville and Mr. and Mrs. L. Trupp were all guests of honor.

Following the supper, Mrs. Bamber called the meeting to order.

Mrs. H. Beatty chose as her motto "Make Your Life Cheerful". Among her thought-provoking remarks Mrs. Beatty said, "A sense of humor, if it can be cultivated is a great asset", and closed with "Let us put forth a greater effort to laugh off our troubles".

Mrs. Bamber next introduced Mrs. Tucker who gave a most interesting account of her trip as a district delegate to the second Dominion wile Institute Convention in Vancouver, June 19-23, 1961. She also showed a few of her beautiful colored slides of her trip out and while there.

Mrs. Hubble, as convener of "Canadian Industries" and "Agriculture", who was in charge of the program introduced Mr. L. Trupp a science teacher at Quinte Secondary School, as guest speaker.

During the course of his remarks, Mr. Trupp said, "About 1-3 of the children who go to school leave before they reach grade 8."

This meeting was held on the night of February 5, in order that those present could listen to the Farm Forum broadcast which was sponsored by the Women's Institutes of Canada. Thus, Mr. Trupp's remarks were to be given before and after the broadcast. Unfortunately the hydro went off so it was unable to continue the meeting at the conclusion of the broadcast.

The week previous to the February meeting a goodly number of the members of the Foxboro Women's Institute and friends enjoyed a day's trip to Toronto and spent the evening at the Ice Follies. The Follies were much enjoyed by all.

Bride-to-Be Honored by Many Friends

Monday night, in spite of the incelment weather, 15 girls gathered to honor Miss Diane Trubridge with a surprise bridal linen shower. The guests were welcomed by Master Stephen Shepherd.

The room was decorated with red hearts suspended on white ribbons and the names of Diane and Jerry were entwined over the chair in which the guest of honor was seated.

Games were played and later Diane was presented with the gifts, for which she graciously thanked everyone.

Refreshments were served with a bridal cake carrying out the red heart theme.

The hostess was Angela Shepherd. The wedding takes place March 3.

WILL LINK BRIDGES

MONTREAL (CP)—A $30,000,000 highway program calling for a six-lane expressway on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal was announced Monday night by Pierre Laporte, Liberal member of the Quebec legislature for Chambly. He said the expressway will link the Jacques Cartier, Victoria and Champlain bridges.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Bedford Mark 50th Anniversary

STIRLING — On Valentine's Day, the family of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Bedford of Stirling tendered the couple a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Striker, Frankford, in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The guests included Mr. asd Mrs. Fred Smith of Campbellford and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morrow of River Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Bedford have a family of two, a daughter, Marion (Mrs. George Striker), Frankford, and a son, Thomas Bedford, on the staff of the Queen Elizabeth Public School in Trenton. There are five grandchildren.

The bride of fifty years was the former Ethel Morrow, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrow of the River Valley community, and the groom of 1912 is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bedford of Seymour township. The wedding was solemnized in St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, with the rector, Rev. B. F. Byers, officiating. The honored couple have been members of this church throughout the years.

They resided in Rawdon township for 47 years, a mile west of Stirling village, and while there Mr. Bedford served as a member of Rawdon Township Council, and as deputy reeve, also reeve of the township and served as a member of Hastings County Council. He also was a member of Stirling Board of Education and was active in Masonic circles. Three years ago they retired from the farm and took up residence in the village at 211 Church Street. Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Bedford was a charter member of River Valley Women's Institute.

Rawdon and Stirling friends extend congratulations and best wishes at this time.

TRANSFER SOLDIERS

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP)—About 1,500 soldiers of the 2nd Battalion, the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada and dependents will be transferred to NATO duty in West Germany in the next month, the army said Monday. The 2nd Battalion, to become part of the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in Europe, will release its sister unit the 1st Battalion which will return to base here.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

THE BLABBERMOUTH — A SOCIAL CROSS

Big talkers often make big fools of themselves. And, as so often happens, they're the last to know.

However, they're the first to make speeches, throwing one longwinded sentence after another until they've committed conversational mayhem.

What is the big talker and why is he a social headache?

Well, he's the one who insists on talking when he should be listening. He can be distinguished easily, because he talks at people, not with them. Another characteristic: the victim of his verbal harangue usually has been maneuvered into a corner where he's surrounded by two walls and the talker.

Good conversation is one of the most pleasant social activities. But conversation is an exchange of ideas and viewpoints. Done properly, the participants feel they have been mentally stimulated and that they have made their points while allowing others to make theirs

Mr. Big Talker will have none of that. Loudly and assertively, he lets his listeners know that his conversation contains pearls of wisdom. He's a point-killer, too, because it makes no difference to him that someone else is talking when he gets the irresistible urge to take over the rostrum.

Here is a man of whom it truly can be said that he is in love with the sound of his own voice — and everyone else's is just so much cacophony He displays similar contempt for what others are saying if they ever get a chance to say it.

Over the past few months, many readers have complained about the big talkers in their social circles and have sought advice about how to administer a silencer.

There is no ready solution although the psychiatrist's couch might help. The trouble here, though, is that our friend will talk so much and say so little that the worthy doctor may end up on a colleague's couch next door.

The big talker simply has a compulsion to talk. Probably in the back of his head is hidden the belief that he's the most charming of conversationalists and that people will just naturally pause to pay him heed.

My own solution is to listen politely (and silently), then suddenly spot a long-lost fifth cousin at the other end of the room. Unfortunately, this maneuver doesn't cure the ear-beater. He simply casts eagle eyes at the rest of the company and swiftly selects another victim.

One of my friends is aware of her husband's social addiction to long-winded speech and has lectured him sternly about it at home, where she could do all the talking.

It's helped some. Now whenever she spots the whites of his teeth across a crowded room she shoots him a warning look. She figures the cure will be completed in a few quieter months.

Question: Is it proper for the groom's mother to give the bride a shower? The groom-to-be is in the service and the bride-to-be lives out-of-state. She'll visit with us for a few days before the wedding. Would it be proper to have a shower if the bride-to-be is not present? — Mrs. B.J., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: A bridal shower should not be given by the immediate family of either bride or groom, and certainly a shower should not be given for an absentee bride-to-be. During her visit, you may give a party or a dinner for your future daughter-in-law, so that she may meet your relatives and close friends of the family.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. F.S. — Is there anything worse than being lonely?

Mrs. T.D. — Yes. It's being sorry for yourself!

* * *

Mrs. F.S. — I'm 61 — a widow — and living alone in a small apartment on the top floor of a private house. Sometimes days go by without my phone ringing, without anyone calling on me. I get so desperate to hear the sound of my own voice that I wait downstairs to say good morning to the letter carrier, or I lean out of my window to hail the bakery truck, even when I don't need anything.

You'd think people who are more fortunate would have a little feeling for me. But one after the other my friends and neighbors, even my nieces and cousins, give me a talking-to — lots of advice, but no cheering up, no visits, no company. The latest lecture came from Mrs. D., my landlady. It's easy for her to talk. She has her husband and a few grown children around.

* * *

Mrs. T.D. — Mrs. F. has been our upstairs tenant for nine years, including the period of her husband's illness. He died two years ago. At first I called on her a few times a week, and invited her downstairs occasionally to visit us. But when I realized that she was just going to sit up there and mope, waiting for me to keep her company, I had to talk plain to her. I told her to get busy, get down, get out, get useful, get moving — to stop feeling sorry for herself!

But no. And yesterday when she asked me to sit and watch TV with her, I not only refused but told her also not to ask me again. I'm full of plans, and none of my plans depend upon anyone's help Mrs. F. thinks I have it so good. The truth is I leave my family alone and they appreciate it. She could have a full life, too, if it were not for her self-pity. Let her think of others a little.

* * *

The Council: Coldhearted and cold-blooded as Mrs. D. sounds, she isn't! She may well be Mrs. F.'s best friend in talking to her like the proverbial Dutch uncle who hands it out "straight" for one's own good. And once she sees that the lady upstairs has more to do than look around for playmates to watch television with, she's quite likely to seek that lady's company more often. Mrs. D. will be an interesting person to be with, rather than the "blank" she seems to be at present.

The point we wish to get across to Mrs. S. is that loneliness is a state of mind. A woman like Mrs. D., despite having a houseful of potential companions on tap, can be just as lonely as Mrs. S. — living alone — if she fails to develop any interior life or inner strengths and resources of her own.

The most useful skill for each to develop — and Mrs. D. has done so — is the ability to be alone and like it! Otherwise, life becomes a frenzied rush-around of activity to fight loneliness, or — as with Mrs. S. — a pitiable dependence upon [illegible] to banish it. Mrs. D. has learned that loneliness vanishes when one can look it in the face and say, "I like being alone, just as I like being with people. I can adjust to either."

Telling her upstairs neighbor to get busy, however, isn't enough. Even if Mrs. D. persuades her to participate in a garden club or a rummage sale, she may find her still lonely, still full of complaints. For one can be lonely even in a crowd, even with a million things to do, unless the inner self is assured and at peace.

Mrs. S. may profit vastly from one or two interviews with a guidance counselor who can bolster her ego, list her assets and prove her value as a functioning human being. Then, it won't be a matter of life and death for her to be told (by Mrs. D. and others), "You're okay. You're needed. You count." She'll know it, whether alone or in company.

Polio Victim Has Not Moved Finger in 9 Years

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—A polio victim who hasn't moved a finger in nine years may soon be writing her own letters with the aid of a medical technique using compressed gas.

Sylvia Hasemann, 26, entered the University of Washington hospital at Seattle to take tests preliminary to an operation which doctors feel will restore the use of her arms and fingers.

The technique is to implant silk threats in her leg muscles and connect them to a complex mechanism attached to her arms and fingers. By flexing her leg muscles, Sylvia would tighten the threads, releasing varying amounts of carbon dioxide from a supply tank.

The bursts of gas activate the pistons in the mechanism, supplying the energy that would move her hands and arms.

If the operation is successful, Sylvia will be able to comb her hair, write and eat with a knife and fork.

"The doctors tell us combing will be just a simple job," says Sylvia's father, Henry Hasemann. "It will take months of practice but she is already excited."

Miss Hasemann lost use of her arms and legs after she was stricken with polio in 1953. She regained partial use of her legs after treatment at a clinic in Germany.

Since then she has learned to paint by holding a brush between her teeth. Several landscapes and seascapes have been shown at Vancouver art galleries.

Sylvia can also type her own letters, patiently pecking at the keys with a bamboo stick clamped between her teeth.

"She can even dance a few steps if her partner holds her shoulders," Mr. Hasemann said. "But most of all Sylvia wants to be able to walk alone."

Mother's Helper

TO MAKE Lollipop Tea for doll parties or for small sick-a-beds: supply warm water in a cup or a pot, plus one candy sucker per cup The lollipops are used to stir the "tea" water, giving it flavor and sweetness at the same time. Of course, it tastes best out of miniature china.

BABY OF THE WEEK

"I wonder if George would like me in pink!" . . . is what little Lorrie seems to be contemplating, as she hugs her teddy. Lorrie is the 15 month old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Parks of Belleville. The first two years of a child's life goes by so quickly and if you have no portraits to remind you of those cute expressions and carefree smiles, it will be a great loss in the years ahead. A portrait is forever and captures so appropriately, the natural happiness of childhood. Mr. Lumbers makes a specialty of photographing children and a portrait by Lumbers Studio is a treasure forever. Phone WO 2-5954 today and make your appointment.

Attention Freezer Owners

by Mary Moore

When particularly good chicken buys are being advertised and if you are a freezer owner here is an idea you will welcome.. Buy two 2½-3-lb. chickens and make Chicken a la King for dinner and freeze the remainder. Also make the tea biscuits to serve under it and freeze the surplus (see below).

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Pot Roast; Fluffy Mashed or Riced Potatoes; Carrots Harvard (see Monday); Stewed Pink Rhubarb; Tea.

CHICKEN A LA KING

(16 portions of ¾ cup each)

½ cup chicken fat, butter or margarine; 6 tablespoons chopped green pepper; 3 cups sliced mushrooms (or 3 cups canned); ¾ cup flour; 2 teaspoons salt; 3 cups hot chicken broth; 3 cups hot milk; 6 tablespoons finely cut pimento; 6 or more cups diced cooked chicken (see below).

Cook two 2½-3-lb. chickens in 3 cups water, covered, until meat falls from bones. Turn out on tray. Cool enough to handle and strip meat from bones and cut into 1" dice. You should have at least 6 cups or more. Measure broth. You should have 3 cups. Melt the fat and cook green pepper and mushrooms in it about 5 minutes. Blend in the flour and salt, then add broth and milk. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add pimiento and chicken. Blend well.

To serve immediately:

Heat the mixture thoroughly and serve on biscuits (see below), hot buttered toast or in timbales.

To freeze:

Cool the Chicken a la King quickly. Pack in freezer containers, leaving space for expansion. (For straight, tall containers, leave ½" space in each pint; for low broad containers, ¼". Pints are best because large blocks of Chicken a la King are difficult to thaw.) Seal and freeze immediately.

To prepare for serving:

Without thawing, heat frozen Chicken a la King in the top of a double boiler - about 30 minutes for 1 pint.

KNEADED TEA BISCUITS

(double recipe)

This is a "repeat" from May 29/61.

4 cups sifted all-purpose flour; 2 tablespoons single-acting baking powder; 2 teaspoons salt; ⅔ cup good quality shortening; 1½ cups cold milk.

Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and salt. With a pastry blender or two knives cut in the shortening until the size of the pieces of fat is roughly ¼". Make a depression in the centre and pour in the milk. Quickly stir just until dough forms a big lump and leaves sides of bowl. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 10 times by giving the dough ¼ turn and folding over after each kneading motion. Pat or roll out evenly to ½ or ¾" thickness. With floured 2½" cutter cut out and bake on unbuttered cookie sheet at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. Do not overbake. Use enough biscuits for current meal. Cool and freeze. Place in cartons and overwrap with heat-sealed MST Cellophane. Or, store in heat-sealed MST Cellophane bags. Poly bags are satisfactory for storage but cannot be used for quick oven thawing as they melt. Thaw in their wrappers at room temperature or in a moderate (300 deg. Fahr.) oven. Serve warm.

Wife Preservers

Most furniture, except that with a special lacquered finish, will benefit from an occasional washing. Use a cloth wrung out of light suds, rinse immediately with another wrung-out cloth and wipe dry. Water must not remain on wood.

Fiance's Mother Objects

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—We have been engaged for three years. His mother is very much opposed to her son marrying me and now that she is a widow the situation is harder for me.

When I mention getting married, my fiance says he has to support his mother and if we were to marry she would not live with him. We are in our thirties and should know what we are doing.

Sometimes I think my fiance is only using this for an excuse to stay a bachelor. Please advise me what would be the right and best thing to do.—HEARTBROKEN.

DEAR HEARTBROKEN:—Say goodbye. He is mother-bound. If the malady is not fatal, this may jar him into action.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I am a boy thirteen years of age and in love with a girl who is not paying any attention to me. She tries to make me jealous by fooling around with other boys at school. She will start talking to another boy, then look and see if I'm watching.

I tried to forget her by going after another girl, but that did not work. I dream about her most of the time.—VERY DISCOURAGED.

DEAR VERY—If she is really trying to make you jealous, two can play at that game. Be friendly with all the girls, but be sure you give her some of the ignoring treatment too.

• • •

DEAR DORIS: —I've been going steady with the same girl for two and a half years. Her mother doesn't like it and I wonder what I should do. Should I try to find another girl?—CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED—If you go by me, you won't go steady at all.

Your girl friend's mother wants her to get to know other boys well enough to be able to choose when she starts thinking of marriage.

Don't give her up—just give her rope!

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—This coming July I expect to be flying to England. Could you tell me what to take in the way of clothes?

Also what would be the best thing to wear to travel in? Is a light-weight suit incorrect?—ON MY WAY.

DEAR ON:—A light suit is perfect. I covered the British Isles in one, with three drip dry blouses to go with it.

One or two afternoon dresses, perhaps an evening dress, a sweater, and a light weight coat would round out the wardrobe. Low heeled shoes with rubber soles are wonderful for walking—and you'll do plenty of that! Bathing suits, shorts, slacks? These depend on whether you expect to be near the seashore.

One travel tip is to take half the clothes you meant to, and twice the cash. I agree with this.

The travel agents are dying to tell you more. Happy landings!

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—My boys are being raised without a father. The family claim that when I say no it sounds like yes to the boys.

We are always in a turmoil of trying to settle arguments. How to do it calmly and how to have it not happen so much is what I'd like to know.

A sound spanking seems to be the only thing to respond to, but one can't be doing that all the time. Besides they'll soon be too big to handle. It would help to be able to talk these problems over with someone.—TRYING HARD.

DEAR TRYING:—Boys need a father—but don't despair. Widows have raised many fine citizens alone.

Spankings are better than no discipline, but there are better ways. Frustrations cause feuds, so treat the cause. Find and build on your boys' strong points. Put confidence in them to help you and each other. Let them know of your love for them, through playing with them, affection and treats.

You can get obedience through isolation, of withholding treats and by helping a little when they need it. Excellent government pamphlets on Child Training may be had for the asking from the Information Services Division, Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa.

Ask for the ones on "Jealousy," "Obedience," "Building Self-Confidence," "Play and Playmates," "Discipline", "Parent Education."

You'll be settling arguments for years, so pray for the wisdom of Solomon!

DEAR DORIS:—At a recent discussion group, the problem of notice between employer and employee came up. I maintained that an employer had to give notice of a week, a month or a day, according to how the employee is paid.

The others did not agree. Am I right or wrong?

1—If I am wrong, what are the legal rights of an employer and an employee?

2—If an employee loses his job without notice, what are his legal rights?—MR. J. M. D.

DEAR MR. J. M. D.:—In general, a person is entitled to the same notice as the basis for his pay. So you are right. Which disposes of Question No. 1.

No. 2—He has a right to severance pay to cover the accepted notice period. If the discharge were for cause, then no notice of any kind need be given.

TO MR. R. E. R.:—The marriage bureau you mention is no longer operating. You say I am not to suggest the "Y" So-Ed, or dances, or Lonely Hearts pages; that you are a very shy, introverted person.

"Once there was a frog who sat on a lily pad with his mouth open, waiting for a fly to fly in. He starved to death. Moral: you have to circulate to meet people.

Joining an interest group is a good way to forget shyness. If you start enthusing about photography or music, and belong to a club where something is being done about it, you will find yourself talking freely with others who are likewise eager about the same thing.

This applies to books, or current affairs groups, or astronomy. All good hobbies. Any many others. Find out from your library or chamber of commerce what groups there are in your city—and bravely venture forth.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Dept.

When a taxpayer is a beneficiary in an estate which has not been distributed, and receives income from the estate each year, a T3 slip, yellow in color, will be issued to him by the executors of such an estate.

The make up and application of the T-3 slip to the taxpayer's return is somewhat different from the T-4 wage or T-5 dividend slips. The first box on this slip will show the total amount the taxpayer must report on his return. The other boxes show a breakdown of what is included in the first box, such as "Dividends from Taxable Canadian Corporations" and "Foreign Income." It will also show any foreign tax paid.

The reason for this breakdown is to allow the taxpayer to apply whatever credit he is entitled to on the amounts shown separately. Amounts shown as being "Dividends from Taxable Canadian Corporations" will permit the taxpayer to reduce his tax by 20 per cent of such an amount. This deduction should be made on the line provided for this purpose on the return.

If there is "Foreign Income" and "Foreign Tax Paid" shown on the T-3 slip, the taxpayer should not file the T-1 Short form. The T-1 General form must be used as there is no place on the short form to compute the allowable portion deductible for foreign tax credits. The foreign income shown on the T-3 slip is its equivalent in Canadian funds and it will not be necessary for the taxpayer to vary this amount by the prevailing exchange rates.

T-3 slips are not only issued by estates, but also from "trusts" and "agencies." The application of any T-3 slip is the same in all cases, when the taxpayer files his return.

QUESTIONS

Question. I received a T-3 slip from an estate showing Foreign Income and Foreign Tax paid. Do I include the Foreign Tax paid with my other tax deductions?

Answer: No. You must file the T-1 General return and complete the part which deals with foreign tax credits.

• • •

Question: My only income is from my husband's estate. I receive a T-3 slip showing dividends from Taxable Canadian Corporations. The 20 per cent tax credit on these exceeds my tax payable. Is it correct, I have no tax to pay?

Answer: No. You cannot offset the Old Age Security Tax by a dividend tax credit. Your tax is 3 per cent of your taxable income or $90, whichever is the lesser.

U.S. Professes Desire to Build NATO Nuclear Force But Seems Unwilling to Yield Control

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States continues to profess a desire to build a NATO nuclear force under multi-country control but beneath the diplomatic surface lies hard-core resistance to yield U.S. control over U.S. nuclear weapons.

A high administrative source says the reason a NATO nuclear force has not yet been constructed in line with President Kennedy's proposals at Ottawa last year is because there is a dispute within the alliance as to how such a force would be controlled.

"This is not so much a military as a political problem," he said, arguing that the NATO powers can be sure that as long as the United States is capable of doing so, it would go to the aid of its allies with nuclear weapons if necessary.

"It is a question of considering whether a better alternative exists," he added.

If the Allies could devise and agree on such an alternative, then the United States would consider it. But until the NATO dispute is resolved, the decision on when nuclear weapons would be employed against any enemy would rest with the nuclear powers, he said.

U.S. 'A SLAVE'

The United States, in fact, has become so alert to the defensive needs of her allies that the possession of nuclear weapons had virtually turned the U.S. "into a slave."

Because of her possession of "these frightful weapons," the U.S. had less national sovereignty now than in the 1930s, he maintained.

This view contrasted with that of British Prime Minister Macmillan who said in April, 1961, that European allies were unhappy that their nuclear defence rested purely in Anglo-American hands.

"Naturally, every extension of trusteeship, every increase in the concept of partnership, has its dangers," Macmillan said then. "But the health of our whole NATO alliance depends on finding a way of building a partnership in the nuclear as well as conventional field and to make it live."

A month later Kennedy paid his first official visit to Ottawa and told the Canadian Parliament:

"We look to the possibility of eventually establishing a NATO seaborne missile force, which would be truly multilateral in ownership and control, if this should be desired and found feasible by our allies once NATO's non-nuclear goals have been achieved."

This seemed to be in line with various proposals made by the previous Eisenhower administration. But in recent months Kennedy has indicated a concern over the possible spread of nuclear weapons and last November emphasized in an interview with the editor of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia that as a matter of national policy, the United States "will not give nuclear weapons to any country."

Trans-Canada Highway Will Be Opened Officially This Year, Not All Paved

By ALEX MORIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Trans-Canada Highway will be opened officially this year although it may take another two years or more before the project to span Canada—with a top-notch paved road is complete.

Initiated in 1950, work on the 4,859-mile highway originally was due for completion in 1956. The target date then was extended to 1960 and later to Dec. 31, 1963.

Quebec entered the federal-provincial cost-sharing agreement in October, 1960, and is barely getting under way with its 396-mile link in the east-west span. It is estimated the Quebec project will cost $240,000,000 — about one-third of all money spent on the Trans-Canada Highway in the last 12 years.

Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed that about 3,293 miles of highway have been completed to standard and that another 1,566 are below the specifications set for the broad, two-lane paved road.

MOST PAVED

Of the substandard section, about 1,300 miles are paved and another 370 gravelled.

It was announced last November that the prime minister will preside at opening ceremonies next September. They will be at Rogers Pass in Glacier National Park in British Columbia where the federal government is spending $21,000,000 on a 27-mile stretch of the highway through mountainous avalanche country.

The federal government pays the entire cost of roadway through national parks. When its work was complete this year, it will have spent $73,000,000 on 140 miles of road in five parks.

Ottawa also pays 50 per cent of the total cost of the provincial sections plus an added 40 per cent on one-tenth of each province's mileage. The federal share of the cost in the provinces now has reached $404,100,000, bringing the government's total outlay to $477,100,000.

MORE THAN ESTIMATED

The provinces have paid $278,700,000, bringing the total cost of the highway so far to $755,800,000. Estimates made when the project was started in 1950 placed cost at about $300,000,000.

Estimated cost of work in each of the provinces to the end of 1961, with the federal share bracketed:

Newfoundland $48,700,000 ($30,700,000); Prince Edward Island $9,300,000 ($6,100,000) Nova Scotia $24,100,000 ($17,000,000); New Brunswick $57,800,000 ($37,500,000); Quebec $32,700,000 ($19,000,000); Ontario $213,300,000 ($122,000,000); Manitoba $34,800,000 ($20,400,000); Saskatchewan $28,200,000 ($16,100,000); Alberta $37,100,000 ($22,200,000); British Columbia $196,800,000 ($113,100,000).

The provinces are responsible for the entire cost of anything beyond the standard requirement of a two-lane highway with broad shoulders.

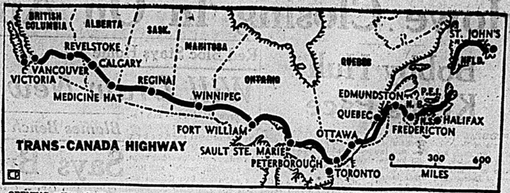
FOUR LANES PLANNED

In Quebec, for example, the provincial government is taking advantage of the agreement to build a two-lane highway parallel to provincial highway 9 and is improving the old road at its own cost with the aim of providing a four-lane boulevard across the province.

In its first year of participation, Quebec laid 20 miles of pavement and completed grading on another 12. Contracts valued at $16,000,000 have been awarded for paving another 80 miles.

A federal works department spokesman said that although it seemed impossible for Quebec to get all its work done by the end of 1963, there was a chance if the present rate of construction continued.

Chances for completion in Newfoundland are less promising, he said. Its section is 540 miles with only 168 completed.



OPENING THIS YEAR— Official opening of the Trans-Canada Highway will be held this year although it may not be completed for another two years. Map shows route of the 4,589-mile highway from St. John's, Nfld., to Victoria. About 3,293 miles of the route have been completed to standard. (CP Newsmap.)

There are another 10 miles of sub-standard paved road and 362 of gravel road.

WORK SLOWED

Ninety-nine miles were paved in Newfoundland in 1960. Last year 31 miles were paved and another 19 graded. This year work will concentrate on the worst sections where the road must be pushed through many sections of solid rock.

Four provinces have finished their sections. Saskatchewan was first, completing its 406 miles in 1960. Work was completed last year on Prince Edward Island's 71 miles and Manitoba's 306. Alberta finished its 282 miles in 1960.

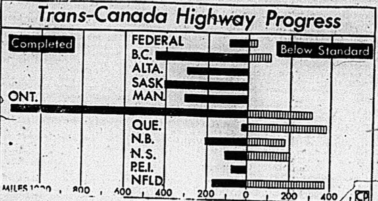
Ontario completed paving 225 miles in 1961. This makes 1,153 miles up to Trans-Canada standards. The remainder is 300 miles of sub-standard paved road. Cost of the 1961 work was $17,850,000. Work projected for 1962 includes 26 miles of paving, 40 miles of grading and construction of seven new bridges.

MORE BRIDGES

New Brunswick paved 52 miles in 1960 and 15.6 in 1961 with 22 miles graded and 10 bridges built. The expense was $5,500,000. The province now has 206 miles up to standard and another 184 sub-standard pavement.

Nova Scotia is in much the same position with 119 miles completed and 187 miles of old pavement below the standard. The main 1961 accomplishment was completion of the Big Bras d'Or bridge. The 2,740-foot span and its 13 miles of approaches in Cape Breton cost $8,500,000. About 12 miles in the province will be paved this year.

British Columbia paved 17 miles in 1961 and graded another 30. Work on the 524-mile road will be completed this year with paving of the last 30 miles.



WORK REMAINING — About one-third of the Trans-Canada Highway still is not up to standard. Graph shows how much each province has completed and how much remains. Four provinces, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, have completed their sections. (CP News-map.)

TWEED

Cemetery Board Officers Named

TWEED — The annual meeting of the Tweed Victoria Cemetery Board was held in the council chambers of the Municipal Building on Saturday, February 10, with a good attendance.

The meeting was called to order by chairman John C. Sager.

During 1961, in addition to taking care of the cemetery plots through the summer months, considerable time and money were spent improving the appearance of the cemetery such as a beautiful wrought-iron gate, which enhances the entrance to the grounds; and a new section of fence and the road through the cemetery has been re-surfaced with crushed stone.

It is intended during 1962 to make further improvements on the grounds.

During the past few years a great many plot owners have taken advantage of the perpetual care and have expressed their satisfaction.

A few months ago our secretary, George Gordon passed away, after donating a great deal of his time and energy to Victoria Cemetery.

Gilbert H. Cotton has consented to take on the responsibility of treasurer.

Officers for 1963 were elected as follows: after acting as chairman of the board for a number of years, Jo Canag.hrS number of years, John C. Sager was re-elected by acclamation; T. C. Graham was elected auditor.

Warden Harold Varty suggested that the office of secretary be amalgamated with that of the treasurer, and following a lengthy discussion, Mr. Varty moved Gilbert H. Cotton be named secretary-treasurer.

The motion was carried.

Superintendent — Lorne Holmes; Caretaker — D. G. Oliphant; Directors — S. B. McGee, Mevitt Metcalfe, John Orr, Roy Hall, and Archie Sinclair Jr.; honorary directors, Harold Varty, T. C. Graham, T. N. Beatty, Wallace Moon and Archie Sinclair Jr.

Marmora

MARMORA — Miss Wilda Hannah, Reg. N., of Toronto, was a weekend visitor at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Grant were Monday callers with the former's sister, Mrs. Wallace McInroy, in Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Barker visited Mrs. D. Henderson and Miss Hilda in Trenton on the weekend.

The children and grandchildren of Mrs. Herbert Bateman gathered at her home on Sunday to honor her on her 74th birthday. A birthday cake and lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Pack and daughters of Dunnville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ron McGarvey early in the week.

Mrs. Milton Blakely of Belleville, spent several days here with her daughter, Mrs. Howard Sabine.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilks of Toronto, visited the former's sister, Mrs. Garth Sabine and Mr. Sabine, one day last week.

Mr. Albert Burridge is a patient in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Mrs. James Drummond had the misfortune to fall and fracture a bone in her arm.

The U.C.W. Units of St. Andrew's United Church met in the Chritsian Education building on Tuesday evening. Following their individual meetings they met as a group and 15 minutes of Bible study was held by Rev. M. McLeod, after which Unit 1 served lunch. About 50 women were in attendance.

Miss Jean Simpson of Malone is visiting Mrs. Glen Anderson.

Wildlife Booklet Tells How Enthusiast Can Identify Birds in Two Languages

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — "Huard a collier" is French for the common loon and "huard a bec jaune" means a yellow-billed loon.

Sounds simple enough, but it took a four-man committee, with advice from French-language and wildlife experts across Canada, to get these and hundreds of other translations of names of Canadian birds into French.

The result is a booklet by the Canadian Wildlife Service for the French-speaking bird lover and wildlife enthusiast who wants to know the right way to identify birds in both languages.

The 20-page booklet gives the scientific names of every species in Canada, the common name in English and the correct French translation—nothing else.

STARTED IN 1951

There is no description of the birds, no histories, definitions or explanations. The booklet is designed for Canadians who know their birds — but don't know their French.

What's the rynchops nigra? In common English it's the black skimmer and in French bec-en-ciseaux.

If you want to tell a French-Canadian you saw the first spring robin, call it a merle americain.

Turkey is dindon sauvage and the yellow-bellied flycatcher is moucherolle de hammond. The whooping crane, one of the rarest birds in the world, is grue blanche d'Amerique.

The book is the result of research started by the committee in 1951. Members are Raymond Cayouette, a Quebec zoologist; Clement Delisle of the Quebec fish and game department; Louis Lemieux, a former federal biologist now with the provincial department, and Gaston Moisan, a biologist teaching and doing research at Laval University in Quebec City.

CHECKED ABROAD

The booklet is a revised version of the first work published in 1957.

The committee decided to limit its work to specific names only and to preserve "as much as possible the French vernacular names already used in Canada."

A list was made of all the French names previously given to Canadian birds. The works of 13 authors from France, Britain and the United States as well as Canada helped with the formation of the list.

In many cases they found more than one French name for a given bird and selected "those deemed most appropriate."

"In some instances new names had to be created."

The list of names arrived at were then sent to 10 language and wildlife experts for their opinions before making the final draft.

Some of the names in the booklet may differ from common French usage. One French dictionary for example lists robin as rouge-gorge—not merle americain as in the booklet—but "the committee does not claim the list is perfect and will welcome any comments."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Belleville District Fish and Game Club which may be able to swing an election in the near future if its growing pains do not subside greets another official year tonight at the Club Canara.

The association which has mushroomed from a corporal's guard to almost battalion strength over the space of a few years is slated to get the official pat on the back this evening from the rank and file.

It has attained adult status. Thanks to foresighted presidents and co-operative, hard-working executive members, the Fish and Game toddler swapped its swaddling clothes for the suit of a man over a brief period of time.

It applied for and received a charter a short time ago. A constitution has been drawn up and approved of By-law Number One, which sets forth the rules of procedure—the regulations governing the operation of the club—will be asked—and given—at tonight's meeting.

The club will move tonight to protect property owners from the antics, playful or otherwise, of irresponsible hunters, who cause damage to hunting areas to which they have or have not been given permission to hunt.

Members will be asked to endorse the posting of a $100 bond to indemnify any owner for damage done by hunting hotheads, or practical jokers, who through sheer ignorance or imagined frustration satisfy their emotion with wilful harm. This, of course, applies to club members and not any fly-by-night nimrod who mentally goes off at half-cock.

As I understand it, the move is designed to put hunting members of the club on their honor as sportsmen, and help maintain the association's reputation that its members, or at least the greater majority, respect the rights and property of others and act accordingly.

The property-owner naturally would have to prove the erring hunter is a club member — and this might prove extremely difficult. The majority of these depredations, and foolish acts of vandalism are done when nobody but those involved in the act are around.

And it seems to me that in the event of a property-owner reporting such acts and proving the guilty ones are club members, that the hunters involved should pay the damage shot—and not the club. However, the item should produce some interesting discussion at tonight's meeting.

Some action should be taken on the matter. At the club's annual dinner meeting held in January, it was told by an Ontario Department of Lands and Forests official from Toronto, that hunter-caused property damage is resulting in more and more private shooting areas being closed to the sport. And with hunter population increasing annually through a heavier exodus from metropolitan areas, the problem could resolve itself into an extremely serious one.

Fish and Gamers will welcome a new president tonight, too. Popular Jack Layton, the "King of Ticket Salesmen" was the unanimous choice of the board of directors as the successor to President Gordon Magee. Long experience qualifies Jack for the post and he is definitely fine presidential timber. By the same token retiring prexy Magee has done an outstanding job as the club's "boss man" and it has flourished and continued its growth and activities under his very able administration.

Then there will be the usual fine films, a "big draw" and an interesting talk on "Ice Fishing for Speckles in Wintertime" given by that erudite Lands and Forests biologist, Russ Whitfield of the Tweed headquarters.

* * *

It was with extreme regret that we learned of Jack Dickens' decision to resign as manager of Memorial Arena here. From a layman's point of view Jack did a splendid job as "boss-man" of the Market Square ice emporium. His efforts in restoring the funereal interior to a colorful, eye-pleasing sight, drew many well-deserved comments from the public.

Jack's fine personality and ability to meet people earned him a deserved popularity with staff, public and all with whom he came in contact. He was not averse to taking off his jacket, rolling up his sleeves and "bucking in" with members of his staff.

Jack showed fine administrative ability and his effort in reducing the annual deficit last year was a distinct achievement. The Arena Commission is advertising for a successor. I hope it secures a manager as good as Mr. Dickens.

Sweeney Still Tops In AHL

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Sweeney of Springfield Indians continues to lead the American Hockey League scoring derby but his margin has dwindled to three points over Barry Cullen of Buffalo Bisons.

League statistics released today show Sweeney with 80 points on 27 goals and 53 assists. He was held to two assists last week.

Cullen picked up four points during the week, including a three-goal effort Sunday. His 37 goals make him the leader in that department. He has 40 assists for a total of 77 points.

Brian Kilrea of Springfield is third with 71 points. He is No. 1 in assists with 56.

Marcel Paille, currently with New York Rangers of the National League, is the leading goaltender with an average of 2.67 in 36 games with Springfield.

Howe Closing In On Andy Bathgate

Bobby Hull Keeps Pace

MONTREAL (CP) — Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers scored two goals and drew two assists last week, but still lost ground to runner-up Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings in the race for the National Hockey League individual scoring title.

While Bathgate needed four games to run his points total to 72, official league statistics released today show the indefatigable Howe also scored twice and collected three assists in just two outings for 66 points. And Howe now has two games in hand.

Bathgate's assists were his 48th and 49th and tied the league record for most assists by a right winger in one season. The mark was set by Howe in 1960-61.

Howe's goals were his 27th and 28th of the season and 496th and 497 of his brilliant NHL career. Only retired Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens has scored more goals, 544, in league history.

Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks matched Howe's effort—in three games—and remained in third place with 63 points. Hull leads the league in goals with 35.

Stan Mikita of the Black Hawks hung on to fourth spot, scoring his 19th and 20th goals and drawing an assist for 59 points.

Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs picked up three points, including his 28th goal, and remained fifth with 57 points.

Claude Provost of Canadiens, among the leaders since the beginning of the season, got only two points and dropped into a tie for sixth position with Norm Ullman and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit at 55 points.

Goalie Jacques Plante of Canadiens allowed only seven goals in three games and just about wrapped up a sixth Vezina Trophy in seven years. The Vezina goes to the goalie who plays the most games for the team that allows the fewest goals.

Plante has a goals-against average of 2.29. Glenn Hall of Chicago is second with a 2.60 average while Johnny Bower of Toronto ranks third with a 2.67 mark.

Hall recorded his seventh shutout of the season—tops in the league.

In the penalty department, Chicago continues as the most penalized club with 679 minutes while defenceman Lou Fontinato of Montreal is the most penalized player with 61 minutes.

Red Bloc Stays Home

Will Draw New World Schedule

MONTREAL (CP) — Bob LeBel of Montreal, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said Monday night the federation "always has room for repentant people" and Russia and other Iron Curtain nations can still enter the world hockey tournament in Colorado Springs, Colo., set for March 8-18.

Asked to predict the ultimate winner of the meet, LeBel replied:

"I can't. I don't even know who is going to be there."

The federation president announced earlier that a new schedule for the hockey championships is expected to be ready in about three days.

The revised schedule was needed because of the withdrawal of Russia, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Yugoslavia from the tournament after the East German entry could not get travel permits.

The new schedule would put competing teams into two groups—eight in first and six in the second—on the basis of their international ranking.

In London, John (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the European association, said under the new schedule the championship field will include Canada, Sweden, the United States, Finland, West Germany, Norway, Great Britain and Austria or Switzerland. The latter two will meet in a playoff to determine the eighth berth.

The Class B group would include Austria or Switzerland and France, Holland, Denmark, Japan and Australia.

Blames Bench Masterminding

Says Browns In A Rut

CLEVELAND (AP) — Quarterback Milt Plum says Cleveland Browns are in a rut, and he blames the situation on the fact that coach Paul Brown runs the club from the bench.

In an unusually frank interview Monday the 27-year-old former Penn State star said he feels the complete masterminding of the team from the bench deadens the enthusiasm of the Browns.

"It hurts spirit and morale," said Plum. "I compare us to an auto with a top speed of 70 miles an hour. We can't go any faster no matter what the situation.

"The team is in a rut. We don't get up for the big games most of the time and often have a struggle with the not-so-strong teams."

The Browns were in contention for the National Football League's eastern division title most of the way last season, but ended up trailing New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles with eight victories, five defeats and one tie.

Plum, one of the top quarterbacks in the NFL statistical ratings the last two seasons, says he has heard reports that he might be traded but hopes to stay here.

Coach Brown, reached in Fort Myers, Fla., where he is vacationing, said Plum's name never was projected in any trades.

Pig iron production of Norsk Jernverk in Norway, 320,000 tons in 1961, is expected to reach 720,000 tons annually by 1964.

Rodgers Second in Gold Rush

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Phil Rodgers stood second among professional golf's top money winners Monday as a result of his weekend victory in the Tucson Open.

Rodgers, third last week, picked up $2,800 for the three-stroke victory at Tucson. It gave him a total for 1962 of $13,633.

Gene Littler continued to lead the pack. Littler won $1,175 third money in Tucson for a total of $15,361.

Win It In Overtime

Macs Shade Kingston 3-2

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

KINGSTON — What looked like their top team effort of the season, the Belleville McFarlands won a thrilling 3-2 overtime victory over the Kingston Frontenacs here last night for their second win of the Eastern Junior "B" round-robin semi-finals.

The clubs fought through a scoreless first period before the Macs took a 1-0 lead in the second and upped it to 2-0 in the first minute of the third. Belleville hung on to the 2-0 lead until the dying minutes of regulation time only to have the Frontenacs score at 18.01 and 19.26 to tie it 2-2.

Neither club let up the torrid pace in the ten-minute overtime heat and at 4.18, leftwinger Dave Smith triggered the winning goal with Kingston playing a man short.

Moe Hunter

Moe Hunter, one of several Mac stars, started the game-winning play by feeding the disc to Pete Weston. Weston passed out from the side of the Kingston net to Smith who sank a low, blazing shot from 20 feet in front.

The Macs, as they had all night, checked like mad over the remaining few minutes to chalk up the important win. It was Kingston's first loss in 13 games.

The entire Belleville squad skated well and commanded the play most of the game. The Macs had enough chances in the first period alone to win two games, but Kurt Demmler, in the Frontenac net, and Gordie Parker both turned in great performances.

Moe Hunter earned the respect of players and fans alike in more ways than one. He scored Belleville's first two goals, set up the third, and gave Kingston trouble-maker Gary Lavalle a sound lesson in the art of self-defence.

Lavalle and Hunter paired off with high sticks at 16.31 of the third period. When the sticks were dropped, Hunter landed four or five solid rights to Lavalle's face before the pair was parted. Each man received a minor and major penalty.

The Mac defence, led by Paul Zakos who played his best game since joining the club, was outstanding. And when the Kingston attackers did get through Parker was little less than great. He was not at fault on either goal that beat him, Rawson deflecting Curran's shot in at 18.01 and Curran scoring on a low, screened shot from the blueline to tie it. Bryant also assisted on this one.

Demmler had made a number of difficult stops as the Macs applied the pressure in the second half of the middle frame. Then, at 19.04, defenceman Gary Reid hit Hunter with a perfect pass just as the big winger reached the Kingston blueline. Hunter waltzed in all alone to make it 1-0.

Just 35 seconds of the third period had passed when Hunter notched his second goal, completing a fast, three-corner passing play with Weston and Smith by tapping the puck past a harried Demmler.

The goalies took turns robbing the opposing forwards after that until Kingston's two late goals, the first of which came with Belleville playing four men to Kingston's five.

Kingston picked up eight of the game's 15 penalties but the Lavalle-Hunter battle was the only serious incident in a hard-hitting but clean tilt.

The clubs play the return game back here on Friday, March 2. The Macs play in Peterborough next Monday.

They're Coming To Terms

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston Red Sox have signed outfielder Gary Geiger, who will be trying to storm up baseball's comeback trail after a 1960 season in which his lung collapsed and a 1961 campaign in which his batting average did the same. Geiger agreed to 1962 terms with the Red Sox Monday, along with pitchers Gene Conley and Billy Mufett.

Minnesota Twins got home run slugger Harmon Killebrew on the dotted line and Chicago White Sox landed three key players—second baseman Nellie Fox, outfielder Floyd Robinson and third baseman Al Smith. Pitcher Stan Williams signed with Los Angeles Dodgers and outfielder Felipe Alou with San Francisco Giants.

The Twins said Killebrew, who hit .288 and smacked 46 homers last season, received a "substantial increase" over his 1961 salary. Fox took a slight cut from his salary of about $50,000 after hitting only .251.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug counter.

Modern Bookie Has It Good

Wanna Bet? Just Look Around, Bub!

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Bookmaking parlors with chalk-smeared blackboards and jingling telephones belong to a faded era in Montreal. But anyone with a yen to risk a bob or two on a sporting event can still find "action" if he knows where to look for it.

Gone are the old gambling czars and the strings of betting houses, the basement flats thick with cigar smoke where men wearing green eyeshades barked out prices.

The modern bookmaker here runs a polished, compact one-man enterprise and he's far less dependent on the horse-playing trade, a revenue staple in the old days.

Forty to 50 habitual bettors are enough to provide a healthy income for him that may reach $400 or $500 in a brisk week.

LOST $10,000

On the average, bets range between $5 and $100. On occasion they go substantially higher. Some time ago a wealthy clothing manufacturer slapped down a $10,000 wager—and lost.

Virtually all of the books operate with a private telephone listing. A handful of the more robust walk around making personal calls, a procedure that's known as "picking up action."

How many are running here is anyone's guess.

Police director J. Adrien Robert says there are few. But no one seems to have any trouble placing a bet.

At National Hockey League games in Montreal, one source estimated, $15,000 to $20,000 in bets are made within earshot of the referee's whistle, most of it placed with bookies who mingle with the fans.

Frank Selke Jr., public relations official for Canadiens and a son of the team's managing director, said there is no way to get an accurate figure on how much is bet at games but suggests it is considerably less than $15,000.

'SMALL POTATOES'

"The guys who come here and set up their bullring or betting circle are small potatoes. There are certainly larger ones in other cities."

Selke said Forum officials are unable to prevent the betting.

"It's strictly a matter for the police to investigate. Nobody has the word gambler written all over him, and even if he did, the law says we still have to sell him a ticket. There's no way you can stop a man from coming in here even if it's to take a bet."

The aforementioned source, a bookmaker who consented to a telephone interview on condition his name be withheld, said he does 75 per cent of his winter business on games in the NHL and American Hockey League.

The betting system—based on a $5 unit — works this way:

Say Detroit Red Wings are playing the Canadiens here and the bookie quotes a "line"—the odds—as 7-6 with Montreal favored by 1½ goals.

NO TIES

That means if you bet $7 on Montreal to win, you win $5 provided the Habs win by at least two goals. For a Detroit backer the "lay - out," or money put up, is $6. He wins $5 if the Red Wings beat Canadiens or come within a goal.

No ties are possible under the half - goal system.

Whatever the outcome of the game, the bookmaker nets at least $1 profit by accepting a properly-balanced amount of wagering on the two teams.

More often than not, however, a balance cannot be directly achieved. A bookie will then try to make what is known as a "lay - off," passing responsibility for some bets to another bookie caught in the reverse position, overloaded with money on the other team.

Pro and college basketball games in the United States and racing at the southern U.S. tracks share the 25-per-cent remainder of the winter turnover here.

In summer and other seasons, racing gobbles up about half of the handle and the other half is divided among Canadian and U.S. pro football games and baseball's major league play.

AVOID AMATEURS

No money is wagered on amateur Canadian sport in any season.

Lottery tickets, a variation of New York's old numbers racket, are also popular in Montreal and tens of thousands of tickets based on NHL and AHL games are sold each week.

Many are distributed by non-professionals such as elevator operators and taxi - drivers as a sideline. They cost 25 cents each and feature payoffs of up to $1,000.

In hockey the tickets pay off on total goals scored by teams or times of goals or penalties.

Like bookmaking here, each lottery enterprise is autonomous.

But when the betting parlors were operating a syndicate with links in the U.S., gambling here was part of an international association.

The horse parlors died out after the U.S. enacted legislation making it illegal to transmit race results for betting purposes across state lines by telegraph or telephone.

Many Series Under Way

East. Ont. Minor Hockey

Minor hockey thoroughbreds on the "Lower Canada" tracks of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association province - wide spread, are thundering down the back stretches in the various championship stakes.

OMHA vice-president Douglas Patterson of Stirling, who covers the area like the dew covers Dixie, has been busier than the one-armed collection taker with the hives.

With his convener cohorts he has kept playoff and playdown developments under close watch. Close tab has been kept on all classifications from peewee to juvenile "A" Things have been going nicely to date, thank you, and some outstanding minor hockey is being played.

In Juvenile "A" Belleville and Kingston winners will meet Oshawa-Peterborough victors in Eastern Ontario playdowns.

In juvenile "B", Napanee and Campbellford have won their groups and will play off, the winner meeting Gananoque for the Eastern Ontario title.

Stirling and Marmora are battling for their group title after ousting Madoc and Frankford. Norwood is standing by waiting for the winners of a Tweed-Wellington series. The winners of these series will meet either Stirling or Marmora for the Eastern Ontario championship.

Eastern Ontario Midget "C" champions will be presented with the brand new "Bill Post Memorial Trophy." The late Bill Post was one of this district's better minor referees. His counterparts of the district subscribed funds for the trophy which will be up for Eastern Ontario Midget "C" competition annually.

At the moment, Wellington leads Tweed in their playdown series, the winner playing Stirling, which ousted Brighton and Frankford. Lakefield put Norwood out of the running and will play the winner of the Bancroft Bobcaygeon series. The winner of this series will play Marmora and the winners will in turn meet either Tweed or Wellington for the trophy and title.

In Bantam "C" Frankford which put Brighton out, is playing off with Stirling while Madoc and Tweed battle it out in another section.

Lakefield ousted Norwood and is now playing Bancroft. The Madoc-Tweed winners clash with the Frankford-Stirling winners. The victors of this series will meet either Lakefield or Bancroft for the eastern crown.

Tweed and Bancroft, Stirling and Frankford, and Brighton and Havelock are in the throes of Peewee "C" playoffs. The winners of the latter two series meet either Tweed or Bancroft for eastern honors.

There is no Juvenile "D" hockey in the district.

In Midget "D" Warsaw put Warkworth out of contention and Cooper is battling Coe Hill. Warsaw will hook up with Keen, the winners taking on either Cooper or Coe Hill for the honors.

Warsaw is playing Hastings in Bantam "D" with Wellington standing by waiting for the winners.

Here in the city Belleville meets Kingston tonight at eight in the first of a home-and-home Peewee "A" series, the second game set for Monday, Feb. 26. The juvenile, midget and bantam squads which went down to defeat in Kingston, Saturday, play the return triple-header here next Saturday.

Juniors Lose, Bantams Win

BCI Seniors Whip Moira

By PETER CARVER

Belleville Collegiate hoopsters captured two games of three from Moira's Trojans last night in a C.O.S.S.A. triple header staged in BCI's gymnasium.

The Senior Collegians grabbed an easy 52-28 verdict from a lack-lustre Moira squad while the Bantams copped a 36-25 win. Moira's powerful Junior squad kept their record intact by taking a 38-36 squeaker from their hosts.

SENIOR GAME

There was no question as to the Collegians superiority throughout the game's entirety. The Moira team passed the ball a lot and refused to shoot; their driving was stalled by an almost airtight BCI defense.

BCI outfought the Trojans under both baskets. The Moira offensive moved slowly while the winners were breaking quickly. BCI led 14-8 at the quarter.

Moira went from bad to worse in the second stanza. They threw the ball away frequently and their poor checking left BCI open under their basket on many occasions. The Trojans were out-scored 12 points to 3 in this quarter.

The third quarter was a repetition of the second with Moira's shooting and checking very shoddy. BCI controlled both backboards but missed a lot of their shots, as they took a 37-14 lead at the three-quarter break.

The teams quickened the pace in the last quarter. Their ball handling and shooting was highly improved. The winners dropped in 15 points while Moira was good for 14.

Bruce Regensburg starred for the Collegians with 8 field goals and five foul shots, good for 21 points. Larry Campbell hit for 11 and Pete Weston 8.

Dave Glenn and Colin Allenby were high scorers for Moira with 11 and 7 points respectively.

LINEUPS

BCIVS — Campbell (11); Weston (8); Roberts (7); McCabe (2); Burr (2); Regensburg (21); D. Dafoe; Muir; McKibbon; Soule.

M.S.S. — Allenby (7); D. Glenn (11); Rowlyck (4); Turner (1); Wood; Leckie; Elliott; R. Glenn (5).

Sweep Triple-Header

Quinte Downs Trenton

By BILL BURLEY

Three Quinte Secondary basketball teams easily defeated their opponents of Trenton high school last night on the latter's court.

The Tiger bantams bowed to their first defeat at the hands of the Quinte team. Quinte took the upset by a 38-28 score.

The Quinte Little Saints completely massacred their Tiger hosts. McBride of Quinte, with 21 points, led the winners to a 62-26 landslide.

The Saints assured their position in the COSSA playoffs with a 55-35 victory.

SENIOR GAME

In the first quarter the Saints utilized their fast break to build up early points. The winners allowed only twp Trenton baskets to their own 20 points.

In the second Quinte sent out her second string to keep the quarter score equal at 11-11. The Tigers outplayed the Saints by two point in the third while the Saints pulled up a seven point lead in the fourth.

Quinte easily defeated her foes with a fine effort.

The Saints meet the Moira Trojans Wednesday at Quinte.

If neither BCI or Quinte lose their following games, they will meet probably at Moira sometime next week for the Bay of Quinte playoffs. Both teams will go to COSSA.

Veteran Pair Scores Hole-in-One

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—The sun was shining and Bull Duncan, 81, of Dallas, Ore., set out on a round of the Oak Knoll golf course Monday.

His clubs were a set he bought in 1915. On the third tee he drove with a No. 6 iron, originally known as a mashie niblick. The ball sped to the green, hit and rolled into the cup 113 yards away.

It was Duncan's first hole-in-one in 47 years of golfing.

JAPAN HOLDS MEET

MOSCOW (AP) — The world speed skating championships next year will be held in Japan. The International Skating Union announced Monday that the women's competition will be held Feb. 21-22 and the men's Feb. 23-24 at a stadium near Tokyo.

Ex-Kinsmen Give $100 to Minor Sport

The Kinsmen Club welcomed back a number of former presidents and "buck privates" at their meeting in the Shrine Club last night.

And aided and abetted by some of the current members the old boys donated $100 to the Belleville Minor Sports Association.

The donors included Harry Rollins, Ernie Colebourne, Newt Wilbur, Carl Sills, Cec Brown, Don Bacon, Gardiner Duff, Bill McIntosh, Frank Lang, Ben Yanover, Cleo Colling, Don Thomas, Walt Harden, Horace Wright, Jack McNab, Jack Hammill, Cliff Matthews, Bob Boyce, Alf Smith, Bob Wood, Norm Ayre and Orliff Lloyd.

A number of these former Kinsmen were from out-of-town and were accorded a typical Kinsmen welcome by club members.

Lightfoots Trim Picton, Metals Win

Belleville Lightfoots took a key victory over the Picton Prospects by a 79-50 score, while Crawford Metals whipped Northern Electric 85-23 in a Bay of Quinte Basketball league double-header last night.

The Lightfoots' victory moved them two points ahead of Picton in their battle for the fourth and final playoff spot. Picton has one game in hand, however.

Picton fell behind 20-5 in the first quarter and were never able to overcome the lead, although they did cut it to 30-22 at half time. The winners led 56-34 after three quarters.

Gord Mutter paced all Lightfoot scorers with 19 points. Right on his heels, with 18 points apiece, were Don Smith and Gary Davis.

Jack Laundry topped the Prospect scorers with 15 points while Bob Fawcett hooped ten.

The Crawfords took a 33-7 halftime lead against the tail-end Northern squad and were never threatened.

Ted Batchelor increased his league-leading scoring record by tossing in 37 points for Crawfords. Don Skinner followed with 24 while Rick Pearson hit for 13.

Rawlyck collected 12 of Northern's 23 points.

Picton Prospects (50): Laundry 15, Kingma 4, B. Smith 5, Hopkins 8, Fawcett 10, Brummell 8, Skratt.

Belleville Lightfoots (79): G. Mutter 19, D. Smith 18, G. Davis 18, G. Reynolds 4, Pasternak 5, Langabeer 4, Marner 5, Newsome 6, Dever.

Crawford Metals (85): N. Ryan 9, R. Pearson 13, T. Batchelor 37, D. Skinner 24, T. Hookings 2.

Northern Electric (23): Wray 3, MacMillan 4, Orazetti 4, Rawlyck 12, Cronkwright, Smith.

Boudrias Leads Junior A

TORONTO (CP)—Andre Boudrias went scoreless during the week ending Sunday, but four assists protected the Montreal Canadiens forward's lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race.

Statistics released by the OHA today showed Hamilton Red Wings' Pit Martin crept a point closer to Boudrias, his two goals and three assists during the week leaving him with 83 points, three fewer than the leader.

Martin, in second spot, collected his points from 41 goals and 42 assists. Boudrias, who also has played in 45 games, has 31 goals and 55 assists.

Lowell MacDonald of Hamilton kept his third-place position, one goal and two assists giving him a total of 79 points on 41 goals and 38 assists.

Montreal's Rajean Richer, with a goal and an assist, moved into a tie for fifth place with Ray Cullen of St. Catharines Teepees, who managed only one goal.

Each has 65 points.

George Holmes of Montreal maintained his position as the league's top goaltender, managing a 2.78 goals-against average. Buddy Blom was second with a 3.16 average.

SPEEDSKATING INSTRUCTOR — Ralf Olin, member of Canada's speedskating team in three Olympics, is the instructor in an Alberta program started in 1960 to boost the standards of Canadian skaters to international competitive levels. The program combines practices adopted in Norway and the Soviet Union. Olin is also chairman of the Committee for Olympic Development, formed by the Canadian Amateur Speedskating Association. (CP Photo).

Sports Snapshots

By WALER KREVENCHUK

EDMONTON (CP)—Ralf Olin, three - time member of Canada's Olympic speedskating team, has dreamed for 10 years of putting Canadian skaters in the top ranks.

In the fall of 1960 Alberta speedskaters started a crash program aimed at raising Canada to world calibre. The following year the Canadian Amateur Speedskating Association recognized Olin's efforts by forming a Committee for Olympic Development. The chairman: Ralf Olin.

In the eight winter Olympics held so far, Canada hasn't won a gold medal in speedskating. Norway and the Soviet Union have had the greatest success, Norway winning 13 and Russia six in senior men's competition.

Taking a cue from success, Alberta skaters have instituted a training program that combines Norwegian and Russian practices. The instructor is Olin, who spent a year in Norway and Sweden under guidance of experts.

YEAR-ROUND EFFORT

"You have to dedicate a portion of your life to it," says Olin. "You have to live and breathe speedskating to be great in it."

Alberta skaters are doing just that. When ice is available 65 skaters devote every spare moment to skating sessions, averaging two to four hours a week.

Skaters from Edmonton and Calgary hold weekly competitions under international skating rules. This involves racing against the clock rather than the mass - start racing used in Canada in previous years.

Out of season the skaters keep in trim with weight - lifting, 20-mile cross-country hikes and cycling.

In efforts to increase the popularity of speedskating to levels it enjoys in Europe, where Olin says crowds of 80,000 watch the sport, the CASA has instituted a merit award program of medals and badges for young skaters.

MORE SKATERS NEEDED

"We need more skaters," Olin says. "In Russia about 250,000 persons participate in the sport and in 1960 Sweden had almost 15,000 new speedskaters."

Next year the Olympic Development Committee hopes to send representatives to the world speedskating events in Europe.

"Money is a problem here but somehow we will send a few skaters over there. You can only reach a certain height from training and then you have to meet top-calibre competition."

Have skaters improved under the program?

"Yes, definitely," says Olin. "Murray Gardiner, who started skating in 1960, reduced his time to 46.6 seconds from 52 seconds in the 500-metre event and to 5:28 from 5:46 in the 3,000 metres."

Olin himself, recent runner-up in the North American championships, has cut his time by 2-10ths of a second in the 500 metres and by 2.2 seconds in the 1,500 and 3.8 in the 3,000.

Terriers Lose Another

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — Galt Terriers took their second straight game on the chin Monday night, losing a 4-3 exhibition hockey match to Moose Jaw Pla-Mors of the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League.

Canada's world hockey tournament representatives lost their third game in five of a scheduled 14 - game warm-up tour.

They took a 1-0 first period lead, upped the count to 2-0 in the second period and held a 2-1 lead going into the final period before Moose Jaw fired three straight goals.

Netminder Harold Hurley was a jack-in-the-box for the last 90 seconds of the game as Terrier coach Lloyd Roubell repeatedly pulled him in favor of a sixth attacker.

The move almost backfired 30 seconds after Hurley's first trip to the bench when Don Smith's shot hit the crossbar and George Senick shot the rebound over the top of the empty net. Hurley returned twice for face-offs in the Galt end.

Senick, Glen Smith, Bob Serviss and Ken Jestin scored for Moose Jaw. Bobby Nader, Joe Hogan and Jackie McLeod scored for Galt.

Both goaltenders came up with brilliant plays. Hurley blocked 24 shots and Hugh Huck of Moose Jaw handled 23, 11 in the final period.

N.B. Rink Pulls Upset

By KEITH KINCAID

HALIFAX (CP) — An underrated rink from New Brunswick has an opportunity today to move into undisputed possession of first place in the Canadian schoolboy curling championship.

Ron Sansom's foursome from Edmundston held the spotlight with a mighty rink from Saskatchewan in Monday's opening two rounds. New Brunswick gets its opportunity in this afternoon's third round, meeting defending champion British Columbia while Saskatchewan sits out a bye.

Saskatchewan and New Brunswick both won twice but it was much easier going for Emile Lukowich's rink from Speers, Sask.

They trimmed B.C. 12-5 and then downed Prince Edward Island 12-6. New Brunswick meanwhile edged Northern Ontario 6-5 and then needed five in the ninth end to overtake Quebec for an 11-7 victory.

In other first - round games Ontario edged Manitoba 6-5, Nova Scotia downed Newfoundland 13-3 and Quebec trimmed Alberta 10-8. In the second round Manitoba downed Newfoundland 13-4, British Columbia beat Alberta 7-5 and Northern Ontario downed Ontario 8-7.

CHAMPS BEATEN

Key match of the first day was the Saskatchewan - British Columbia contest. The Prairie rink had been rated the best chance of knocking off the champions and the game was expected to be close.

However, Saskatchewan, playing a straight knockout game, had a 5-1 lead after three ends and won going away. It looked just as easy in the P.E.I. contest as Saskatchewan up an 8-0 lead after three ends and coasted.

The turning point in New Brunswick's victory over Quebec was the five - ender in the ninth. At the end of eight Andy Hrycko's Arvida rink held a 7-4 margin but in the ninth Sansom turned a one - count into five with a clean takeout of Quebec's inside rock.

The third round, starting at 1:30 p.m. EST, has Alberta playing Prince Edward Island, Ontario meeting Quebec, Newfoundland against Northern Ontario and Manitoba against Nova Scotia. In the fourth round at 7 p.m., British Columbia meets Ontario, Prince Edward Island plays New Brunswick, Northern Ontario tackles Nova Scotia, Alberta meets Saskatchewan and Newfoundland goes against Quebec. Manitoba has the bye.

Swimmers Ordered 'Take Cover'

MELBOURNE (AP) — More than 20 of Australia's leading male swimmers competing in the qualifying heats for the Australian championships have something to worry about besides swimming.

Chief referee Bill Slade has warned them that their swimming trunks have been too scanty and told them they will have to be better covered in future.

Under regulations laid down by the Amateur Swimming Union here, trunks must be at least four inches wide but most of the male swimmers wear trunks about two sizes too small for them.

Sevigny Admits Expressing Himself Poorly in Statement

ST. MAXIME, Que. (CP) — Pierre Sevigny, associate minister of national defence, has said he is "amply justified" in calling attention to the threat of communism in Latin America.

During a press conference Sunday in this village 30 miles south of Quebec City, where he was on a speaking tour, Mr. Sevigny said he had expressed himself poorly in an earlier statement that Communist regimes were ruling British Guiana and Ecuador and "that is why I withdrew my remarks publicly on the floor of the House of Commons.

"All the same, the fact remains that I was amply justified in stressing the danger posed by the progressive march of communism across the world and especially in Latin America," Mr. Sevigny said.

"I based what I said on an article written by Boris Miskew of The Canadian Press, dated last Aug. 24, which made mention of the inquiry in progress in British Guiana on the subject of the well known Marxist and Leninist tendencies of Dr. Cheddi Jagan (premier of British Guiana)."

(An interpretative article on British Guiana, written by Boris Miskew of The Canadian Press last August, backgrounded developments in that colony's moves towards internal self-rule. It noted that Dr. Jagan said he would seek financial aid from the United States and also that he will accept aid from the Soviet Union.

RAISES POINT

(The article speculated on Washington's reaction to this and raised the point whether the Americans would make it necessary for British Guiana to choose between Communist and Western associated. It added: "To force the issue could drive Jagan and his followers—some are described as pure Communists—away from the Western bloc, or even result in a Cuba-type in the side of the U.S.")

Mr. Sevigny said certain journalists "who make poor use of their pens" had accused him of an absolute lack of knowledge but "I believe that the lack of knowledge is to be found on the part of those who have attacked me."

He said newspaper headlines at the end of the week reported disorders in British Guiana and it had been stated that the demonstrations were directed against a government of leftist tendencies.

"Journalists are customarily objective," he said, "but sensational journalism has no place among us."

He wished "to protest against those who, by deforming the truth, attack, injure and vilify public men and harm the dignity of the noble profession of journalism and the freedom of the press which, since it is based on law, truth and justice, is one of the main benefits of our democratic system."

Imports Reach Record Value In Past Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian imports last year reached a record $5,794,500,000 in value—5.5 per-cent greater than the 1960 total, the bureau of statistics reported today.

There were increases from all four geographic areas—4.9 per cent from the United States, 6.2 per cent from the United Kingdom, 4.4 per cent from other Commonwealth nations and 7.8 per cent from all other countries.

However, part of the increased value was attributed by the bureau to the movement in the external value of the Canadian dollar Today, for example, it takes about $1.05 in Canadian money to buy $1 worth of American goods in the U.S.

Total 1961 imports from the U.S. were estimated at $3,874,400,000. While this was up 4.9 per cent from 1960, it still was lower than the 1956 and 1957 totals.

Imports from the U.K. last year totalled $625,400,000, a record. This is 62 per-cent more than the 1960 total of $588,900,000. Imports from other Commonwealth nations advanced 4.4 per cent to $291,500,000 from $279,100,000.

From all other countries, 1961 imports were estimated by the bureau at $1,003,500,000 as against $931,200,000 in 1960.

Argue Acting Like Spoiled Boy Say Leaders

TORONTO (CP)—Labor union leaders Monday dismissed charges by Hazen Argue that "a small labor clique" controls the New Democratic Party as the petulant outburst of a man who lost the party leadership race to Tommy Douglas.

"Hazen Argue is acting like a spoiled schoolboy," said George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers.

"Complete nonsense," said Fred Sowling, national director of the United Packinghouse Workers, "and nobody knows it better than Mr. Argue."

Eamon Park, assistant to national director William Mahoney of the United Steelworkers, said Mr. Argue "greatly distorted," organized labor's influence on the New Democratic Party.

SAYS ARGUE ANGRY

Mr. Burt, who said Mr. Argue "is mad because he didn't win the leadership vote," said that the UAW has no representative on the NDP national council.

"The UAW tried to get its own representative elected on the executive council, but failed. The labor movement has only its proportionate share on the executive council and no more."

Mr. Dowling said he and fellow Packinghouse union member Romeo Mathieu of Montreal are the only representatives of the union on the NDP slate of officers. Both are vice-presidents.

"I didn't know we controlled the NDP," Mr. Dowling said.

FIND NO RACKET

MONTREAL (CP)—Police Director J. Adrien Robert Monday revealed details of a secret six-month investigation into reports of a protection racket in Montreal and said investigators found little evidence of such underworld activity. He told a press conference that the investigation revealed details about gambling, prostitution and gang wars, but almost nothing about a protection racket.

Fresh Bid Made To Abolish Canal Tolls

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Great Lakes Waterways Development Association made a fresh bid Monday to get tolls abolished on the Welland Canal.

Arguments were placed before Transport Minister Balcer by a 16-member delegation of shipowners, businessmen, municipal and trade representatives, chiefly from Southern Ontario.

The association is seeking acceptance of the principle of a toll-free Welland Canal on three basic grounds:

1. That tolls add extra charges that hinder the growth of low-cost transportation through Canada's inland waterways.

2. That a toll system on the Welland Canal—levied since 1959 to pay for deepening of the waterway to the 27-foot depth of the St. Lawrence Seaway — may lead to reprisals from the United States on the Sault Ste. Marie lock or the connecting channels between Lake Huron and Lake Erie.

3. That Canada may some day soon—possibly as early as 1968—decide to "twin" the single locks in the Welland Canal and be forced to levy tolls to pay off the capital cost of the project.

PLEASED WITH MEETING

"We had a very interesting discussion and we covered a lot of ground," said Mr. Balcer after the meeting.

"Some forceful arguments were presented and they will get our utmost consideration."

He said the problem is largely financial.

The main brief to Mr. Balcer was presented by T. R. McLagan, president of Canada Steamship Lines.

"It was our first meeting with Mr. Balcer since he became transport minister," said Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, president and general manager of the association.

"It was a very useful meeting."

The development association was founded in 1959 to fight for a toll-free Welland Canal. It is not seeking any change in the general toll structure of the Seaway.

By law, the Seaway must charge tolls to pay off its $475,000,000 cost over 50 years.

No More Force Than Necessary Used, Testimony

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—One of three officers named in a damage suit brought by Joseph Lament Jr., testified Monday that he used no more force than was necessary to prevent Lament from escaping custody July 29, 1960.

Constable James Kirkpatrick, named by three postal workers as the man who twisted Lament's arm on the occasion until his head struck the floor, was testifying as the action before Mr. Justice Neil Fraser entered its second week.

Lament alleges that the incident in a city police station, where he had been taken on a charge of having control of a car while his ability was impaired, resulted in permanent injuries.

Sgt. Victor Dawson, another of the defendants, testified Friday and the third officer, Const. Douglas Fraser, 28, is expected to testify today.

Const Kirkpatrick said that on instructions from Sgt. Dawson, he and Const. Fraser went to an address in answer to a complaint that a man had been bothering a former girlfriend.

APPEARED DRUNK

On arrival, he said, he found Lament seated behind the wheel of his car with the engine running. He said the man seemed drunk.

The officer said Lament made no distrubance at the scene but that on the drive to the station Lament struck him on the face and attempted to leap out of the cruiser. He said he held Lament's left arm to prevent his escape, then stopped the car and applied a headlock.

When at the station Lament appeared to be preparing for another attempt to break away, the officer said, he again applied a headlock. When the hold was released Lament straightened up, then collapsed.

The officer said he never touched Lament's right arm as claimed by the postal workers, nor did Lament's head hit the station floor.

He said it was thought Lament had suffered a heart attack. He was taken to hospital by ambulance.

Doctors have testified the headlock may have caused a rupture to Lament's cerebral artery which left him partially paralyzed.

Paul Picerni Runs House Full of Kids on Merit System

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One couple plus eight kids equals chaos? Not the way the Paul Picernis run their houseful.

You may think Paul is a brave man on The Untouchables—he's the No. 2 untouchable, after Robert Stack. But many fathers would give him the medal of valor, with clusters, for what he faces every night when he goes home from the studio:

Nicci, 13; Paul Vincent, 12; Gemma, 11; Maria, 10; Charles Phillip, 8; Mike, 7; Phillip, 6; and Gina 5. They span the eighth grade to kindergarten, missing only the seventh grade.

Mothers probably agree that Paul's wife Marie deserves even more medals for managing and feeding this one-family gang without any outside help.

PRAISED BY FATHER

"They're pretty good kids," said Picerni on a rare afternoon off from the TV series.

"Each of them has his own duties to perform around the house.

"We also have a system of merits and demerits. Merits are earned by doing something that pleases their parents above and beyond their regular chores. Ten of them are worth a dollar.

"On the other hand, 25 demerits are worth a trip to the woodshed, where their father uses the leather strap. Come to think of it, there haven't been any trips to the woodshed lately."

The last one to make it was Mike, who prepared himself with 13 layers of underwear. But he got five extra blows because of that.

"We also have regular inspections of our rooms," reported Nicci.

USE SHIFT SYSTEM

The Picernis manage to eat together around a table with benches in the breakfast room, but most other things are done in shifts. Bedtimes are according to age groups and the family goes to three different masses on Sunday. Vacations have required two cars, but Mama will be getting a big station wagon soon.

During his dozen years in Hollywood, Paul has had some lean months. The Untouchables has been a boon to his financial stability.

"It has been great for me," he said. "I'm an actor and I want to keep working. I don't care if I'm not a star. I'm very happy to be the second banana—and working steadily."

AT THE BELLE — Leaves Tonight— Protective Carroll Baker shields her young daughter during an air raid attack on a Japanese city in this scene from "Bridge to the Sun". TV Columnist Doubts People Like to Hear Commercials

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Although there turn up occasional reports of surveys indicating that the viewers really like commercials, a television columnist must be permitted to doubt their accuracy.

This columnist does, largely because so many annoyed, frustrated and angry letters about commercials continually flow in from readers.

One long-standing complaint is that commercials are frequently louder than the entertainment programs surrounding them. This has been denied many times but my own ears tell me it is true.

Another frequent complaint is the deadly repetition. As one viewer put it, "Does it make sense for a company to spend thousands of dollars on a program that attracts regular viewers—and then have it repeat, repeat and repeat the same commercial until you want to close your eyes and ears to avoid it?"

When Johnny Carson moves into Jack Paar's spot next fall, the name of the NBC program will revert to its original one: The Tonight Show, starring Johnny Carson.

The true measure of Johnny's success will be shown in the speed with which NBC changes the name to The Johnny Carson Show.

Recommended tonight: Dick Powell Show, NBC, 9-10 EST—Powell and Sammy Davis Jr. star in The Legend.

Astrological Forecast

Wednesday February 21

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Excellent time for attending to details . . . for reinforcing contacts which are important to future security. Try to avoid the sensational. Be sane, practical. This approach best today.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) —Tendency for you to wait too long. Study situations, persons . . . then come to conclusion and act. Otherwise the favorable chart pass. Don't worry about past . . . think of today.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Listen carefully . . you could get a valuable idea as a result of casual conversation. Best to entertain at home . . . to be close to loved ones . . to invite friends to contribute suggestions. Listen.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Time to experiment . . . to try many paths, rather than permitting yourself to be begged down. If you have choice of speaking up . . . or being ignored . . . take course which spotlights you

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Get down to business today. Say what you mean . . . and mean what you say. Not the time for pipe dreams. Now time to produce . . . to show capabilities. Push forward with creative activity.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Cycle remains up. You could learn much today by teaching. Co-operate in community projects . . . be willing to share knowledge. Don't be offended by questions . . welcome sincere skeptics

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Could be kind of day which generates excitement . . . puts you on the brink of obtaining answers to vital questions. Be willing to test experiment try new foods . . . meet new persons. Be aware.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov 21)— By giving of yourself . . . you eventually gain. This applies to relations with those who mean much to you. Be generous . . . take point of view which leads to greater understanding. Be appreciative.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Accept challenges. Not time to back down. Those in authority may be testing watching. If you do your best . . . avoid excessive timidity . . . odds are in your favor. Judgment keen today. Observe!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Pretense has no place in scheme of today's activity. Be frank, honest . . . express true emotions. Others may find this so refreshing . . . that you gain more than you thought possible.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Like Taurus, it would be wise for you to resolve to fight tendency to worry over past. Today could be time for you to take step forward. Maintain sense of humor . . . welcome new ideas.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)— Much in your favor . . . if you can control urge to act strictly on impulse. Best to ask questions, to read . . . to know what you are doing. Easier to just ride along. But wiser to watch road.

If today is your birthday year could be a very exciting one . . . opportunities open up for change, travel, romance, new ideas. You begin to emerge from shell or cut. You are sensitive, willing to lean over backward for others. This sympathetic nature could now attract the right . . . instead of the wrong persons.

General Tendencies: Accent on excitement, impatience . . . much publicity in connection with persons who flit from one romance to another. Today is day when all signs could benefit studying Virgo interpretation. Share knowledge, enthusiasm.

SURVIVAL SOLACE

LONDON (CP)—A company called Survival Films has been formed to market movies for [illegible] fallout shelters. The films are designed to raise the morale of the shelter's occupants, and will contain inspirational messages by world leaders.

TAKE TIME OUT FOR SURVIVAL - ENROL FOR PAID TRAINING NOW

Canada needs 100,000 additional men to help the Canadian Army Militia carry out national survival operations in the event of nuclear attack. Six-week training courses are being held in your own community — the next one starting February 26 and continuing until April 8.

If you are between 18 and 50, and meet enrolment standards, will you go to work for Canada as a citizen soldier? During the course you are given all day training five days a week. You live at home and receive the same pay as a regular soldier, plus a living allowance.

To be sure of a vacancy, you should act right away. Get full details NOW, without obligation, at the address below that is nearest to your home:

Woman Refuses Ballot in India, Believes Gandhi Cannot Die

CP from AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI—"I don't believe it," said the 90-year-old woman voter as she tossed down her ballot papers in anger. "I don't believe Gandhi can die and I have faith in no one else."

The incident occurred in Patna, capital of India's Bihar State, as voting continued Monday in the world's biggest democratic election.

The woman refused to vote despite assurances from the polling officer that her favorite, Mohandas Gandhi, was dead.

So far balloting has gone peacefully in the election that began in Bengal last Friday and will continue for 10 days until Feb. 25, ranging from the snow-bound Himalayas to the deserts of Rajasthan. In some remote parts of the mountains, however, voting has been put off until April.

At least 16 parties are involved in the voting, but none entertains solid hopes of ousting Prime Minister Nehru's strong congress party.

SEEKS VILLAGE SUPPORT

About half of India's 210,000,000 eligible voters are expected to cast ballots. Some 37,000,000 were entitled to vote Monday, including those in Nehru's own district of Phulphur, in Allahabad State.

The Congress party has directed its main campaign to the inhabitants of India's 550,000 villages who have gone to the polling stations, many on foot or in bullock-carts, in hopes of obtaining better roads, schools and water supplies.

A complaint of election irregularities came from Kashmir Monday after a leader of the opposition Praja Parishad party showed election officials and reporters how ballot boxes could be opened without breaking the seal.

A government spokesman here said the national election commission was considering the matter and would decide whether the election in that area would have to be postponed.

TAKE DIP FIRST

In the holy city of Garhmuktesar, 70 miles east of New Delhi, election day coincided with ceremonies marking the full moon. Polling booths were set up beside the holy River Ganges and voters took a devotional dip, prayed to the sun god, then voted.

Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon arrived in New Delhi Monday from his North Bombay constituency, where the election battle literally "warmed up."

Menon supporters carried out their threat to publicly burn copies of the newspaper Indian Express which has opposed him in the elections.

Police stood by and a crowd of 2,000 watched quietly as copies of the newspaper were burned in the centre of Bombay.

A bitter campaign has been raging between Menon and his supporters and his opponent, independent J. B. Kripalani, 74, who has accused Menon of being a Crypto-Communist.

WOULD BAR THEM

LENNOXVILLE, Que. (CP)—J. W. Pickersgill, former federal cabinet minister, said Saturday he would like to see bilingualism established as an entrance requirement at universities all over Canada by 1937. Addressing the Quebec section of the National Federal of Canadian University Students, Mr. Pickersgill said he would favor a regulation at the nation's English - speaking universities barring any student unable to speak French.

Club Stresses Adventure And Challenge, Will Launch Eight-Foot Rocket in June

By GERRY McNEIL

QUEBEC (CP) — While youth in general fractures itself trying to do the twist, members of L'Ecran des Jeunes burn their energy in other ways.

The 15 - month - old club, which stresses adventure and challenge, has 900 members in Quebec City and about 15,000 in the province. It is growing fast.

Projects this year include:

1. June launching of an eight-foot rocket, if federal permission is granted. The nose cone will contain film to record cosmic rays, a radio transmitter, barometer, and "secret mechanism."

2. A summer expedition to Peru followed by a voyage down the Amazon River, with visits to primitive South American tribes.

3. Stage production at theatre, of a satire written by Louis Ricerd, 16. Plot: Bomb-scared adults flee underground, leaving the aged and ill to care for themselves. Teen - agers take over and all goes smoothly until adults emerge from the shelters.

4. Production of a movie on young love. Director Georgette Duchesne is aiming at psychological problems of l'amour in the 13 - 16 age bracket.

The club also takes part in a weekly television program on the CBC's French - language network. L'Ecran des Jeunes, in English, means The Screen of Youth.

The club got its start through television when president Serge Rainville, 14, and vice-president Claude Laroche, 16, tried to interest adults in their projects.

Quebec City radio and television stations reacted enthusiastically when they saw the project list. The boys soon were on television.

The publicity brought in offers of help or advice from businessmen and Laval University professors.

CANOE TRIP

Five club members were flown to Lake Mistassini last summer to start a canoe trip down the Rupert River to James Bay, accompanied by five Indian guides.

An aerodynamics professor from Laval is helping the boys with the rocket. A chemical company has offered to provide solid fuel — liquid fuel is considered too dangerous — for the rocket. A manufacturer will chip in the combustion chamber.

The rocket was mentioned last year in a national CBC telecast. Within days, the federal mines department advised the club that it is illegal for anyone but professionals to build or launch rockets in Canada.

If the federal government doesn't relent, the club may take the rocket to New England for launching.

London-Born Painter Enjoyed Rugged Life in West Canada

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—Logger, deck-hand, pioneer railroad builder, First World War soldier, circus clown and writer—Douglas Burage has been all these and more in a long, packed life, much of it spent in western Canada.

Right now he's a painter, and recently had a show in a Canadian government centre in London sponsored by the department of veterans' affairs.

Art is no new venture for the tubby little man whose twinkling eyes and rosy cherubic face under a thatch of white hair give him the look of one of Snow White's seven dwarfs.

He has painted for years, on and off; has exhibited in London's Leicester and Cooling galleries—"only the best, y'know" —and even, one momentous year, in the Royal Academy.

But until lately most of his considerable energies have been absorbed in tumbling round the circus ring in clown's makeup. He says he must be the only professional painter who is also a professional clown.

He got into show business in the classic way, by acting as impromptu understudy. One afternoon, just as the performance was starting, the clown went sick. Odd - job man Burrage quickly slipped on the baggy costume and white makeup and took his place. When he came off, the circus manager told him: "That's your place, in the ring—stay there."

GOES TO CANADA

But staying long in one place has never appealed to London-born Burrage. As a lad of 16 or 17—he's vague about dates, conceals his age with a disarming grin—he went out to western Canada around 1911 to look for adventure in the logging camps.

"Those were the days when they were logging camps," he says nostalgically. "Not like the pansy affairs of today."

He has a book on his logging days awaiting publication. He's already written three—two on circus life, one about a wild horse—mainly aimed at children.

His Canadian memoirs should make vivid reading. He saw the Grand Trunk Railroad being built through the Rockies and remembers when the land south of Edmonton "right down to Calgary" was wide and empty, with few farms in sight.

In the first world war he fought in the Canadian Army, spent 2½ years in the front line and was sent back wounded to Montreal.

The 1920s and 1930s saw him wood - carving, painting road signs, tramping the roads of Europe and North America, "knocking about on small boats" and joining the circus. He has never married.

Now, after several trips back to his native city, he has settled in a riverside studio in Chelsea, recreating in oils and watercolors the scenes of his eventful life.

New NDP Leader Once Political Renegade

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. (Bert) Herridge, the man who succeeded rebel Hazen Argue as parliamentary leader of the CCF - New Democratic Party, was once a political renegade himself.

He was a vice-president of the British Columbia Liberal Association from 1932 to 1934, and then CCF member of the legislature for Rossland-Trail constituency from 1941 to 1945.

Mr. Herridge entered the House of Commons in 1945 and sat for three years as an independent-CCF member under the party label—which he chose for himself—of "The People's CCF."

He had been expelled from the party provincially by the British Columbia CCF executive for having accepted a nomination to run for the federal House in 1945.

Now the MP for Kootenay West is acting as a steadying influence in the wake of Mr. Argue's resignation from the NDP Sunday, heading the small but active eight-man CCF-NDP group in the 265-seat Commons.

LISTEN TO HIM

In Parliament he is listened to attentively. He has a ready facility for turning an effective phrase to meet any situation, usually with wit and candor. He has become noted for his witty prefaces to questions in the Commons.

In politics, he is loyal to the old CCF party and the principles of democratic socialism. He is generally regarded as more closely attuned to the principles of the British Labor party than most of his CCF - NDP colleagues.

Mr. Herridge, who was born in London and will be 67 next week on Feb. 28, came to Canada at the age of 11 with his parents.

He and his wife now own between 2,000 and 3,000 acres of forest and range land on the Arrow Lakes area of B.C.

"I want you to make it clear I am only a trustee for the nation—for when the revolution comes," he says with his characteristic twinkle of the eye, puffing up a cloud of smoke on his ever-present pipe. He practices reforestation carefully, determined to leave his estates better than when he acquired them.

Body of Pilot Found Preserved In Sahara Sands

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The body of a British Air Force pilot and his plane have been found preserved in the sands of the Sahara after 29 years, French military authorities said Sunday.

The discovery was made last Monday by a camel corps patrol in an area known as "the land of the thirsty," south of what now [illegible] the French nuclear base at Reggan.

The body of William Newton of Birmingham was found nearly perfectly preserved under the hot sands. Nearby was his de Havilland biplane, the tracks it made while landing still faintly visible. About 50 gallons of gasoline still were in its tanks.

A log kept by the pilot helped military authorities establish what happened.

Newton, they said, was on a flight from Barcelona to Algiers April 19, 1933, when he decided to survey the "land of the thirsty." for some reason he decided to land in the desert.

His plane came down and rolled along the sand for about 30 yards until its wheels got stuck and the aircraft overturned. Injured in the face, Newton crawled out of his aircraft and waited in the shade of one of its wings for help to arrive.

For seven days he continued to wait in vain, writing notes until he ran out of hope.

In 1959, the wreckage of a U.S. bomber, Lady Be Good, which never returned from a wartime raid on Naples April 4, 1943, was found in the Libya desert east of Algeria. Bodies of seven of the nine men aboard later were found in the sands by search parties.

RETAKE KATANGA TOWN

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — President Moise Tshombe's Katanga province government announced today its troops have retaken the North Katanga town of Kongolo, scene of the New Year's massacre of 18 Catholic missionaries. Tshombe's troops took over Kingolo from mutinous Congolese troops from Stanleyville who seized the town about two months ago in a rampage through North Katanta.

Pentecostal Church Scene Of Youth Rally

TWEED — Youth from six area Pentecostal Churches recently enjoyed a great youth rally in Tweed Pentecostal Church.

Guest speaker for the occasion was the Rev. Leslie Grant, assistant to the pastor at the Stone Church in Toronto. Mr. Grant is an internationally known pianist and organist. In his message he referred to a European Evangelistic tour. He stated that the Christian youth of West Germany have deep devotion and conviction in their faith.

He emphatically stated that Canadian Christian youth must have this same surrender to the claims of Christ in order to stand the ever-increasing anti-Christian tensions of the day.

The church enjoyed a wonderful crowd of youth and many of these young people responded to the challenge of the Word of God.

The Rev. David G. Purdie, pastor, expressed appreciation to the speaker and to all those who attended.

Franco-Arab Pact Leaves Only One 'Enemy' to Peace

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The reported Franco - Arab agreement leaves only one "enemy" to peace in Algeria.

After seven years of fighting, the accord reached in the Ura Mountains, if it becomes final, will signify an end to hostilities between the French government and the rebel Algerian nationalists.

But what started in 1954 as a straight fight between French authority and the insurgent Moslems has become a three-way war, and everything now depends on the third party.

This is the Secret Army Organization, an illegal group of dissident French army officers pledged to keep Algeria French. It has the active support, or at least the complicity, of nearly all Algeria's 1,000,000 European population.

Now that a cease-fire seems to be imminent, many fear that paradoxically the shooting will start in earnest.

For the secret army now faces its biggest test. It must put up or shut up. There is an enormous, pent-up desire for peace among the masses of Algeria, both Arab and European.

Unless the secret army can pull off some spectacular coup almost immediately, peace may have its own momentum. The European settlers who have struggled so bitterly to keep things as they are may find that an independent Algeria is not as bad as they feared.

The best bet of secret army leader Raoul Salan, who has announced that he does not intend to try another putsch, may be to continue to harass the authorities by terrorism, civil disobedience and general strikes.

Salan has willing allies among the civil population. The French administration is riddled with spies—one reason why the authorities have never been able to catch up with the ex-general, though television and radio commentators seem to have no difficulty locating him for interviews.

Thus the peace accord in Algeria is still precarious. A big hope lies in the volatile temperment of the Europeans, a medley of European races who tend to blow hot and cold.

They talk a good fight. When it comes to action, they will want to make sure that the odds are in their favor.

Argue's Revolt Supported in Nickel Belt

SUDBURY (CP) — Gildo Basso, treasurer of the New Democratic Party for Nickel Belt riding, said Monday he and other members support Hazen Argue's revolt against the party.

Mr. Basso said "the party has become a tool of a labor clique.

"The leaders are a group of power-mad dictators who, with their rubber-stamp stooges pretend to be interested in labor, but are interested in the almighty dollar.

"We joined the NDP because we thought it was a grass-roots organization, but a good cleanup is needed," Mr. Basso said.

He said he made the statement following discussion with several other members of the executive, who felt the same way.

Mr. K. Suggests U.S. And Russia Pool Space Work

Congratulates Glenn; Urges Joint Endeavor

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev congratulated the United States today on Lt.-Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight and suggested that the U.S. and Russia pool their resources to explore outer space.

The Soviet premier made his proposal in a message to President Kennedy quoted by the official news agency Tass.

Khrushchev said such a joint effort "would be very beneficial to the advance of science and would be acclaimed by all peoples who would like to see scientific achievements benefit man and not be used for cold war purposes and the arms race."

Tass quoted Khrushchev as saying:

"I should like to hope that the genius of man, who penetrated the depth of the universe, will be able to find a road to an enduring peace and to ensure prosperity to all peoples on our planet earth which in the space age, though it does not seem to be so large, is still dear to all its inhabitants."

SENT TO WASHINGTON

The official news agency said Khrushchev's message—first official Soviet reaction to Glenn's flight—was forwarded to Washington.

Khrushchev congratulated Kennedy on the triple orbital flight and asked him to convey his "best wishes" to the 40-year-old astronaut.

Text of Khrushchev's message, as published by Tass, said:

"Esteemed Mr. President, on behalf of the Soviet Union and myself personally I congragulate you and the American people on the successful launching of a spaceship with a man on board.

"Another step has been made in the exploration of space, and the family of the cosmonauts has this time been joined by a citizen of the United States of America, Lt.-Col. John Glenn.

"Successful launchings of spaceships, marking the reaching of new heights in science and technology, make us justly proud of the unlimited potentialities of human genius to serve the welfare of man.

"I should like to hope that the genius of man, who penetrated the depth of the universe, will be able to find a road to an enduring peace and to ensure prosperity to all peoples on our planet earth which, in the space age, though it does not seem to be so large, is still dear to all its inhabitants.

"If our countries pooled their efforts—scientific, technical and material — to explore outer space, this would be very beneficial to the advance of science and would be acclaimed by all peoples who would like to see scientific achievements benefit man and not to be used for cold war' purposes and the arms race.

"Please convey hearty congratulations and best wishes to astronaut John Glenn."

ARGUE MAY SOON JOIN RANKS OF LIBERAL PARTY

Entry Appears Only Formality

OTTAWA (CP) — Hazen Argue's entry into the Liberal party appears to be only a matter of the formalities.

He said Tuesday night he would announce his political plans in the House of Commons today or Thursday.

In an interview on a television public affairs program, the CBC's Inquiry, Mr. Argue drew the line only at declaring his intention openly.

He spoke in terms of becoming affiliated with the Liberal party, saying its domestic policies are progressive and that he is not out of tune with its foreign or defence policies.

Mr. Argue is expected to be welcomed into the Liberal party with little if any opposition.

MUST CONSULT PEARSON

The move hinges, however, on direct consultation with Opposition Leader Pearson, who is in Toronto today but plans to return here Thursday. The consultation could take place by phone today or in person Thursday.

Mr. Argue said Tuesday night that if he joined the Liberals and they offered him the post of western spokesman — something the Liberals have been without since 1958 — he would accept it.

He also urged other dissatisfied New Democratic Party members to follow him.

Mr. Argue reiterated his fears that the NDP, under its present constitution, is dominated by a few labor leaders.

Within the last few months 80 to 90 per cent of the party's finances had come "from the treasuries of a few trade unions," he said. In future party conventions, labor leaders would have effective control of 1,300 to 1,400 delegates, leaving 300 or 400 others representing farmers, business and professional men with no effective voice.

CITES FAULT

Mr. Argue said the fault of the constitution was that delegates representing labor would represent affiliated unions rather than NDP constituency organizations.

He said he had foreseen the danger but had hoped that it could be overcome in practice.

He went to last week's Saskatchewan NDP council meeting and participated in it as any loyal party member would, put found his fears confirmed and decided Sunday morning he could no longer remain in the party.

Now, he said, he hopes to give the same loyalty to another party, and made it clear his intentions were towards the Liberal party.

A reporter questioned him about the possibility that no party will have a clear majority in Parliament after the next election, and that the NDP might hold the balance of power.

Mr. Argue said he believed it was "the fondest hope" of NDP Leader Douglas that this would be the situation and predicted the NDP would then form a coalition with the Liberals.

FARM MARKET POLICIES UPHELD IN PARLIAMENT

PCs and Liberals Combine in Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—A non-confidence motion attacking the government's farm marketing policies was beaten back in the Commons Tuesday night.

The combined weight of the Progressive Conservative and Liberal parties defeated the CCF-New Democratic Party motion by a vote of 149 to 6.

The motion from Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) charged the government with failure to "give agricultural producers proper and countervailing power in the market place."

It specificaly criticized the government for failing to take steps to provide for national marketing boards for major farm commodities.

The non-confidence motion was apparently designed to show farmers that they have not lost a champion in the CCF New Democratic Party just because Hazen Argue has bolted the party.

It was proposed by Arnold Peters, a former union organizer whose father was active in the dairy industry. Mr. Peters' riding is the rich but little known agricultural area near Haileybury in Northern Ontario.

The CCF member hinted he may be promoted to the role of the party's farm critic in the Commons, but party sources said later he was speaking with his tongue in his cheek.

He contended that farm producers have insufficient marketing power.

Glenn Checked Medically Like Specimen From Mars

GRAND TURK ISLAND (AP) You live the heady exhilaration of being the first American to orbit the earth.

Then you come back to walk barefooted over wooden rails like a country boy, and suffer the nuisance of having warm water squirted in your ears.

Astronaut John Glenn Jr. is back today to just such worldly events after his historic trip. He now is engaged in two days of resting and unwinding, being checked medically like a specimen from Mars and telling experts the entire details of all that happened on his trip while his memory is fresh.

Doing this calls for a secluded hideaway on this small island in the Bahamas 700 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral before he returns to meet President Kennedy and speak to the world Friday.

The barefoot walking on rails with eyes opened and eyes closed — and having water squirted into his ears are part of a medical-scientific way of learning exactly what happened to a man who spent 4½ hours in the strange realm of space. They are special tests of his sense of balance.

The Marine lieutenant-colonel took the same tests before he went. They were high on the list of things to do when he flew here Tuesday night.

The purpose: To find whether weightlessness upset him in any degree. A man in orbit has no sense of weight, no familiar reactions or feelings from the pull of gravity. Some 25 hours of it made Russia's Gherman Titov seasick. One trip around the world did not upset Yuri Gagarin.

Glenn says he didn't find his trip upsetting, say officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He will undergo various checkups to detect any adverse effects on humans from space travel—or to prove that man has a safe passport into the nothingness of space.

Glenn flew to this 12-square mile island, site of a tracking station, as co-pilot on a plane off the deck of the carrier Randolph after he had splashed down at sea in his two-ton capsule.

Seeming relaxed, a bit fatigued but yet jaunty and cheerful, Glenn grinned at the small crowd at the airport and at his special hospital haven a half-mile away and said: "It's been a long day and an interesting one, too, I might add."

LEGISLATURE TOUCHES ON MANY QUESTIONS

New University Will Be Created

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature touched on a number of controversial bases during Tuesday's sitting — including birth control, plans for a new university, re-organization of courts and farm machinery legislation.

Premier Robarts was backed into a position of having to deny that birth control is a policy of the provincial government and promised that "as long as I am minister of education this will not be the policy."

The birth - control question came when Leo Troy (L—Nipissing) asked about a speech by Dr. C. E. Phillips, director of graduate studies at the Ontario College of Education.

During a weekend speech Dr. Phillips suggested birth control might be one answer to the growing education costs.

NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY

Mr. Robarts, premier and education minister, said the question was "semi-frivolous" and added that Dr. Phillips—as an employees of the University of Toronto—was not speaking for the department of education.

At another point in the sitting Mr. Robarts introduced steps to create a new university at the Lakehead.

Premier Robarts introduced an amendment to the Lakehead College of Arts, Science and Technology Act (1956), which would give that college degree-granting honors.

Attorney-General Roberts, in a series of bills, introduced a plan to do a major revamping job on Ontario's lower court system and another calling for the addition of two judges to the Ontario Supreme Court.

Mr. Roberts explained that most of the revisions followed recommendations made last December by Eric H. Silk, Assistant deputy attorney-general.

Astronaut's Triumph Stirs Admiration of the World

LONDON (AP) — Dinners turned cold on the Continent Tuesday and pints of ale went flat in British pubs. In the Far East, it was well past bedtime and they fought off sleep as Lt.-Col. John H. Glenn Jr. rode his Friendship 7 space capsule into a triple orbit of the earth.

From almost all of them, including some Russians, came an A-OK. U.S. prestige appeared to get a boost. Westerners saw in the flight a definite closing in on the Soviet Union in the race for space.

In Moscow, a sympathetic Russian citizen said: "I hope he makes it."

In the Vatican a spokesman said the Pope most certainly was praying for the 40-year-old U.S. space man.

In a London pub in those final minutes, the pints of ale rested on the bar until the word over the radio that Glenn had made it safely.

At Buckingham Palace, the Queen sent off a message to President Kennedy.

Prime Minister Macmillan and Prime Minister Diefenbaker also sent congratulatory messages as did Presidents Arturo Frodizi of Argentina and Jorge Allessandri of Chile and Prime Minister Tancredo Neves of Brazil.

There were similar messages from officials in Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Denmark, The Netherlands, Tunisia, Spain, Italy and West Germany.

All day, the Soviet radio broadcast factual reports of Glenn's flight. The Voice of America came through to Russians at the start of Glenn's voyage but later the Russians jammed it.

This morning's Moscow newspapers published only terse reports of the flight. Komsomolskaya Pravda, the youth newspaper with more than 3,000,000 circulation, printed a picture of Glenn in his space suit and ran three brief dispatches.

But Russians showed deep interest for the U.S. space effort.

One said: "You will catch up —but then the Soviet Union will be doing something bigger."

A warning of this came from Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's giant satellite-tracking telescope at Jodrell Bank.

"It is to be hoped (the Americans) will not take this significant success as an indication that they can relax in their efforts in the severe competition they face from Russia," he said.

He added "it is reasonable to anticipate" the Russians have the lifting power to place a man in orbit for several days.

There were a few discordant notes.

In Ottawa, Dr. Norman Alcock, founder of the Canadian Peace Research Institute, predicted Glenn's flight would mean weapons in orbit.

"We cannot help but feel that today's accomplishment was tied to the arms race," Alcock said. "It was not done for science and adventure but to destroy great sections of humanity."

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Archbishop Makarios, the president of Cyprus, has accepted an invitation from President Kennedy to visit the United States in June, authoritative diplomatic sources said today.

BC Doctors Charge Drug Industry Wastes Time, Effort and Money

VANCOUVER (CP) — The medical profession of British Columbia says it is time for a "complete reorganization" of all federal government health services.

Tied in with this would be a transfer of department of veterans affairs hospitals to the control of local boards and a new policy of treating Indians in community general hospitals rather than in Indian hospitals.

The recommendations were contained in a brief presented to the royal commission on health services Tuesday by the B.C. Medical Association.

The brief also dealt with drug costs and "promotional methods" used by manufacturerers to get doctors to prescribe particular brands for patients.

This has been a recurring theme in the Alberta-B.C. hearings of the seven-member commission headed by Chief Justice Emmett Hall of Saskatchewan.

The medical association said it is deeply concerned over the "waste of time, effort and money" for which drug promotion is responsible. It advocated that the federal food and drug directorate be given facilities to control the quality of drugs and tighten controls on advertisements for proprietary medicines.

The submission said the federal government recently instituted a form of voluntary prepaid medical insurance for its employees.

"If the system of voluntary prepaid insurance is the one which the federal government considers to be the best for those persons who work as civil servants, the same principles for provision for medical services should be applied to those whom the government holds as its reponsibility, the Indians, veterans, etc.

"We therefore recommend a complete reorganization of all federal government health service to bring them into line with each other, and with the medical care available to the main body of the citizens of Canada."

Perth Citizens Turn on All Lights Giving Glenn Beacon 'Down Under'

PERTH, Australia (AP)—The people of Perth ignored electric bills and sleep to give astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., a friendly beacon in the night as he orbitted the globe. To his thanks, they responded "anytime."

It was past midnight here when the Friendship 7 soared high over the southwest tip of Australia on its first orbit.

Maj. Gordon Cooper, at the nearby Muchea tracking station for the flight, had suggested Glenn would appreciate the gesture on an illuminated city. Perth took up the idea enthusiastically.

Housewives in bathrobes and slippers shuffled about the house, turning on all the lights and raising the blinds. Street lamps burned long past their usual dimming time. Even bowling greens in the suburbs remained illuminated.

Perth was a torch, its 450,000 residents sure Glenn couldn't miss it. He didn't. To the tracking station at Woomera, Australia, he radioed:

"Just to my right I can see a big pattern of light, apparently right on the coast. I can see the outline of a town and a very bright light just to the south of it."

From the ground he was told he was looking at Perth.

"Roger," replied Glenn. "The lights show up very well and thank everybody for turning them on, will you?"

Astronaut Will Meet President On Friday

Kennedy Plans to Go To Cape Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., relaxing after his fantastic space voyage around the world three times, began to tell experts today about the 81,000-mile trip and prepared to receive the country's thanks from President Kennedy Friday.

The president planned to come to Cape Canaveral to greet the first American to orbit the earth when the astronaut returns here from his post-flight isolation on Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas.

Kennedy, millions of Glenn's countrymen and millions more around the world saluted the new conqueror of the cosmos, who circled the globe three times Tuesday in four hours, 56 minutes in his two-ton Friendship 7 spacecraft.

Glenn was flown to a special hospital on Grand Turk late Tuesday after he was recovered by a U.S. destroyer minutes after his capsule parachuted into the Atlantic 166 miles from the island.

What the astronaut tells the scientists at Grand Turk and in weeks of briefings to follow will help shape the course of the United States space program.

GUIDED CAPSULE

Glenn conclusively proved on his flight that man is far superior to machine in space. When his capsule developed control difficulty during the first orbit, he assumed partial manual control and maintained command for the rest of the mission.

He rejected a suggestion from ground officials that he be brought down after two orbits because of the trouble.

Walter C. Williams, Project Mercury operations director, explained later that the trouble resulted because one of 18 gas jets on the capsule surface was plugged.

Williams said a minor refinement probably would suffice to correct the trouble.

But he said that had a human passenger not been aboard, the spacecraft would have been brought down after one orbit.

The operations director also explained that a false signal forced a decision not to jettison the package of reserve rockets after they had ignited and brought the capsule out or orbit.

The false signal, caused by some unknown electronic mishap, indicated that an explosive device designed to separate the capsule's heat shield after reentry into the atmosphere, had ignited prematurely over the Pacific during the second orbit.

PLAYED IT SAFE

To keep the heat shield from falling away too soon, officials decided Glenn had better keep his retro rocket package, with its restraining straps, attached to the capsule.

If the heat shield had dropped off before the capsule encountered the terrific friction of reentry into the atmosphere, the capsule would have burned up in the 3,000-degree htat.

Glenn reported throughout the flight that he was in excellent physical and mental condition and doctors confirmed this by reading in-flight instrumentation on his heartbeat, pulse, respiration and temperature.

Throughout the flight, the astronaut performed as a test pilot, handling his craft, making observations, keeping a flight log. He even found time to take pictures—black and white and color—of the earth and heavens with a small camera. He changed the film roll at least four times during the mission.

All the while, he kept in voice contact with the ground stations of the world-wide mercury tracking network. From his 100 to 160-mile high vantage point in space he had breath-taking views of the earth strtiching in the 3,000-degree heat. rizon.

British Rail Unions Accept Pay Increase

LONDON (Reuters) — British rail union leaders today accepted a three-per-cent pay rise for 420,000 workers that they had rejected two weeks ago.

The acceptance, made at a meeting with a railroad pay tribunal, followed an interview given to the union leaders last week by Prime Minister Macmillan, who suggested a review of the pay position later this year.

The unions two weeks ago had held out for a 10-per-cent boost.

Salary Hikes in Maximum For Teachers and Principals Approved by School Board

Salary increases of $200 in the maximum for teachers holding certificates in the three highest standards, and from $300 to $400 in the maximum for principals, have been approved by members of the Belleville Public Schools Board.

The request for salary adjustments from the Teachers' Association was first discussed in May, 1961, and was re-opened again this year with weekly committee meetings being held since January 30th.

By mutual agreement the salary scale and agreement have been re-written to take into account the decision of the Department of Education to introduce four standards of teaching certificates for Ontario elementary schools.

A second step was to separate the salary scale of the principals from that of the other teaching employees.

Adjustments then agreed upon included a $200 increase in the maximum rate for teachers holding certificates in Standards 2, 3 and 4, with no change made for Standard 1.

The new scale for principals will include an allowance to recognize the B. Ed. degree, re-grouping of schools as to size and allowances for administration, and increases varying from about $400 in the maximum rate for minimum qualification in the smaller schools to $300 at the maximum rate in the larger schools.

GRANT SCHEME NOT - AVAILABLE

Principals will move into the new rates at regular increments if they are not already at the former maximum rate.

Although salary negotiations have been completed, the board is not requested to provide 1962 budget requirements to city hall until after March 15th. Most of the preparatory work toward setting the year's budget had not been completed by the board, but the provincial scheme is not yet available.

Last night's meeting was the most lengthy in over a year with adjournment coming just a few minutes before the 11 o'clock deadline.

HAS NO INTEREST

The board will provide a statement for the Bay of Quinte High School Board to the effect that it has no interest in the un-opened section of Coleman Street on which a portion of the proposed extension to Quinte Secondary School will extend.

But the public school board has a site problem on property which it is purchasing from the Ontario School for the Deaf as the location of a future school in that area.

Since arrangements for the purchase were made the board has been advised that a 13-foot strip on the south side of Bridge Street, West, is required from the school site purchased last year, in order to widen the street to the required 66 feet.

WANT MORE LAND

The board wishes now to purchase further land from the Ontario School for the Deaf to make up for the loss in street widening and it has been informed that further information regarding their purchase request could be expected from the Ontario Department of Public Works.

The board gave authorization for a Department of Education summer course to be held at the Harry J. Clarke School from July 3 to August 4. In consideration of the advantages of the summer program a nominal rental of $100 was agreed upon.

Authorization was given for board representatives to attend a zone conference of the Ontario Public School Trustees and Ratepayers Association at Kemptville on March 17th.

A donation of hockey equipment for the Avondale School has been received from the Home and School Association of that district.

Trustee Hazel Pugh advised the board she will be unable to act as board representative at the Home and School executive meetings and Trustee Lyle Langabeer was named to assume the responsibility.

Present at the meeting were: Chairman W. Townson and Trustees E. B. Bishop, F. P Clarke, M. Lovelace, J. N. McKibbon, Hazel Pugh, J. Russell Scott, M.D., Mac Smith, J. R. Sproule and Jas. Ritchie.

Basis of Brotherhood Is Sharing Kiwanis Club Told

Herbert Angus Mowat of Toronto, a man who has been active in the work of the United Nations and a number of organizations and institutions dedicated to promoting brotherhood and understanding between peoples of different backgrounds as well as the guiding light of his own public relations firm, was the guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville at the Kiwanis Centre yesterday afternoon.

The people of today are "paying the tab" for over three centuries of destructive relations between the different races in the world, he suggested. There currently exists an area of strife between the "haves" and the "have-nots" which can only be crossed by the practice of brotherhood between these two groups with the onus being on the "haves" to adopt this practice first, Mr. Mowat advised.

Reflecting on a number of his many experiences whilst working with the United Nations the speaker said that more has been accomplished in the past 16 years through the United Nations in the establishment of enormous foundations for world peace by the practice of sharing than had been accomplished in the pervious 1,600 years by mankind through exploitation.

"Sharing", he said, "is the basis for brotherhood". In this manner strangeness, which is the basis for conflict between peoples of different racial or cultural backgrounds, can be outlived and eliminated, it was suggested.

There exists a challenge for each citizen to meet the problem of bettering the world and its people through sharing his benefits and advantages with those who have not by practising brotherhood. This is something which must be done today not tomorrow, when it will be too late, he emphasized.

The seed of peace must be sown by man by utilizing his powers of organization and by exercising his ultimate advantage"— that his spirit can predominate in any circumstance and is not subservient to any science, the speaker advised.

FOUR REQUIREMENTS

Mr. Mowat also touched on the four mandatory requirements of a responsible form of government within which the individual can develop. The four points cited were: freedom of the individual from arbitrary arrest or imprisonment; freedom of the individual to express his own convictions; a channel of political action to facilitate a change of government without the individual having to take recourse in violence, and the maintenance of three institutions free to carry on without government interference—the home, the university, and the church.

He stated that in Canada the individual has these four requirements but that most citizens still have a long way to go towards doing something positive about making friends of people of different racial or cultural backgrounds through the practice of brotherhood.

Mr. Mowat was introduced by the Reverend C. W. Coleman.

During the course of the meeting a new member, Randy Loewen, was inducted by Kiwanian Lorne McDougall.

The meeting was conducted by Kiwands president George Hume.

Sunshine Party Opens Crusade At Temple

"Each year in the U.S.A. and Canada we spend billions of dollars building bigger and better churches", the Reverend Bruce Thum told a large congregation in Calvary Temple on Sunday morning; "but the need of the hour is not bigger and better churches; rather the need is for more consecrated Christians, filled with the Spirit of God and radiating love and compassion. We need people who will seek God often in secret prayer and faithfully study the Bible. The reason people fall for false doctrines and cults is because they are not grounded in the Word of God.

"Then, when people come to church, we need fire in the pulpit to keep them awake. There are multitudes of nice people who should be presented with medals for leaving luxurious, spring-filled mattresses to come to church and sleep on hard, uncomfortable pews".

The Reverend Bruce Thum, better known in Indian circles as "Chief Charging Bear", is the son of a Cherokee Indian princess, and is a direct descendent of Chief Pathkiller, originator of the Cherokee Nation in Oklahoma. He preaches with a rapid-fire delivery, packed with power and Bible authority. While decrying sin and ungodliness, the Chief affirms he is out to scalp no one but the devil. The fervor of his denunciation of evil is tempered by a heart of love and compassion for the erring, the downtrodden, the sick and discouraged. The Chief is a tonic for those who like "straight-from-the-shoulder" preaching. He will likely jar those who come just for the musical entertainment.

VERSALITE GROUP

The Chief heads up a versatile group of Gospel musicians known as the 'Sunshine Party". They are Radio-TV-Recording artists, famous throughout the U.S.A. and Canada, and have appeared on Art Linkletter and Bob Crosby's CBC-TV programs coast to coast. Rev. Thum emcees their musical concert each service in a different and colorful Indian costume. He states that this type of personal public appearance is to keep alive the Indian traditon, customs and folklore in these modern days of the space age.

The musical Sunshine Party play over twenty different instruments and use a large van to transport equipment, which includes spectacular scenery and lighting for illustrated sermons.

Charles Cerness, manager of the group, possess a fine baritone voice and, besides playing many musical instruments, he sets up lighting and props for the special sermons in three-dimentional effect. Violita, his sister, is a splendid contralto singer; she plays the marimba, string bass and saxephone.

Ruth Thum, the Chief's squaw, does the arranging musically for the group and is a scintillating Gospel song stylist. She plays almost every instrument and is known as "The Little Girl with the Big Voice".

The Reverend Dr. Hope Smith states that the Sunshine Party recently closed a great six weeks crusade at Evangel Temple in Toronto. Attendance records were the largest in the history of that church and hundreds of decisions were made for Christ.

JAMES EDWARD POWER
Read

In failing health for the past 18 months, Mr. James Edward Power died Tuesday at the home of his daughter in Kingston. He was in his 66th year.

Born at Read, Mr. Power was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Power and had lived in the Read area until about a year ago when he went to live with his daughter in Kingston. He was a carpenter by trade and was a member of St. Charles Church and the Holy Name Society. His wife, the former Bessie Walsh, predeceased him.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Joseph (Bernice) Healey of Kingston, and one son, Kenneth, of Shannonville. Also surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Peter Feeney of Belleville; Mrs. Ed Shannon of Enterprise and Plainfield; Mrs. J. Thompson of Waterloo, and Mrs. J. Bibby of Paris, Ont., and three brothers, Joseph of Read, and Frank and Raymond, both of Toronto.

Resting at the home of his son, Kenneth Power, R. R. 2, Shannonville; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. HENRY GILBERT BELL
Stirling

Mrs. Carrie Mabel Bell of Stirling died at the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday, February 20, 1962, in her 81st year. She had been ill for one week.

Born in Stirling, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Rodgers, she was a lifetime resident of that community and was a member of St. Paul's United Church.

She married Henry Gilbert Bell, who predeceased her in 1949. Surviving are a son, Maurice, of Stirling; two sisters, Miss Rilla Rodgers of Stirling and Mrs. Emma Goudge of Winnipeg, Man.; and two grandchildren. One son, Lawrason, also predeceased her.

Resting at the Duffin Funeral Home, Stirling Funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

CHARLES LING

The funeral of Charles Ling was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel on Tuesday afternoon. There were many old friends in attendance to pay their last respects.

Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan conducted the service in the chapel and the committal rites at Belleville cemetery, where entombment was in the mausoleum.

The bearers were: Cecil Hardwick, Ross Burt, John Irwin, Howard Smith, Kenneth Smith and Gerald Way.

ALFRED WHITEMAN
R. R. 3, Madoc

Ill for the past two months, Mr. Alfred Whiteman of R. R. 3, Madoc, died Tuesday in Belleville General Hospital. He was in his 89th year.

One of the oldest residents of Madoc township, Mr. Whiteman was born at Marlbank and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whiteman. He had lived in Madoc township for the past 58 years where he was a farmer until his retirement in 1945. He was a member of Cooper United Church. He was pre-deceased by his wife the former Lottie Deline.

Surviving are seven daughters, Mrs. W. (Eva) Moore, Madoc township; Mrs. E. (Edna) McCumber), Frankford; Mrs. H. (Grace) VanDusen of Belleville; Mrs. D. (Gertie) McCumber of Frankford; Mrs. G. (Ethel) Hood of Frankford, Mrs. F. (Vera) Crowe of Frankford, and Mrs. F. (Mildred) Moorcroft of Madoc township, and one son Henry Whiteman of Cooper.

Also surviving are 47 grandchildren. He was the last of his family.

Jury Attaches No Blame To Driver in Man's Death

A coroner's jury, investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of Gordon James Reid of Holloway, last night found that death was accidental and attached no blame to the driver of the car, Brian Walter Tipton, of 331 Front Street, Belleville.

Mr. Reid died instantly after being struck by a car as he was standing on the shoulder of highway No. 2 opposite the Superior Propane Gas Company, just west of the city.

Shortly after the supper hour, on the evening of December 22, there had been a rear-end collision on the highway, near the James Little residence.

Mr. Reid had eaten supper with Mr. and Mrs. Little that evening and the two men had gone out in their shirtsleeves to investigate.

Several vehicles had stopped along the highway and an eastbound car turned out from behind a stopped bus and into the path of a westbound vehicle driven by Brian Tipton.

The Tipton car swung sharply to the right to avoid the eastbound car and in doing so, struck Mr. Reid who was standing on the shoulder of the road.

Dr. Rota, a pathologist at the Belleville General Hospital conducted a postmorten on Mr. Reid and said there were obvious fractures and internal injuries. Dr. Rota said Mr. Reid's blood contained ".9 parts" per thousand of alcohol which indicated he had, had about three drinks of liquor.

Crown Attorney, John Pringle asked Dr. Rota what the condition of a man would be if his blood contained "1.5 parts" per thousand of alcohol. Dr. Rota said he would consider it a point where the person would definitely be impaired.

CONSTABLE CALLED

Constable D. J. Thoms said he had been called to investigate an accident, which had happened just prior to this. He said when he arrived he found two vehicles had collided with each other and a parked Colonial Coach Lines bus, which had stopped as the result of this accident.

Const. Thoms said he had just arrived when the second accident occurred. The constable said the Tipton vehicle was damaged on the right hand side where it had struck a tree and it was damaged to the front end as if it had struck someone.

Const. Thoms said Mr. Tipton showed no signs of impairment although he did smell of alcohol. He said his blood sample contained "1.5 parts" per thousand of alcohol

Mr. Reid had been dressed in dark clothes, wearing dark pants and a checkered shirt when he was hit; he said there were no overhead lights at this point.

Justine Sylvester Doughty of Peterborough, driver of the Colonial bus, said he came upon the accident and had stopped his bus and was putting out fuzees. He said he was concerned that there might be another accident as it was so dark along the road.

He said he handed one fuzee to a spectator of the first accident and told him to walk east with it and he took the other and walked west.

Mr. Doughty stated that he was walking back behind his bus when he heard a rustling sound; when he turned around he saw a westbound car going through the ditch, and strike a tree.

"I started back and I could see a dark form in the ditch. I got out my flashlight and saw a body lying there." Mr. Doughty said his bus was not parked off the travelled portion of the road.

Mrs. Lionel LaGrave of Middleton Park said she and her husband had come upon the scene of the accident and there was a man standing on the side of the road waving them on. She said they went out around the bus and then got back over in their own lane. She said she then heard a thump which sounded like a man being hit.

A DARK NIGHT

Mrs. LaGrave said it was dark and it was hard to see anything. She said they had just gotten back into their own lane when a westbound car went passed them.

Brian Tipton told the jury that he was proceeding towards Trenton from Belleville. He said it was dark and it was hard to see. "I was going to go past the accident, when a set of car lights came right at me. I swung to my right. I saw the man there before I hit him. It happened so fast. I saw him there, and then it was all over" said Mr. Tipton.

Mr. Tipton said he had been travelling between 40 and 45 miles per hour, but that he had been braking his car as he came upon the scene of the first accident.

A passenger in the Tipton car, Robert Golka of Pinnacle Street, Belleville, said as they approached the scene of the accident he could see car lights behind the bus but they were still moving. Mr. Golka said as they got up closer to the scene, a car pulled out from behind the bus. When I saw the man we were only a few feet from him.

Accused Given Two Years For Abduction

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP)—"She did not go with me as a lover, but as a companion because she was not being used right at home."

Ray Hicks, 41-year-old grandfather, made the statement in court Tuesday just before he was sentenced to two years in penitentiary for the abduction of 15-year-old Lois Ackerman.

Hicks, a carpenter and hired hand on the Ackerman farm at one time, pleaded not guilty and conducted his own defence.

Only three witnesses were called by the Crown—the girl and her parents.

The girl said she and Hicks spent a week in Toronto together after he picked her up from school last Nov. 2. She was a Grade IX student in nearby Odessa, Ont.

Later, they went to the Winnipeg area where they got jobs on the same farm. They returned Feb. 8.

Hicks, who quoted scripture in court, said the girl was planning to leave home in any case.

Court was told Hicks and the girl travelled as father and daughter with documents made out that way.

Quinte Rink Easily Wins First Game

The Colts playoffs for this district are being held at the RCAF curling rink today with seven rinks competing and after the first draw the Belleville rink of Ron Benn, Tom Carruthers, William Riley and Mac White are still in the running. Mr. White is throwing lead rocks and skipping the rink, while Tom Carruthers is playing second stones, Ron Benn, third stones and Bill Riley the fourth rocks. The winners go to Smiths Falls on March 1st for the zone playoffs and the winner goes to the finals for the provincial title. This contest is for curlers who have not been registered more than seven years with the Ontario Curling Association.

In the draw this morning, Stan Keith of the RCAF defeated Herm Chambers of the Trenton Curling Club 9-6, while Al Cormarty of the Kingston Curling Club won easily over George Braun of Kingston Garrison, 16-5, while Mac White took a rink from Napanee skipped by G. Jerome, 18-5. Cornwall defaulted to Gananoque.

At the two o'clock draw Al Cormarty of Kingston will meet Stan Keith of the RCAF, while the Quinte rink will meet the Gananoque entry. The winners of this draw will play the final tonight at seven o'clock.

IN MEMORIAM

KNOTT. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph Henry Knott, who passed away February 21st, 1955.

There's an open gate at the end of the road,
Through which each must go alone;
And there in a light we cannot see,
Our Father claims His own.
Beyond the gate our loved one,
Finds happiness and rest;
And there is comfort in the thought,
That a loving God knows best.

—Sadly missed and dearly remembered by wife Mary Ann and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market slipped lower during light morning trading today.

In the industrial list, losses slightly outnumbered gains with Abitibi, Canadian Breweries, Royal Bank and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all down ⅛.

U.S. Ford dropped two points in light turnover to a 1962 low of 154. Interprovincial Pipe Line and Steel Company of Canada both declined ¼.

Among issues showing gains were BC Power, up to a new high of 17, and Price Brothers, up ¼. Bell Telephone, Algoma Steel, Bank of Nova Scotia and Canada Cement all rose ⅛.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped .81 at 617.79 and base metals .01 at 209.07. Golds rose .27 at 89.63 and western oils .28 at 128.02. The 11 a.m volume was 901,000 shares compared with 690,000 at the same time Monday.

Despite the slight decline in base metals, International Nickel added ⅛ and Hudson Bay Mining ¼. Speculatives saw Lake Dufault rise 10 cents to $5.65. Wiltsey-Coghlan continued to trade heavily, rising four cents to 27 cents on a turnover of 219,500 shares during the first hour of trading.

In western oils, Calgary and Edmonton and Dome each climbed ½, while Home A and Pacific Petroleum both added ⅛.

In the main list, Consolidated Paper dropped ½, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ¼, Canadian Tire ⅜ and Bell Telephone ½. Atlas Steel gained ¼ to a 1962 high of 31½ and BC Power ⅛ to a new high of 16⅝. Royal Bank rose one point.

On index, industrials dipped .50 to 618.60 and western oils 1.32 to 127.74. Golds rose .19 to 89.36 and base metals .69 to 209.08. Volume was 3,067,000 shares compared with Monday's 2,435,000.

In base metals, Noranda gained ¾ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ¾, while International Nickel dipped ¼. A late-day speculative buying spree pushed the total volume ahead with the most heavily traded issues being Canadian Astoria, Osisko and Wiltsey. Lake Dufault fell 20 cents to $5.55.

Western oils were weakened by a drop of 2¼ to Calgary and Edmonton.

No Subsidy Paid on Farm Ponds Since 1955, Report

Water-shy farmers living in the Moira River watershed are more interested in getting water for their stock when they dig farm ponds than they are in building their ponds to river Authority specifications and thereby collect a subsidy on construction costs.

Despite the fact that the Moira River Conservation Authority pays a subsidy to farmers on farm ponds built to specifications, there has been no subsidy paid since 1955.

Four applications for subsidy were received last year but none of the ponds built come entirely up to specification and payment of subsidy has been deferred pending inspection by an Authority sub-committee.

To be eligible for a grant a spring fed farm pond must have a capacity of 50,000 gallons and other type ponds 75,000 gallons. Banks must slope at a 2 to 1 angle or less and soil banks must be properly sloped and seeded to prevent soil washing into the the pond.

Proper overflow must be provided and the pond must be fenced to prevent cattle wading in the pond.

Also the owner must give written notification to the Authority at least seven days in advanec of when actual construction will commence.

Farmers contemplating the construction of pnods are advised to get expert advice on the proper location and to have soil samples taken to determine whether the completed pond can be expected to hold water.

Members of the Moira Authority education extension advisory board at a meeting held at Cannifton last night, were told that many farm ponds had been constructed in Tyendinaga township without owners bothering to apply for subsidy.

Available subsidy is 50 percent of the cost with maximums of $100 to $300 for different type ponds.

LEGISLATURE

Agriculture Minister Stewart told the House approaches have been made to prospective members of a committee to examine the question of farm machinery legislation.

Labor Minister Warrender said he would wait to see the reasons for judgment in a recent Ontario Appeal Court ruling before deciding whether changes were necessary in the Labor Relations Act.

The question involved the strike by Hotel and Club Employees (CLC) against the royal York Hotel.

Three new members were formally escorted to their seats yesterday when the House resumed its sittings after a 9½ week recess.

Robert J. Harris (PC — Toronto Beaches), Robert Nixon (L—Brant) and Robert Gibson (L—Kenora) were brought individually into the House by their respective party leaders, drummed in by deafening desk-thumping.

Tyendinaga Twp. Home Is Destroyed

Fire completely destroyed the home of Ed Shannon on the 7th of Tyendinaga Township Tuesday night.

The two-storey frame house was occupied by Mr. Shannon's son, Frank and his family, and the blaze was believed to have started in partitions in the attic adjoining a chimney.

Mr. and Mrs. Shannon and their three children were in the house at the time. They managed to get a refrigerator, dryer, and electric stove and a few other articles out of the home before it crumpled.

The alarm had to be placed through Campbellford as telephone wires had been cut in the city, affecting that area.

One fire truck was sent to the scene and the men later called for reinforcements.

The extent of the damage has not been estimated.

Lack of Sewer Costs School Board $4,000

For the lack of a sewer $4,000 was lost!

That seems to be the situation with respect to the proposed erection of the new Parkdale Public School in an area which will not be served by sanitary sewer until one month after the school is scheduled to open.

Monday night at the regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Public School Board, members directed a letter to go to city council pointing out that the board has included an amount of over $4,000 in the general contract for the new school for the installation of a tile bed and septic tank.

The board noted that it appeared the proposed sanitary sewer for the Parkdale area was not scheduled for completion until about October 1st—one month too late for school opening early in September and also a month too late to save $4,000.

FARM MARKET

marketing position of producers and provide them with a realistic price for their products it will be necessary to enact legislation to provide parity price levels for products under the control of a system of producers' marketing boards," he said.

He urged that the boards be organized on a commodity basis with a defined jurisdiction by regions.

To set prices, the federal government would bargain on behalf of consumers with the marketing board for price guarantees for individual commodities.

"These prices would be set with reference to total farm costs and levels of farm income in relation to the rest of the economy, and be renegotiated at the end of the agreed production cycle of the commodity."

WOULD SUPPORT PRICE

If supply exceeded demand, thus depressing the market price below the guaranteed producer price, then compensation would be paid to the producers through payments from a consumer revenue fund, Mr. Peters said.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto-Greenwood) defended government farm support measures as "very sensible" and said the CCF-NDP proposal "made me almost dizzy" in its complications.

"The essence of the proposal seems to be to dragoon people," he said.

The non-confidence motion came as the Commons neared the conclusion of the eight-day throne speech debate. Only two more sitting days are left before the wide-ranging debate ends.

Rotary Club Marks Fortieth Anniversary

TRENTON — Monday night, the members of the Trenton Rotary Club marked the 40th anniversary of the club and the anniversary of the founding of Rotary International.

Nine past presidents of the club were seated at the head table with 1961-62 president R. D. McDonald. Charter president Bill House took on his perennial job of cutting the special birthday cake.

Past president Ken Couch recalled highlights of the local club's history for the members. He said that from 1922 to 1938, club membership stood between 25 and 30. In 1938, the members learned that a Lions' Club organizer was in town and a membership spurt was put on. By 1951, the club boasted a membership of 50.

In that year said Mr. Couch, the Rotarians learned that a Kiwanis Club organizer was in town, and began to wonder if the town could support three service clubs without one suffering in membership.

However, he said, fears of a depleted membership had proved to be groundless and the three clubs have all prospered. Membership had been held around 50 for all three.

Asked to comment on highlights of their careers as Rotary presidents, the past-presidents were agreed that "Rotary had done much more for them than they had done for the club."

"I was the one to benefit," said past-president Dave Harrison. "Any Rotarian travelling in a strange country has no need to be without friends," said past-president Dick Whitley.

"I met with wonderful cooperation in my year," said past-president Mike Andison.

Summing up, past-president John Garrett said that the attitude of the members, that they did not seek personal gain in club association, justified the existence of the club.

Past presidents at the dinner were: Bill House, Clarence Saylor, Robert Smithrim, Herb. Smith, Dave Harrison, Mike Andison, John Garrett, R. J. Whitley, and Ken Couch.

D. Rushnell Will Not Tender For Ambulance

TRENTON — As an aftermath of council's decision to call for tenders for an ambulance service for 1962, Douglas Rushnell, operator of the town's lone service, told an Ontario Intelligencer reporter yesterday that since his contract with the town had expired on Dec. 31, he felt that he could move his operation away from Trenton with a clear conscience should subsequent events warrant the move.

Mr. Rushnell said that if tenders for the service were called, he definitely would not submit a tender. He added that he would absolutely not consider lowering the subsidy figure.

On May 15, 1961, Mr. Rushnell took over the service, following several weeks of negotiations.

In February of last year, the Weaver Ambulance Service ceased operations and the Bush Ambulance Service of Belleville supplied service for the town until a local operator could be found.

Yesterday Mr. Rushnell said that he had acquainted Mayor James MacDonald with his stand on the subsidy question.

Later, the mayor said, in a telephone interview, that he had reminded council that a "hassle" might result if tenders for the service were called.

FEAR FOR RECORDS

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials fear records of months of valuable research work by Dr. Hans Selye were destroyed in a fire that swept the west wing at the University of Montreal Tuesday. The flames razed the seventh-floor research centre of Dr. Selye, an authority on stress and experimental medicine.

Toastmasters Hear Talk by Queen's Scout

TRENTON — Gerry Alexander, a Trenton High School student, was the guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Quinte Toastmasters' Club in Trenton. Gerry is a Queen's Scout and a member of the Third RCAF Scout Troop. He had been invited to speak on the contribution Scouting makes to world youth.

Gerry said that a boy gains spiritually and mentally by his association with the worldwide movement. Scouts are taught the duty of honor and in their training they develop a sense of loyalty; thriftiness and self-confidence and become better citizens of the community.

"Boy Scouts of today, are the leaders of tomorrow—the captains of their own destiny and the masters of ours," said Gerry.

Last July, Gerry attended the third Canadian Boy Scout Jamboree at Connaught Ranges, near Ottawa.

The meeting was conducted by club president Les McKenna. Lorne Johnson was table topics' chairman for the evening and led members and guests on an impromptu word tour around the world by asking them to describe their favorite city.

A notice of motion was introduced, asking that the club meet on a bi-monthly basis, rather than once a week. This will be voted on next week.

The City Bus Service

The second annual report of the Belleville Transit Commission cannot be recommended to taxpayers as pleasant reading—not when the deficit for 1961 totalled $31,920.33 with more than two-thirds of this amount, $22,331.95, being an operating deficit. One must hasten to add, though, that this does not mean there is reason for alarm or criticism. There is every reason to hope that the Commission—and the taxpayer—has not yet started to reap the full rewards of the many hours of hard work and study given the bus transportation problem by the three members of the Commission, Chairman Sydney Sillitoe and Messrs. Ken Pinder and T. E. Schwab.

Perhaps, to get the local picture into the proper focus, we might consider the situation at Peterborough. There the Border Transit Ltd. operated with a subsidy until 1958, but since then has had an agreement whereby the city guarantees it a minimum return of 5 per cent, and a maximum of 7 per cent, on capital invested. As the result of this agreement, the city in 1960, the latest year for which we have figures, paid the company a subsidy of $35,445. This, it will be noted, is slightly higher than the deficit of the Belleville Transit Commission on 1961 operations. Of course, comparisons are difficult, because of a multitude of varying factors. But this at least provides us with some yardstick. True, Peterborough's system carried 2,731,922 passengers in 1960, while the Belleville system served only some 630,000 passengers. It may be argued that this means the cost to the taxpayer was four times as high here as in Peterborough, per passenger served, but it is also quite reasonable to argue that, in view of the much smaller patronage here, the local deficit was surprisingly low. To judge between these two viewpoints, we would have to have much more information about length of routes and frequency of service in both cities than is available to us.

On one point, though, the Peterborough report would seem to have encouragement for us.

"It must be noted that any sharp decrease in service or an increase in fares has a definite downward effect upon riding habits of people living in a small city where the walking distance is not great," the Peterborough report asserts. The company there has reduced unprofitable service and increased fares. The result can be seen in the number of passengers carried, down from 5,357,790 in 1954 to 2,731,922 in 1960. Here in Belleville there has been a slight increase in fares, (tickets are now seven for a dollar instead of two for a quarter), and longer routes have made it necessary to reduce the frenquency of service. These factors, and the change in routes which the Belleville report lists as a factor in reducing patronage, at least temporarily, have cut the number of passengers by between 5,000 and 10,000 a month. But at least the local commission is serving a larger area than before. This, of course, was obligatory, (there would have been a wave of protests had people in the outlying areas been denied service while being required to pay their share of the deficit.) But we can at least make a virture of necessity and, hope that eventually, by increasing rather than curtailing service, patronage will increase.

The Commission says that "it is a moot point whether the transit system should be required to be entirely self-supporting." This may be true, but this should not be interpreted to mean that the Commission should, or will, refrain from trying to make it as nearly self-supporting as possible. Much that the Commission has already done, including the acquiring of smaller buses with lower operating costs, may improve the picture in the months to come. Let us encourage those who do not now use the bus service to patronize it. The commission says it needs another 16,250 passengers a month to eliminate the operating deficit. This sounds like a big order. But if 400 persons who now drive to work switched to buses, using them for only two trips daily, five days a week, the order would be met.

When additional parking facilities are demanded, Council ought to make sure that their provision does not encourage people to drive to work and park their cars downtown, all day. Here the parking meters installed on the city's parking lots are serving a most useful purpose. There is no duty on the taxpayer to provide free all-day parking for the motorist who refuses to use the bus service. But we must recognize that buses do not meet the needs of everybody.

All in all, the report of the Transit Commission's second year of operations gives reason for hope, rather than discouragement, if we view it as a start towards building an adequate bus servicc, rather than as the best possible results which can be expected. The report itself provides evidence that the Commission itself views the matter in the former, proper light.

Strictly Personal

Obsessed With Size And Quantity

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Our national temper is revealed most not by the answers we give, but by the questions we ask. This is demonstrably true of individuals, and it is true of countries as well.

I know a man who is successful, intelligent and tasteful. Yet, despite his taste, he cannot refrain from asking "How much money" does any person or organization make.

If he hears about a famous pianist, it is not long before he wants to know "what he grosses" per week. If someone has bought a country estate, he cannot resist asking others how much they think it cost. He does all this quite unconsciously, and would be embarrassed to learn about his gaucherie.

As a people, we tend to do much the same thing. Our first questions about people or things or institutions are always the same: How much? How large? How tall? How long? We seem obsessed with size, quantity and wealth, the physical and material statistics of everything from a concert pianist to a cathedral.

We do not realize this, but the rest of the world does. Just as the English have a reputation for reticence, and the French for frugality, we have an international for vulgarizing the unusual.

This passion for quantifying the world so that "qualities" become lost among numbers might almost be said to be our national neurosis. It explains, in large part, the so-called "numbers game" that is making a jungle out of television, popular magazines and other media of communication.

Television shows, for instance, come and go with stunning rapidity. If a program doesn't catch on within a few weeks, it is scheduled for the axe. This means it has to attract tens of millions of viewers — the quality or depth of interest of these viewers is not taken into consideration — merely their raw numbers. But there is no loyalty no stability, no persistence, in mere numbers.

The height of a building tells us nothing about its architectural virtues or flaws, just as the size of a man's income tells us nothing about his personal value. The length of a freight train is irrelevant to the commodities it carries — half the cars might be empty.

All this preoccupation with size and quantity bespeaks a basic insecurity in our national life. It is no accident that our folk-hero, the Westerner, is always impossibly tall — how else would we know he is fated to be successful in the end?

Cheap Way To Get Garage

Variety

After spending months vainly trying to find garage space for his car, a shrewd French friend of ours has finally solved his problem. Since he frequently has to go abroad for anything up to two or three months at a time he is naturally reluctant to leave his car standing in the open street in all weather.

All he does now, before leaving, is park it somewhere in a "no parking" zone, knowing that within an hour a police squad will tow it away to the municipal pound. When he gets back to France again he goes straight to the pound, pays the standard fine of $10 and takes the car out of the clean well-heated garage.

As he explains, the minimum rent he'd have to pay for two months, even if he could find a regular garage, would be around $20.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 21st, 1942

An overheated electric motor in a soft drink cooler at the Central Tobacco Shop on Front Street caused firemen a run to that address in the early hours this morning. The wiring of the motor was damaged by the heat and the store was filled with smoke from the burning rubber, but the firemen quickly remedied the trouble by cutting the electric switch.

Contributions to the Canadian National Railways War Veterans' Cigarette Fund continues to be satisfactory according to the chairman in charge, who reported that $151.80 had been raised at a holiday entertainment. The Ladies' Committee contributed $142 and also were instrumental in sending 32 parcels to the boys overseas at Christmas.

Harry Davidson of Alexander Street reported the theft of his bicycle to city police last night. Davidson stated that he had parked his bike in front of the Belle Theatre and during his absence it was stolen.

Failure to produce their National Registration cards resulted in three Trenton women being charged under the National Registration Act before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C. in local police court today. The lack of possession of the cards was established by Motorcycle Patrolman J H. Hatch when he halted a car recently on Highway No. 2 west of Belleville, while checking vehicle licenses.

30 YEARS AGO

February 21st, 1932

Merchants report that they have sold more umbrellas this winter than they have for a long time; the mild weather is the reason. The young people do not buy them, but the older people do.

Through the kindness of the Board of Management of the Corby Public Library thirty-three books of fiction have been donated to the city's lodge for the use of transients who spend the night there. The men who put up at the lodge, which is in the basement of the War Veterans' Memorial Hall on the east side of Front Street just south of Bridge Street, are very glad to have something to read during the early part of the evening.

Belleville Market prices: butter 22 cents to 25 cents per pound; eggs 25 cents per dozen; chickens 75 cents per pair and up according to size and quality; potatoes 50 cents per bag. More wood than has been on the market for a long time was offered for sale in stove lengths at $8 per load.

40 YEARS AGO

February 21st, 1922

Belleville Intermediate Tigers trounced the Midland team on their own ice last evening, the score being 5 to 4. Arnott was resonsible for three goals and Goyer and Whalen for one each. The game was clean throughout, only three penalties being handed out, Belleville getting one and Midland getting two. When Midland went down, one of the cleanest teams against which Belleville has played this year, lost out. The following composed the teams: Belleville — Boland, Green, Holway, Arnott, Weir, Whalen, Goyer and Hagerman. Midland — MacDonald, Simpell, Burgie, Simpson, C. Day, R. Simpson, McMillan and Chase.

The members of the Bell Telephone Club of this city were 'at home' to their friends at a most enjoyable affair in Bennett's Academy last evening. About 125 couples were present. The officers of the club are: President — J. Marshall; Secretary — H. E. Doolittle; Treasurer — M. E. Hick; the Stewards were — J. A. Cokers, E. I. Mooney, W. A. G. Spriggs, H. Soames, W. B. Doolittle, F. A Wright, M. McMurray, L. E. Turner, W. Rothwell and F. E. White.

50 YEARS AGO

February 21st 1912

Mr. John E. Everson, a student at Albert College, was recommended last evening to the district meeting by the Official Board of Holloway Stret Methodist Church, as a candidate for the Methodist ministry.

Last evening the Quarterly Official Boards of Bridge St. and Holloway Street Methodist Churches took a vote on church union. At Bridge Street Church the vote was 23 for and 1 against; and at Holloway Street Church the vote was 144 for and 2 against union.

The new Y.M.C.A. building on Campbell Street is now open for inspection by the public.

Messrs. T. H. Thompson, Reeve of Madoc Village and J. Farrell, Reeve of Madoc township were visitors in town today.

Mr. Richard Greatrix of Pinnacle Street celebrated the 77th anniversary of his birth yesterday. Many friends extend congratulations and good wishes.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BETTER, OR JUST DIFFERENT?

A few days ago I had the privilege of examining one of the few surviving copies of the first English Bible translated by John Wycliffe in 1378. I asked the specialist who was in charge of this precious volume to read me a familiar passage. He did, and while I was able to follow the meaning, certainly the language was different from anything we know today.

If we went back even to the eighteenth century we should no doubt find much of the ordinary conversation of our fellow countrymen rather hard to undersatnd. Go back six hundred years to the days of Wycliffe and we probably would hardly be able to understand more than a word or two out of each sentence which our English-speaking friends uttered.

There has been an unbelievable change and growth in language from ancient days to the present. There has been a great difference in the way people live. On the whole, the world is better. Certainly it is more comfortable. Also we aspire to better things.

Wycliffe was hated in his day. Later generations dug up his body and cast his ashes upon the flowing current of a nearby river. William Tyndale was strangled and burned at the stake for translating the New Testament. Yet in the twentieth century are we any better? We are building shelters and talking about weapons which may blast whole civilizations off the planet.

Where is our culture and learning leading us? Are we really better than the ancients or just different?

Still Place For Courage

Vancouver Province

We have nothing but admiration for Mr. "Red" Adair, the man who flew from the French Sahara to northern B.C. to put out the oil-well fire near the Alaska Highway. His job is one of the most functional and straightforward in the world. He puts out fires. Further, he is a flamboyant character and the world can do with a little more flamboyance.

But the thought in the minds of many readers will be satisfaction that with all the machinery dominating our lives, a man must still be sought to put things right when machinery fails. Red Adair plunges into the heart of the fire in an asbestos suit, a lonely figure against the flames.

There is still a place for man's courage in a world filled by machines.

'Spit' Over Port Arthur

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

Former wartime fighter pilots, now flying civilian aircraft and coming into the Lakehead airport recently for a landing, must have been popeyed. It would seem hardly possible but there, flying around in all its glory, was one of the famous Spitfires, the aircraft given most of the credit for winning the Battle of Britain more than 20 years ago. If these pilots were bewildered, they had a right to be for there are few "Spits" left operational in the world today and they never were a part of the Canadian scene.

News reports have told the interesting story about how John Paterson, leading Fort William bussinessman and former wartime "Spit" flyer, got a hankering to fly one of the 400-mph-plus aircraft again and located what he was looking for in Europe. He had it shipped in four crates to the Lakehead where it was re-assembled at the Thunder Bay Flying Club. Flyer Paterson has now had the thrill of flying the cocky little fighter but only after a manual was requested and sent specially from England to make sure that every nut and bolt was in the proper place as the craft was put together.

Mr. Paterson intends to keep the plane for a period but the future is uncertain and he has intimated that it probably will end up in a museum. Because we do not have a museum which would hold an object of this size, this means it would leave the Lakehead. Many reasons come to mind immediately for wanting to keep the plane here if possible and this might be accomplished by a dedicated group making the right approach to the civic-minded owner.

Spitfires will always have a sentimental link with Second World War days because of their Battle of Britain role, the tiny one-seater speedster which took on the might of the German air force and won an astounding victory to save the day for the British. It's a sleek craft and would be an attractive exhibit under any circumstances, a symbol of the value of determination and intestinal fortitude.

Strange Way To Run a War

Montreal Star

Chinese armies no longer march to battle carrying umbrellas, but their approach to warfare is still inscrutably Oriental. Consider the off-again on - again bombardment of Quemoy, which has been going on now for 12 years.

At the moment the shelling is off. In a tone of great benevolence, Peking has announced its suspension for the duration of the Chinese new year celebrations, so that the people on the island can join in the fun. It did likewise for May Day last year. At one time the bombardment was conducted at set hours every second day.

Furthermore, hardly anyone seems to get hurt when the shelling is on. Granted, the Nationalist troops on the island have dug themselves deeply into the rock, and so have some of the 40,000 civilians. But Quemoy is almost within point blank range of the mainland. The Communists could make it uninhabitable if they chose. Instead, life seems to go on fairly normally. In fact the island is now exporting produce to Formosa.

All of which makes the motive for the gunfire rather mysterious. It seems to serve no military purpose, except perhaps as a measure of intrediction against the use of the island as a springboard for an attack on the mainland. But in today's circumstances such an attack is wildly improbable. Perhaps the shelling is no more than an Oriental expression of contempt.

If Quemoy's little war proves anything it is the breadth of the gulf between the Western and the Chinese mind and the folly of trying to judge what is really going on in China by Occidental standards.

Just Imagine

Montreal Star

To show how fast the latest fighter aircraft can fly, the general manager of a company making them says: "If one of these planes were fired at by a 16-inch naval gun, and if the pilot should see the shell, he could avoid it, swing his plane alongside to inspect it, and then fly away from it, going in the same direction as the shell".

Doctor Says Sleep Walking Is Not Cause for Worry

Dear Dr. Molner: The other night I walked in my sleep. I got up and took my quilt downstairs and put it over the couch and went back to bed.

I am 12 years old and very concerned about this. It has happened before but not as seriously. Please answer. — M.K.

We'll have to remember, my little friend, that our minds keep working, just like our hearts and lungs and stomachs, all the time, whether we are awake or asleep.

That's why a good many of us can go to bed and yet wake up within a few minutes of the proper time even if we forget to set the alarm clock. We call it "subconscious" thinking.

Another form of thinking, while we're asleep, is dreaming. We imagine all sorts of curious things, but imagination is still a form of thinking.

We also squirm around in our sleep, wriggle, roll over. If we've kicked some of the covers off, we curl up in a ball to keep warm — because, subconsciously, we think about the fact that we're cold.

So you see that our minds tell us to do things even while we're asleep.

Well, sometimes, for one reason or another, our active sleepy minds work so vigorously that we respond even more actively than just dreaming or curling up to keep warm. Sometimes an occasional thought breaks through into action. It's like a dream only more intense. That's sleep-walking.

We don't have any reason to worry about this unless it happens frequently, or in our sleep-walking we begin to go to extremes — like doing something that might be dangerous.

If that happens, the chances are that some permanent worry is bothering us, either consciously or subconsciously, and we then ought to have a psychiatrist help us to find out what it is, and put an end to it.

But for just ordinary, occasional, simple little cases of sleep-walking, just forget them.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is asthma contagious? Could one contract it by sleeping in a bed used by a person who had asthma? — C.P.E.

No. Asthma is a spasm of the bronchial passages, which naturally results in shortness of breath and wheezing. There are different causes of these spasms: Allergy (possibly or probably coupled with nervous tension); or a particular reaction to some infection, chronic bronchitis being an outstanding example.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molmer: I have bunions on both feet. I understand that nothing can be done about them, but that there are shields to put over them so they won't hurt. — J.R.

It isn't true that nothing can be done about bunions, although their correction isn't simple.

It takes years of irritation and pressure (from wrongly-fitted shoes or whatever) to cause bunions. By that time, the large joint at the base of the big toe is misshapen.

Shields, medicine or other "easy" remedies won't work then. But surgical removal of the thickened portion, plus correctly-fitted shoes afterwards is a sensible solution.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NOT OF IT

There is hardly a day but what we all come in contact with that which is anything but uplifting, clean and fragrant.

It isn't the task of the strong man or woman to avoid danger or sordidness or unpleasantness. In traveling the course of life all its roads are not smoothly paved.

It is the test of a man or woman to travel through life and come in contact with that which is unclean and yet not become a part of it!

The white lily that springs up from the mud is not a part of the mud hole. It is something above and higher and separate.

We carry heaven in our heart. And sometimes we have to go right through an earthly hell in order to reach the other side.

Beauty and cleanliness of mind and holiness of heart are belongings that go only with heroic people — people who understand and who are not afraid.

You can't sidestep the unpleasant in this world because the world is made up of many elements and circumstances may force you at times to enter the black pit. But just remember that you are not of the pit. There is always great fragrance in the air somewhere. Hunt that air!

Have style and stick to it. There is much in the phrase: "Be yourself." What a cheap thing to imagine that you are someone else.

Jesus associated with publicans and sinners — but He was not one of them. He came — in His own words — to "seek and to save."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A recent newsreel showed the arrival of Krishna Menon in New York for the UN, during which the gentleman from India lost his temper and made a show of himself. One of the United States newspapermen asked him if he considered the action of India with regard to Goa as an invasion; and when Menon said he did not, the newspaperman naturally enquired what he did call it.

Menon turned angrily on the newspaperman with a petulant air curiously reminscent of a spoiled child, and demanded:

"What do you think you are?"

In the minds of thousands or tens of thousands of newsreel viewers, the instant response must have been: Who does Menon think he is?

What a blessing, for them, that our great men of the moment are spared their own biographies. Do our political rulers, savoring and ingesting the glory of power, ever get the creeps when they take a look at the posthumous biographies of their predecessors?

A most amusing parlor game — a sort of What Was His Line? — consists of getting lists of cabinet provincial ministers, as well as federal, two governments back, and seeing who remembers.

The result is shocking, Mr. Menon.

Advertising at Local Level Subject Panel Discussion At Sales, Ad Club Meet

Advertising at the local level was the theme for the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club's meeting yesterday evening at the Columbus Hall. A capacity turnout of members was present to hear advertising experts in the various media discuss how a merchant or local businessman could get the best possible use out of his advertising dollar in newspaper, radio and direct mail advertising. A special insight as to just what could be termed advertising apart from these three convential media was given by the district director of taxation, D. J. Gill.

Due to the unfortunate passing of Mr. Len Taylor, manager of the commercial printing department of The Ontario Intelligencer, his prepared address on direct mail advertising was read by program chairman Phil Flagler.

In this address the local businessman was urged to consider new approaches in this field despite whatever his preconceived ideas about the normal requirements of his particular merchandising field might be. It was emphasized that this media offered him a selection of potential customers unobtainable in any of the mass media, such as newspaper or radio.

Direct mail advertising offers a personal approach to the prospective customer and serves to bring a merchant's products or services directly to his attention. This form of advertising serves as an aid to the salesman in reaching interested consumers.

There is also a form known as mail order direct advertising in which the advertising brochure or pamphlet is expected to accomplish the entire selling job to be considered also, the address stated.

A third form of this media, unmailed direct advertising, where advertising material is delivered directly to the prospective customer was also noted.

Mr. Taylor's address explained that there existed a great variety of forms and methods which could be successfully utilized within the different approaches offered by direct advertising and that the preparation of this material required considerable thought on the part of the advertiser in co-operation with his commercial printer.

It was emphasized that for the preparation of a good advertising device it is necessary for the user to know exactly what he wanted it to do and to ensure that the copy contained in it tells the customer exactly what the product or service will do for him. It should also make it easy for the customer to get in touch with the advertiser.

The format of the advertising is ultimately dependent upon what the merchant has to sell and how he wants to put it across to his potential customers, the address advised. In conclusion several of the technical procedures and techniques available for use in the printing of direct mail advertising were explained

Potential users of this form of advertising were advised not to be afraid of repetition as they would normally use this in other media as a matter of course.

John C. Morris, vice president and sales manager of the radio division of Stovin-Byles Limited of Toronto, talked on the value and use of radio as an advertising media for the local businessman. He described local advertising as being a war which, if lost, could mean the loss of a business to a merchant. It was therefore vital that no mistakes be made in conducting an advertising campaign.

He suggested that radio advertising be made the base of a local businessman's advertising campaign since it utilized a medium of communication, speech, which was one of the first which a human learns to use.

Any local business should have a radio program around which can be built an adequate advertising campaign Mr. Morris suggested. He suggested that it formed a house within which an advertiser could operate with some degree of flexibility in advertising his product whilst at the same time providing some form of entertainment or service for the public.

It was essential to select a program suitable to the type of business the sponsor conducted, he advised. The use of a sound device or theme which would become identified with the sponsor's establishment was also advised by Mr. Morris.

USE RIGHT WORDS

In one's advertising message it is essential to use the right adjectives to sell either his merchandise or his establishment. Mr. Morris warned against exaggeration. "Tell the truth about what you have," he said.

In dealing with the problem of audience selection, the speaker suggested that more was to be gained in selling the woman on a product or service and that if advertisers wanted to reach the men they should consider the hours of 5.00 p.m. to 7.00 or 9.00 p.m., rather than the early morning.

Mr. Morris also discussed the pros and cons of scheduled radio advertising versus saturated advertising and pointed out where each had its advantages to a local merchant under varying circumstances and periods.

J. Fred Madden, retail advertising manager of The Kingston Whig-Standard, discussed how the local advertiser can get the best possible value from his newspaper advertising dollar. He emphasized that both the planning and the production of the ad were important, and suggested that five dollars worth of preparation and work for a one hundred dollar ad only amounted to a five dollar ad in a one hundred dollar space.

Newspaper advertising, he suggested, can be planned well in advance and the local merchant can predetermine how much he should spend on advertising, where he should spend it and when he should spend it.

The amount to be spent will vary considerably from business to business with some requiring the expenditure of a greater per cent of the gross sales figure than others.

"Advertising should be heaviest when the potential is present. This can be determined by the public's buying pattern which alters very little from year to year," he added.

Mr. Madden suggested that the local merchant spread his advertising out within the limit which he has determined. Four quarter-page ads are more effective than one full-page ad, he advised.

He also suggested that a merchant keep 10 per cent of his advertising budget in reserve for special ads, five percent for institutional ads and the remainder to be spent as outlined above.

DISCUSS FORMAT

The speaker also discussed the format of an ad. Careful consideration should be given to what will catch the reader's eye in the first three seconds that he sees an ad followed up by consideration of what he will read in the next 30 seconds.

Do not use all capital letters, vertical reading, black borders and mixed type faces in an ad, he cautioned. He especially recommended the use of illustrations, even if special art work was required, and the matt service which a newspaper had available, to increase the appeal of an ad.

Always include the price and the details of the article being advertised and, where applicable, well known brand names, he suggested. Mr. Madden recommended that the use of percentages and spectacular claims be avoided.

In concluding he urged local advertisers to use simple layouts and to use a consistent signature which would readily identify their establishment.

The final speaker on the panel was Mr. D. J. Gill, director of taxation for this district. Mr. Gill noted several changes which were applicable to 1961 income tax returns.

These included the removal of the ceiling on medical expenses, the repeal of the surtax on investment income from sources within Canada and the allowance of the deductions of post secondary school tuition fees from students' taxable income. The latter, he suggested, may now allow some students to be claimed as full dependents on their father's tax return.

Wherever doubt exists as to what is or is not allowable on a tax return deduction it is best to get information from an authentic source, such as the department itself, Mr. Gill suggested.

Turning to advertising and its relationship to a firm's tax return, he advised that normal advertising expenses, in media such as newspapers, radio, television or commercial printing expenses, are always allowed when vouchers can be produced.

CITES CASES

Difficulties arise only when advertising costs appear to be unreasonable in relation to a firm's individual situation or when it gets involved in "offbeat" advertising. He cited a number of interesting cases involving businesses which had spent considerable amounts of money in sponsoring team sports but had not been allowed to deduct the full cost of their sponsorship as advertising.

In reviewing several decisions which had been set down by the Income Tax Appeal Board, Mr. Gill noted that it considered the businesses would have derived much more value for their dollar if they had restrained their activity to the regular advertising media.

He also noted that entertainment expenses cannot be included as advertising but are allowable by themselves "if reasonable."

In concluding Mr. Gill advised that there is no legal definition of advertising within the income tax structure but that the common dictionary meaning of the word is accepted.

Following the panel members' addresses a question and answer session was held which evoked considerable activity and enthusiasm from the members and provided many humorous and frank replies from Messers. Madden, Morris and Gill. The length of the question session and the attentiveness of the members attested to the interest engendered by both the format of the program and the ability of the speakers.

The meeting was conducted by President Don Barrett. A minute's silence was observed by those present in memory of Mr. Len Taylor, who had always been interested in the club's activities.

Fish, Game Club Endorses Winter Fishing for Speckles

The Belleville District Fish and Game Club got away to a flying start at its 1962 inaugural meeting at Club Canara last night.

Newly-elected president Jack Layton took over official duties and predicted another highly successful year.

"Legal" members Doug Bateman and John Lennox outlined the club's new constitution after announcing it was now a charter incorporated organization.

The club unanimously endorsed a motion to post a $100 bond to reimburse property owners for damage caused to property by hunting members of the club

The body also concurred in a Madoc District Hunters and Anglers Association resolution asking the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests to open Hastings County lakes and streams to winter fishing for speckled trout.

The resolution will be forwarded to Hastings County Council which has already endorsed the original forwarded by the Madoc club.

The resolution pointed out that summer fishing for speckles does not glean any more than 25 per cent of plantings — and ice-fishing does not produce large catches.

Russell Whitfield, biologist of the Tweed District, Department of Lands and Forests, in a brief talk on the matter did not agree that 25 per cent of speckles planting are caught by summer fishing.

In what he termed was a "philosophical statement" Mr. Whitfield said that 90 per cent of fish taken are caught by 10 per cent of the anglers. At this rate, on the 1960 catch there was only 2½ per cent and not 25 per cent recovery of plantings.

Mr. Whitfield said that in 1956 the department recommended trout plantings in the Tweed district lakes but the harvest was so small that something had to be done about it. "We toyed with the idea of reduced plantings, but several communities asked for increases. The expansion went on until we stocked 300 lakes, some 300,000 fish annually.

"A lot of the trouble lies with the anglers," he said. "Many are ardent fishermen with some degree of consistency but more go out on opening days, holiday weekends and that is the extent of their fishing."

The speaker said fishing pressure on all species is greatly over - emphasized. "Most lakes are grossly underfished. Something must be done to stimulate angling."

Mr. Whitfield felt that if an earlier season, asked for by many clubs and communities, is not forthcoming alternate stockings will take place. Not in all lakes, just those that are not fished enough.

In annual planting trout left in the lake may have some effect on the new stock, he said. He felt that anglers should harvest as many as possible in the same year, but alternate planting will give anglers two years to fish a lake.

He discussed the new pickerel season in the Bay of Quinte which was reported in yesterday's edition.

Mr. Whitfield advocated a longer bass-fishing season. "It is the least utilized of all fish in the district, because most anglers are thinking of trout. There are no closed seasons on bass in most of the Quebec townships."

"Bass is a non-harmful but very prolific fish," Mr. Whitfield said. "In some cases stocking has resulted in crowding with the result the bass became stunted and stopped growing at 8-10 inches.

"In one case," Mr. Whitfield said, "pickerel were placed in a Hastings County bass lake — and soon took over. Then we received complaints that the pickerel were ruining the bass fishing.

"Angling," he said, "is a hard way to catch fish and there is not the interest in it there was some years ago. Something should be done to stimulate it and make it as easy and available as possible. The people today who are the most consistent anglers are the men in the shops, industry and on the retired list."

The club saw three outstanding motion picture films on hunting and several lucky members went home with door prizes. Bud Walters took home the big prize, two tickets to the Sportsmen's Show and $50 in cash.

Public School Board Rules Oral French May Be Taught After Four, Parents Paying

If, and when, it is introduced in Belleville public schools, instruction in Oral French will have to be on an ex-curricular basis with the parents of children receiving the instruction paying the costs involved.

This is the view of the Belleville Public School Board which last night approved the report of a special board committee appointed to investigate the request of the Belleville and District Home and School Council that consideration be given to the introduction of oral French in city public schools.

A survey conducted by the Home and School Council last year indicated that Belleville parents were in favor of Oral French being taught in city public schools and the school board was asked to investigate.

STUDY 4 PROGRAMS

The special board committee composed of James Ritchie, Hazel Pugh, Dr. J. Russell Scott, and William Townson considered four possible types of programs in their investigation.

These ranged from commencing with grade 5 this year and expanding until grades 5-8 were included, to the voluntary extra curricular program, which was recommended if Oral French instruction was to be introduced.

The committee found that instruction of Oral French taking in grades 5 to 8 would cost $22,500 by 1965 and this idea was accordingly rejected.

Oral French instruction in grades 7 and 8, or 8 only, was also considered as was voluntary extra curricular program provided by the board after 4 o'clock. This idea was rejected with the notation that the board's responsibility was instruction from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in curriculum prescribed or approved by the Minister of Education.

In recommending that instruction in Oral French be "permitted" in school buildings after 4.15 p.m., the report made the condition that the board not be involved in the financing of the program or in any cost of its operation other than providing suitable classroom space.

Parents of children participating in the program would be required to sign an agreement to accept the decision of the board or its representative in any dispute arising over behavior, or damage to school property.

Telephone Cable Cut, Service Is Disrupted

Hundreds of Bell Telephone subscribers in the north end of the city and out as far as Cannifton and Corbyville had their phone service suddenly disrupted Tuesday when a Public Utilities jack-hammer cut through two large underground cables on Pinnacle St.

Telephone officials this morning said hundreds of subscribers were still without service but that repairs were expected to be completed about 2.00 o'clock this afternoon.

One of the underground cables was repaired during the night, and crews will continue without let-up until all service is restored.

The cut-off came when public utility crews were using a jackhammer to prepare a hole for a new hydro pole near Fred's Battery Shop on North Pinnacle St. The jackhammer blade sliced through two big cables and disrupted the service.

Holy Rosary Council Plans Spring Tea

Mrs. J. Darlington presided at the regular meeting of Holy Rosary Council, held last evening in Holy Rosary School.

Following the routine business of reports, it was decided that the league purchase the record of the Pope's Encyclical from the National Office.

Under new business the following plan for spring and fall activities was laid: Communion breakfast to be held at the Tops Motel on April 1st, with conveners Mrs. L. Hamilton and Mrs. S. Haley, making final arrangements.

Harvest festival and bazaar planned for October at Knights of Columbus Hall, with the following conveners, Mrs. J. Ellard, assisted by Mrs. M. Waller.

A "Spring Salad Tea" to be held in May with Mrs. A. Eves as convener. Mrs. J. Darlington will be co-convener and Mrs. E. McGuigan in charge of tickets on a quilt.

Appreciative thanks are extended to Mrs. Kerry for the lovely knitting turned in for the bazaar.

Each meeting until the bazaar will be allotted for different types of material to be donated.

Commencing next month members are to bring along a ball of wool, also all odd bits of wool. These will be put to use.

Thanks were extended to all who assisted with the bake sale which proved to be a financial success.

Approximately 800 Rangers, Guides, Brownies Will Attend 'Thinking Day' Service

On Thursday 800 Rangers, Guides and Brownies of the Belleville division will share the same thought as approximately five million other girls belonging to the Guide Movement in 52 different countires.

On February 22nd known as "Thinking Day", in Guiding circles, is the joint birthday of the founders of Scouts and Guides, Lords and Lady Baden-Powell. The day was set aside in 1926 at the 4th international conference, which is now renamed the "World Association for celebration; for thinking of each other and for circling the globe with a chain of warm friendly thoughts; all marking the birthday of its founder and his wife".

Many a Guider's patience is tried by the quip, "Is this the only day the girls think?" However, this day does give them the opportunity to stress the international aspect of Guiding. All over the world from Argentina to Australia; even in tiny Monaco where Princess Grace is honorary president and, perhaps smaller Luxemburg, where, during the last war the girls met secretly after troops had confiscated all their belongings, to share the common thought and look forward to camping outside the borders of their homeland.

To help develop world friendship, in 1932 a Belgian Guider suggested that each member give one cent as well as thoughts, thus originating the "World Friendship Fund." In Canada it is known as the "World Thinking Day." This money is used to make special gifts to Guides of other countries in times of emergency and to assist in the exchange visits of Canadian Guides to those of other lands.

NATIONAL SCOUT WEEK

The celebration falls during National Scout Week, at which time the members can attend school in their uniforms, if they so desire, and quite frequently the week terminates with a combined church parade. This coming Sunday, on the invitation of the Rev. L. A. Page, a number of boys and girls wearing their uniforms and carrying their colors, will attend the special day service at 3.00 p.m. at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church, when the Reverend N. Hutchinson will conduct the "Thinking Day" service.

Brownies in the city mark the occasion by having a round chocolate cake, representing the globe. The pack is divided into four or possibly five groups, each group representing one of the directions with the fifth as Canada. The Sixer names the country from which she is a representative and places a lighted candle on the cake. Lastly, the Brown Owl places a large birthday candle. Tawny Owl has the honor of blowing all the candles out.

INTERNATIONAL FEELING

Stories about Lady Baden-Powell are read and the international feeling is emphasized. Penny donations are accepted for the "World Thinking Day Fund."

As the Guides and Rangers are older, their celebration takes on a more serious note: they study costumes and the customs of the various countries, based on the thought that they are all wearing the same uniform; have the same ideals and the same purposes.

Army, Navy, Air Force LA Plans Supper

The Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans in Canada, L.A. held its monthly meeting on Monday evening in the Memorial Hall, Front St. President M. Draycup called the meeting to order with the usual two minutes' silence.

Owing to the inclement weather, the roll call was smaller than usual. M. Galbraith, secretary, read the correspondence. E. Buckley, treasurer, gave her report. Sick chairman, Mrs. A. Storms reported several members sick with the 'flu. Mrs. G. Fitzgerald, entertainment chairman, reported a pot-luck supper to be held early in March.

During the business session a motion was passed that a donation be given to the heart fund. Two flags were purchased, the Union Jack and the Auxiliary colors. The standard bearers, Mrs. Jean Gannon and Mrs. Dorothy Melborne carried out duties to the minute with Mrs. Jennie Nicholson at the piano.

At the conclusion of the business session two collections were taken; one for flower fund, and for the evening draw. Prizes were donated by Mrs. A. Browning and Mrs. W. Foxon.

Women's PC Assoc. Names 1962 Officers

The annual meeting of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association was held in Kiwanis Centre on Monday evening.

After the regular business, Mrs. M. Tugnett conducted the election of officers for the coming year, as follows:

Honorary presidents, Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, Mrs. W. B. Weese, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, Mrs. W. E. Sandercock, Mrs. H. Rollins, Mrs. D. W. Adams, Mrs. Charlotte Clark, Mrs. Lee Grills, Mrs. C. Hyde, Mrs. J. Cormier; past president, Mrs. M. Tugnett; president, Rhoda Gray; vice-presidents include Mrs. K. Putnam, Mrs. Margaret Orr, Mrs. Ann Chapman, Mrs. A. W. Kingston; secretary, Mrs. J. Lummiss; press reporter, J. Lummiss; treasurer, Mrs. A. Young; membership convener, Mrs. Rheada O'Connor; card secretary, Audrey Muir; pianist, Mrs. H. Rollins.

Chair ladies—Ward 1: Mrs. McKenna and Mrs. Chapman; Ward 2: Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. Niblock; Ward 3: Mrs. Tugnett; Ward 4: Mrs. Howell; Ward 5: Mrs. Jordan; Ward 6: Mrs. Yorke; Ward 7: Mrs. Locke.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Tatham, second vice-president of the provincial executive, who gave an interesting and informative address. She stressed the status of women today, as compared to the pioneer days when women didn't work outside the home. High executive positions are being held today by women, both in government and business.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Weese and presented with a gift.

Refreshments were later served by the ladies of Murney Ward.

Evening Service Held By YPU

JOHNSTOWN — The Young People's Union of Johnstown held a service on Sunday evening at the church with 44 people present.

Miss Rosemary Bush conducted the service. Mr. Ted Clapp read the Scripture and Mr. Wayne Moore gave the message.

Wayne spoke on "Love Thy Neighbor," and his text was on the "Parable of the Good Samaritan." He reminded that it is not just the people next door who are one's neighbors, but everyone. Sometimes people get so busy with their business that they overlook doing things for others. He told of an executive who, to understand his workers better, went to work with them, putting himself in their place.

"This is the kind of person needed to help make this old world better," said Wayne.

SEEKS ASYLUM

LISBON (Reuters)—Fernando Abranches Ferrao, a prominent Lisbon lawyer and an opponent of the government of Premier Antonio Salazar, asked for political asylum in the Brazilian Embassy Tuesday night, usually well-informed sources said here today. He was the 15th person to seek asylum with the embassy in recent weeks.

Weddings

RAY — CLEMENS

A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday, February 3 at two p.m., when Karen Mary, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clemens of Marmora, became the bride of Lorne Percy, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ray, of R.R. 1, Harold.

The marriage was performed in St. Andrew's United Church chapel, Marmora, by the Rev. J. M. D. McLeod, minister of the church.

The bride was becomingly attired in a beige two-piece dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was of yellow and gold baby 'mums.

The bride's attendant, Miss Gwen Ray, sister of the bridegroom, wore a brown two-piece dress with matching accessories and corsage of yellow baby 'mums.

Mr. Ross Ray, of Harold, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Following the ceremony the young couple left amid showers of confetti for a honeymoon to points east including Ottawa and Quebec.

Upon their return they will reside at Harold, Ontario.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored with a shower at Mrs. William Morton's, Springbrook.

BPW Club Holds Bridge, Euchre Party

TWEED—A bridge and euchre party sponsored by the Tweed Business and Professional Club was held in the Odd Fellows hall. Despite the heavy snow storm on Wednesday there were 14 tables of euchre and four of bridge in play.

Tickets were sold in advance of the card party with the proceeds to be turned over to the Rink Committee. In the neighborhood of $80 was realized by the club for the rink committee and they should be commended for their wonderful work.

The euchre was won by Mrs. Yvonne Whalen and Mr. Vincent Cassidy and the bridge was won by Mrs. Phyllis Thurston and Mrs. Janet Manion. The door prize was won by Mr. W. Bruno.

Lunch was served at the conclusion of the card party.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR MONEY CHEERFULLY REFUNDED

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Teresa V. — With my money added to Rudy's, we can afford a nicer home.

Rudolph V. — Never mind her money. I make enough to support us.

* * *

Teresa V. — Now that the children are in school, I've returned to the real estate office I left 10 years ago. Although I only work there four hours a day, I draw a nice salary as an experienced bookkeeper and typist. In addition, I have just come into a large sum of money from the sale of some land I bought (50-50 with my brother) before I was married.

All this makes it safe for Rudy and me to raise our standard of living. But he's acting like an old stick-in-the-mud, insisting that we live within his salary and not even think of moving until he gets a raise. It seems to me we should plan according to what we both have. Why should we be held back just because his income hasn't moved ahead?

Rudolph V. — I'm a lab technician and my salary is a matter of record because I work for the State Department of Health. How would it look for me to suddenly spread out into with two cars, a maid and cocktail parties every night? That's what Tess seems to have in mind! Everyone would figure that I was either in on some payola, or that I was letting my wife foot the bills.

No. We're living nicely now. Our budget is geared to my takehome pay and it enables us to dress okay, eat well and own a four and one-half room cottage. Tess's money is welcome but I'd rather have it in the bank as a rainy-day fund, which I admit we don't have, than on display to wow our friends with.

* * *

The Council: No matter who becomes the millionaire in a marriage, the marriage itself has a better chance at success if the family is supported by the husband. That's why we must side with Rudolph. It's all tied up with the head-of-the-house concept and a man's self-respect.

What happens then when a man finds himself married to a minor-league Rockefeller, such as Teresa seems to describe herself? Cries of "your" money and "my" money begin to ring through the house. "I'll pay for it if you won't," becomes the prelude to new quarrels.

There's only one road via which we can guarantee harmony plus a good return on Teresa's money. That is by pronouncing it "our" money. Then see how easy things get!

Rudolph is manfully maintaining his home, providing the necessities of life for himself, his wife and children. And there, in the background, is a substantial commodity called Peace of Mind in the form of "our savings." This is the family cushion, the buffer for smoothing out rough edges. It's what every family wants — a kitty to dip into for extra-special vacations, travel, treats, gifts and college expenses for the children.

And it's the bulwark against the unexpected — such as the loss of either job, an emergency expense or an accident. In other words, the extra money need not be splurged. The new standard Tess seeks has two drawbacks: Maintaining it is harder than attaining it, and maintaining Rudy's morale and pride is more important.

Thus the savings—representing anything that's left from Rudy's pay check, plus Tess's salary and land profits — go to buy the things which the family might possibly get along without, but which they get along better with. Rudy can't object to that, especially since those things do run into money!

His and Hers are for bath towels, not dollar bills, in a couple's home.

CALL OFF STRIKE

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A strike scheduled for today by 160 employees of Eaton Automotive of Canada was called off Tuesday night when the company and Local 27, United Automobile Workers (CLC), reached a contract agreement. The union, which sought a wage increase and several changes in working conditions, did not disclose terms of the agreement.

New Zesty Meat Loaf

by Mary Moore

Recently a newspaperman, who is somewhat of a gourmet, said to me that he likes meat loaf as well as he likes steak.

Trusting this declaration I am giving you a piquant meat loaf that is good, and for full measure it is topped with mushroom gravy and served with glazed onions. See if you can elicit praise from your spouse and family for it by featuring it for a special meal.

Dinner Menu

WEDNESDAY

ZESTY MEAT LOAF WITH MUSHROOM GRAVY (serves 5 or 6)

1 1-2 lbs. ground beef, 1 1-2 teaspoons MSG (accent), 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 teaspoon oregano, 1-4 teaspoon thyme, 1-8 teaspoon garlic powder, 1-8 teaspoon chili powder, 1 teaspoon parsley flakes, 3-4 cup evaporated milk (or rich milk), 1 egg, 1-2 cup cracker crumbs (about 12 round buttery crackers), 1-4 cup finely chopped onion.

Sprinkle beef with MSG, salt, pepper, paprika, oregano, thyme, garlic powder, chili powder and parsley flakes. Toss gently with fork to distribute seasonings. Combine evaporated milk or rich milk and egg in mixing bowl; stir in cracker crumbs. Let soak for 5 minutes. Add ground beef mixture and onion. Mix well until blended. Form into loaf in shallow baking pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1-1-4 hours. Serve with —

MUSHROOM GRAVY

1-4 lb. mushrooms sliced, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 1-2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon grated or chopped onion, 3-4 cup broth (see note), 3-4 cup cream or rich milk, 1-2 to 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika.

Note: The 3-4 cup broth required may be made by using the pan drippings from the Meat Loaf plus enough boiling water to make 3-4 cup, or by adding 1 beef bouillon cube to 3-4 cup hot water or use canned consome diluted half and half with water. Saute the sliced mushrooms and grated onion in the butter or margarine gently until limp — not brown. Stir in the flour, salt and paprika. When blended stir in broth and cream or milk until thick and bubbly. Serve over or with Meat Loaf.

GLAZED ONIONS

1 1-4 lbs. small white onions, 1-4 cup butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Use onions not larger than 2" in diameter. Cover with boiling water then drain and peel very carefully to preserve the shape. Pierce each onion with a needle several times to centre to keep whole during boiling. Wash, cover with boiling salted water, boil gently uncovered, until tender, about 25 minutes. Combine butter or margine, sugar and salt in saucepan and heat slowly, stirring constantly until melted. Drain onions well, place in syrup and cook a few minutes, turning frequently to glaze entire surface with glaze.

Successful Skating Party At Open Rink

TWEED — Despite the heavy snow-fall of Friday afternoon hundreds of children and adults gathered at Tweed's open air rink on Friday evening for the skating party sponsored by the Rink Committee.

Youngsters of all ages and sizes came in their attire for this annual event and the judges had a difficult time deciding which youngsters were the best.

After much consideration it was decided that for the girls it would be 1st prize, Marlene Genereaux; 2nd Jackie Higgins and 3rd Joan Beatty and for the boys, 1st prize Murray Spencer; 2nd Kevin Fisher and 3rd John Patterson.

Every child in costume was given a chocolate bar.

The judges were: Mrs. Phyllis Thereston, Mr. Guy Hughes, and Mr. Carman Deshane.

The draw on the tickets, which were sold in advance, were; 1st Mrs. D. W. Sills; 2nd Charles Way Jr. and 3rd, Mrs. Ross Palmateer.

All in all, it was a successful evening, and one to which the children eagerly look forward. The proceeds are used for the operating expense of the rink.

The Experts Say

Mothers Hail Standard Size Garments Available

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP) — Mothers who have been confused by the old method of determining the size of children's clothing will hail the Canada Standard Size garments now available in some stores.

The main difference is that a tape measure rather than the child's age is used. Anyone who has seen a group of children of the same age but in widely-assorted shapes and sizes will recognize the merits of the new system.

Specifications for 19 garments have been approved by the government's specifications board and more are on the way.

The Consumers Association of Canada, which backed the move, says some stores are stocking only underwear in CSS sizes.

"By the fall, if retailers are encouraged by the consumers' interest in, and purchase of, CSS undergarments, there should be a good selection of other garments in retail stores."

Some spring mail-order catalogues will offer underwear in CSS dimensions.

All clothing, except boys' dress or sports shirts, is designated by a number and a letter. The number is the hip measurement

The letter is the key to chest or waist size. For example, the letter A is for a slim chest and B for a sturdy chest. Y is for a slim waist and Z for a sturdy waist.

Ordinarily the letters will not change as the child grows older. His body type will be established with the first purchase of a CSS garment and when he needs new clothes, the hip measurement will be all that is necessary.

This is because the relation of chest and waist measurements to hip is considered in producing garments for all ages.

When buying the first garment—either one for the whole body or one that must fit above the waist—the measurement of hips and chest are needed. This applies to undershirts, blouses, jackets, combinations, dresses, T-shirts, sweaters, snow suits, pyjamas and overcoats.

If, for example, a child's hip measurement is 26 inches and chest 24 inches, the size will be 26A. The same hip measurement with a 26-inch chest would be 26B.

For clothing that must fit at the waist and below, the hip measurement, waist and sometimes the inside leg length are required. They are needed for briefs, drawers, slacks, slims, panties, trousers and shorts.

A 30-inch hip and a 22-inch waist would be 30Y while the same hip and a 25-inch waist would be 30Z.

For boys' shirts, measure the neck and length of the arm.

Measurements should be taken without clothes or over lightweight, close-fitting underwear. Hold the tape snug but not too tight. The chest and hips should be measured at their broadest part and the waist at the natural waistline.

Soviet Fishermen Using Sub to Hunt Catches in All Oceans of the World

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Soviet fishermen are using a submarine to hunt catches in the world's oceans and have developed a method of pumping fish by hose from depths as great as 170 feet.

Dr. J. L. Kask, chairman of the Canadian Fisheries Research Board, said in an interview these two developments illustrate how the Soviet Union is applying known but costly fishing techniques in an effort to become the world's leading fish producer.

Dr. Kask had an opportunity to study personally latest Soviet fishery developments during a six-week visit last September and October. He represented Canada as a United Nations research consultant at a fisheries seminar sponsored jointly by the UN Food and Agriculture Organization and the Soviet Union.

During the trip Dr. Kask visited Moscow and a number of ports on the Black Sea and Caspian Sea where he and seminar delegates from the Sudan, Israel, Syria, Yugoslavia, Indonesia and Japan were taken out on Soviet fishery research vessels.

NOT FOR PROFIT

Dr. Kask said the Russians are not applying any fishing techniques unknown to Canada or other nations. The methods weren't being used elsewhere chiefly because they were too costly.

"The Russian fishing industry is a state-owned monopoly and it doesn't have to show an immediate profit.

"We don't have much to learn from Russia as far as fishing techniques are concerned. All we have to do if we want to increase production is to apply what we know."

Dr. Kask said Russians have been successful in using a submarine to study commercial fish in the Barents Sea and the North Atlantic.

Dr. Kask was shown film taken from the submarine of herring schools and concentrations of cod. He was told that if further work with the submarine proves fruitful orders will be issued for several specially built submarines for marine reseach.

On the Caspian Sea Dr. Kask was aboard a research vessel which located huge schools of kilka—an anchovy type of fish—at a depth of 170 feet with an electro-sonic detector.

FISHING AT NIGHT

In a night fishing operation four powerful electric lights attached to an eight-inch rubber hose reinforced with wire mesh were lowered into the water. The hose was attached to a powerful electric pump on board the research vessel.

"Fish attracted by the lights to the mouth of the hose were pumped into the boat at a rate of one ton an hour. The catch for the night was 10 tons."

Methods of this type, Dr. Kask said, have helped make Russia the world's second largest producer behind Japan. Canada usually ranks sixth or seventh.

"From past performance, present activities, preparations for the future and stated policy it appears safe to predict that the U.S.S.R. will continue to expand and intensify her ocean fishing in all international waters of the world. She seems to be tooling up scientifically and operationally to do a thorough job.

"The planners in the U.S.S.R. are counting on the fact that the production of fish and other wealth in the relatively unknown two-thirds of the world that is international ocean belongs to him who gets there fastest with the mostest."

Export Trade in Oilseeds, Products Can Be Expanded By Salesmanship, Research

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's $100,000,000-a-year export trade in oilseeds and products can be expanded by cultivating European markets through salesmanship and research, says a trade mission report.

The proposed European Common Market tariffs on fats and oils will act as an incentive to import the seeds themselves rather than the processed oils or oilcake, it says.

ECM must still import 80 per cent of its vegetable oils and fats, whatever steps it takes to encourage production within the alliance.

The mission toured Italy, France, The Netherlands, West Germany, Belgium and Britain in September and October, 1961 It was created by the trade and commerce department and represented growers east and west, processors and scientists.

Canada exports soybeans plus quantities of linseed, rapeseed and some mustardseed and sunflower. It also imports soybeans from the United States

"The general improvement in economic conditions in Western Europe will result in a continuing increase in the consumption of the products of oilseeds," says the trade mission report.

Consumption now is high in The Netherlands, Belgium, West Germany and Britain and will rise further while use in France and Italy is expected to move up toward levels of the other four.

The report urges the federal agriculture department to start a "crash research program" that would boost oil content in Canadian rapeseed, now lower than that of competitors, and improve the oil quality.

Research also should remove "remaining objectionable characteristics in the meal." These have restricted use of the by-product for animal and poultry foods although, the report says, most European users seem to have a misconception about rapeseed meal generally.

The report calls for promotion of a technical and publicity nature in Europe to dispel fears about rapeseed meal, oil and seed. Qualified nutritionists should also visit Eruope to assist this work.

Rapeseed is a Western Canada crop, making big strides there in the last 10 years as an alternative to cereals. Research by the agriculture department has helped remove some of the objections to its use for animal food and has improved qualities for human consumption.

Soybeans, primarily grown in southwestern Ontario with some seed produced in Manitoba, share characteristics of top quality. So does flax grown in Canada. But efforts should be made for improvement to hold the position and to produce strains that can be adapted to wider production in Western Canada.

Sunflower production would benefit from use of Russian varieties which contain a higher oil content.

The proposed Common Market duties—which would apply to Britain if she joned—wouldn't cover oilseeds or meal. Crude linseed oil for industrial use would bear duty of five per cent. A 10-per-cent duty would apply to crude soybean and rapeseed oils for human consumption.

Girls 'Steal' Her Boys

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My problem is boys I try to be nice to them, but I never seem to be the lucky girl at parties. They pick other girls to dance with and to date, rather than me.

If and when I do get a boy friend, I have him no time at all when a girl friend or cousin steals him from me. I try fighting for him but I'm always on the losing side of the battle.

What can I do? I'll be 16 next month, I'm fairly good looking and I try to have a nice personality.—DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE:—You try too hard.

Strange thing about personality, it grows nicest when you are forgetting about it. And fighting for a boy is no way to keep him coming.

Now is the time to look to your appearance and improve your skills. Bathe daily, don't tolerate a single spot on your dresses, have your hair clean, shining and nicely dressed. Always combed.

Take a few dancing lessons until you are really good at it. Learn conversation—which really means learning about things that your escort wants to talk about. Be thoughtful of him—not yourself.

There is no substitute for kindness and friendliness. All my life I will remember a girl in my year at college who never spoke a catty word about anybody. The boys flocked around!

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—My boy friend and I are very happy together. I'm three years younger than he, but feel as mature. He has problems at home which cause him to drink.

He and his friend came to my house in this state and Mom found out. My mother is a very misunderstanding and nervous person. She does not know the reason for his drinking but insists her own idea correct. She phoned my Dad and he talked to me, advising me to stay clear of my boy friend.

I told my boy friend this. He was very sympathizing and tried not to sound heartbroken. He tried to show my Mom, but she'd have no foolishness spoken.

Would you please advise me what to do, but remembering my boy friend and I are very attached and my Mom very nervous.——DAUGHTER OF MISUNDERSTANDER.

DEAR DAUGHTER:—The next person you'll be sympathizing with is yourself if you pamper a boy friend who drinks heavily.

Your mother is right in objecting to him. We all have problems—tough ones at times—but we don't all take to drink over them.

If you are age I think you are—15 or 16—your boy friend is too old and experienced for you. Become unattached while you still can.

CONFIDENTIAL TO A. P.:—From time to time I receive letters from people who are deeply troubled by problems of sexual deviation. Psychiatric help has been effective with some.

It takes time and work on the part of the patient. If he is willing to talk freely with his doctor, and work with him at resolving his feelings and problems, there is a chance for improvement.

In many Canadian communities there are now Mental Health Clinics available to those who find private psychiatric consultation expensive.

Kooky Look Giving Way To Cute Look

LONDON (CP)—With the first breath of the spring collections, the fashion mood is changing. The kooky look is giving way to the cute look; the chicks, as one columnist puts it, have gone fluffy on us.

In short, women are going to look like women again, instead of like cowboys, black-jacketed beatniks or boyish 1924 flappers.

The loose, lean look has been around for so long that it can hardly disappear overnight. In fact, Chanel suits and waistless flapper dance dresses are still top sellers in London and Paris.

But the new collections have changed tack in two ways. There's a revival of the clinging, backless cocktail dress. More startling in this functional age, there's a positive cascade of ultra-feminine Victorian frills and ruffles.

QUANT GOES QUAINT

Trend-setting designer Mary Quant of Chelsea, who says carelessly, "clothes are a joke, an impact," made her name with pared-away "twist" dresses and schoolgirl gymslips. Now she is disappointing her kooky fans with a jade crepe frock that's pure Louisa M. Alcott—ruffled sleeves, gathered skirt, sashed waist and all.

Top fashion writer Anne Scott-James feels there is more to this change of mood than meets the eye. In her Daily Mail column she says:

"Fashion never advances alone; there is always a matching change of behavior.

"With so much femininity in the air, some of the outward symptoms of sex equality will have to go.

"A man will have to stand up in a bus for a girl in a cloud of butterfly ruffles . . . 'going dutch' must die . . . and women will have to drop their tough vocabulary.

"'With it,' 'really gone' and 'go, man, go' will sound very oddly from their softly made-up lips."

'Women Alcoholics' Greater Problem Than Men Says Prominent Women's Magazine

The January meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held recently at the YMCA. Mrs. Coulter presided.

The "Clip Sheet" was presented by Mrs. Way with Mesdames Stanton, Gorsline and Calnan taking part. It dealt with the "White Ribbon Tidings," the official paper of the Canadian WCTU. In 1884 the Woman's Journal, edited by Miss Mary Scott of Ottawa, endorsed as the official organ of the WCTU in Canada. The "White Ribbon Tidings" was launched in January 1904, with Mrs. Gordon Wright, assisted only by Mrs. Mary Thornley, as editor, business manager and proof reader.

In 1906 the "Tidings" became the property of Ontario WCTU with 3,500 subscribers. The $1 fee was adopted to include "Tidings" subscription. Mrs. Lottie McAllister was editor and Mrs. Flora York Miller was business manager. Mrs Thornley had charge of the evangelistic page until 1927 when it passed into the hands of Mrs. William Pugsley.

The increasing indebtedness of "Tidings" led the aforementioned officers to take the problem to God. With Bibles in hand they went to a room in Mrs. Thornley's home and away from door bell and telephone they spent an afternoon in prayer.

With faith they called upon God to grant that someone leave the "Tidings" a bequest and that the advertising department (to date a failure) would receive God's blessing and guidance. All confessed they had felt God's presence that day.

GOD ANSWERS PRAYER

That same week, with no knowledge of the desperate need, a Goderich man added to his will, a codicil, leaving the Ontario WCTU an additional $1,000. They were already down for a similar amount, unknown to them.

Within a few weeks this friend of the "White Ribboners" passed away. The provincial officers felt that this additional gift was the answer to the afternoon prayer meeting, and allotted the second $1,000 to "Tidings."

In 1909 the circulation was up to 7,000 and the debt reduced to $303. This was further reduced by a gift of $100 from the provincial treasury. In 1915, with 10,000 subscribers, "Tidings" had achieved a substantial bank balance.

In 1913 the "Tidings" moved to a new office, and a "Tidings" shower resulted in furniture to the value of $300.

In 1920 "Tidings" became the official organ of the Dominion WCTU. Previously, the Dominion Union official organ had been "Canada's White Ribbon Bulletin."

Ontario handed over the paper on the agreement "that all provinces give up any publications and pay a large enough fee to include the subscription to the paper." As long as the above conditions are complied with, Ontario relinquished her right to publish a paper; otherwise the agreement falls through.

After amalgamation Mrs. McAllister continued to be editor until her death in 1936 (a period of 30 years). Miss Jacqueline Norton took on the responsibility in March 1937, but resigned at the Ottawa convention for the sake of her health. In November 1939, Mrs. R. N. Craw became editor and served efficiently until her resignation in 1960. Mrs. William Holmes is the present editor, having taken on her duties at the 1960 Montreal convention.

TIDINGS BOARD

On amalgamation of the 'Tidings' the board was to consist of the following: The president of the Dominion Union; the president of each provincial and Auxiliary Union and a contributing editor. This would hold true for all the provinces except Ontario, which because of the size of the subscription, list, would be granted four additional representatives.

The present representatives on the Tidings Board are: Mrs. J. Nelson, Mrs. D. McIntyre, Mrs. A. Clements, Mrs. L. C. Shantz.

The W.C.T.U. pays tribute to pioneer leaders in the W.C.T.U. and acknowledges with gratitude the far-reaching service of these women, who, through the years, have kept alive, through the printed pages of "White Ribbon Tidings", devotion and dedication to the great cause; editors and countless contributors included. May the W.C.T.U. be inspired to continue this great work.

DEVOTIONAL

The devotional was taken by Mrs. Wells. Her subject was 'Strong Drink'. The Scripture reading was taken from Isaiah 29. Life is a gift from God. Alcohol is the greatest destroyer of life. Mrs. Coulter commented with the hope that soon the occasional drinker would realize the folly of this practice. Mrs. Wells closed with a prayer for faith and direction and a perfect trust in God.

Miss Barnum reported on a film called "Liquid Love" which dealt with alcholol and the destruction caused from its use. Miss Barnum quoted portions of Scripture dealing with strong drink. Its use is condemned in both the Old and New Testaments. If one believes what the Bible says he or she knows that drunkenness is not pleasing to our Heavenly Father and because it is taken in moderation is no excuse. Whether one takes much or little is the same thing. "We are counselled to be a good example that others may not transgress because of us. Scriptures dealing with subject are found in Daniel 1:8 and Proverbs 23:29-35.

WOMEN ALCOHOLICS

Mrs. Farnsworth read an article from the Chatelaine Magazine which dealt with "Women Alcoholics" It was brought out that women were a far greater problem than men, because they are secret drinkers and because of fear of criticism of their families and society. While society is sympathetic toward the male drinkers it is repulsed by the female drinkers. She is rejected if she drinks, and through fear does not seek help she just lives with it. She fears what her husband will think of her, what her children will think. If she works outside the home she fears losing her job. Despite the freedom Canadian women now have to drink in public, they still live under the shadow of Victorian ideas that "women and alcohol do not mix."

The woman alcoholic is a social outcast which accounts for her cupboard drinking. At home or at business today women are under greater and greater pressures to drink. Ministers and social workers are disturbed by the growing tendency of women in the suburbs to serve sherry at what used to be the morning coffee get together. Reports of this practice come from women who do not want to follow the trend and alcoholism authorities are concerned.

Margaret Cork, chief psychiatric social worker at Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation, says that the 11.00 o'clock drink is the one abnormal thing which is new to the whole Society. Miss Cork's view is that boredom, basic insecurity, unhappiness in marriage, lack of outside interests and general dissatisfaction with life are responsible for alcoholism in the suburbs. Along with these social pressures there are strong conflicting attitudes about drinking among women. Where she is expected to serve drinks to her husband's business group, and to be considered a charming hostess is expected to drink with them, at the church function the next day she hears she should not drink.

DRINKING MARRIED WOMAN

When mother-in-law comes the liquor is hidden away. A business woman who drinks with the boys is toasted as a great gal. When she has reached the point where she cannot do without it she is looked upon as a loose and drunken woman. Many a young woman who is purely a social drinker is building up a dependency on alcohol that she may some day use to try to cope with the emotional problems she will meet through her years of marriage.

The busy days of looking after several small children may be the happiest of her life. When they reach school age and she has no outside interests, she may become utterly bored with her lonely life. Then later, when her children leave home she is no longer needed by her family and her husband, because he is so deeply immersed in his business.

He is unaware of her problem and treats it with indifference. With the psychological change which comes to announce that one important part of her job as a woman is finished; and without love and assurance that she is wanted, she is under great pressure to drink, not only in the evening but during the day. If she does not get understanding, she may begin to use the thing which brought her release through her married years, only to a greater extent.

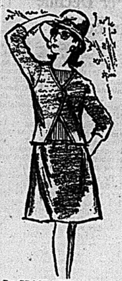
UNMARRIED WOMAN DRINKER

For the unmarried drinking woman, she too faces a world of isolation especially when she reaches the late thirties or early forties. She faces a world where she seems unlikely to fulfill herself completely as a woman. There seems to be a lack of meaning in her life. She drinks to escape from her basic problem of loneliness. Resorting to this practice he can be a real problem for the unmarried business woman who depends on her job for her living. Her dependence and alertness will become less and less and she is in grave danger of losing her position.

Some companies are trying to educate management on how to deal with alcoholism in the employe group. Considerable progress has been made. It was just the push that some needed.

Some people who drink to excess and need help, refuse to seek it because of fear.

Practical Outfit



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

An arnel and cotton blend is used for this three-piece outfit which is prepared for resort duty now and for spring into summer later on.

The V-neck jacket is cut to reveal the cotton knit blouse both above and below the cutaway. The skirt is slightly wider than that which pertained last season and flares slightly.

Color combinations are blue and white, lavender and white and green and white.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: When wedding guests go through the receiving line at the reception, should they kiss the bride and groom or merely shake hands? A close friend of ours is to be married soon, and we're not sure that this is customary. We don't know the bride very well, and wouldn't want to seem forward — Mrs. R.C.H., Newark, N.J.

Answer: Relatives and very close friends may kiss the bride and groom in the receiving line. Other guests usually just clasp their hands. Since you don't know the bride well, I'd advise you shake hands with both.

Question: My daughter has been going with a nice young fellow for a few months. My husband and I are very interested in meeting his parents. Is it my place to invite them to our home?

Also, at an engagement party of about fourteen people, should one of the girl's parents make an announcement? If a toast is proposed, who offers it, and what should be said? What is correctly said when congratulating a newly engaged couple? — Mrs. R.S., Rutherford, N.J.

Answer: It might be more prudent to see how the relationship developes before any parental overtures are offered. However, if the young man proposes and your daughter accepts, then his parents should make the first move. At an engagement party, it's not necessary to make a formal announcement, but the bride's father may offer a toast when the guests are assembled. It could be something simple like, "I propose we drink a toast to our Jane, her Jack and their future together." Congratulations are offered to the man, but the girl is wished happiness.

The Main, Four-block Strip On St. Lawrence Boulevard In Montreal, Notorious St.

The Main, for many years an island of vice and violence in the heart of Montreal, has been hit hard by a police cleanup campaign. This story describes their efforts to stamp out prostitution and other crime.

By GERRY McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP)—Like the old red-light district, The Main lies in the shadows of city hall, the courts and police headquarters.

But vice and justice in 20th-century Montreal managed to rub shoulders without friction until last year.

A four-block strip on St. Lawrence Boulevard, The Main prospered in post-war years as perhaps Canada's most notorious street.

Prostitutes, pimps, racketeers, thieves and derelicts found its cabarets, taverns, pool rooms and flop-houses practically a reserve for their activities.

"You get into more trouble here on a speeding charge than a shooting case," said Guy Pitre, 34, day manager of the Harlequin Cafe, a quiet club near The Main.

Bill Bactis, owner of the gaudy Rodeo, agreed. After a wild October gunbattle in his club on the Lower Main, a man charged with attempted murder was freed on bail.

PROCURERS HIT

"The judges should start hitting these guys hard," said Bactis. "Then there wouldn't be any trouble."

The Rodeo outbreak was the climax of a series of shootings and beatings during the summer that may have been the death - rattle of vice on the street. Police indicate the fights were for the scraps as prostitutes and gang leaders were hauled off the street.

"You didn't see any of that when the pimps were making a comfortable living," explained Bactis. "But when a guy is making $600 or $700 a week with his girls and you suddenly take it away from him, he's lost. There's bound to be trouble."

Trouble for The Main started late in 1960 when reform mayor Jean Drapeau was elected. The mayor, who with Pax Plante had spurred the Caron vice inquiry of the early 1950s, was a sworn enemy of crime in Montreal.

"They gamble on reformers getting weary," said the mayor in an interview, "but I've been fighting corruption and vice since 1949, and I'm not at all tired."

BLIND PIGS CLOSED

As two European police experts hired by Mayor Drapeau began to reorganize the city force, the Provincial Police were empowered to enforce liquor regulations and formed a squad for this purpose.

Meanwhile, Adrien Robert of Hull, Que., another powerful enemy of crime, was made acting director of the Montreal police.

Robert made his reputation cleaning up Hull, once a wild town. One of his first acts as new police chief there in 1937 was to clap the mayor and two aldermen in jail after they attempted to bribe him.

The Provincial Police spent the summer cleaning out the blind pigs that flourished in Montreal and raiding night clubs for all violations of liquor laws.

The city police, who can't step in for liquor violations, were told to report any they saw to the provincial force.

Both forces were given orders to arrest anybody engaged in a criminal act or report them at once to an authority who could.

'OPEN SEASON'

"This is open season, gentlemen," Robert told his men. "Just because you are on a gambling case, don't hesitate to arrest a prostitute or thief."

On The Main, Robert aimed his first punch at the prostitutes.

"The prostitute attracts hoodlums, pimps and suckers," he explained. "We're taking permanent and very strong measures against them."

Arrest of the girls usually led to conviction of the pimps, their managers and protectors, for living off the earnings of prostitution.

Once two girls sign a declaration to this effect, a pimp can be convicted. More than 100 were jailed in 1961 compared with fewer than 20 arrests on this count in 1960.

After the Rodeo Club incident, Robert slapped heavy police patrols on The Main to nip further outbreaks in the bud.

"The bigger pimps are leaving The Main in droves and the prostitutes have long ago left or been arrested," said a morality squad officer.

And with its stellar attractions gone, business on The Main is slowly being strangled by police and government pressure.

HEADS CRIME CLEANUP—Adrien Robert, named acting director of Montreal police last year, is heading a tough campaign to wipe out rings of hoodlums and prostitution from The Main area of Montreal. He was former police chief at Hull, Que., where he established a reputation in fighting crime and vice. (CP Photo).

VAN HEFLIN SUED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Van Heflin has been sued for $500,000 by the husband of a woman who was killed when a 90-foot pine tree fell on her car. Dr. Ramon J. Spriztler, whose wife Natalie was killed in the accident last Feb. 8, filed the suit. The complaint said the tree was on Heflin's Beverly Hills property and was in a "dangerous" condition.

Many Causes For Decline In Entries

TORONTO (CP) — The decline of horses and the introduction of new farm equipment has cut into the entries at annual plowing matches, especially the international meet, F. A. Lashley, secretary-manager of the Ontario Plowmen's Association said Monday.

Mr. Lashley, speaking at the annual meeting of the association, said a distinct drop had been noted in the number of competitors in the horse-drawn plow section of matches.

He said the number of entries in the tractor classes last year was about the same as in 1960, but a decline had been seen in the number of farmers with time or interest to take in a four-day match.

Mr. Lashley said that at one time every county in Ontario had one or more matches while today there are seven counties with no matches and only four of the 11 territorial districts in Northern Ontario hold matches.

Robert Campbell of Churchill was elected 1962 president of the association, succeeding Alston Campbell of Burford.

STAGE DEMONSTRATION

TOKYO (AP) — Some 12,000 government workers staged a demonstration in Tokyo today for higher wages and better working conditions. The demonstration marked labor's annual spring offensive for 1962.

Cornwall Continues to Lead Province in Percentage of Persons Receiving Relief

TORONTO (CP)—The city of Cornwall, with 7½ per cent of its population on relief in December, continued to lead the province in the percentage of population receiving general welfare assistance, Welfare Minister Cecile reported today.

Figures prepared by the public welfare department cover 40 Ontario municipalities which together account for some 75 per cent of relief payments in the province.

Cornwall, with a population of 43,448, had 3,260 persons on relief in December, a slight increase over the 3,247 in December, 1960, and over the 3,198 in November, 1961.

Its percentage of relief recipients was far higher than in any other Ontario municipality.

RANKS SECOND

Sturgeon Falls ranked second followed by Windsor, Peterborough, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Timmins and Welland.

With 308 out of a population of 6,288, Sturgeon Falls had 4.90 per cent of its people receiving general welfare payments.

Windsor's total of 5,472 on relief out of 116,160 represented 4.71 per cent of the population while Peterborough had 4.07 per cent, 1,890 out of a population of 46,424.

In Niagara Falls, 828 people out of 22,575 were on relief, a percentage of 3.67

Toronto, with 20,770 people getting relief out of 600,588, had 3.46 per cent while Timmins had 3.43 per cent—975 out of a population of 28,424—and Welland had 3.39 per cent—1,219 out of a population of 35,967.

The welfare department estimated total assistance payments in December throughout Ontario at $1,943,985, an increase from $1,863,108 the preceding month and from $1,545,436 in December 1960.

The largest amount was spent in Toronto with $681,060, while Hamilton ranked second with $238,071 and Windsor third with $1?5,860.

Total expenditures in 1961 were estimated at $1,206,282, an increase of more than $5,800,000 from the preceding year.

Peterborough had by far the largest percentage increase — 108.8 per cent, up $250,997 to a total of $481,757 Next was Eastview, up 84.5 per cent at $133,158, followed by Welland, up 75.1 per cent at $348,108 and Toronto Township, up 74.1 per cent during the year at $99,798.

SEND CONGO HELP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government announced Monday a further gift of $15,000,000 to help The Congo's struggling economy, and promised up to $18,000,000 more by the end of June.

Story Of Glenn's Historic Flight Told In Pictures

U.S. Plans to Fly Five Orbital Missions in 1962 And One to Be 19 Orbits

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The flight of U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., three times around the world is only a beginning.

Space programs, which ultimately will cost upwards of $10,000,000,000, are coming into being from one end of the United States to the other.

Throughout the remainder of 1962, the U.S. plans to fly five orbital missions—four identical to Glenn's and one of 19 orbits.

This program will continue into 1963 until four men have orbited the earth 18 times each.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is in the process of recruiting 2,000 additional scientists and engineers to add to its roster of 6,000.

The object of the prolonged orbital program is to accustom astronauts to life and working conditions in the dark of space and during periods of prolonged weightlessness.

The U.S. does not intend to wait for the conclusion of these first orbital tests.

On Dec. 7, the space agency announced a $500,000,000 program to build space trains for use as bases for exploration of the moon.

Eventually, under this program two-man space ships will be lifted into orbit with extra fuel tanks and then coupled in space in much the same fashion as railroad trains are assembled in a marshalling yard.

These ships will weigh twice as much as the present two-ton, one-man space capsule and will remain in orbit a week or longer.

The purpose of the space train program is to train astronauts for future trips around and to the moon.

Flights by the two-man spacecraft are scheduled to begin in the 1963-64 period.

The creation of space trains and their use as launching pads for lunar exploration is but one technique for reaching the moon. There is always the possibility of a direct flight.

Thus, while the space train program is in full swing the U.S. will be striving to build a huge rocket capable of producing thrusts upwards of 22,000,000 pounds. This is known as Project Nova.

Still another moon landing program, known as Project Apollo, will be powered by clusters of engines, each packing 1,500,000 pounds of thrust in numbers up to five. Tests of the big booster are scheduled to be completed in 1966.

With two additional stages, this rocket should be able to hurl a 100 - ton spaceship into low orbit — say 300 miles—around the earth or send a 40-ton space ship around the moon.

JORDAN STORM OVER

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—A heavy snowstorm which paralyzed Jordan's communications and closed government offices for 24 hours ended today.

Glenn Earned $245 While Orbiting Earth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt.-Col. John Glenn Jr. will complete his required flying time for February as he whizzed three times around the earth today, and thereby earn $245.

Glenn, and the other United States astronauts, are required to log four hours flight time each month to receive their extra flight pay—$230 in Glenn's case as a marine lieutenant-colonel on flying duty.

The scheduled time for the three-orbit trip by Glenn in the Mercury capsule is four hours, 50 minutes. In contrast, Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Air Force Capt. Virgil I. Grissom logged only about 15 minutes space in their sub - orbital flights.

All astronauts receive their regular service pay and allowances while on duty with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's space flight project.

Glenn as lieutenant - colonel with 18 years service, receives a base pay and allowances of $1,149.68 a month, including the $245 flight pay.

The seven astronauts have sold their memoirs to Life magazine for more than $500,000, which will be shared evenly among them. Otherwise they get no extra pay for their duties with NASA.

Funeral Director Pleads Guilty to Armed Robbery

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP) — George Coutts, 29, staged his second bank robbery "just to get captured" Defence counsel Don McKerroll claimed in court Tuesday.

Coutts, an Owen Sound undertaker, was convicted of armed robbery and remanded to March 1 for sentence. He pleaded guilty.

He was charged with the robbery of $23,864 from the Walkerton branch of the Bank of Montreal last Jan. 22 and the robbery of $4,280 from the Toronto-Dominion Bank at Clarksburg Feb. 5, 1961.

Mr. McKerroll said Coutts burned the $4,280 he took during the Toronto-Dominion Bank robbery. He said Coutts was under the influence of liquor and was not aware of having held up the banks.

"The whole motive behind this shocking thing has been the lack of money combined with alcohol," he said.

All but $15 of the Walkerton robbery was recovered in an old cistern in the basement of Coutts's funeral parlor and home.

Coutts is the father of three children and a former service club director and boy scout leader.

United States Space Effort Likely to Be Intensified

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

John Glenn's successful triple orbit of the globe is likely to lead to a sharp intensification of the United States space effort.

American space men needed a victory to lift their spirits and they got it. But as rocket designer Wernher von Braun commented: "This is just the beginning."

Russia still has the lead in rocket propulsion and accomplishment although the Glenn shot has narrowed the gap.

President Kennedy has lamented Soviet lead but he is determined to close the gap not so much because of the Russian-American race for the moon as for the military potential space offers to the power that masters it first.

Top American military leaders have informed The Canadian Press that the ability to operate in space with men and nuclear weapons is a crucial top-priority need. Every effort must be bent in that direction. But the U.S. military effort in space can only go as fast as its scientist can take it. The American military fear is that Russia may get there first and may use her domination of space to blackmail the West with a threat of nuclear extermination.

Now Glenn has demonstrated that the U.S. has gathered the technical ability and equipment to orbit the earth successfully. He also has demonstrated, in a small, preliminary way, that man can think, live and operate in space for short periods. Yet to be demonstrated—either by Russia or the U.S.—is whether man can operate in space for long periods, say, for weeks or months.

Russia successfully orbited the earth with the Gherman Titov shot of 17 revolutions last May. The U.S. likely will attempt a similar experiment later this year, perhaps within a few months.

After that, the two countries are likely to move in the same direction—the creation of larger two-man capsules to allow one man to sleep while the other works in round-the-clock space operations lasting a week or two.

American plans for such a capsule—known as Gemini—are already on the drafting boards and a Canadian engineer, Jim Chamberlin of Kamloops, B.C., and Toronto, has been placed in charge of the entire operation. Chamberlin has hopes of making his first launchings in 1964. But so enthused is the U.S. government with the Glenn shot that every effort will be made to push up launching dates for the entire program.

POWER FROM STEAM

Onario's conventional thermal-electric capacity, 1,373,600 kilowatts in 1961, is expected to increase to 12,000,000 by 1970.

Special Stamp To Observe Orbital Flight

OTTAWA (CP) — A special United States postage stamp has been issued to mark Tuesday's orbital space flight of Astronaut John H. Glenn, it was announced by U.S. Postmaster-General J. Edward Day.

Mr. Day, here on an official visit, presented copies of the new stamp Tuesday to Canadian Postmaster - General William Hamilton. Almost simultaneously, an album containing a full sheet of the four - cent stamps was presented to Mrs Glenn at her home in Arlington, W.Va., by Deputy U.S. Postmaster-General H. W. Bawley.

Both presentations came within moments after Col. Glenn had completed his flight.

Mr. Day said printing of the blue-colored stamp has been a carefully - guarded secret for months. The stamp went on sale Tuesday in 300 U.S. post offices.

Mr. Day said it was the first time the U.S. department has ever been faced with the "challenge and problem" of issuing a stamp simultaneously with an important event. It was made especially difficult, he said, by the many postponements of the flight.

SHOWS CAPSULE

Mr. Day was in Ottawa with the U.S. department's five-member advisory board on a tour of inspection of Canadian postal facilities. He said:

"It is particularly fitting that this postal recognition of a major achievement of the free world be introduced in Canada since the historic friendship between Canada and the United States has long been a prototype for the alliance of the free people."

GARAGE BURNS

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Now is the time for all good fans to come to the aid of the Pepsi's!"

The big red club of Jean Paul Lamirande has wound up a highly successful season in the win-and loss column, but a dank and dismal one as far as fan support is concerned.

Lammy and his high-class intermediate club—and they could take the measure of a lot of so-called squads of senior calibre—deserved a far better fate at the box office.

If they had a dollar for every vacant pew they've played to, they could take a post-season economy trip to Bali-Bali, and return. As it is they'll do well to catch up with the arena tab.

Some of the loyal members of the local fans' union yelped at the start of the season "What are we going to do for hockey?" Lammy promised them he'd get them a hockey club come hell or high water. He did and got himself a soaking.

Now that he has won the Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey League he hopes fandom will turn out when the club meets the foemen in the upcoming circuit round-robin with Lindsay and Kingston, and —he hopes—in the provincial playdowns with clubs from other parts of Ontario.

The hockey cards seemed stacked against the likeable French-Canadian from the beginning. Leagues were formed—and fell apart. Teams entered and withdrew practically with the same breath. Attempts to form an eastern senior loop took shape and disintegrated within a few days.

But Lamirande refused to admit defeat. Optimism and determination are two of his finest traits. He stuck by his guns even to the point of willingness to enter an Ottawa Valley league. He was "kicked out" so to speak, before the door was cracked.

Things looked bad when all efforts to form an eastern senior league faded. An equally determined OHA convener faced with the task of getting a pasture field for two hockey horses, Belleville and Napanee, grabbed at a final straw. And Lorne Cook persuaded the Lakeshore League to admit the two eastern entries on classification conditions.

Lammy jumped at the chance—and collected his squad. The boys, a number of them ex-McFarlands, went along with the intermediate league idea.

Meantime not much playing time was available at the arena. The arena management could not be blamed. Ice rentals were coming in—and accepted. All that was left was Wednesday nights for the hockey club.

Wednesday night is not—nor ever was—"Hockey Night in Belleville." Perry Como and the Kraft Music Hall and other living room private eye attractions are too strong. Or so it seems.

Nothing daunted Lammy took the nights and launched his hockey rockets. But other teams in the league failed to live up to attraction notices with the possible exception of the Trenton RCAF Globetrotters. Napanee, the only team to beat the Pepsi's over the first two-thirds of the season, failed to draw peanuts despite the fact some former Belleville players were members of the club. And later, the Napanee team fell by the wayside because of lack of fan support.

Now with the league schedule completed, Lamirande is left holding a financial bag. Uniforms, equipment, transportation, etc., cost money. And it hasn't been forthcoming to any extent through the turnstiles.

He hopes to attract some fan attention in the upcoming playoffs with Lindsay and Kingston, and if he wins to attract even more when the Pepsi's meet such teams as the Toronto Macedonians (who had Allan Cup competition ideas), the Georgian Bay teams, like Midland, Collingwood, etc., Georgetown and Western Ontario league champions.

The Pepsi's are a well-coached, well-balanced club, which should give any of the other intermediate champions a hard run for the roses.

They meet Lindsay at Memorial Arena Friday night in the first game of the league round-robin series. It is hoped a good crowd will be on hand to give the red club a good send-off on their quest for the OHA provincial intermediate "A" title.

Tumbling Leafs Get Punchian Blast

Meet Habs Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goalie Johnny Bower of Toronto Maple Leafs has given up 56 goals in the club's last 18 starts — an average of 3.11 a game.

But coach Punch Imlach doesn't think Bower should shoulder all the blame for the Maple Leafs recent tailspin.

Furthermore, Imlach seems to have no immediate plans to give the veteran netminder a rest.

"Maybe we could blame him for the third and fourth goals that are going in," said Imlach as he prepared to send his Leafs into a crucial National Hockey League game against first place Montreal Canadiens tonight in Toronto.

"But what about the first and second goals? Our forwards are going out there just for a skate. They're not backchecking, and the goals are going in.

WIN ONLY ONCE

The Maple Leafs have won only once in their last six starts, falling 11 points behind the Canadiens. Another loss tonight would just about ruin any chances they have of overtaking the Habitants for first place.

As things stand now, the Canadiens need only a combination of 10 wins or Toronto defeats to clinch a fifth straight title. Each club has 15 games to play.

The Leafs must also worry about the third - place Chicago Black Hawks, who are just five points behind them.

Chicago also plays tonight as all clubs are in action. The Hawks will be at home to Detroit Red Wings while Boston Bruins are at New York for a date against the Rangers.

Imlach sees a long list of injuries as the main reason why the Maple Leafs have failed to keep pace with Canadiens.

JOINS SUDBURY

The Red Wings, fighting with Rangers for the fourth and last playoff spot, sent forward Leo Labine, a 10 - year NHL veteran, to their Sudbury farm club of the Eastern Professional Hockey League Tuesday.

Labine, 30, who came to Detroit last season in a trade with Boston, had scored only three goals in 48 games this year.

His departure was made possible by the return of Bruce MacGregor for tonight's game.

MacGregor has been out with an injured knee and his replacement Larry Jeffrey from Edmonton of the Western Hockey League, did so well that general manager Jack Adams decided to keep him instead of Labine.

Adams also denied reports that veteran goalie Terry Sawchuk would be loaned to Sudbury for a few weeks. Sawchuk was replaced by Hank Bassen Feb. 4 and the Wings haven't lost since, winning four games and tying two.

Peewees Lose To Kingston By 5-3 Score

Belleville Peewees rallied too late and too little here last night as they dropped a 5-3 decision to their Kingston counterparts in the first game of their OMHA goals-to-count playdown series.

The return game will be played in Kingston next Monday at 6.30. Belleville must win by at least three goals to advance into the next round.

The Quinte kids fell behind 5-1 halfway through the 3rd period last night before they began to click. The losers carried the play for the rest of the game, scoring goals by Moore and Goodfellow, but the rally fell short.

A good crowd watched the pint-sized pucksters in a fast, clean game. Kingston appeared to have an edge in the skating and passing departments but the locals never quit trying and it paid off with their last two goals.

Larry Brennan and Murray Douglas each scored two goals for Kingston, who led 3-1 at the end of the second. It was 1-1 after one period. D. Gilmour potted Kingston's fifth goal.

Larry Moore was a two-goal man for Belleville with Paul Goodfellow getting the other. Bob Carter and Alex Bradley each drew an assist.

The winners drew two of the game's three minor penalties and both clubs scored once while themselves playing a man short.

Lineups:

Kingston: B. Landon, R. Anglin, J. Westlake, D. Best, M. Stone, R. Seale, M. Douglas, L. Brennan, D. Gilmour, K. Harvey, G. Dorey, P. Gavel.

Belleville: Jerry Bankey, Ted Drumm, Tim Doran, Alex Bradley, Dave Loder, John Holgate, Ted Beresford, Bob Carter, Bruce LaRue, Tom Boulter, Paul Goodfellow, Larry Moore, Pete Bishop, Mark Aquafreddo.

Pepsi's, Macs Play Tonight

The Pepsi's and Macs, both trying to stay sharp for future playoff dates, will tackle each other in an exhibition tilt at eight o'clock tonight.

The Pepsi's will open their playoffs here Friday night against the Lindsay Lumbermen, coached by ex-Belleville player "Rags" Raglen. Pepsi coach Jean-Paul Lamirande hopes tonight's workout will help keep his boys in trim for Friday's game.

Meanwhile the junior Macs, riding high in their playoff round-robin after 3-0 and 3-2 wins over Peterborough and Kingston, will be trying to upset their senior opponents tonight. They have lost two other exhibitions to the Pepsi's and would like to chalk one up on the other side of the ledger.

A special admission price of 35 cents has been set for tonight's game. It starts earlier than usual, at eight o'clock.

LEAFS SIGN LOCAL BOY

TORONTO (CP) — Pitcher Norm Shanahan, who will be 21 Saturday, has signed a 1962 contract with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League.

If he makes the team, it will be the first time in 15 years that a local boy has made Toronto's Triple A club.

Shanahan had a 4-9 won-lost record with Class B Raleigh, N.C., last season but compiled an outstanding 2.78 earned run average.

Olympics Boss Offers Help

Hope Looms For Tourney Success

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hope for a way out of diplomatic entanglements that threaten success of next month's world amateur hockey championships came Tuesday night with an offer of assistance from Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee.

Brundage says the IOC is ready to issue identity cards to East Germany's entry in the championships if the United States state department will recognize the cards.

In reprisal for erection of the Berlin wall, allied authorities have refused to give the East Germans travel permits necessary for them to make the championships, to be held March 7-18 at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Brundage's offer was made public Tuesday night by Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe, Ont., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Roxburgh said Brundage made the offer to the Czechoslovak Ice Hockey Federation after the Czechs and three other Communist countries—Russia, Romania and Yugoslavia — withdrew from the tournament in protest over the permit refusal.

In 1960, IOC identity cards were recognized by the U.S. state department, allowing East Germany to compete in the winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif.

The state department has said the travel office in West Berlin must issue travel permits to the East Germans before the applications for visas will be accepted.

In Washington, a state department spokesman said Brundage's suggestion will require study.

Bob LeBel, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said in Montreal he asked Brundage to help at the Czech Federation's request.

LeBel also said he had written Tuesday to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and President Kennedy asking them for their aid in the situation.

Schoolboy Curling

Sasky Rink Leads Field

By KEITH KINCAID

HALIFAX (CP) — A high-flying Saskatchewan rink faces its stiffest test so far in the Canadian schoolboy curling championship today when it meets an in - and - out New Brunswick rink.

If New Brunswick plays as well as it has on occasion, the match will be a hot one.

Mike Lukowich's foursome from Speers, Sask., was the only rink undefeated going into today's play. Their 3-0 record was slightly better than the three wins and a loss boasted by New Brunswick, Quebec and British Columbia. Saskatchewan missed one round Tuesday, sitting out a bye.

Tuesday's action saw Saskatchewan beat Alberta 8-3 and New Brunswick trounce Prince Edward Island 15-4, after dropping a 12-6 decision to British Columbia.

In other games Alberta edged Prince Edward Island 6-5 and Quebec downed Ontario 8-6 before swamping Newfoundland 19-2. Northern Ontario beat Newfoundland 16-6 and then lost 9-8 in an extra end to Nova Scotia, which earlier was edged by Manitoba 7-6. Defending champion British Columbia beat Ontario 8-5.

The Northern Ontario - Nova Scotia game in the fourth round provided most of the excitement.

Northern Ontario trailed 8-6 going into the 10th end and with Nova Scotia having last rock, the Sudbury team sat two. However, skip Dick Rafuse of Bridgewater, N.S., was wide on his takeout and the match was tied. Rafuse saved the day in the extra end when his last rock counted.

The first two days saw most teams concentrate on a knockout style of play although Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia, Northern Ontario and Manitoba occasionally made good use of the draw.

Pickerel Two Weeks Earlier Here

Here Are 1962 Fishing Seasons

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario, going along with Quebec practice, has announced an earlier open season for muskies in the St Lawrence River's Lake St. Francis and the Ottawa River.

The 1962 season for the St. Lawrence east of the Robert H. Saunders generating station dam in Stormont County, and the Ottawa, will open May 12 instead of the weekend nearest to July 1 as in previous years. It runs to Nov. 30.

Dr. Douglas Clarke, chief of the fish and wildlife branch of the Ontario department of lands and forests, said the early season was adopted as part of a continuing consultation with Quebec authorities toward a common season in boundary waters.

West of the Saunders Dam, the season will remain at June 30-Nov. 30. It was in this section of the river that the world's record muskie, an ounce short of 70 pounds, was taken three years ago.

DIFFERS BY AREA

North of the French and Mattawa Rivers and Lake Nipissing, inclusive, it will be June 30-Oct. 15. South of there it will be June 30-Oct. 15 except for June 23-Dec. 15 in the St. Clair River, Detroit River and Lake St. Clair, and June 30-Dec. 15, in Lake Erie and the Niagara River downstream to the falls.

The muskie remains the only fish protected in Ontario by a minimum size limit, 28 inches.

Daily creel limits remain at two muskies; six bass, pike or pickerel (walleye); five lake trout except three in Minnesota-Ontario boundary waters, Lake Timagami and Southern Ontario waters, and two in Lake Simcoe; one Atlantic salmon or Ouananiche; five rainbow, brown or Aurora trout; one speckled trout plus an additional 14 weighing not more than a total of 10 pounds. In Elgin, Middlesex and Norfolk Counties the speckled trout limit is one plus an additional nine weighing not more than five pounds.

WHEN TO FISH BASS

Other seasons

Black bass—June 30-Oct. 15 except St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair and Detroit River, June 23-Dec. 31; Lake Erie and Niagara River downstream to the falls, June 30-Nov. 30; St. Lawrence River west of Saunders Dam, June 15-Nov. 30; Canadian boundary waters except Lake Superior between Thunder Bay district and Minnesota, May 12-Dec. 15.

Speckled, brown and Aurora trout—April 28-Sept. 15.

Rainbow trout—April 28-Sept 15 except Lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario and designated tributaries, April 28 - Nov 30; Lake Simcoe, April 28 - Oct 5 and Nov 3-Nov 30

Atlantic salmon and Ouananiche—April 28-Oct 15

DATES FOR PICKEREL

Yellow pickerel (walleye)—no closed season in Great Lakes except Bay of Quinte, April 28-March 31; North and west of, but excluding, French and Mattawa Rivers, May 12-April 14 for pickerel, no closed season on pike; south of and including French and Mattawa Rivers and Lake Nipissing, May 12-March 31 for pickerel and pike except Ottawa river which has no closed season on pike; St. Lawrence River, April 28-March 31 except for Lake St. Francis which has May 12-March 31 season on pickerel and no closed season on pike.

Lake trout and splake (speckled-lake trout hybrid)—Great Lakes, intervening international connecting waters and St. Lawrence River, no closed season; districts of Algoma, Cochrane, Manitoulin, Nipissing, (north of and including French and Mattawa Rivers and Lake Nipissing), Sudbury and Timiskaming, Jan. 1 Oct. 15; Ontario-Minnesota boundary waters, excluding Lake Superior, Jan. 1-Sept. 24; south of and excluding French and Mattawa Rivers and Lake Nipissing, Nov. 3-Oct 5 except for Frontenac, Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties, March 1-Oct. 5, and Lake Simcoe, Dec. 20-Oct. 5.

8 Rinks Seek Ont. Title

They're Off-And Away!

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Eight rinks from across Ontario begin competition today for the ship.

Observers considered the ice at the Grey Curling Club in perfect shape for the round-robin event which decides Southern Ontario's entry to the Canadian championships at Kitchener March 5-9.

Tom Caldwell of Orillia, the 1961 winner, passed up provincial play this year and the favorites to take over the crown are rinks skipped by Bayne Secord of Toronto and Murray Roberts of Unionville.

Other district representatives are Joe Gurowka of Dixie, Don Varey of Brantford, Evans Jenkins of Huntsville, Bob Knippelberg of RCAF Uplands, Ottawa, Abe DiMartile of Welland and Don Fawcett of Thornbury.

Gurowka is the only skip who competed in last year's finals.

LOSES PLAYER

Fawcett suffered a last-minute blow when his vice-skip, Doug Holmes, fell at his home Saturday and broke a leg. Fawcett has been granted permission by the Ontario Curling Association to select another player from his own club.

The draw was scheduled for noon today. There will be two rounds today, three Thursday and two Friday. In the event of a tie, a playoff will be held Friday night and another, if necessary, Saturday morning.

Curlers will be guests at two luncheons — by the OCA Thursday and the city of Owen Sound Friday.

Roberts and Secord are enjoying favorites' roles on the basis of impressive past records and solid performances in this year's district playoffs.

Previous Ontario matches, however, have been notoriously tough on the front-rankers. In 1960, for instance, Secord, former Saskatoon high school champ backed by Saskatchewan aces, was the choice but lost to Jake Edwards of Kingston in a playoff.

Beavers Crush Frontenacs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston Frontenacs, pacesetters in the Eastern Professional Hockey League, collapsed before Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers Tuesday night and saw their lead dwindle to one point

The Beavers fired seven unanswered goals in the last two periods to crush the Frontenacs 9-2 in their seventh straight victory on home ice. A crowd of 1,975 sat in.

The line of Len Ronson, Rod Gilbert and Jean Ratelle, the latter two Guelph Royals graduates in their first professional year, accounted for four goals Ronson scored twice, Ratelle got a goal and three assists and Gilbert a goal and two assists

Leon Rochefort, Bryan Hextall, Bob Cunningham, Sandy McGregor and Jim Neilson also scored as the Beavers evened their record in 11 meetings with Kingston at five wins, five losses and a tie

For the Frontenacs, who were no match for K-W after the first period, the goal-getters were Bobby Attersley and Terry Gray Orv Tessier collected two assists to run his league-leading scoring total to 87 points Tom McCarthy, in second place with 81, went pointless.

The Beavers were assessed six of the 11 minor penalties called by referee Eddie Powers and outshot the visitors 42-27. In the third period alone the margin was 23-3.

WAS GOOD WAGER

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The daily double at Oaklawn Park Tuesday paid $1,099.20 for $2. That payoff went to bettors who coupled So Will I ($67.20) and Little Doings ($15) in the first and second races.

Marilyn 'Joins' Yankees

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (CP) — Marilyn Monroe Tuesday checked into the Yankee Clipper Hotel where the New York Yankees are staying during spring baseball training here.

Her former husband, Joe DiMaggio, is a volunteer coach with the Yanks. Miss Monroe visited DiMaggio at the Yankees training camp last year, as well.

In other developments on the Yankees front, general manager Roy Hamey talked for 20 minutes with slugger Roger Maris but reached no agreement on Maris's 1962 salary. Hamey said he would meet the slugger again before the Feb. 28 date on which Maris would be officially considered a holdout.

The Yanks reportedly have offered Maris $60,000, with Roger asking for $75,000.

Minor Hockey

Playoffs continued in the squirt division of the BMHA last night with the Bruins edging the Barons 2-1 to cop their series 5-1. Freddie Stickle and B. Bradford triggered the Bruin goals with T. Lynch bagging the Baron goal.

Maple Leafs downed the Royals 4-1 for a 6-2 victory on the series. S. Muldoon scored twice, D. Pascoe and L. Burley once each for the Leafs. B. Storms had the Royals' marker.

Three games were played in the consolation series. The Black Hawks won their second game in a row, 7-5 over the Browns. P McKenzie fired four Hawk goals with A. Ineson getting two and J. Holland one. C. Powell scored twice, T. Sprackett, J. Morton and J. Semark once each for the Browns.

D. Fobert ran scoring wild to lead the Red Wings to an 11-1 win over the Frontenacs. Fobert scored eight goals with A. Wilson netting the other three. P. Nobile had the lone Frontenac marker.

Canadiens blanked the Flyers 3-0 with R. Mundorff registering the winners' shutout. D. Demers scored two goals and R. Woodley one.

In an exhibition game, involving two teams that have received byes into the "A" and "B" group finals, the Rangers toppe dthe Macs 5-1. R. Meagher scored twice for the winners with T. Meagher, R. Doyle and B. McKee getting one goal each. D. Beecher scored for the Macs.

PLAN LAVISH GAMES

LONDON (Reuters) — The British Empire Games in Perth, Australia, in November will be the most memorable in history, a press conference was told Tuesday. Dawn Ryan, here to publicize the Games, said the host country is spending more than £3,000,000 Australian ($6,700,000) to ensure the Games are a success.

Teepees Give Petes Heave-Ho

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Peterborough Petes were mathematically eliminated from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs Tuesday night, dropping a 5-2 decision to the third-place St. Catharines Teepees.

The Peters took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Lorne O'Donnell and Jim Patterson. But midway in the second. Teepees defenceman Paul Popell beat Petes' goalie Chuck Boddard and captain Ray Collen tied the score four minutes later.

Phil Esposito, Fred Standing and Sanko scored in the third period to give St. Catharines the win.

The Teepees had a wide margin in play over last - place Petes, outshooting them 38-18.

Tigers Get Another 'Patterson'

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Jim Trimble said Tuesday night that Hamilton Tiger - Cats football fans needn't worry about the Eastern Conference champions having any weakness in the pass-catching department next season.

He told a celebrity night gathering the headache caused by the retirement last week of end Paul Dekker has been remedied with the acquisition of replacement Rudy Schmittou.

Schmittou, a six - foot - four, 212 - pound end from Tennessee Tech, was the closest thing he had seen to Hal Patterson, said Trimble.

Patterson was obtained by the Ticats in a trade with Montreal Alouettes last season and has been one of the top pass receivers in the league for several years.

Well, Half a Step

Willie Mays Slowing Up?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Wondrous Willie Mays is slowing up.

The authority for this startling statement is Alvin Dark, San Francisco Giants' manager and Willie's most ardent admirer.

"I think Willie is better now than he has ever been," Dark said. "He certainly was more valuable to the club last season than ever before."

Where has Mays slowed up?

"On the bases," Dark said. "I think he's half a step slower. You can't detect it in the field, where he still makes those seemingly impossible plays, but you can tell it when he runs the bases.

"It was brought home to me vividly one afternoon when I gave him the sign to steal against a certain young pitcher. He got a good jump on the youngster, as I expected, and in my mind I could see Willie roar into second, safely standing up. Instead, he was caught sliding in. I could hardly believe my eyes.

"Half a step slower or not, Willie is still the greatest all-around player in the game today. He hasn't lost any of his power and, if anything, he's a better hitter today because he has a greater knowledge of the strike zone.

"The tipoff on Willie's greatness is this. He hit 40 home runs last year, drove in 123 runs, led the National League with 129 runs scored, batted .308 and still there were some who wrote that he didn't have a good year."

To Be No Career Slowdown For Debbie, Expecting Baby

AT THE PARK — In this poignant scene from "X-15", ending at the Park Theatre tonight, through United Artists release, young Stanley Livingston is consoled by David McLean when the boy's father, a test pilot, is killed saving the valuable X-15. The suspense drama is in Panavision and Technicolor. On the same program thrills and chills, "The Cat Burglar", complete shows 7.00 and 9.00.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene:

There will be no career slowdown for Debbie Reynolds, expecting a baby in September. In fact, she signed on to play a 60 - year - old in the final sequence of How the West Was Won.

She had already done two sequencies in the super-western and wasn't willing to do another (she had been promised four weeks on the film; it spread to six months). When the studio bosses put the film together, they decided a finale was needed. She agreed to serve—her last act after 14 years under contract to MGM.

Before the 10 - day stint, she goes to New York to help husband Harry Karl open 10 shoe stores. After winning the west, she goes to Paramount to make My Six Loves under Gower Champion's direction.

Horst Buchholz returned to London to finish Nine Days to Rama, in which he plays Ghandi's murderer. Before leaving, he reported that his newborn son will have triple citizenship until 21 — German for his father, French for his mother, American for his place of birth.

Jerry Lewis flew down from his stand at The Sands in Las Vegas to open the restaurant bearing his name. It is the classiest joint on the Sunset Strip, where the night life can use some class.

Gene Kelly predicts this will be the big year for a return of musicals. If producers heed the success of West Side Story and Flower Drum Song, his prediction could prove correct. But Gene won't be able to cash in on a musical trend; he'll be tied up most of the year with Going My Way on TV.

The rich are still getting richer in the Western Hocєky League:

Portland Buckaroos stretched their Southern Division lead to 12 points Tuesday night by edging Calgary Stampeders 4-3 while Edmonton Flyers built an eight - point margin over the Stamps in the Northern Division by beating Vancouver Canucks 4-2.

Art Jones with two, Gord Fashoway and Bill Saunders got the Portland goals as the Buckaroos won their first game on Calgary ice this season. Lou Jankowski, Ron Leopold and Gord Vejprava counted for the losers.

Two goals by Forbes Kennedy and others by Don Chiz and Warren Hynes gave the Flyers their victory at Vancouver Jim Baird and Bob McCusker scored for the Canucks

Aces Sting Hornets 2-0

QUEBEC (CP) — First - period goals gave Quebec Aces a 2-0 victory over Pittsburgh Hornets and a fourth shutout for goaler Charlie Hodge in an American Hockey League game Tuesday night.

Right winger Reggie Grigg and centre Ed Hoekstra scored for Quebec.

Punches Official, Fined $300

SEATTLE (AP) — George Agar, coach of Los Angeles Blades, has been fined $300 for punching a timekeeper, Western Hockey League president Al Leader announced Tuesday.

A melee in Friday night's game between the Blades and San Francisco Seals on the latters' ice also cost players Ralph Keeler and Bruce Carmichael of the Blades $50 each.

"Keller berated and threatened the timekeeper and Carmichael speared one of the minor officials," said the league report. "Two San Francisco fans were hit with sticks but it could not be determined who the guilty players were."

Agar claimed the timekeeper let the clock run to end the game prematurely. San Francisco won 3-2.

Maroons Defeat Sarnia

SARNIA (CP) — The shorthanded Chatham Maroons downed Sarnia Rams 7-4 in the final game of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior schedule Tuesday night, but left winger George Aitken of the Maroons failed to win the scoring championship

Aitken entered the game seven points behind Irwin Gross of Windsor Bulldogs and collected only a goal and two assists. Bob Pole and Gary Vena scored two goals apiece for the 10-man Chatham team and Jack Douglas and Earl Towers added the other markers.

Willie Menard, Don Savage, Joe Bocchini and Jerry Mara scored for the last-place Rams. the only team in the league not to make the playoffs.

Three Television Networks Kept People Glued to Sets

At the Park

Voluptuous and beautiful Mijanou Bardot, who co-stars with Gerard Landry, in the spectacular adventure drama "Pirate of the Blackhawk, which starts at the Park Theatre Thursday.

BIOGRAPHY MIJANOU BARDOT

Mijanou Bardot, 22 year old sister of world famous star, Brigitte Bardot, appears for the second time on the American screen in Pirate of the Blackhawk, a Filmgroup picture coming to the Park Theatre on Thursday.

Miss Bardot, a willowy reddish blonde, appears as a noblewoman of the Duchy of Monteforte, whose family is raped and murdered by a vicious pirate band, led by Manfred, the usurper. Mijanou won the part over some of the biggest "names" of European filmdom because of her unanimous selection by artists and directors as the most perfect recreation of the Renaissance woman. She has starred in many French films and is regarded as an important star in her own right in Europe. Recently she has been seen on the American screen in Allied Artist's Sex Kittens Go To College. On the same program added adventure and action "Queen of the Tartars" in color.

QUAKE HITS JAPAN

TOKYO (AP)—A fairly strong earthquake jolted Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island, at 1:05 a.m. today (11:05 a.m. EST Tuesday). The central meteorological agency reported no damage, but said the shock was strong enough to shake houses

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — From spine - tingling launching to folksy windup, the three major television networks concentrated on the history - making flight of Lt.-Col. John H. Glenn Jr., and the viewer who watched, from dawn's early light until dusk, had an exciting if exhausting experience.

The great moments of the day were, of course, the take-off and landing of the capsule. Unfortunately, after the rocket moved off its pad with a great burst of smoke and flame, there wasn't much the cameras could do in actually covering the flight. But through the five long hours when the capsule was hurtling around the world, TV teams of the three networks—ABC, CBS and NBC—kept the audience glued to their sets.

They supplemented the oral reports from the spaceman himself and Cape Canaveral headquarters with interviews and explanations. They hopped around the country to tracking stations where we heard Col. Glenn's heartbeat and saw a machine drawing a chart of his breathing. We saw the exterior of his home and the home of his parents.

COVERAGE POOLED

The basic coverage was a pooled network effort, and it was a fine, smooth job. When the launching was held up for a few minutes by a broken nut on the capsule hatch, the cameras were right there with a closeup of the men making repairs.

All through the day, the viewer in his living room felt as if he were in an orchestra seat, except for the landing, when voice reports still kept us informed.

One survey of the New York metropolitan area alone showed almost half the TV sets were turned on when the rocket blasted off. The normal percentage for that time of day is just under 10 per cent.

Once the astronaut was safely out of the ocean, the networks turned their full attention on the family of the new hero. Mrs. Glenn's interview with reporters was natural and charming. And the shots of the spaceman's mother and father were warm and in just the right emotion key.

Astrological Forecast

For February 22

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Take care in making agreements, both oral and written.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Key words are hard work. You have to dig in today — learn what it is you are to accomplish — and then set plans to do it. Check details — then begin in earnest.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): If you try to fool yourself by saying affection, appreciation really doesn't affect you — you head for trouble. Admit that you need the warmth of appreciation . . . the glow of love.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21). Be extremely practical. Others may try to convince you to linger, delay, to postpone action, travel. But this is the day you must meet obligations. Set an example.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Moon in favorable aspect to your sign helps overcome obstacles. You could find your patience taxed by numerous delays, irritations. Be affable—diplomatic—you'll win!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Key word today is co-operation. You gain the most by sharing the limelight. Otherwise, fellow workers, associates could become jealous. Be clear —and sure those around you understand.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Cycle up . . . you could have your way in important matters concerning career . . . as well as personal life. Move — be willing to take a chance — be daring, original, independent.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A friend in distress could ask financial favor Use best judgment. Remember . . . it sometimes takes more strength of character to say no. Avoid excessive sentimentality, extravagance. Think.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Very good . . . you are line with reason. Signs of ma- able to bring hopes, wishes in turity show up — and you should be grateful. Excellent for shopping, socializing . . . and romance.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some of recent financial pressure lifted. Ideas begin to flow . . . you are able to see your way "clear." Burdens fade and one close to you becomes more cheerful. Laugh off adversity.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Now is time for action . . . the putting of ideas to work. Today could mark beginning of upward trend, following recent draining of vitality. You could gain much from newspaper today.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Better for finishing projects than for new starts. If you have choice . . . try to delay actions which could set in motion a new surge of activity. Associates tend to economize . . . wait.

If today is your birthday . . . you are independent, creative, original . . . and you are always questioning the right of authorities to be fixed in positions, ideas. Maintain spirit of freedom . . . even if friends, loved ones sometimes try to "tame" you. August good for travel, vacation.

• • •

General Tenodncies: Cycle up for Virgo, Libra, Scorpio. Best for Pisces, Aries, Taurus to slow pace. Emphasis on diplomacy—those who attempt "bullying" tactics surely lose out today. A smile, a kind word accomplishes much.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. 58

Fly Soldiers From Trenton In Rotation

OTTAWA (CP)—A total of 2,[illegible]04 Canadian soldiers and their dependents will begin Thursday a rotation between Canada and Europe, army headquarters said Tuesday.

A total of 302 soldiers will fly from Fredericton, N.B., and Trenton, Ont., to join the Canadian infantry brigade in West Germany. The first flight with 107 soldiers will leave Thursday from Fredericton.

Two hundred soldiers and 600 dependents will sail from Saint John, N.B., aboard the Saxonia March 6.

In the meantime, 612 troops and 1,280 dependents will return to Canada.

In the rotation the 1st and 2nd battalions of the Black Watch, the former now in West Germany, the latter at Camp Gagetown, N.B., will change places

BIG INDUSTRY

French Cabinet Meets to Okay Algerian Pact

PARIS (Reuters) — The French cabinet assembled here today for a meeting that was expected to give formal approval to a peace pact ending the Algerian war.

The Algerian insurgents also were assembling in Tripoli, Libya, for a similar meeting Thursday of their national council (parliament).

The insurgents were expected to give their formal sanction to the peace agreement reached last week in secret talks near the French-Swiss border.

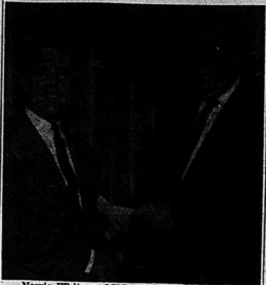
French cabinet approval was expected to be virtually automatic because President Charles de Gaulle personally directed the delicate negotiations that have brought Algeria to the brink of independence after 120 years of French rule.

Most speculation centred on Thursday's meeting of the insurgent national council, made up of Moslem rebel field commanders and civilian fighters as well as the leaders of the Tunis-based Algerian insurgent provisional government.

A four-fifths majority of the national council's 54 members is necessary to approve the peace proposals, which are reported to provide for a cease-fire followed by an independence referendum in Algeria.

French authorities fear the imminent peace announcement may spark another revolt by European extremists opposed to Algerian independence.

To meet this threat, strict security measures were being tightened in both France and Algeria.



Norris Whitney, MPP, on behalf of the Ontario Government, presents a cheque for $5,000 to William West, president of the new Bay of Quinte Regional Tourist Council.

Ontario Govt. Gives $5,000 To Newly Formed Quinte Regional Tourist Council

PICTON (Special) — The newly formed Bay of Quinte Regional Tourist Council was presented with a cheque for five thousand dollars by the Ontario Government for the development of sight-seeing attractions in this area. The presentation was made at a banquet held at the Royal hotel here and attended by many persons prominent in the industry.

Representing the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity, James McHattie, who had been a leader in promoting the idea of regional councils, stated that there are 27 attractions in the local region to be developed and they would be announced later. These include historical sites, panoramic views, unusual terrain and other points of interest.

This is the 23rd of the 26 regional councils to receive the government grant, Mr. McHattie stated adding that full results may not be noticeable for three years.

Revenue from the tourist trade had not increased proportionately with the amount spent in promoting the Province and it is hoped that development of sight-seeing attractions will not only draw more visitors but make them want to stay longer, Mr. McHattie said. We must develop things for visitors to see, he declared, as he related how the government legislation calls for matching grants to a maximum of $5,000 per district, under certain conditions.

Norris Whitney, MPP, was called upon to make the presentation of the cheque to William West of Picton, president of the Regional Council.

ASSAILS PARKS

Plennox Warden Joe Shelley referred to the growing popularity of the UEL Provincial Park at Adolphustown, and stated he did not think such parks adversely affected tourist operators.

This sparked a lively retort from Dr. Lawson Mackle of Picton who is managing director of the Joint Board of the Ontario Travel Association, and who was highly praised by speaker for his contributions to the industry.

'I do not agree with Warden Shelley's remark', he declared. He disputed the idea that provincial parks offered a cheap holiday for those who could not otherwise afford one. 'I know all about the people who cannot afford to take the kids to a resort. I know of a full Colonel and a Wing Commander who spent their holidays last year at Outlet and Presqu'ile Parks. The Commander was saving money for a trip to England in 1962. I can show you motorboats at park camp sites that we who own resorts cannot afford to buy, and washroom facilities which require 75 cleaning women. The government is even thinking of installing laundrymats in parks', the owner of Lakeshore Lodge said.

The money spent on the formation of parks is gone. The interest of that capital expenditure should be met by realistic camp site rates and not charged back to tax-paying tourist operators."

Dr. Mackle elicited applause when he called for an increase in the fees for camp sites in Provincial Parks.

PRAISES COUNCIL IDEA

President W. West termed the regional council "a most progressive step" which showed "an enlightened attitude on the part of the government which is commendable." He explained that the Quinte Isle Tourist Association of Prince Edward County cannot receive government grants whereas the Quinte Tourist Council can. The area covered extends from Bath west to Trenton and takes in that territory south of Highway 401, including Belleville and Napanee. He urged that these communities unite with the Council for district promotion.

Mr. West suggested that work may include more scenic lookouts, museums, preservation of old homes, better marking of historical sites and general promotion of the district as a holiday spot.

Quinte Isle Association president Clare Campbell expressed the hope that district towns and city would set up tourist groups such as Prince Edward has had for years and which was largely responsible for the district becoming eligible for the grant. "I feel that this heralds a new day in the industry," he stated.

Others who spoke briefly were: Mayor H. J. McFarland, County Warden J. Fox, Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce President Gerry Morrison, Harold Cleave, representing LODA; Reeve of Bloomfield, Arthur Moore; C. A. Milligan, M.P.

Directors of the Bay of Quinte Council are Hart Ready of Bath; Gordon Parks of Bloomfield; William Smith of Waupoos; Mrs. Hugh Frizzell of Picton; Mrs. Norman MacDonald of R.R. 10, Picton; Clare Campbell, Wellington; J. A. Wood is district inspector; Percy Hawley of Sillsville, is vice-president; Mrs. Isabel Strong, Picton, secretary, and T. E. Whattam, public relations director.

EXPORTS DROP

WIESBADEN (Reuters) — A sharp drop in exports last month caused West Germany's export surplus to nosedive, the federal bureau of statistics reported today. The bureau said the January export surplus was equal to $8,000,000, compared with $125,750,000 in December and $104,500,000 in January 1961.

Prevent Man Raffling Self Off as Slave

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — Police have stopped Norman Aitken from running a raffle with himself as first prize. He was ready to be the winner's "slave" for a year.

Aitken, 28, an unemployed restaurant manager, was planning to get 5,000 tickets printed when the police stepped in.

"You can't do it," they told him. "It would be an illegal lottery."

Said the dejected Aitken Monday.

"The draw was to have been held in an Edinburgh ballroom. Whoever won the raffle would have had my services free for a year."

Aitken figured that by selling 5,000 tickets at 10 shillings ($1.40) each he would have a good income for that year's work.

"I would have tackled anything, provided it was not degrading, indecent or illegal," he said.

Family Have No Special Plans Today

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—The family of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., had no special plans for today—just an attempt to get back to normal.

It was back to school for the two teen-age children, David, 16, and Lyn, 14.

They stayed home Tuesday with their mother, her parents, and family friends to watch television broadcasts of Glenn's orbital space flight.

"The most wonderful day for my family," Mrs. Glenn said.

Glenn called his wife and children about 4.40 p.m. from the destroyer which had picked him up. Minutes later President Kennedy called Mrs. Glenn with his congratulations.

Grey County Will Be Site Next Season

TORONTO (CP) — Grey County was selected Tuesday as the site for the 1962 international plowing matches of the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

Other sites selected at the annual meeting here were Peel County for 1963, Peterborough 1964, York 1965 and Huron 1966. Simcoe and Wellington counties both are seeking the 1967 match, site of which will be decided at next year's meeting.

Victor C. Porteous, chairman of the Grey County Plowmen's Association, said the 1962 site will be the same as the one used 28 years ago, when the contest was last held in Grey County.

Guest speakers at the meeting included Professor B. C. Matthews of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Whites Sealing Their Own Doom

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—The whites in South Africa, Angola and Mozambique are sealing their own doom, Dr. James H. Robinson of New York said Tuesday.

Dr. Robinson, vice-president of the United Sates Peace Corps and founder of Operation Crossroads Africa, was speaking at a dinner sponsored by the Hamilton Goodwill Africa Group.

"A week is a long time in Africa, so rapid is the development," he said. "Unless the white African is prepared to recognize the black and give him a share in the affairs of his country, there will be a blood bath the like of which the world has never seen."

Last year the Hamilton group, membership of which totals 23, raised $9,300 for African assistance.

INSURANCE FIRMS

In Canada in 1960 there were 355 insurers of all types, 110 Canadian, 87 British and 158 foreign.

Soviet Scientists Calculate Russian Ice Drifts Our Way

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Soviet scientists calculate that there is a general drift of ice in the central Arctic basin from the shores of Siberia and the Bering Strait across the North Pole and into the Greenland Sea through the strait separating Spitsbergen and Greenland.

A paper on Arctic ice drift is included in the third volume of Problemy Severa (Problems of the North) published by the Soviet Academy of Sciences and translated and published in English by the National Research Council of Canada.

Besides this massive drift of ice—at a speed of two miles a day—there is also, the Russian scientists say, an anticyclonic (clockwise) ice circulation in the eastern Arctic Ocean.

The centre of this roundabout is calculated at 78 degrees north, 146 degrees west — or about 700 miles west of the Canadian weather station at Isachsen on Ellef Ringnes Island in the Queen Elizabeth Islands.

DRIFTING ISLANDS

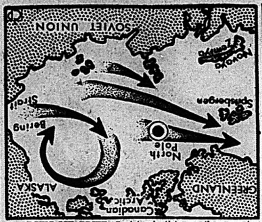
The Soviet oceanographers say the existence of this circulation is confirmed by the drift of both American- and Russian-occupied ice islands in this area.

Some of the ice on this merry-go-round moves out of orbit and is carried to outlying seas, such as the Chukchi and East Siberian seas, and into the strait between Spitsbergen and Greenland.

The Russians estimate that the Central Arctic Basin receives 102,000,000,000 cubic metres of water a year—62,000,000,000 cubic metres from the Atlantic, 36,000,000,000 through Bering Strait and 4,000,000,000 from continental drainage.

The outflow of this water occurs mainly through the strait between Spitsbergen and Greenland — 71,000,000,000 cubic metres—and the straits of the Canadian archipelago — 31,000,000,000 cubic metres.

Arctic experts here say the Russian scientists have not actually measured the outflow through the straits of the Canadian archipelago but have merely made a calculation based on certain assumptions. Quantity of outflow had never been checked.



ARCTIC ICE DRIFT—Soviet scientists say there are two patterns of ice drift in the Arctic. One is a general drift from Siberia and the Bering Strait across the North Pole through the strait separating Greenland and Spitsbergen. The other is a clockwise drift in the eastern Arctic Ocean with the centre of the circulation some 700 miles west of the Isachsen weather station in Canada's Queen Elizabeth Islands. (CP Newsmap.)

Stripper Had Act Reviewed In Police Court

The details were bared during the trial of Raymond Lux, 31, and William Garden, 31, of allowing an indecent performance. The two men are owner and manager, respectively, of the Lux Theatre.

Magistrate Donald Graham, after hearing evidence, fined Garden $200 or one month in jail and granted a defence motion for non-suit against Mr. Lux.

Policewoman Kay Burford, in testimony, said she had visited the Lux theatre and saw a performance in which Miss West, billed as the Treasure Chest, dropped her gown to the floor and asked the audience whether it was fast enough.

At this point, said Miss Burford, Miss West exposed her bosom and asked whether anyone was getting excited.

"Was there anything unusual about the Treasure Chest?" asked Crown Counsel James Crossland.

"It was quite large," said Miss Burford.

Det. - Sgt. William Quennell told the court that after police asked that the show be stopped —on July 1—Miss West said it sometimes got so hot the lights fused.

Proposed New Election Law in Quebec Receives Pounding by Opposition

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Opposition leader Daniel Johnson assailed a provision which he said would prevent formation of new parties in the province.

The provision would see the name of "recognized" political parties placed on the ballot beside the name of their candidate. To be recognized a party would have to run candidates in 60 per cent of the province's ridings.

The bill also would prevent unrecognized parties from spending money on general publicity in an election campaign. The government, while placing a tight limit on campagin expenses of recognized parties, would provide part - payment from the treasury of these expenses.

"There is no politician, nor political party, which sincerely wants to object to limitation of electoral expenses," Mr. Johnson said, "on condition however that the prescription does not become a grave for democratic liberty or a paved road towards a single party or a monopoly for two parties."

Later, a Liberal backbencher had a different fault to find with the bill's present form.

Henri Coiteux (L — Duplessis) said the bill should disfranchise the province's Eskimos. His reason: their votes can be "bought for a piece of bubble gum."

He said the Eskimo lacks "political sense," and should be classed with reservation Indians as non-voting citizens.

Explaining that by Eskimos he meant "nomads, who live nine or 10 months of the year in snow country," he said the Eskimo speaks neither French nor English.

Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie objected to the idea of disfranchising a whole population. Eskimos who were nomadic were automatically excluded from voting.

The Quebec house is one of six legislatures now in session. Ontario joined the ranks Tuesday and Saskatchewan will become the seventh today.

Recreation Minister E. C Westwood told the British Columbia legislature his department plans a widespread advertising campaign this year on the dangers of careless hunting in the belief education is the best weapon against hunting accidents.

In Edmonton, Education Minister A. A. Aalborg described plans for a streamlined formula of provincial grants to elementary and high school boards.

In its first division of the session the Manitoba house defeated a Liberal bid to permit debate of an opposition resolution calling for broadened exemptions from hospital insurance premiums.

And in St. John's, Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood said he has received an invitation from Prime Minister Diefenbaker to attend a proposed premiers' meeting on a national power grid.

TWEED

C. Silverthorn Heads Credit Union Branch

TWEED — The District Credit Union held its annual meeting in the township hall on Thursday evening. It was noted that the membership has increased from 30 when it was formed in 1957 to a present membership of 115. As a result loans have increased accordingly and the local union in turn is paying four per cent on shares and five per cent rebate interest on loans invested.

Mr. George Currie of the Ontario division of the Credit Union, spoke to the large gathering and expressed his pleasure at the gradual increase in the Tweed operations.

HEADS BRANCH

During the election of officers, Charles Silverthorne was named president of the Tweed branch, succeeding Charles Cassidy. Other members on the executive are: Laverne Monaghan, treasurer; Mrs. Leslie Rogers, secretary; board of directors, Charles Silverthorne, Charles Cassidy, John Rashotte, B. J. Hunt, Vincent Lynch, Tony Quinn and Clarence Thompson.

Credit committee: John Demarsh, Stewart Lessard, Carman Deshane, Ross Johnson and Lawrence Akey. Audit committee: Charles Lynch, Leonard Cassidy and Anthony Craigen.

After the meeting refreshments were served.

Liquor Permits Will Disappear From Use April 1

Prices To Be Revised To Equal Revenue Loss

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's much - maligned liquor permits in force since 1927, will disappear from use April 1.

Premier Robarts, announcing the abolition in the Ontario legislature Wednesday, said liquor prices will be revised slightly upwards to compensate for the loss of $1,300,000 in $1 fees for the permits.

Mr. Robarts said the move would remove a long - standing irritant many purchasers feel at having to produce the permits as well as a relatively recent irritation caused by introduction of a three - per - cent provincial tax.

The price increase will be designed to round off liquor prices, including the tax, to the nearest five cents. Mr. Robarts said the odd amounts in prices of liquor following introduction of the sales tax have been a "slight irritation" to customers.

As an example, he said a bottle of whisky now priced at $4— plus 12 cents sales tax — will cost $4.15, tax included.

CAN DRINK IN CAMP

The premier also announced plans to change the meaning of "residence" in the Liquor Control Act to permit a person legally residing in a camp to consume liquor in the camp.

"This will preclude the likelihood of past situations," he said, "where, for example, a person occupying a tent could be charged with an offence because of a technical interpretation of the term residence."

Mr. Robarts also said the meaning of a public place will be clarified to avoid the situation where magistrates have dismissed vagrancy charges and similar offences on the grounds "licensed premises" were not a "public place" under the liquor act.

Mr. Robarts also announced a $225,000 boost in the annual grant to the Ontario Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation, to a high of $1,065,000.

STUDY CONTINUES

He said a special cabinet committee under chief liquor commissioner Allan Grossman is continuing a study of the province's liquor laws. Rumors current prior to the premier's announcement suggested a more sweeping liberalization of the liquor regulations.

In place of the permits, declarations will be required with each liquor purchase that the

FORMER PREMIER WILL GIVE UP ACTIVE POLITICS

Leslie M. Frost Notifies Assoc.

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Hon. Lesie M. Frost, the man who guided Ontario's development through 12 of its most prosperous years, has decided to give up active politics.

The former Ontario premier said in a letter to the Progressive Conservative Association for Victoria - Haliburton counties that he will not seek renomination as candidate for Victoria, the riding he represented for 25 years.

Mr. Frost, who resigned as premier last Oct. 21, was appointed a member of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada—an honorary post—in December during a federal cabinet meeting in Quebec City.

The 66-year-old Lindsay lawyer declined to elaborate on Wednesday's letter and refused to comment on his plans.

CAN DEAL WITH IT

In his letter to the association, Mr. Frost said:

"I feel that the association should be in a position to deal with the matter (his nomination) and to take whatever action is necessary in the best interest of the party in this riding."

He said he had "arrived at this decision, naturally, with some regret."

He felt that a younger man would be able to carry the party banner and provide the party with continued success.

"Relative to the future, I shall speak more fully to my friends on this subject at the party's annual meeting," he added.

The association will hold its annual meeting in March.

Mr. Frost has never suffered electoral defeat since entering the legislature in 1937. He led his party to sweeping victories in 1955 and 1958.

TAKE MANY SEATS

In 1951, in his first election as party leader, the Conservatives took 79 of 90 seats; in 1955 they won 84 and in 1959 they won 71 out of 98 seats.

He entered the cabinet in 1943 as mines minister and treasurer and became premier in 1949. He was succeeded as leader and premier by Education Minister John Robarts.

TRIBE LANDS ORDER

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Two Chippewa Indians, wearing full tribal regalia, signed a contract with the U.S. government for $350,000 Wednesday to produce 162,000 wooden ammunition boxes for the army. The tribe owns 68 per cent of the stock in a basket-weaving factory at Hayward, Wis., which will manufacture the boxes for 105-millimetre shells.

Union Seeking 2-Year Contract With Chrysler

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Negotiations between Chrysler of Canada and the United Auto Workers union, aimed at settling a strike that is in its fourth day here, are scheduled to resume today.

Negotiating committees met separately Wednesday to assess their positions.

Three thousand union members went on strike at midnight Sunday after negotiators failed to agree on a new contract to replace a three-year pact that expired Nov. 15.

The union is seeking a one- or two-year contract. Their negotiators argue that a three-year pact would permit the company to allow working conditions to deteriorate without fear of a strike.

Police Criticized For Arresting N.Y. Rabbi

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police were criticized Wednesday for arresting a rabbi and charging him with vagrancy.

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, conducting an inquiry into the alleged beating of Rabbi Norbert Leiner, formerly of New Jersey, also criticized John Brooke, counsel for the police force.

Mr. Justice Wells criticized police for arresting Rabbi Leiner Jan. 26 even though the rabbi did not justify his presence on a city street.

"Your complaint said this man was loitering. This man was not loitering, he was proceeding down the street.

"What gave you the impression you had the right to arrest this man?"

Constable Ernest W. Sharp, one of the arresting officers, said he arrested Mr. Leiner because he had no money on his person and did not justify his presence on the street.

"He was perfectly entitled to be there," said Mr. Justice Wells.

The criticism of Mr. Brooke came after the lawyer mentioned that Mr. Leiner's driving licence had been suspended by the state of New Jersey after he ignored traffic summonses.

Mr. Justice Wells said the evidence was "A beautiful red herring to slur the rabbi's character," but did not have any relation to the charge that Mr. Leiner was beaten at the police station.

"Let's have a little reality and common sense. If that's the best you can do you have demonstrated you have a very weak case against the rabbi."

He added that the evidence was "trivial."

The hearing continues.

Glenn Aids His Colleague Rescue Bahama Skin Diver

GRAND TURK ISLAND (AP) Astronaut John H. Glenn backed up his backup pilot in a sea rescue a day after Glenn himself was pulled from the ocean.

Glenn, brought to this U.S. Air Force tracking station in the Bahamas for a physical examination and interviews about his 17,500 - mile - an - hour flight around the globe, took part in the rescue of a skin diver Wednesday.

His backup pilot, M. Scott Carpenter, had been swimming with two skin divers who live on the island. One had dived to see how deep he could go without a supply of air.

Carpenter accompanied him down and said the man apparently became unconscious at the 80-foot depth, on his way up from 110 feet. Carpenter could not succeed in giving him his mouthpiece for air and pulled him to the surface, where Glenn, sitting in a boat, helped pull the man aboard.

Glenn was taking time out from physical examinations and giving details of his orbital flight to space administration officials. During the afternoon he went swimming in the Atlantic, accompanied by two physician friends.

Glenn today started the last half of interviews based on several hundred pre-set questions while his memory still is fresh.

Doctors also are taking a bit of his time with another blood test and an electrocardiogram, but so far have found no definite changes from his pre-flight status, said Dr. Ashton Graybiel.

Calm and relaxed, Glenn Friday meets President Kennedy, and the public also through a press conference at Cape Canaveral; Vice-President Johnson is due here late today or early Friday morning to escort the astronaut from his rest home here.

Remarking on Glenn's calmness under stress, Dr. Graybiel said he never did get a rapid pulse beat before or during the flight.

Glenn reported he had recognized El Centro, Calif., because of the coloring provided by irrigated fields and said he could understand Yuri Gagarin's report of seeing plowed fields on earth. He also recognized the Mississippi Delta even when he was 700 miles east, out over the Atlantic coast, and looking back.

Glenn said he thought he could distinguish the heights or levels of different cloud formations. A satellite able to do this could be extremely helpful to weather forecasters.

Fleet Street Squawks Tony Is Given Special Privileges

LONDON (AP) — A squawk went up in Fleet Street today that Lord Snowdon is scooping other news photographers because of his royal connections.

Princess Margaret's husband, now working for The Sunday Times, is getting privileged treatment over competing lensmen, The Daily Mirror complains.

It said Snowdon, formerly commoner Antony Armstrong-Jones, was allowed a solo session with his camera at a Covent Garden rehearsal before other photographers were allowed in.

The pictures he took then were published in The Sunday Times this week. They showed Margot Fonteyn and Rudolph Nureyev rehearsing for Wednesday night's performance of Giselle.

Says The Mirror:

"If the facts are what they seem—and if they are not The Mirror will be happy to publish a correction—there is a curious new dodge in this country.

"A royal dodge. The royal dicky bird dodge."

The Mirror editorial recalls that the newspaper didn't join in complaints from other sections of the press when Snowdon started his job with The Sunday Times, published by Canadian Roy Thomson, last Feb. 1.

"Good luck to the young man," it said. "Good luck—but no privileges."

"If Tony wants to be a photographer again, to roll up his sleeves and work from nine to five (plus) like the rest of the press photographers, why shouldn't he?

"Alas, it looks as if it ain't working out like that."

The newspaper claims that by a "curious arrangement" other press photographers were allowed into the covent garden rehearsal only after Snowdon had finished. And it asks:

"Who fixed it for Tony?

"There is no doubt that Roy Thomson's hussars approved of it and that Tony Armstrong-Jones connived at it."

The Mirror then wryly invites Buckingham Palace officials to do a favor for photographers who don't have connections.

"When they announce Princess Margaret's public engagements, will they kindly inform the press in advance if any prearranged royal scoop has been fixed behind the scenes for Princess Margaret's husband?"

Can Supply Nuclear Arms To Canadians Within Hour

OTTAWA (CP—Nuclear warheads can be supplied in emergency to the Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in West Germany in little more than an hour, competent sources disclosed Wednesday.

And in event of Russian nuclear attack, they could be used by the brigade whether or not any agreement between Canada and the United States for their control were in existence, other reliable sources said.

The same situation will apply in the RCAF Air Division overseas when it is equipped with the new CF-104 low - level jet bomber. The first CF-104 squadron is scheduled to leave for Europe in November.

The 6,500-man motorized brigade group in Europe includes a battery—four launchers — of Honest John artillery rockets. The American Honest John was developed to carry a nuclear warhead.

Defence Minister Harkness has informed the Commons that nuclear storage dumps are being built as part of a NATO program in Western Europe. Some of these dumps are handy to Canadian army and air force bases in West Germany.

France, like Canada, does not permit storage of American nuclear warheads on her territory. The RCAF has two bases in France, which may create an awkward situation when the CF-104 is in service on these bases.

Sources said that if nuclear war broke out in Europe, NATO would supply all forces under its command capable of firing nuclear weapons with the required nuclear warheads. Any other course in an emergency would be unthinkable, they said.

NATO has declared that it would employ nuclear weapons, if it had to, to halt a Communist breakthrough with conventional forces.

The only difference between the nuclear situation in Canada and Europe is that the Bomarc anti - aircraft missile bases at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., are comparatively far from the source of nuclear supply, the United States.

Authorities said it would be difficult if not impossible to supply the Bomarcs with nuclear warheads in event of attack on North America unless there is a Canada-U.S. agreement to cover peacetime storage of the warheads at or near the missile bases. The same situation applies to jet interceptor bases in Canada.

This is the problem which the government has not yet resolved.

Much Criticism Of Drug Costs Said Baseless

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Pharmaceutical Association says much public criticism concerning drug costs is unjustified.

It told the royal commission on health services Wednesday the utilization of drugs, not their cost, has been increasing so markedly.

Between 1950 and 1960, the association said, the bureau of statistics index showed drug cost increases were below the over-all increase in Canada's cost of living. During the same period, the number of prescriptions rose to 2.40 per capita from 2.06.

The association said "much of the criticism of mounting drug costs can therefore be interpreted as criticism of the increased use of drugs by prescribers. We believe such criticism to be unjustified."

U.S. PREPARED TO JOIN RUSSIA IN SPACE WORK

Kennedy Says Quick Agreement Unlikely

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States is prepared to cooperate with Russia in joint peaceful exploration of outer space but President Kennedy advises against hasty conclusions that such co - operation will come quickly.

While Soviet Premier Khrushchev has expressed a desire for pooling of Soviet-American space efforts, Kennedy observed Wednesday that long experience has shown that when it comes to negotiations with Russia, it is easier to talk than to reach firm agreements.

Kennedy said at a press conference he was willing to discuss joint efforts with Russia either bilaterally or through the United Nations.

"We believe that when men reach beyond this planet, they should leave national differences behind them," said Kennedy.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada previously had proposed before the United Nations General Assembly that an international organization be set up to ensure that outer space is used for peaceful purposes.

While the president expressed willingness to join in Russian-American peace efforts in space, he seemed to reject any suggestion that he delay or put off resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

A letter writer's suggestion that Russia and the U.S. each prepare nuclear shots as a guard against cheating doesn't meet the present problem, Kennedy said. Russia had already completed a long series of atmospheric explosions.

WILL PAY POWERS

Kennedy also said that a preliminary investigation of U-2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers indicates he did not breach his flight contract. This would mean there would be no charges against him and that he likely will receive his $52,000 back pay.

Powers was hired by the Central Intelligence Agency on a $30,000 - a - year flight mission over Russia that failed and sent him behind Soviet prison bars for 21 months. Some U.S. congressmen have suggested he should have killed himself rather than fall into Russian hands.

Irish Stowaway Hangs Himself

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP)—The clothes and $200 in bills of a 48-year-old Irish stowaway who committed suicide in mid-Atlantic were flown to New York today to help solve the roundtrip murder riddle involving the liner Queen Mary.

The bundle was consigned to police investigating the slaying last week in a New York YMCA of John Munro, 76-year-old retired egg dealer. Munro was found bound and suffocated with his money belt rifled one day after returning aboard the Queen Mary from a visit to relatives in England.

On the liner's return voyage to England, an Irish stowaway identifying himself as Thomas O'Brien Conway was discovered by ship's officers. He hanged himself Sunday in a detention cabin aboard the 81,000-ton ship.

Holdup Man Arrested as He Told Troubles to Accountant

TORONTO (CP) — A holdup man whose stolen getaway car stuck in a snowdrift near the mid - town Toronto bank he had just robbed of $2,437 was arrested as he told his troubles to a bank accountant who had followed him.

Accountant Ants Piirik said he took a revolver from the bank and followed the man on to the street. He saw the man get into a car and drive away.

Mr. Piirik then stopped a car and asked the driver to follow the getaway car and when it became stuck he went over and started talking to the occupant.

The man asked him to drive the car to the police station, said Mr. Piirik.

"I asked him where the starter was and he said he didn't know because he'd just stolen the car and wasn't familiar with it. I couldn't find it, so we just sat there and talked for a few minutes until the police came."

The holdup man told him he was unemployed and had no money Mr. Piirik said.

"He said he had wandered around all morning wondering what to do. He apologized several times and said the gun we saw was only a toy one."

Mrs. Rose Howlett, teller at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, said a man came into the bank and demanded money. He was carrying a gun that looked like a toy pistol, she said.

He was handed some bills and after he left Mrs. Howlett ran to the window and wrote down the first three numbers of a car parked outside.

Leonard Fraser, 28, of London, Ont., has been charged with armed robbery.

Final Decision On Algeria Pact Is Up To Rebels

French Cabinet Gives Approval to Agreement

CP from Reuters-AP

TRIPOLI, Libya — Final approval of an agreement to end the Algerian Moslem insurrection—now in its eighth year—rested today with 56 members of the rebel parliament meeting here to accept or reject a cease-fire pact drawn up with France.

The parliament and cabinet members of the Algerian provisional government were expected to sit several days.

The French cabinet Wednesday approved the cease-fire terms reached in talks with the nationalist insurgents at a secret rendezvous near the French-Swiss border.

French authorities expect the Algerians to approve the agreement, but no announcement was expected before next week.

President Charles de Gaulle's government approved the draft agreement after nearly four hours of discussion in one of the longest cabinet meetings since de Gaulle became president in 1958.

The document, more than 100 pages long, spells out provisions for the cease-fire and steps for a referendum on self-determination that de Gaulle fully expects will favor independence.

The draft agreement was reported to include the leasing of the Mers-el-Kebir naval base to France for 15 years and shorter leases on other military bases in Algeria.

TERRORISTS STRIKE

ALGIERS (AP)—A wave of terrorist attacks swept Algiers today as the right-wing secret army made a last-ditch effort to wreck an impending French-Algerian agreement to end the 7½-year rebellion.

Police reported more than a score of scattered attacks as European gunmen in cars and afoot fired at Europeans and Moslems, killing at least 11 persons and wounding 15.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 21, 1962

Hazen Argue, MP for Assiniboia, told of his decision to quit the New Democratic Party but did not specify any new political alignment.

Judy La Marsh (L—Niagara Falls) introduced a private bill to substitute the gas chamber for the gallows in executions.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said world nations must set up a plan to use outer space for peaceful purposes "before it is too late."

Paul Hellyer (L — Toronto Trinity) said government indecision on nuclear arms has made Canada "the laughing stock of the world."

Ernest Broome (PC—Vancouver South) said export of surplus hydro power should be treated just like the export of gas and oil.

Senator David Croll (L—Ontario) charged that Canada is asking for trouble with the U.S. by continuing trade with Cuba.

Senator Croll Against Certain Trade With Cuba

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Senator David Croll said Wednesday the government is asking for trouble with the United States by continuing to export strategic goods to Cuba.

"I say that this business is creating friction with the United States," he said in the Senate during debate on a government bill to boost funds available for federal financing of capital goods exports to $300,000,000 from $200,000,000.

Senator Croll was interrupted several times by Conservatives senators who asked him to describe in detail the policy he was talking about.

Senator Frederick Blois (PC —Nova Scotia) said that if Senator Croll was suggesting that the "U.S. government is not going to deal with Cuba, he is wrong."

"It (the U.S.) sold more than three times to Cuba than Canada did," Senator Blois said.

"What I am saying," Senator Croll said, "is that in continuing this present trade policy with Cuba we are asking for trouble. I believe that Canadians are troubled with the kind and volume of Cuban trade."

It was a matter of public knowledge that Canada had sent Cuba 125 tons of dynamite.

"You can call dynamite Cuban porridge but it is still dynamite, and I do not know anything that is more strategic than dynamite."

Prince Charles Leaves Hospital

CHARGE OF FRAUD IS DISMISSED

A charge of fraud was dismissed against a Toronto woman, Mrs. Molly Hunter, in county magistrate's court this morning when she appeared before Magistrate R. C. Jackson.

Robert Temple entered a plea of not guilty for Mrs. Hunter and the crown advised the magistrate he was offering no evidence.

Mr. Temple asked that the case be dismissed.

Mrs. Hunter had been charged with obtaining food and lodging from a motel in Trenton under false pretences.

HEES WILL ATTEND TRENTON CEREMONY

George Hees, Minister of Trade and Commerce is flying to Trenton from Ottawa this afternoon, to attend ceremonies in connection with the shipment of 800 tons of prefabricated metal buildings to Iran. The buildings, manufactured at the Central Bridge plant in Trenton will leave on a special 20-car CNR train. Mr. Hees is due at RCAF Station Trenton at 2.45 p.m. and the ceremonies will be held at the plant of Central Bridge between three and four o'clock.

Pastoral Care Seminar to Be Held This July

The Rev. Principal Elias Andrews reports that the Seminar on Pastoral Care which was held at Queen's Theological College, Kingston, Ontario, last summer will be continued again during the summer of 1962, and will be held for four weeks of four days each, lectures and clinics, during July. Distinguished psychiatrists and leaders in the social and religious fields will take part, and the whole field of mental health will be examined, with particular reference to personality problems, alcoholism, criminology, delinquency, marriage relations, personal interviewing and counselling, and all in relation to the work of the Christian minister.

Authority Will Issue Booklet On Conservation

The Moira River Conservation Authority this year plans to publish an eight page booklet selling out the accomplishments of the Authority and outlining its conservation policy.

Distribution of the booklet would be among the ratepayers of the member municipalities and to public school children in the watershed.

Plans are to have the booklet well illustrated with pictures and at least one map outlining the watershed and pointing out the location of its various conservation and re-forestation areas.

Members of the Authority Education Extension Advisory Board meeting last night at Cannifton voted in favor of publishing the booklet. The meeting was in charge of committee chairman Gerald O. Irvine of Sidney township.

Request Road In Shannonville Be Widened

Residents of the village of Shannonville want the Ontario Department of Highways to widen No. 2 highway through the village so as to improve visibility at street interesections.

The township council has endorsed the request and has forwarded a resolution to the Highways Department and to C. T. Rollins, M.P.P., for Hastings East, requesting the matter be given consideration.

Raymond Callaghan, chairman of the Tyendinaga Telephone System, reported on negotiations with the Bell Telephone respecting the proposed sale of the system to Bell. Council passed a by-law authorizing the sale of the system.

More frequent health inspection of the Shannonville School to help prevent lengthy pupil absence was requested by the No. 1 area school board. The matter was referred to the board of health.

APPROVE PROGRAM

An approved winter works program of brush cutting was organized, the project to cost $1,000 of which 75 per cent will be subsidized by the senior governments.

Township appointments to the various boards were made with the same appointments as in 1961 and at the same rate of pay.

Appreciation was extended to Mr. Sidney Fitzgerald for his contribution of a painting and to Mr. Jay Haight for his contribution of a davenport for the township office.

At the council inaugural meeting Reeve Charles Long, Deputy Reeve Sidney Fitzgerald and Councillors Bernard Sullivan, Delbert Harvey and Eugene Whalen took their declaration of office from Clerk-treasurer W. J. Walsh.

Collegiate Kampus Kapers Opens Tonight

The Boys' Athletic Society of Belleville Collegiate Institute presents its opening presentation of the school's colorful "Kampus Kapers" tonight.

The show will be presented again tomorrow and Saturday nights. Curtain time is 8.15. Tickets will be available at the door.

The 16th edition of the "Kapers" is a highly entertaining melange of mirth, melody, hilarious histrionics, gymnastics and individual and collective musical artistry.

The school's Glee Club, band and orchestra will present ensemble choral and instrumental music in special features Pianists Mr. C. E. Templer, Roger Ling and John Francis lend their musical mastery.

"Fifi the Clown," aided and abetted by "Mimi", highlight the comedy of the show. Their antics lend a humorous touch to the gymnastics part of the program.

There will be "rock 'n' roll" music by the Ree Carpet Music Makers. John Tooth and Dave Murphy will present trombone and trumpet solos. Alan Barkley is an accomplished master-of-ceremonies.

As a variety show the 1962 edition of the "Kapers" is said to be the best since its inception 16 years ago.

All-cast ensembles open and close a presentation that is a distinct credit to its sponsors, producers, cast and behind-the-scenes staff.

The Quinte Curling Club passed out of provincial playoffs yesterday afternoon at the RCAF rink when they were defeated in the Colts playdowns in the final draw by Al Cromarty and his rink from Kingston Curling Club. They were defeated 6-3 after defeating Carl Grice of Gananoque, in the afternoon draw and G. Jerome of Napanee, in the morning round.

Cromarty reached the final by defeating Kingston Garrison in the morning round and Stan Keith of the RCAF in the afternoon draw. The Belleville rink of Stan Reston, Ron Benn, Tom Carruthers with Mac White as skip had two easy games before reaching the finals. They defeated the Napanee rink 18-5 and Gananoque quit at the end of twelve ends with the score 12-3 against them.

In the final draw the rink of P. Kurman, W. McKee, J. O'Neill with Al Cromarty as skip eked out a tough win in the last three ends over the Belleville rink. There were a couple of blank ends as the skips jockeyed for position of last rock coming home, which Cromarty won. The Kingston rink was beaten in the Consuls playdowns and should go a long way in the provincial playdowns for curlers, who have not been registered for seven years. The names of the Belleville rink in yesterday's issue was a little offbeat to say the least but the fault lies with Bill Lewis, the drawmaster for the playdowns.

The younger members of the local curling club are bringing home prizes as well as the older members. On Saturday a rink of David Livingston, Bob Sheffield, Ronnie Lovett, with Wayne Wilkinson skipping and all junior members, played in a men's open bonspiel and won the second high score. They tied their first game and won the next two. They received insulated picnic cases and were a proud bunch of boys over their success. There are a number of real good junior curlers in the club and will be heard from as the years go by.

One of the liveliest and most enjoyable bonspiels held at the Quinte Curling Club this season was the one staged by the Union Carbide Company of Canada Ltd. on Saturday last. Head office and company officials as well as the workers of many offices throughout Ontario and Quebec were on hand and the whole affair was ably conducted by Art Bannon of the Bakelite Company and an active member of the local club along with other employees from that firm, who are members.

The boys began arriving on the night previous and the Quebec delegation was in good voice and dress as they descended from the train. They wore the distinctive garb of the French - Canadian and sang "Alouette" with gusto at every opportunity. On Saturday the visiting curlers were seated to a delicious roast beef dinner, prepared by Mrs. Ann Parsons and her energetic committee of the women's section of the club and far into the night, the boys sang the praises of the wonderful dinner provided. It was a happy throng but through it all there was some excellent curling and stiff competition. Bill Gault was the drawmaster and he had his hands full trying to keep the boys on schedule. The spiel was like a home coming for many of the curlers take an opportunity such as this to renew old acquaintances.

A rink of Stan Toggios, Ken Mintz, Bill Godhue and Jack Beal of Visiking Lindsay won the three-game high score and Vern Garlick, Grant Farwell, Dave Kennard and Fred Hughes of head office, Toronto were runners-up. The local rink of John Buchan, Al MacDonald, Phil Jeffery, George Durno and Art Bannon won the two-game high score with Keith Gassien, John Horton, Harvey Heatlie with Dave Pearson of Lindsay as runners-up. The one-game high winner was a rink of Maynard Bleaken, Clary Gailbraith, Tom Pezzack and Bruce McCullough from Metals and Carbon, Toronto with a rink of Dave Simon, Jack Cronin, Art Hunter and Bill Wild of Lindsay as runners-up. Consolation prizes went to Adolphe Winger and Lionel Dube. It was a good show and well managed.

Ron Hamilton Heads 4-H Club Leaders

Ron Hamilton of Sidney township was re-named president of the Hastings County 4-H Club Leaders' Association as members met for their annual meeting and banquet last week at the Kiwanis Centre.

Vice - president is Harold Chambers and secretary Douglas Detlor. The club leaders were guests of the Ontario Department of Agriculture at the banquet catered to by the Wallbridge Women's Institute.

During the annual meeting, the leaders' wives and girl friends attended a movie as guests of the county club leaders' association. Favorable reports on the progress of the 4-H Club movement in the county were heard at the annual conclave.

Sidney Junior Farmers Enjoy Turkey Dinner

Sidney township Junior Farmers held their eighth annual banquet recently at the Frankford hall with a good turnout of members and friends. The turkey supper was served by the ladies of the Uniondale Women's Institute.

Chairman Marilyn Phillips congratulated last year's executive and thanked them for their co-operation throughout the past year. Best wishes were extended the 1962 executive for success during the coming year.

The speaker of the evening was Gerald Boyce of Belleville, president of the Hastings County Historical Society, who with Mrs. Boyce as projector operator, showed pictures and told of life in Hastings county a century ago.

Ron Hamilton led in a sing-song, assisted by Elsie Martin and Marion Bush, with Mrs. Evelyn Burkitt at the piano. Fred Phillips introduced the speaker with appreciation being expressed by Rosemary Bush.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Games At Meeting

The Senior Citizens' Club of Belleville held its semi-monthly meeting last evening. The president, Mr. Charles L. Hyde, opened the meeting with "The Queen", followed by a sing-song under the direction of Mrs. A. Shirley and Mrs. T. Thorn.

The program consisted of games and other social intercourse at which a number of members won prizes, and was enjoyed by all present.

The door draw was won by Mr. Albert Johnson.

The refreshment committee served the usual delicacies. One new member, Mr. Jarvis, was introduced to the club and the meeting adjourned in the customary manner.

ASK INCREASE

TORONTO (CP) — Employees of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario have asked for an immediate wage increase and a 10-per-cent increase in maximums.

Wants Authority For Salmon River Watershed

Tyendinaga township council has requested the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests to call a meeting to consider the establishment of a conservation authority for the Salmon River watershed.

The move was taken at the February meeting of the council following the attendance of a delegation of residents asking that council take the initiative in the request for formation of an Authority.

The Salmon River empties into the Bay of Quinte at Shannonville and drains a long and somewhat narrow stretch of country lying between the Moira and Napanee watersheds. Most of the watershed lies in Lennox and Addington and in Frontenac counties with only a short section of the river running through Tyedinaga and Thurlow townships in Hastings.

Making up the delegation which appeared before the Tyendinaga council were Roy Stafford, Brooks Allen, Bernard Murphy, John Stafford and Harold Murphy.

The Moira River Conservation Authority was formed back in the late 1940's the Napanee Authority a few years later.

The Moira Authority has carried out an extensive reforestation program as one of its major projects and in addition has established three conservation areas at O'Hare's Mill northwest of Madoc; the Col. Vanderwater Conservation Area at Thomasburg and the Price Conservation Area at Actinolite.

Also the Authority constructed the Deloro Dam on the upper reaches of the Moira.

The Napanee Authority has built the Second Depot Lake Dam as its major project to date.

Stanley Park Neighbors Will Hold Carnival

The Stanley Park Neighborhood association are planning their first Winter Carnival for the Residents in their area. The Carnival which will have activities for the adults as well as the children is planned for Saturday, February 24th, beginning at 11.00 a.m. with a Small Fry vs Women Broom Ball game and winding up at 10.00 p.m. with an adult skating party and neighborhood get together.

A full day of activities are scheduled with a Tiny Tots Parade folloiwng the broomball game, a dog sled race, tug-o-war, girls obstacle race, boys obstacle race, and dancing on the ice for couples. One of the highlights of the Carnival is the participation of the whole family in making a snow and ice sculpture to be displayed in the residents' front yard. These were judged earlier this week with the announcement of the winners made some time Saturday.

The Stanley Park Neighborhood Association the first formed in the city with assistance from the Belleville Recreation Committee was organized in December of last year. Assisting in the upkeep of the outdoor rink and supervising their rink was their first interest with the Carnival their first major project. President Gordon Locklin has mentioned that after the Carnival the executive will in all probability start immediate plans for another neighborhood meet, possibly the 24th of May.

IN MEMORIAM

WAY. — In ever loving memory of a dear mother, Mary, who passed away February 22nd, 1960.

We are sad within our memory.
Lonely are our hearts today;
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
No eye may see us weep;
But many silent tears are shed,
When others are asleep.

—Lovingly remembered by her family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market slid lower during light morning trading today as all sections but golds showed minus signs.

In industrials, Shawinigan, Steel Company of Canada and Moore Corporation all took ¼ drops, while Massey-Ferguson declined ⅛, Consolidated Paper and Dominion Stores ⅛.

Other losers included Bank of Montreal, BC Power, Royal Bank and CPR, all off in a ⅛ to ¾ range.

Trans Prairie Pipe Line advanced 1¼ to 35, while Crown Trust and Crown Zellerback each climbed two points in light turnover.

Canadian Breweries added Bank of Nova Scotia ¼, Canadian Celanese ½ and Investors Syndicate A ¾.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped .77 at 614.96, base metals 1.10 at 207.60 and western oils .64 at 127.50. Golds rose .24 at 89.94. The 11 a.m. volume was 780,000 shares compared with 901,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Base metals were led lower by a ⅞ drop to International Nickel. Noranda slipped ½ and Ventures ¼. Among speculatives, Northgate added 20 cents at $5.25.

The market slipped sharply in moderate trading Wednesday. Heavy speculative action pushed volume to its highest in more than a week.

Industrials were hard hit by profit takers during the last 1½ hours. Canadian Breweries, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Walker - Gooderham and Steel Company of Canada all fell ½. U.S. Ford dropped 2 to a 1962 low of 154 and Interprovincial Pipe Line slippd 1¼. Algoma Central gained ⅞ to a new high of 24.

On index, industrials were off 2.87 at 615.73 and base metals .38 at 208.70. Golds rose .34 to 89.70 and western oils .40 to 128.14. Volume was 3,625,000 shares compared with Tuesday's 3,067,000.

In base metals, International Nickel dropped ⅞ and Noranda ¾. Falconbridge and Ventures each gained ¼. Speculatives saw Northgate climb 15 cents to $5.05 and Lake Dufault five cents to $5.60. Osisko added four cents at $1.05 on a turnover of 163,900 shares.

Western oils were strengthened by a one - point gain to Dome.

District High School Levy Up $187,000 on Operations; City Share $116,000 Higher

Current levy costs for 1962 to be assessed against the member municipalities of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board will be up $187,000 over 1961, it has been decided by board members.

Total current levy costs for the year are estimated at $691,000 of which the city of Belleville will be asked to pay $435,468. Belleville's share of the current levy high school costs will be up $116,000 over last year.

The high school board estimates were struck at the board's regular monthly meeting earlier this week, with budget discussions taking up the entire evening's agenda.

Total school operational costs for the year have been estimated at $1,324.226, with receipts from provincial grants and other revenue amounting to an estimated $633,226, leaving $691,000 to be raised by the member municipalities.

Added to this figure will be debenture costs of $198,796.

ONE-YEAR BONUS

While the current levy to meet schools operational costs this year is up $187,000 over last year high school board officials point out that because of Sidney township and Frankford village joining the area, the 1961 levy was less than it otherwise would have been.

Under provincial regulations municipalities belonging to a school area must pay educational costs on a current basis, while non-member municipalities purchasing education from an area have their payments deferred a year.

This was the case with Sidney and Frankford.

Last year on joining the Bay of Quinte High School district the above two municipalities started paying on a current basis for 1961, while also they had to pay education costs for 1960 amounting to $78,000.

It was this extra revenue which went to hold down the board's 1961 tax requirements.

DIVISION OF COSTS

This year Sidney township will be required to raise $67,372; Thurlow $81,745; Ameliasburg $52,654, Tyendinaga $34,273 and Frankford village $19,486.

The current levy against the member municipalities is based primarily on assessment, although pupil enrolment and other factors also enter into the picture.

Belleville's assessment ratio, set last year by arbitration, is 63.02 per cent; with ratios for other municipalities being Sidney 9.75; Thurlow 11.83; Ameliasburg 7.62 Tyendinaga 4.96 and Frankford 2.82. Total assessment in the area is $45,482.915.

Major item in this year's increased high school costs is teachers' salaries which are estimated at $871,000 as opposed to $772,000 last year.

HIRE MORE TEACHERS

And accounting for much of the increased salary costs is the fact that in September an additional 22 teachers will be added to the high school staff in the three schools.

The reason for the added staff requirements is the increased student enrolment expected when the school term opens next September, and also the fact that the Department of Education has ordered the student-teacher ratio lowered in Belleville schools.

Another major expenditure item is pupil transportation, for which $95,600 has been estimated. Seventy-five per cent of transportation costs are paid by the Department.

Sixty-seven per cent of the students attending academic classes at the three Belleville high schools are from the city, while of the number taking vocational training about 50 per cent are from the city and the other 50 per cent from the other municipalities.

INCREASES SOUGHT

Although the board's budget for the year has now been set, no decision has yet been reached on the request of teachers for salary increases. High school teachers are asking an increase of $300 across the board, while the school principals are also asking for salary revision.

Special repairs, mostly at the Belleville Collegiate Institute, are estimated to cost $22,200 this year. Included in this cost is the final payment on renovational program for school washrooms and provision for payment of the initial phase of school rewiring which has been ordered by hydro inspectors.

Two Youths Are Remanded For Car Theft

Magistrate R. C. Jackson remanded two youths for one week on a charge of car theft when they appeared in county magistrate's court this morning.

Walter Madill, age 18, of R. R. 2, Crookston, and Gerald Mountenay, age 16, of R. R. 5, Trenton, pleaded guilty to a charge of car theft and elected to be tried by a magistrate.

The cases were remanded for one week to give the magistrate a chance to obtain further information on the two boys, so as he put it, he could deal with them intelligently.

Provincial Police Constable Howard Adamson said that on Saturday, February 17, he received a complaint from Mrs. K. F. Rowe, at R. R. 5, Belleville, that two persons had come to her home and said that their car was stuck. Upon investigating the constable found that the car had been loaned to the youths to pull their car out of the ditch and that they had left the area with it.

A bulletin was posted on the car and the two lads were picked up by the Ontario Provincial Police at Bowmanville.

Bowmanville Provincials stated that when they pulled up alongside the stolen car, driven by Walter Madill, the driver made an attempt to get away.

The Bowmanville police stated they chased the vehicle and at one point it went into a skid and struck a telephone pole causing about $175 damage to the car.

SEEKS LONGER VISIT

PERTH (Reuters)—This West Australian capital, which turned all its lights on for John Glenn to see during his space flight Tuesday, now wants the astronaut to visit it again—this time on the ground. West Australian Premier David Brand said today he will invite Glenn to visit Perth about the time of next November's Commonwealth Games here.

Ladies' Auxiliary of Legion Holds 10th Birthday Dinner

TRENTON — On January 28, 1952, 42 Trenton ladies were initiated into the newly-formed Ladies' Auxiliary of Trenton Branch 110 of the Royal Canadian Legion.

At a 10th anniversary dinner in the Legion Hall last night, charter president Mrs. Helen Coulterjohn recalled that the auxiliary had worked under "the most terrible handicaps" in those early years. She said that the kitchen in the old Legion Hall, had measured roughly 4 feet by 8 feet, and that the ladies had prepared banquets . . . everything from soup to nuts . . . and served upwards of 200 people at times.

Ken Craddock, 1962 president of Branch 110, paid tribute to the energetic work of the ladies. He said that in the past 10 years the auxiliary has donated 28,500 to the branch. This money has gone towards the bond redemption fund for the new Legion Hall, which is conceded to be the best hall in eastern Ontario, and perhaps, as Mr. Craddock says, in all Canada.

Money raised by the auxiliary has also gone to assist veterans in T.B. sanitoriums and at camps; to Sunnybrook Hospital; to Kingston Hospital and to such organizations as the March of Dimes, the Retarded Childrens' Association, the Cancer Society and the Salvation Army.

PRESENTS GIFT

On behalf of the men's branch, President Craddock presented the auxiliary with a silver tea service.

First vice-president Donna Hamilton thanked the men for the gift. Mrs. Hamilton explained that auxiliary president Jean Wright was a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital, and Mr. Craddock told the more than 100 auxiliary members at the banquet that a turkey dinner had been sent to Mrs. Wright, as well as to Mrs. Leta Baker and Mrs. Alice Griffiths auxiliary members, who are also hospitalized.

The dinner was prepared and served by members of Branch 110. Preceding the dinner, the men marched into the hall, single file, some bearing lighted candles and underwent an inspection by vice-president Orvel Smith.

Head table guests included Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Payton, Miss Hazel Farley, an honorary member of Branch 110, Mrs. Helen Coulterjohn, charter president; past - presidents, Mrs. Muriel Turland, Mrs. Mary Glover, Mrs. Sylvia Wright, Mrs. Lavina Leeman, Mrs. Jean Lawson, and Mrs. Ruth Clark; 1962 executive members, Mrs. Donna Hamilton, Mrs. Ruth Carter, Mrs. Luella Hyatt, Mrs. Marguerite Carr, Mrs. Geneva Reid, Mrs. Marie Harvey, Mrs. Gwen Baker, Mrs. Jean O. Smith, Mrs. Audrey McFarland, Mrs. Marg. Weese, Mrs. Winnifred Chircutt, Mrs. Betty Hyatt, Mrs. Gertrude Lemoire, Mrs. Alex Carter, Mrs. Pauline Baker and Mrs. Joan Craddock the branch president's wife.

Presentation of medals to the past-president's and gifts to the executive members was made by Mrs. Hamilton, assisted by other auxiliary members.

Program Is Planned On Fire Prevention

TRENTON — Tonight a fire prevention program will be held in the Trenton Legion Hall. Representatives of local industries and members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Fire Fighting Association who have been invited to the dinner meeting will hear a lecture on the safe handling of explosive liquids by William Twist, an expert in this field.

The program has been arranged by Mike Cooper, from the Northern Electric Company, and Leslie Sharpe of the Pyrotenax Company, chairman and vice-chairman of the Belleville-Trenton section of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association of Ontario.

Len A. Taylor Laid to Rest

The funeral service of Leonard Alfred Taylor, of 23 Humewood Drive, was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home yesterday afternoon. A large number of friends from The Ontario Intelligencer, where Mr. Taylor was head of the Commercial Printing Department, and the Royal Canadian Legion, for which Mr. Taylor had worked so tirelessly and selflessly ever since World War II, were present. Many other intimate friends were also in attendance.

The service was conducted by the Reverend L. Arthur Page, assisted by Canon A. S. McConnell. Canon McConnell remarked that Mr. Taylor was one of those rare individuals who willingly devote much of their time to furthering the interests and betterment of their fellow men. He cited the new building of Branch 99 of the Royal Canadian Legion as being a memorial to but a small part of the efforts of Mr. Taylor in advancing the lot of his comrades in the Legion.

On Tuesday evening a memorial service was conducted by the Royal Canadian Legion under Branch 99 chaplain Bram Humphreys, and president Leslie Digby. Representatives from Legion branches in Tweed, which branch was founded through Mr. Taylor's efforts, and Madoc, were present as well as comrades from his own Branch 99 and the Col. Phay Wills Branch of ex-Servicewomen.

Bearers were: Max Bush, Terrance and Jack Rashotte, Burton Vance, Arthur McCarey and Ted Courneyea.

A guard of honor was formed by members of the Royal Canadian Legion, including the president and secretary of the Provincial Command from Toronto, a number of district and zone official and branch representatives as well as Branch 99 members.

Interment was at Belleville cemetery.

Net Income Of Phone Co. Is $57,690,521

Net income of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada for the year ended December 31, 1961, was $57,690,521, equivalent to $2.50 per share or a return of six per cent on invested capital, according to the company's 82nd annual report issued today.

The report, signed by Thomas W. Eadie, president, noted that earnings per share for the year were about the same as in 1959 and 1960. The company's net income was $53,511,907, or $2.52 per share in 1960.

Expenditures to extend, improve and mecahnize service in 1961 totalled $192,600,000. New buildings or additions were constructed in 86 communities and 64 exchanges were converted to dial operation. Telephones in service at the end of 1961 totalled 3,695,107, an increase of 180,100 during the year.

This expansion was reflected in Belleville by the addition of 722 telephones, M. G. Sweeney, Bell manager for this region said, bringing the total in service here as of December 31 to 16,066.

Bardot Denies She Will Join Dr. Schweitzer

PARIS (Reuters) — Actress Brigitte Bardot today denied press reports she intended to join Dr. Albert Schweitzer's leper hospital in equatorial Africa to help cure her "nervous depression."

Miss Bardot, who has interrupted filming of Le Repos du Guerrier (The Warrior's Rest) because she has influenza, said she planned to return to the studios Friday.

The press reports said the actress had written to the philosopher-medical missionary asking him to let her work in his hospital at Lambarene, Gabon Republic.

Schweitzer was reported to have replied she would have "the same warm welcome as all suffering people" but to have warned Miss Bardot she would be subject to the discipline of his hospital.

U.S. Shows Daring Assurance

The impressive feature about the U. S. manned orbit space shot on Tuesday was not that Col. John H. Glenn Jr. circled the earth three times in less than five hours, but that every detail of his feat was publicly reported in such great detail.

Two Russians had preceded Glenn into space—and one of them remained aloft much longer than Glenn. But the Russians did not match the U.S. performance in providing the whole world with the most complete particulars of every stage of the flight, from blast-off to pick-up. They did not attempt such coverage, but this enhances, rather than diminishes, the U. S. achievement.

The U.S. project was plagued by frequent delays, which threatened at one stage to make it almost a laughing-stock, but in the end the U.S. decision to stage the feat openly before the eyes, and ears, of all the world was more than justified. It gave to the whole endeavor an aura of assurance of success which is invaluable as far as prestige goes. This prestige may not quite equal that accruing to the Russians, by virtue of their pioneering space shot, but it comes close to it. More the U.S. could not ask.

The world now awaits further developments in the space age just dawning. If past performances are any indication, the U.S. will follow this first manned orbit shot by several others, of increasing degrees of difficulty and daring. Russia, on the other hand, may once again shroud her plans in secrecy before suddenly announcing another startling leap forward—perhaps a manned orbit of the moon or a space ship which the cosmonaut will leave and re-enter while in orbit around the earth.

Wants Canada Undivided

It is only infrequently that a Commons back-bencher makes a speech which merits headlines — and never is this more unlikely than when he is a member of party which has an overwhelming majority, such as the Progressive Conservatives enjoy at Ottawa at present. A recent performance of Louis Fortin, M.P. for Montmagny-L'Islet. is thus doubly noteworthy.

Mr. Fortin said he does not oppose the separatist movement in Quebec, because it has brought into the open injustices suffered by French Canadians, but that he opposes the ultimate aim of the separatists, secession of Quebec from Canada.

His opposition is not based solely on concern for the future of Quebec. Of course he believes that secession would create "insurmountable difficulties" for his native province and in this he is almost certainly right. But Mr. Fortin is also convinced that the rest of Canada would suffer; it would, he says, be taken over by the United States.

Some may quibble about his use of the term "taken over," holding that it suggests a state of subjection and doubting that such would be true. On the whole, though, there would appear to be some logic to his argument; a Canada shorn of one of its largest, most populous and richest provinces, with the remainder divided into two widely separated areas, might be tempted to seek union with our southern neighbor.

Mr. Fortin may also have believed, and if he does we think it not without sound grounds, that French Canadians are more likely to cherish the value of a separate identity than are English-speaking Canadians. In Canada, the French Canadian has some real hope of obtaining those special privileges and concessions to which he believes he is entitled. In the U.S., French Canadians would be submerged in the much greater mass of English-speaking peoples and they would cut little more ice than do the French-speaking people in Louisiana.

Those of us among the English-speaking population who dislike the idea of becoming a small part, in terms of population; of a much wealthier and more powerful nation ought, perhaps, to give some thought to the debt we owe the French Canadian. We might well consider whether those concessions which he covets—and Mr. Fortin mentioned several—might not be a small price to pay for the continued support of a determined, and impressively experienced, ally in the art of maintaining a separate identity and culture in the proximity of a stronger, wealthier neighbor.

Justice, tolerance, freedom and equality mean nothing at all if they do not apply to the ordinary chap and his wife and children.—Prince Philip.

I felt I had to complain because we are becoming a nation of sops, afraid to speak up.—Dr. J. Ivor Griffiths, suffering from frostbite he got while riding on a drafty British train.

Air Force Makes Army Groan With 5XB Weapon

BY RICHARD JACKSON

(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — If the wind is right, and you listen very carefully, you just might be able to catch the faint sound of muted groans from the general direction of the National Capital.

Seldom has there been such weeping and wailing as has been rising from National Defence Headquarters since the cult of physical fitness hit the chair-borne Army.

The fad for fitness caught the Capital just about the time that Prince Philip dropped the verbal brick on Canadian toes that people seemed to be a bit on the flabby side.

Then, it seemed to become fashionable to be plain insulting, and certain authorities at the Department of National Health and Welfare made a few headlines with observations that Canadians were in danger of becoming slobs.

First thing you knew, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader Pearson were extolling the rich physical rewards of fitness — and going for long walks and even patrolling the Gatineau Park hiking trails weekends just to show they really meant it.

Cabinet Ministers and Liberal Frontbenchers then vied in interviews — some even posing for news photos — as exponents of the Body Beautiful.

• • •

TOO MUCH LARD

They swam, snow-shoed, walked, played tennis, skied, rode, canoed, and did just about everything, they revealed in great bursts of public confidence, except, perhaps, wrestle.

Handsome, strapping, athletic Trade Minister George Hees became Parliament Hill's own Physical Fitness Pin-up . . . and finally just the other week, the Government agreed to invest an annual $5,000,000 in a national health and sport program.

Through it all, apparently, the Army —or that part of it which perches on chairs at National Defence Headquarters — just sat quietly, and comfortably got fat.

Then a few weeks ago, one of the Brass took a hard look at the protruding pots and the buxom backsides overflowing office chairs.

The suet had to go, roared this Brass Hat, and Headquarters must get busy with the Air Force 5BX plan for fitness.

For two weeks now the Army has been on its routine of daily bends, jerks, pushups . . . but what really hurts is that the troops must do it on their own time.

A co-ordinator — probably an old drill sergeant — in each office at Headquarters has been assigned to keep track of progress, and all hands are expected to match the pace prescribed by the Air Force.

Now 5BX, while a proven physical wonder-worker, is no rest cure, but a tough, exacting, increasingly difficult grind. As you improve, the 5BX course makes stiffer demands . . . so that finally you are supposed to end up, in your own particular age group, as a minor league Tarzan.

CAME THE DAWN

Well now, of course the first thing that occurs to a cagey Army type - and they don't come any sharper than in the Army - is that this drill can be beaten.

Brazen it out with a bold front, that's the idea, maybe buy a girdle, and, all hearty bluff, lay claim to giant strides towards physical fitness.

Good thinking that, except that the brass isn't so dumb either, and they've figured a way to head off the gold-brickers.

The co-ordinator dutifully keeps the charts of physical progress, and two or three times a year, the boys have been forewarned, a hard-boil army PT instructor will drop in for a demonstration.

Staff Sergeant Joe Doe, who has been laying proud claim to being able to do a couple of hundred pushups, had better be able to produce or he'll be finding himself reporting two nights a week for after-hours compulsory supervised PT.

Defence Headquarters personnel then, is at work with the 5BX, and the night is loud with their lamentations.

It's the biggest single disaster to hit the "Pentagon" since former Defence Minister Pearkes ordered the Brass to walk - instead of ride in Headquarters' sergeant-chauffeured car pool - the three blocks from NDHQ to the Chateau for lunch.

Must Beauty Be Useful?

New York Herald Tribune

A scientist at the Smithsonian Institution asserted the other day that the beauty of the wings of male butterflies served no useful purpose. It plays no part in the attraction of females, and except for certain cases of mimicry, the color patterns of the lepidoptera are inexplicable.

"We need a theory to explain their colors on a scientific basis to usefulness to the insects themselves", he concluded despairingly.

Surely this is getting toward one of the deep ends of anthropomorphism. We explain "beauty" in nature solely in terms of vital function. Male birds have bright plumage to attract females. Flowers are scented and colored to insure pollination by insects.

In other words, we cannot conceive of an animal other than ourselves reacting in its being to anything but the most brutal demands of the life cycle. "Beauty" is for us; breeding is for them.

But this does not explain why birds are colored in highly intricate and individual ways if brightness is their only requirement, or why if color serves no purpose, butterflies should have developed their enormous variety of design and hue. A French writer has recently suggested that all living things have a tendency to produce colored designs.

It is just as anthropomorphic to maintain that animals cannot transcend utilitarian functions as it is to endow them the range of human emotion.

In considering nature, we always need shocks — such as the one most people would feel if they were told that the pigmies of the West African rain forests refer to larger, ordinary sized human beings as "animals".
